

Chapter 841: Orders

“Really?” Yin Jia asked, looking half-convinced.

Cheng Yi only looked at Yin Jia and did not say anything.

Yin Jia also felt that she had asked a very silly question and felt a little embarrassed. Then, she asked hesitantly, “Then, what do you need me to do?”

Cheng Yi nodded, “Good. You still know that there’s a price to pay. Not bad. I feel relieved seeing this. I do want you to do something, but it’s not difficult for you to do. From now on, you have to understand the Yin Group’s situation. Do you know how to do this?”

Yin Jia was a little puzzled. “I know the Yin Group’s situation. I read the newspaper every day.”

Cheng Yi smiled faintly and said, “You’re reading the newspaper for your father. From now on, you have to do it for your grandfather.”

Yin Jia was further puzzled. “Is there any difference?”

Cheng Yi smiled mysteriously and said, “Why don’t you find out for yourself and make the comparison?”

Yin Jia’s interest was finally piqued. “Alright.”

Then, Cheng Yi seemed to think of something before she said, “Oh, right. About that boyfriend of yours. How much do you know about him?”

Yin Jia was taken aback by the question. She bit her lip and did not answer the question.

Cheng Yi said, “He’s not suitable for you. You should leave him as soon as possible.”

Yin Jia looked slightly anxious upon hearing this. She said, “No. He’s the most cost-effective person I can find...”

Cheng Yi sighed softly as she looked at Yin Jia. “Yin Jia, you’re looking for a husband, not a business partner. What do you mean by cost-effective? No wonder your brother and sister-in-law are so worried about you. Your brother doesn’t want anything I give him. He only hopes that I’ll help you and give you a good home.”

Yin Jia’s eyes reddened, and her voice trembled slightly as she asked, “He... Did he really say that?”

Cheng Yi sighed again. “You have the same mother, after all. He doesn’t recognize the entire Yin family or me. He only cares about you. I’m really happy for your mother.”

Yin Jia’s tears fell. She wiped the corners of her eyes with a piece of tissue before she said, “In the Yin family, every marriage has its benefits. That’s what I understood as everyone’s responsibility since I was young. All the love and affection in my youth were illusions, and they no longer have anything to do with me now. As for Ye Cheng, I know he's scheming, and I know he's a womanizer. However, his family background is enough to match mine. I don't need a loving husband anyway. As long as he doesn't cross the line, I can accept it."

"Then, why did you send Guan Tang to Yi Garden? Wasn't it to vent your anger?"

Yin Jia straightened her back and sighed in relief. "We're not married yet. He should at least behave himself first. By doing this, I'm also showing him a display of power and letting him know my bottom line." Then, she raised her chin and said proudly, "As for that b*tch, Guan Tang, I've been wanting to deal with her for a long time now. I was just waiting for an opportunity. Initially, I wanted her to destroy my brother and Jiahui's relationship. I don't like things like love so I don't like Jiahui. If Guan Tang were willing to be my sister-in-law obediently, I could tolerate her for the rest of her life. But now, there's no need. She's such an eye-sore. Why should I be soft-hearted?"

Cheng Yi was very satisfied with Yin Jia's response. "Not bad. I didn't expect you to be so clear-headed. There's no need for me to reason with you. I feel relieved. At the very least, I know you won't be deceived by Ye Cheng."

Yin Jia was puzzled. "Why are you asking about this? Is there something you're dissatisfied with regarding Ye Cheng?"

Cheng Yi shook her head slightly and said with a smile, "What does it matter if I'm dissatisfied or not? The important thing is that your brother doesn't want you to be unhappy."

Realization dawned on Yin Jia. As it turned out, it was because of her brother's 'orders' again.
