

An Endless Night With Him Chapter 19

Chapter 19: Feels Something wrong

Katrina is relieved to hear that Then she suddenly feels that something is wrong. She's not related to Aaron, and in fact, she's in the opposition. It will be weird if Aaron pays for her! She'll be like a mistress Karma is shocked by the thought and shakes her head hard to get rid of the idea Anyway, he's the one keeping her imprisoned. He's supposed to provide her with shelter, food, and a change of clothes. It would be cruel to let her go naked or wear dirty clothes every day.

She won't take the clothes for herself When he lets her go, she'll return them to him. Katrina feels a little more comfortable with the thought.

After a moment's silence, Katrina notices two pesky men trailing behind her. Aaron's two heelers are keeping a good distance behind them. He takes her out to buy clothes but still has two men escort her. Is he afraid she'll escape? Katrina can't help rolling her eyes. Aaron thinks too much of her It's not enough for him to watch her alone. He had to call two more. As Katrina is deep in thought, Aaron picks up a dress from the hanger and hands it to her. "Try this one." Katrina takes the dress and tries it on inside the fitting room. When she walks out of the fitting room, Aaron nods and turns to the clerk. "Wrap it up." Katrina is stunned by Aaron's dictatorial assertiveness.

Aaron actually brought her here not to accompany her, but because she doesn't have the right to choose and speak for herself. She's like a doll for testing clothes. He has her try on whatever he likes. If he's satisfied, he buys it immediately

But she has to admit that he has good taste. As long as the clothes he chooses won't be ugly on her, it's fine. But the man is too domineering that he even controls what she wears.

Katrina found a pattern in Aaron's choice for clothes, and they're all pink. He seems to have pink mania, picking clothes in light pink or a flashy dark pink,

She remembers Farrah saying before that pink is the best color for her skin, especially the pink nurse dress that makes her look very pure and beautiful. The pink color makes her white skin clearer, brighter, and more beautiful.

But no matter how beautiful she looks in color, there's no need for her to change her whole wardrobe into pink Katrina can't help feeling a little surprised that such a domineering man would have a preference for such a feminine color.

After checking out at the counter, the heelers behind him are carrying four or five bags.

Katrina doesn't know if they've been spying on her until this point, but she's certain that they must be his servants, who carry things for him.

After walking around the entire floor, the bodyguards behind him are covered in shopping bags like a Christmas tree.

They go to another floor.

Although the mall has few customers, it has a large-scale and complex structure, with several escape routes.

Katrina follows Aaron, secretly familiarizing herself with the terrain and looking for a chance to escape. Since they're outside, she has a chance to escape. There's so much security in his villa that even a fly cannot flee. Before she realizes it, they're already in the lingerie section. Deep in thought about running away, Katrina doesn't notice when Aaron suddenly stops.

She crashes against his back and feels a sharp pain on her nose. The pain makes her eyes wet with tears, and she involuntarily takes a step back.

What did the man grow up on? Why is his back as hard as steel?

When a small body bumps into Aaron and bounces back, he looks back and sees Katrina with tears streaming down her face.

19 Charm

fera DSAINS Wrong

This stupid woman walks so carelessly ‘Let me see.’ Aaron frowns and grabs her wrist. He doesn’t even realize that for the first time, he’s concerned if she’s hurt. Before Katrina can respond, he’s taken her hand to look at her sore nose.

In the face of his handsome face and close scrutiny, Katrina goes red in the face when she vaguely feels his breath on her skin.

Why is he suddenly so close to her? She’s still unused to having him stare at her so intensely.

Katrina finally figures out why the leading lady always closes her eyes when the hero kisses her on TV. There’s nowhere else to look in such a situation.

Although she knows it’s inappropriate to compare herself to the heroine, she’s dying from embarrassment. If Aaron keeps looking at her, she might actually close her eyes.

The tip of her nose is just a little red, and it doesn’t look too bad. After making sure Katrina isn’t hurt, Aaron feels relieved. He straightens up, making Katrina feel better. “Katrina,” Aaron quips, “What are you blushing about? At Aaron’s words, Katrina freezes and slaps her face with her hand. “It’s a little hot. Can’t you feel it?” She would never admit that she was shy. Katrina’s performance fails to trick him. She’s clearly shy, he thought.

He only approached her casually, and her face became as red as a tomato. What would happen to her if he actually kissed her?

Instead of exposing Katrina’s lie, Aaron grunts and turns to the store, Katrina is stunned at the sight of the store filled with lingerie. Did he suddenly stop because he wants to go there and buy her underwear? Although she needs it, how can she let Aaron buy something so personal? Even if he has no qualms about doing it, Katrina refuses to accept it.

“Aaron Wilson” she grabs his arm quickly and hisses, “I can go by myself? Wait outside for me for a few minutes, and I’ll be right out!”

No one has ever bought underwear with Katrina beside her best friend, let alone a man. It’s not good to go into a lingerie store with a man. At Katrina’s request, Aaron nods graciously. “Okay. you go in. I’ll wait here.”

An Endless Night With Him Chapter 20

Chapter 20: Hide Away

Katrina can’t help but rejoice at his response. He didn’t stir her up or embarrass her in any way! When did he start to become so nice?

As Katrina excitedly walks towards the lingerie store, she hears a casual voice behind her. “Did you bring money!

It’s like she was hit by a bolt out of the blue. Katrina stood frozen and stunned. She shook her head, Aaron strolled over, asking thoughtfully. “Are you going to pay with your face?” with her head bowed down in frustration, Katrina is unable to say a word.

Just as she thought, how could he suddenly kindly permit her to go in alone? He knows she has no money on her and that she can’t buy anything if she goes in alone.

Seeing her looking glum, Aaron grunts and grabs her by the wrist to pull her in. Buying underwear isn’t a big deal. He not only saw her breasts, but he remembers their shape and size very clearly.

As soon as they enter the shop, the salesgirl greets them, “Welcome! Are you buying underwear for your girlfriend?”

“What?” At the salesgirl’s assumption, Katrina chokes on her own saliva and coughs hard, What girlfriend? Does she look like his girlfriend? Can’t she see the agony on her face?

What kind of boyfriend would keep his girlfriend trapped at home?

What kind of boyfriend would threaten to put his girlfriend in a dog cage ?

She's clearly a prisoner under his control, a hostage under house arrest! Aaron gives her a cold look, and she immediately shrinks. He pushes Katrina forward and says, "Bring her the best ones."

The saleslady immediately becomes enthusiastic at assisting a wealthy customer. She hurries to get some underwear for Katrina, "Miss, this is our shop's main brand this year. It has a good texture, and it's comfortable to wear, giving you a pleasant experience for summer. This is one of the bestsellers, and it has good support"

"It can help increase the cup size up to two. It can also correct the bosom model, which makes it easy to transform plains to mountains. The shop assistant chatters away at Katrina. With Aaron standing close by, Katrina feels numb, embarrassed, and overwhelmed.

They were mistaken to be in a relationship. For Aaron, the salesgirl chose some rather sexy lace underwear and hung it in front of Katrina. Katrina almost blacks out from mortification. Casually pointing to the most conservative item on the counter, she exclaims, "That one!" Katrina chooses the most unflattering item that the salesgirl pauses to introduce the underwear. She quickly turns to Aaron with an inquiring eye. After all, he's the one who will pay for it.

Aaron doesn't say much, seeming to acquiesce. The shopping assistant smiles and hands the underwear to Katrina.

"No need to try it!" Katrina tells the salesgirl her size and asks her to pack it. When she realizes that Aaron heard her bra size, she immediately wants to hide away. Aaron completely ignores her frustrated look and says, "Pack one for each style in her size as well." "Yes, sir!" The assistant is immediately excited, becoming more devoted to the service.

"Miss, your boyfriend is very kind to you!" The shop assistant exclaims to Katrina enviously. Katrina only smiles at her perfunctorily. She doesn't bother wasting her breath on explanations.

As they exit the lingerie store, the bodyguards behind them take a couple more bags, looking like two moving shelves with eyes. At this point, they may not be able to fight back with bags hanging over them. Now, her only opponent is Aaron. If she can get rid of him, she may have a chance to escape. But how can she get rid of him if he won't even let her buy underwear on her own? just then, Katrina sees a toilet sign on the wall. She suddenly comes up with an idea. "Aaron, my stomach hurts. I have to go to the toilet."

He won't dare enter the women's bathroom, Aaron's brow furrows as he looks at her. Finally, he waves his hand at her and lets her go to the toilet while he waits patiently. As soon as Katrina enters the bathroom, she begins looking for a way out.

Since she can take advantage of this opportunity, she won't be imprisoned in that dark place anymore, and won't have to endure Aaron's presence,

But after searching for a long time, Katrina finds nothing, Outside the window is a wire fence that she can't get through. And the exhaust fan is far too high for her to climb out. After wandering around the toilet for a long time, she has to exit the bathroom sullenly. If she stays for too long, Aaron will begin to question her motives. Seeing Katrina come out, Aaron casually asks, "Are you all right?" "I'm better now," Katrina laments as she lowers her head.

With the clothes shopping done and the toilet impossible to escape through, it's time to go home. How on earth can she escape Aaron? The further they go, the more anxious she becomes, and the less time she has to escape.

The two men behind them have disappeared, probably to deliver the shopping bags to the car at his command.

Now is the last chance to escape. Katrina glances over at Aaron, who looks unperturbed and unsuspecting, There's an ice cream shop in the lobby on the first floor. Katrina bites her lips and tugs the edge of his shirt, asking softly, "Aaron?" Aaron turns around with a bored look on his face. "Hmm?" She just went to the bathroom, what does she want this time? "I want ice cream!" Katrina says, pointing her slender finger at the ice cream shop in front of her.

Katrina's voice has the soft quality of an acute feminine tone, especially when she called his name in a low voice. It's more coquettish, making his heart unconsciously soften.

Aaron looks in the direction and sees the ice cream shop. Girls are so troublesome!

But it's the first time for Katrina to make such a coquettish request, Especially with a softened heart, he naturally won't trouble her for such a small request.