

An Endless Night With Him

80 Chapter 80: Deliver The Medicine

just then, an unexpected visitor arrivex

Dr William drives at the villa for a visit. He looks gentle and elegant with a pair of gold rimmed glasses on his

his

NON
Although Dr. William is only about thirty years old, his position in the medical field shouldn't be underestimated. He wouldn't have become Aaron's personal physician otherwise.

Besides, he and Aaron have some personalties. William is Aaron's senior in college.

William steps into the living room with ease.

Seeing a great variety of clothes and jewelry in the room, he shakes his head unconsciously and sighs, "Aaron is so generous."

He originally thought that Aaron was only keeping Katrina in the villa out of temporary interest, but he never thought that Aaron would care so much about her.

Spending extravagantly like this to please a beauty...

It will definitely make for a good story if it comes out.

Who would've thought that Aaron, who has never been close to women, would do so much for a woman?

It seems that there will soon be a hostess in the villa.

Because William often comes over, Aaron's heelers all know him. When he enters, they all greet him, politely,

"Dr. William."

William nods to them with a smile and heads straight for Katrina and Randy.

Randy greets him with a mild smile. "Dr. William, what brings you here?"

They only call Dr. William when Aaron or Katrina isn't feeling well.

But Aaron is currently at work, and Katrina is healthy. Dr. William's sudden visit catches Randy off guard.

"Well..." Dr. William calmly takes out a box of pills and hands it to Randy. "This is the latest sleeping pill we've developed. I came over to bring it to Anron."

Randy accepts the medicine in surprise. "This is great! Mr. Wilson's insomnia will be cured. It's very kind of you, Dr. William. You should've just called me so I could've sent someone over to take it. Why did you bother to come for yourself?

Dr. William adjusts his glasses. "It's no trouble, no trouble!"

Behind the glasses, a strange light shines in his smiling eyes,

20 Chapter De Theme

He came over in person foday not just to deliver the medicine, but to satisfy his curiosity while Aaron isn't at home.

"Dr William, please sit wherever you like." Randy invites him to make himself comfortable and goes to put away the medicine.

As Randy turns around, he suddenly realizes that Mr. Wilson seems to sleep well recently, as if he didn't have insomnia for a long time. Since Miss Miller came to the villa, Mr. Wilson has been in good spirits every day.

After Randy leaves, William walks up to Katrina. "Miss Miller, how are you these days? Is everything fine with you?"

When Katrina got sick, Dr. William was the one who treated her. They met each other before.

Probably due to innate respect for doctors or because William's good manners make him look respectable, Katrina smiles at him and politely replies, "Dr. William, thank you for your concern. I'm fine."

Dr. William smiles and nods. "That's good."

"Miss Miller, I'm a little thirsty. I wonder if you can give me a glass of water."

"Okay, just a minute."

William sits on the top-quality leather sofa, while Katrina goes to the bar to prepare a glass of water for him. His sharp eyes look through his glasses at the delicate and slender figure. His assumptions seem to be confirmed.

William is so observant that he notices the subtle changes in Katrina's walk.

Sure enough, Aaron had sex with her.

It seems that when he called last night, Aaron was...

The memory sends chills up William's spine.

Fortunately, Aaron just let out a growl and hung up.

Aaron's character has always been unpredictable. He unintentionally bothered Aaron at that time. Was he courting death?

William suddenly begins to envy Aaron.

Even someone he thought to be the least likely to have a girlfriend has his own girl and leads a happy and satisfying sex life.

Meanwhile, he's a handsome and well-paid doctor who graduated from a famous school with a good personality. Despite all these, he's still single. What an extraordinary imbalance!

Just then, Katrina comes up to William with a glass of water and hands it to him. "Dr. William, have some water."

William is flattered, and hurriedly replies, "Thank you."

He doesn't stay long in the villa. He makes up an excuse and retreats quickly.

If Aaron knew that he asked his woman to pour water for him, how would he punish him?

The man is very protective of her. He's so anxious to keep his woman under his protection at all times that no one else is allowed to look at her.

If he stays long enough, Aaron might assume that he covets his woman, and the consequences will be even WOI'Sc.

After the new room is arranged, Randy helps Katrina carry things she commonly uses from her old room. While Katrina arranges her books, she inadvertently looks up to find something sickening above the plant on the wall.

After carefully looking at it again, she finds a camera,

Because the pot of orchid is so lush, she never noticed it before.

Katrina points unbelievably at the camera on the wall. "Randy, is that a monitor?"

Randy looks in the direction Katrina is pointing at and nods. "Yes, a thief came into the villa before.

Some

business opponents came to steal important information from Mr. Wilson and nearly succeeded. After that, Mr.

Wilson filled the whole villa with surveillance cameras."

Randy's words feel like a violent blow to Katrina, and her heart is filled with despair.

There's a camera in the room she'd been staying at for so long, and she only finds out now? That means her every move in the room is within the scope of someone else's monitoring.

At the realization, her heartbeat feels like a thousand galloping horses. She's filled with unspeakable chaos and shock

Realizing Katrina's distress, Randy hastens to add, "The surveillance is only available to Mr. Wilson, and no one else is allowed to look at it privately. But he's so busy every day that he's not interested in checking the footage."

Chapter 81: She Is Thinking Too Much

Katrina's tumultuous heart gradually calms down with Randy's reassurance

Aaron is definitely too busy with work that he doesn't have time to check the surveillance video and watch her every day.

She's thinking too much.

But she doesn't know that the one time Aaron checked the surveillance video of her room, he was treated to a very sexy image

The first thing Katrina does when she moves to her new room is to cover the camera with a towel.

Although she doesn't think that Aaron is a man with a perverted hobby, she still feels uncomfortable living under the surveillance of the camera every day,

In the afternoon, Katrina remembers Aaron's promise to her that he'll let her go out at will whenever he's away

It's too boring to stay alone at home.

Katrina grabs her clothes, and tentatively says, "Randy, I want to go out for a walk."

Randy smiles. "Okay, Miss Miller. I'll have someone accompany you right now."

Unexpectedly, Randy agrees so quickly. It seems that Aaron's instructions have already been conveyed to Randy

“Thank you, Randy!”

Katrina is very happy, and her pure and beautiful face suddenly bursts into a brilliant smile. Her starry eyes sparkle, and her voice is full of great joy.

Randy picks up the phone and speaks to the receiver calmly. A moment later, two young men in black suits come in. “Randy, the car is ready.”

Nodding at them, Randy takes out a black gilded card and hands it to Katrina. “Miss Miller, this is from Mr.

Wilson. If you see something you like, just pay it with this card.”

This card looks dignified and textured. It must be the top credit card of a certain bank. This makes Katrina feel like a mistress, and her heart tugs uncomfortably at the thought.

But since it’s Aaron’s instructions, she can’t refuse.

Like the cell phone in her possession that can only reach Aaron’s number, Aaron told her to carry the phone with her anywhere she goes at all times, and to keep it on 24 hours a day so he could get in touch with her at any time.

Katrina seals her lips and reaches out to take the card and put it in her bag.

Once everything is ready, Randy personally escorts her into the car.

1 Chapter 11

S

bring Too Much

Randy watches the low-key Mercedes until it leaves the villa. Then he calls Aaron to report

In the President’s office, Aaron glances at his private phone and sees the little red dot moving slowly on the map. He responds in a cool, casual voice, “I see.”

The specially customized phone equipped with a GPS system can feed Katrina’s location back to his phone in real-time.

This is the reason Aaron feels reassured about letting Katrina go out.

No matter where she goes, she can’t escape him.

The car stops at a busy commercial block in Hadley City.

Katrina jumps out of the car and walks aimlessly down the street, enjoying the city’s unique liveliness.

While others may come here to shop, Katrina wants to observe.

She doesn’t need to buy clothes. The latest line of top brand clothes is hanging in her closet at home.

No, to be exact, at Aaron’s home.

In this regard, Aaron is really generous and has never been stingy about spending money on her.

Perhaps this is why many young and beautiful girls want to find a rich man because their material desires can be satisfied.

Many rich men are old and nasty-looking

But Aaron has an extremely handsome face, and his strong body is in good shape. His solid eight pack abs and smooth Apollo's Belt are clearly visible and sexy. Such a man, no matter how bad his temper is, will always have a continuous stream of people wanting to throw themselves at him.

It seems that the god of destiny really does make fools of people sometimes. The women who try everything to seduce Aaron all eventually end up in failure.

But Katrina just wants to return to her hometown and live a normal life. She doesn't expect to cross paths with

Aaron accidentally

As Katrina walks ahead, two men slowly follow behind her.

They can't look unusual to passers-by. People might get the wrong impression and assume they're perverts tailing after young girls.

The two bodyguards are experienced enough to hide out in the crowd. They're discreet and keep a proper distance from Katrina to ensure that they can see her at all times.

Although it seems that Katrina is shopping alone, she knows that she's being followed by two men.

How can she feel comfortable knowing her every movement is monitored?

But even if she's being monitored, it's much better than staying at home alone in boredom.

as Chaptent Shelbeing Tooch

After a while, Katrina feels thirsty,

There's a small shop selling various kinds of drinks and milk tea on the roadside. Its business is booming.

Katrina walks over and is attracted to the large glass of mango juice in the freezer.

It's $10 a cup, very cost-effective.

Penniless, Katrina, searches her pockets, only to find a phone and a VIP card.

Katrina bites her lip and asks, "Sir, can I pay by credit card?"

The vendor smiles apologetically, "Sorry, the shop lives on a shoestring. Only cash payments are accepted."

Katrina also feels embarrassed to pay for a 10 dollar item by credit card.

As a young man who knows nothing about human suffering, Aaron must have never bought roadside goods. He must think that an unlimited overdraft card is enough to get around the world.

Despite having a valuable credit card, she can't even buy a cup of juice...

Katrina feels very depressed.

But she suddenly gets an idea. She has two tails behind her. Since they've been following her and making her uncomfortable, why not turn to them?

Katrina turns around and accurately finds them in the crowd, walking towards them.

Seeing Katrina coming their way, the heelers feign ignorance. One of them turns around and combs his hair in front of the store's French window, pretending to be minding his own business. The other one takes out his cell phone and pretends to make a phone call.

Life's a play, and everyone is acting.

Seeing their performance, Katrina sneers.

Since they've been watching her, they should be honest and straightforward. She already knows they've been following her anyway

Chapter 82: An Amusing Scene

Katrina walks over and pokes the nearest man, who's pretending to make a call,

Since he can't keep up the act, the man speaks respectfully, "Miss Miller."

Katrina points to the beverage store nearby. "I'm thirsty. I want to buy juice, Please lend me some money."

Since they're Aaron's heelers, Katrina is very forthright in borrowing money.

The man is taken aback to hear Katrina's request.

Borrow money for juice?

They originally thought that Katrina was upset that they were tailing after her and wanted to find fault with them, so they pretended not to see her.

They were anticipating her reaction. If Miss Miller gets angry with them, they'll try to coax her and please her. If she wants to hit their left cheek, they'll also offer their right cheek.

After all, she's Mr. Wilson's woman.

Unexpectedly, she turns to them because she has no money to buy juice.

The man quickly takes out his wallet and hands over $10.

Katrina is speechless, staring at him, incredulously with her beautiful eyes.

Aaron is rich. How much salary does he pay his employees? They're too stingy.

She wants to buy juice, and they're really only giving her $10?

Feeling Katrina's disapproving gaze, the man scratches his head in embarrassment. He plucks up the courage to take out $50 from his wallet and hands it over. It might be enough.

Katrina still doesn't feel that it's enough. She sees $200 in his wallet and says, "Give me everything."

The man is reluctant and covers his wallet protectively. "Miss Miller, I have elderly to support me. I'm not yet married. I'm saving money to marry my future wife."

On the other side, the other man bows his head and covers his mouth and secretly gloats over the other heeler's

predicament

Katrina says helplessly, "Ask Aaron for reimbursement."

She knows they're just taking money and serving Aaron. She certainly won't embarrass them on purpose.

After all, it's Aaron's responsibility.

Since Katrina already said so, the man has no choice but to give Katrina all the money in his wallet.

Chapter 82 An Antung Scent

Katrina takes the money and orders a glass of mango juice at the beverage store. It's cool and sweet, assuaging her thirst.

It mustn't be easy for the two men behind her to follow her around for so long. Katrina asks the vendor for two more drinks, before carrying them over and giving the drinks to the men. "Here you go."

A pair of delicate and tender hands suddenly hands over two cups of cool and delicious juice. The two men stare in stunned disbelief.

"Thank you, Miss Miller!"

The man is flattered and hurries to accept it.

Unexpectedly, Miss Miller thinks of them while she buys juice and gets them their own beverage. The two young men are moved in their hearts.

Miss Miller is too kind and nice to them.

They've always been accustomed to working for others and obeying orders. For the first time, they feel what it's like to be cared for by their employers.

Before they became Aaron's heelers, they worked as bodyguards for wealthy girls. The girls were always scolding them and getting angry all the time. They could only endure their abuse silently.

Such a kind-hearted girl like Miss Miller is really rare.

Katrina is shocked to see the gentleness and emotion in the eyes of the two strong men. She just listed a finger, but she inadvertently wins the favor of Aaron's two heelers.

Katrina strolls around with her juice.

Seeing a stray artist singing and playing guitar on the overpass, she listens carefully and politely puts some money in his hat in front of the microphone,

When she sees a street stall selling some specialty snacks, she approaches it to buy one for herself.

The two bodyguards behind her are still hidden in the crowd, following her quietly to ensure her safety and whereabouts.

They definitely won't walk around with a glass of juice in their hands and drink it leisurely like Katrina.

It's too

feminine. But the juice was given by Katrina in kindness, and they don't want to waste it. They open the lid, drink it in one go, and throw away the cup before continuing to move through the crowd.

"Catch that thief! He's a thief! He stole my bag!"

Just as Katrina enjoys the lively and fresh atmosphere of the city, a shrill voice suddenly calls out.

Katrina is startled. The incident of her being caught as a thief has left a shadow in her heart, making her subconsciously defensive. She's afraid to be wrongly accused and caught again.

But as she follows the voice, she sees a young man running quickly with a woman's bag in his hand. A portly middle-aged woman in her forties is shouting and struggling to catch up

Katrina quickly observes the situation and realizes that the middle-aged woman must've just come out of the bank.

It's bold of the thief to rob someone in broad daylight.

Compared to the young man, the middle-aged women's pace is obviously much slower. She runs as fast as she can but is soon left behind.

The middle-aged woman is on the verge of tears, and her voice is full of despair. "Please help me! Help me catch the thief! That money is for my husband's surgery! Please help me!"

But everyone turns a blind eye to her distress. They don't know if the thief has any accomplices. If they meddle in the affair, the thief might beat them up or stab them with a knife. It's not worth it.

Katrina is a policewoman.

When she was in Abbe City, she was in charge of these surreptitious incidents.

How could she stand by and let a robbery take place under her nose?

Professional instinct makes Katrina throw away the items in her hands without hesitation and run quickly towards the man.

"Stop! Don't run! Come back!"

Fortunately, she's wearing flat shoes and jeans today. Otherwise, she would've given the passers-by a free show

if she runs on the street in a skirt

The two bodyguards silently monitoring Katrina in the crowd suddenly notice that Katrina is running away from them.

Shocked, they hurried to catch up. "Miss Miller! Miss Miller!"

If Miss Miller gets into an accident or takes the opportunity to run away, they will have to bear severe consequences.

Currently, on the street, a young thief is running desperately while a young girl chases after him, followed by two young bodyguards.

It's an amusing scene.

Chapter 83: She's Saved

Katrina graduated from the police academy.

Justice drives her not to give up so quickly, so she chases after the thief in determination,

The guilty thief runs desperately into deserted alleys. Unfortunately, Katrina is reluctant to give up and runs dosely after him. Blinded by panic, the thief turns right and accidentally runs into a dead end, Tinding the thief trapped, Katrina stops and bends over to catch her breath.

She hasn't had such an intense workout for a long time. Her body is unable to stand it. She feels exhausted,

But fortunately, she was able to catch the thief.

Katrina looks up at the culprit "Hand over the bag you just stole, and I'll let you go."

She just wants to help the woman get back what she lost, not embarrass the thief on purpose. She won't take him to the police station as long as he cooperates and hands over the bag.

Trapped in the alley, the thief is somewhat upset,

If Katrina hadn't chased him, he would've gotten rid of the woman quickly.

The thief certainly won't give up on this roadblock of gaining money, especially against a young and slender girl. How could he compromise so easily?

The thief says with a fierce look, "Meddlesome woman! Get out of my way! Otherwise, you can't blame me for my actions!"

The thief is ready to break through Katrina's line of defense and escape to the other side. If he stays here, more people will come, and he won't be able to run away.

How can Katrina let him leave so easily?

She quickly rushes to grab the bag in his hand. "Give me the bag! This bag belongs to that lady! You can't take it!"

The thief angrily drags the bag by force, "Bitch! Let me go!"

The thief wants to leave, but Katrina grabs the bag in his hand and refuses to let him go.

After running so hard just now, Katrina is exhausted. She knows she has to find a way to subdue the thief. A woman's strength can't compare to a man's. If they go on like this, the thief will overpower her and run away.

Katrina gets an evil look in her eyes. Gnashing her teeth and gathering her strength, she finds the right place and knees the thief straight in the crotch. Then she grabs his arm and throws him to the ground while he's defenseless.

While the thief lies on the ground and clutches his crotch painfully, Katrina seizes the bag from his hand, "Damn, bitch! You must really want to die!"

The thief angrily takes out a dagger and picks himself up from the ground. He points the knife at Katrina with unspeakable horror in his eyes.

Katrina is started to see the sharp knife and the fierce expression on the thief's face. She can't help but feel frightened.

The thief looks like he wants to kill her and perish together with her.

The current situation forces Katrina into a corner she can't escape.

Katrina steps back and says, "I'm warning you. Don't act recklessly. If you leave now, nothing will happen. If you dare hurt me, the police won't let you go. Not only will they hold you for the robbery, they'll also charge you for intentional injury."

But like an outlaw, the thief completely disregards the consequences. How could he listen to Katrina?

As things stand, Katrina has to retreat cautiously to avoid his dagger and search for a chance to kick the knife out of his hands and try to escape.

Since she became a police officer, she's encountered many inconceivable cases.

Some even fight over a few dollars, resulting in one person stabbing the other to death and causing irreversible consequences.

It's similar to the thief, who wants to kill her only because she intervened in his robbery.

The thoughts of these people are horrible and obstinate. Their actions can't be explained by common logic,

because they have no reason at all.

“How much do you want? I’ll give it to you. But this is the money for the operation of the lady’s husband. You can’t take it. Please put the knife down.”

Katrina tries to calm the thief as gently as possible.

But the thief roars, “I want your life!”

He rushes towards Katrina.

The bright knife flashes, making Katrina panic. She subconsciously blocks it with the bag.

The foreboding pain doesn’t come. She only hears a crisp sound, and the dull thud of a fist hitting flesh.

Katrina looks up in shock and sees the two bodyguards who have been following her, grabbing the thief’s arm roughly and pressing him to the ground. The dagger falls to the ground.

“Miss Miller, are you hurt?”

Katrina shakes her head. “I’m fine.”

She covers her chest in shock, breathing a sigh of relief. She’s saved, Luckily, Aaron’s leclers appeared. Otherwise, the consequences are unimaginable,

She suddenly realizes that Aaron arranging for his heelers to follow her around isn’t completely bad.

They can protect her at a critical moment.

One of the heelers picks up the phone and calls the police station nearby. “There’s a disgusting rat here.

Send

someone over to take it away.”

Meanwhile, the middle-aged woman who lost her bag comes over, panting for breath. She seems to be in a state of meltdown and distress.

Katrina takes her bag and hands it to her. “Lady, here’s your bag. The thief scratched it, but the money should be inside.”

The thief had slashed against the outer layer of the bag, rendering it unusable.

The middle-aged woman takes the bag and opens it to check the contents. After confirming that all the money is inside, she feels relieved.

She takes Katrina’s hand and cries, “Thank you! Thank you so much! If not for you, I really wouldn’t know what to do!”

The bag contains their family’s entire savings for over twenty years. Without it, her husband can’t undergo the operation that would save his life. The girl who helped take back the money is her savior.

Moreover, the scratch on the bag and the knife on the ground tells her what just happened. The thief almost stabbed the girl. She risked her life to take back the money for a stranger.

A few simple words of gratitude are far from enough to express her emotions. The middle-aged woman kneels on the ground and kowtows to express her immense gratitude to Katrina.

Chapter 84: Justice Knows No Bound

Katrina can't bear the woman's actions. Seeing someone older than her kneel submissively in front of her will shorten her life.

Besides, justice knows no bounds, Punishing evil-doers and encouraging people to do something well is her duty as a police officer.

She doesn't do it to get people's gratitude or to enjoy the honor of being respected. She simply can't bear to see aggressive culprits bully ordinary people.

Katrina hurries to help the middle-aged woman up. "It's good that the money is still here. Don't mention it.

Please get up."

She takes the trouble to help the middle-aged woman up.

Meanwhile, the police who received the call arrived at the scene.

They greet Aaron's heelers and push the handcuffed thief into the car.

Aaron is known all over Hadley City.

Seeing Aaron's heelers treat Katrina so respectfully, the police realize that she must have an impressive background. They say politely, "Miss, can you spare some time to make a statement at the police station?"

The thief is sure to be put in jail. Before that, a statement is required to clarify the whole matter.

Since Katrina caught the thief, no one knows what happened better than her. The police gather the courage to ask her to go to the police station.

As a police officer, Katrina knows it's their job.

Besides, the middle-aged woman is still in a state of shock. She grasps Katrina's hand tightly like a lifeline and refuses to let go. She can accompany the woman and soothe her mood. She readily agrees, "Okay!"

Anyway, she has nothing important to do now. She's willing to help out.

A few minutes later, they arrive at the nearby police station.

The frustrated thief is dragged to the small black room for questioning, and Katrina accompanies the woman to make a statement.

Meanwhile, Aaron has just finished an important meeting and walks back to his office. When he opens his phone to check Katrina's location, he unexpectedly finds her at the police station.

Aaron's handsome face immediately turns gloomy. His fingers were holding the phone, gripping it tighter in anger.

Before the meeting, her location showed that she was shopping. Why is she suddenly at the police station now?

D

ato

Jutton

K

a Nailound

What is she doing there?

Is she still trying to escape? Did she secretly go to the police station to ask for help while his heclers were unprepared, hoping that the police could save her?

Oh, how naive

Does she really think that the police will help her? Without his confirmation, the police wouldn't dare let her go

casily

The discovery puts Aaron in a bad mood

Hic's taken great pains to dote on her and be nice to her. If she plays such a trick on the first day he lets her go out, she's too ungrateful.

Aaron has never been a man of blind tolerance.

He promised not to do any harm to Katrina, but if she annoys him, the consequences would absolutely not be good for her,

With a sullen face, Aaron calls his heelers and asks coldly, "Where are you?"

The heeler doesn't expect to receive a sudden call from Aaron. He nervously replies, "Mr. Wilson, we're at the police station."

Aaron frowns at the answer. Are his hcclers also at the police station? That means that Katrina didn't sneak out alone.

Aaron immediately asks, "What are you doing there?"

At the question, the man can't help but praise, "Just now in the street, a thief stole a woman's bag.

When Miss

Miller saw this, she rushed to take the bag back and also caught the thief. She went to the police station to give a statement."

When they rushed over earlier, they saw the thief with a dagger pointed at Katrina. They panicked in fear that Katrina would get into an accident. If so, they couldn't report it to Aaron.

But they couldn't help but admire Katrina,

At that time, many strong young men turned a blind eye and refused to lend a helping hand.

But Miss Miller, a petite girl, rushed out without hesitation. Her slim and delicate body looks very lofty.

Miss Miller is not only beautiful, but also very kind, brave, and righteous.

No wonder Mr. Wilson likes her so much. They've only been with her for half a day, and they've already won over by her charm

It's difficult to find a rare woman like Miss Miller in Hadley City.

At the explanation, Aaron's gloomy expression gradually begins to smooth over,

Apparently, Katrina went to the police station, not because she wanted to escape. She even boldly did the right thing in the street and helped someone catch a thief.

Oh, little girl.

She can't protect herself or escape his captivity, but she still has the heart to help others, Aaron doesn't expect this.

He was initially angry with Katrina. But now, the anger disappears instantly, and he's filled with nothing but

Worry: "Is she hurt?"

The man quickly replies, "No."

If Miss Miller is injured...

How dare they stay here? They would've knelt in front of Mr. Wilson in apology and waited for punishment. If they can't protect Mr. Wilson's woman and let her get hurt, Mr. Wilson would be furious.

Aaron says, "Stay there. I'll pick her up."

He hangs up.

Getting up from his comfortable chair, he picks up the Italian suit hanging nearby, puts it on, and walks straight to the door.

He purses his lips, and his handsome face is expressionless. No one can tell his current mood.

There is an indescribable feeling in his heart.

This stupid woman always catches him off guard.

She's so weak that she always gets herself sick. She even faints after having sex for a short time in the evening.

Unexpectedly, she has the courage and strength to catch a thief in the streets.

Is she not afraid that she not only won't catch the thief but also injure herself?

She doesn't take her own safety seriously at all. It seems that he has to educate her on this matter.

Katrina is now his woman and his possession.

Aaron will never let her get hurt, especially by others. He will resolutely put an end to her doing such dangerous acts.

Because in his mind, Katrina is more precious than anyone else.

Chapter 85: You're Such A Nice Girl

Once the report is complete, the policeman closes his notebook and gets up from his chair. With a smile on his face, he says, "Miss Miller, thank you for your cooperation. Don't worry, and the thief will definitely be punished accordingly by the law."

"Thank you, sir."

Walking outside the interrogation room, the middle-aged woman keeps thanking Katrina. "You're such a nice girl. A beautiful and kind girl like you will surely receive rewards for your virtuous deeds."

Katrina says with smiling eyes, "Don't be so polite. I only did what should be done."

Just then, Katrina hears a slight cough. She looks up to see Aaron's heeler, the bodyguard who lent her money.

The man winks at Katrina.

Looking in the direction of his gaze. Katrina sees Aaron si of his gaze, Katrina sees Aaron sitting on the sofa not far away, staring at her intensely. Goodness will have a good reward, yet she's still unable to escape someone's confinement. How ironic.

Aaron's sudden appearance is too unexpected for Katrina.

Katrina hurries over and asks with surprise, "Aaron, what are you doing here?"

Aaron answers with a smile on his face, "My healer tells me that you were very brave to catch a thief in the streets. I'm going to ask the police chief to help you apply for an award for your bravery."

Hearing Aaron's words, Katrina bursts into embarrassment. She forces a laugh and says, "Don't be so ceremonious."

She gets the vague feeling that Aaron is upset.

The middle-aged woman sees Aaron sitting on the sofa and walks over. "Is this your boyfriend?"

Katrina is most troubled whenever someone asks about her relationship with Aaron.

Aaron grabs her wrist and pulls her into his arms, making Katrina lean against him. Although Aaron is sitting calmly without saying a word, his actions illustrate their extraordinary relationship.

Katrina can only smile and nod vaguely.

The middle-aged woman immediately praises him. "I knew that a good girl like you would certainly meet an excellent man!"

Aaron is handsome, outstanding, and inherently noble. Anyone who sees him will immediately identify him as a good man

Seeing that Katrina's boyfriend is so excellent, the middle-aged woman feels very happy for her. Katrina smiles and thanks her despite the pain in her heart.

She can't afford such an excellent man. She only wants to go home.

After the middle-aged woman leaves, Katrina suddenly remembers the money she borrowed from Aaron's healer. "Aaron, I borrowed some money from your healer to buy juice and food. Remember to pay him back."

Hearing Katrina's words, Aaron becomes speechless.

She takes him for granted as her personal purse and asks him to pay her debts.

Despite his anger, Aaron's mood is much lighter because of her words.

She can righteously ask him to pay her debts, which means that she takes him as someone on her own side. She doesn't want to owe anyone, but she's willing to spend his money.

Aaron likes this feeling very much. He's happy to spend money on his woman.

On the contrary, if she makes things clear with him, she would be pushing him away.

Pointed out by Katrina, the healer suddenly startles and quickly says, "No need to pay me back. The money isn't worth mentioning."

It seems so kind of him to ask Mr. Wilson for $200. The money is to please Miss Miller. Moreover, it's so nice of Miss Miller to buy him juice.

"No, you need to support your elders and save money for marriage. Anyway, Mr. Wilson is very rich, so I can't skimp your money.”

When Katrina repeats the man’s words, he instantly feels like crying. He doesn’t know what to say.

The monthly salary Aaron gives them isn’t ow.

He admits that he’s a bit stingy. It took him some effort to be generous this time. But unexpectedly, Miss Millor exposes him so ruthlessly.

Is his stingy image ingrained In Mr. Wilson’s mind?

Aaron looks up at the man and says, “Go to Randy to get back your money.”

He’s more concerned about Katrina’s words.

“I also need to save money for marriage.” Aaron whispers in Katrina’s car, low enough that only the two of them can hear.

Aaron’s voice is deep and sexy, His hot breath is warm over her cars. Histone is meaningful, making her sensitive carlobes turn red,

Why is he saying this to her?

Stropy 85 Vous Such Ases!

He’s so rich. If he crooks his tinger, a lot of women will queue up to marry him. He doesn’t need to save money lxlung the police station, Aaron takes Katrina home.

Maybe she’s a little tired from walking in the afternoon and not having a good rest the night before.

As soon as Katrina sits in the car, she begins to feel slecpy, Looking at the street scene outside the window, she gradually closes her eyes and begins to doze against the window.

Her hcad hits the window repeatedly. It seems a little uncomfortable, and she doesn’t sleep well.

Aaron takes her in his arms and whispers to the driver, “Turn off the air conditioner.”

“Yes, sir.” The driver quickly follows Aaron’s instructions.

Aaron looks down at the sleeping Katrina. Her pink lips are slightly open, like a seductress. He has the impulse to kiss her.

He kisses the corner of her mouth genty. Since she’s asleep, he doesn’t go any further. He distracts himself by reading a magazine.

Half an hour later, the car stops in front of the villa.

Katrina is still sleeping soundly and peacefully in his arms.

Aaron doesn’t have the heart to wake her up. Bending down, he carries her out of the car and takes her to his room.

Her soft and fragrant body in his arms is like a lovely little animal, compelling people to have tender affection for her.

The expression on Aaron’s face becomes unconsciously soft.

It’s not only the expression for the woman he loves, but also for the little girl he loves the most.

It’s said that a daughter is a father’s love in a previous life.

When a man really loves a woman, he unconsciously takes her as his daughter and dotes on her lovingly

101 Chapter 101: Where is Katrina?

The next day, sunlight pours into the room through the French windows.

On the big soft bed. Aaron has not gotten up yet.

In the living room, Randy has already prepared breakfast, but no one comes out of the room. He looks anxiously at his watch several times.

Didn't Aaron book a plane ticket to take Katrina to Abbe City this morning?

If this keeps up, they will be late for their flight. Should he knock at the door and remind him?

Randy also used to be young, so he has some misgivings.

Morning is when a man is very excited. If Aaron is doing something unspeakable with Katrina, and he goes in there rashly, he will disturb Aaron's interests.

He can wait a little longer.

Aaron always has his own plans and arrangements. It's probably fine.

In the bedroom, Aaron frowns and opens his eyes.

Perhaps it's because of the wine that he sleeps so long.

The first thing Aaron does when he wakes up is to take the girl in his arms and try to kiss the corner of her mouth.

Her initiative and cooperation yesterday made him feel unprecedented joy.

His love for her definitely increases.

However...

Although he finds that the thing he's holding is soft, it's not as soft and smooth as usual.

Looking down, Aaron sees a pillow in his arms.

He frowns and searches for Katrina.

Why does he have a pillow in his arms?

Where is Katrina?

Why is she not with him?

The bathroom door is closed, and there's no sound of running water, which seems to indicate that she's not in the bathroom

So where did she go?

Aaron is puzzled for a moment, and then he assumes that she probably woke up early and wanted to get out of bed. To avoid waking him up, she put a pillow in his arms to take her position,

Did she go to the kitchen to prepare breakfast for him?

Aaron is puzzled for a moment, and then he assumes that she probably woke up early and wanted to get out of bed. To avoid waking him up, she put a pillow in his arms to take her position.

Did she go to the kitchen to prepare breakfast for him?

At the thought, Aaron's handsome face unconsciously breaks into a smile.

What a considerate girl!

She can always inadvertently touch the softest part in his heart that he can't help but like her even more.

Unhurried, Aaron flips the blanket off and goes to the bathroom to wash his face.

Even though his hair is a little messy from having just gotten up, it still doesn't affect his good looks and charm.

After washing his face, Aaron changes his clothes and walks out of the room wearing the same tie Katrina chose for him.

There are countless neckties in his wardrobe, all of which are expensive and luxurious, but he prefers this the most.

As soon as Aaron goes downstairs, Randy immediately comes up to him. "Breakfast is ready, Mr. Wilson."

Aaron casually nods as he walks towards the dining room, smiling unconsciously.

The thought that Katrina prepared breakfast by herself puts him in a good mood, and he can't be happier.

But when he goes to sit down at the table, he doesn't see Katrina.

Aaron picks up the silver spoon and scoops out a spoonful of porridge. He asks, "Where is she?"

Randy is stunned and doesn't respond for a moment. He asks doubtfully, "Who?"

Aaron becomes skeptical due to Randy's reaction.

Who else but Katrina?

Aaron takes a bite of porridge and gracefully wipes his mouth with a tissue. "Katrina."

At his response, Randy is obviously taken aback. He hesitantly says, "Isn't Miss Miller in the room?"

In fact, he wants to ask Mr. Wilson why Miss Miller didn't come out for breakfast.

Why is Aaron asking him for Katrina's whereabouts?

Randy's reply makes Aaron's hand paused with his spoon mid-air. The smile on his relaxed face suddenly disappears. His facial muscles become tense. "You mean she hasn't come out?"

WY

Unexpectedly, Aaron suddenly becomes serious, Randy stands aside and answers respectfully, "Yes... I got up at six. I was in the living room the whole time. I didn't see Miss Miller."

"Then who made breakfast?"

Kain is o n the room in the kitchen or outside. Where has the one?

Aaron is no longer in the mood for breakfast. He slams the spoon on the table in anger. "Find her where on Randy nods hurriedly. Yes, sir, I will."

When he woke up, he didn't see Katrina. Aaron inevitably feels a sense of worry and loss,

He hopes that it's all a misunderstanding, like a day she went out to surprise him.

But after searching for the whole villa, he still doesn't find her.

The bedroom, cloakroom, study, balcony, garden...

She's in none of these places,

Is she playing hide and seek with him?

Where on earth did she go, and why did she disappear quietly?

At this point, Aaron goes to his study to check the surveillance videos in the villa to find out where Katrina has gone.

He doesn't believe that she can really disappear overnight,

Just then, Randy knocks on the door and walks in.

Seeing Aaron's expressionless face, Randy's voice drops a little as he speaks.

"Mr. Wilson, according to the men on duty at the gate... At three o'clock this morning, someone drove your car out of the villa. At that time, the man on duty thought you had something urgent to attend to, so he let it go, I'm not mistaken, the person who drove out is Miss Miller."

Randy doesn't expect that Katrina, who usually looks weak, docile, and affectionate to Aaron, will suddenly drive away at night,

Her actions definitely tell everyone that she can't wait to get out of this place and run away,

And this time, as she wished, she was finally able to leave. This time, no one noticed that she was the one driving the car.

At the news, Aaron's expressionless face is suddenly filled with anger. Even the hand holding the computer mouse tightens, on the verge of crushing in,

He watches the whole process of Katrina's departure from the surveillance footage installed in the villa. Sbo's the only one who easily took away his car key,

101 Chapter 101 Where is Katrina?

His heelers never dare ask the reason for his car going in and out. They will obediently let him go at all times.

Katrina took advantage of this loophole so that she could escape easily.

Chapter 102: Why Did She Run Away?

What did Katrina's initiative yesterday mean?

What were her intentions for cooking for him and giving him a birthday gift?

Didn't she already regard this place as her home?

Didn't she promise him that she'll stay and be his woman?

Why did she leave? Why did she run away?

Originally, Aaron was in a good mood because of her initiative. But now, all he feels is an overwhelming rage.

She has been deceiving him this entire time.

All her obedience and submissiveness is only an act to catch him off guard.

In her mind, she never wanted to stay with him without fuss. She never really cared about him or obeyed him either.

All she did is to trick him into trusting her so she can leave while he's not paying attention.

At the realization, how could Aaron not get angry?

He only feels that all of his efforts were thrown to the ground like trash.

Far from being grateful, she lies to him...

What Aaron can't stand the most is other's deception, especially the woman he's devoted to.

At this point, even if Katrina is here, even if he loves her very much, he won't refrain from punishing her severely.

“Katrina!”

With a sullen face, Aaron gnashes his teeth in anger. He curses her name with unspeakable anger in his mind.

To appease her homesickness, he arranged today’s schedule so he could take her back to Abbe City, but instead,

she...

At that moment, Aaron feels as if his heart is being ripped apart.

What a heartless woman!

Even if he treats a dog this way, the dog will remember his kindness.

But Katrina left without mercy.

She really is the most heartless woman he has ever met.

102 Chapter 102. Why Did She Run Away?

Standing aside and trembling with fear, Randy is afraid to look up at Aaron.

For the first time in so many years, he witnesses Aaron’s intense rage.

Sure enough, only Katrina is able to affect Aaron’s emotions so easily.

She is the one who puts a smile on his lips and makes him happy. She is also the one who makes him so angry that he wants to blow up the house.

He doesn’t know if it’s lucky or unfortunate that Aaron met Katrina.

Aaron picks up his phone to check Katrina’s whereabouts through the GPS system. But the little red dot on the map shows a distance less than ten meters away from him.

Katrina didn’t take her mobile phone with her when she left. She left it at home.

She’s really cruel-hearted.

Aside from the mobile phone, she didn’t take any of the clothes he bought for her in the wardrobe.

Most of them

still have tags on, which means that she has never worn them.

From this, it’s obvious that she wants a clean break from him and doesn’t want to see him again.

Aaron hits the table with rage and growls, “Find her! Bring her back at all costs!”

Even if she escaped his villa, where could she go?

She has no identification card or passport. She can’t leave the country.

She’s most likely still in Hadley City. At best, she’s fled to the next city by car.

It’s not too late. As long as he investigates the bus station’s surveillance video, he will soon be able to track her whereabouts.

As long as he catches her...

He swears that she will pay the price.

“Yes! Mr. Wilson, don’t worry. I’ll send people to look for her immediately!” Randy hurries out as soon as he speaks. He organizes heelers to search for Katrina.

In the study, Aaron cannot restrain his anger any longer. He picks up the coffee cup on the table and hurls it to the ground.

Probably from his intense rage, the moment Aaron gets up from his chair, there’s a sharp pain in his head. He almost falls over from the pain.

Fortunately, he holds the table in time with one hand, the other hand clutching his head. For a moment, the pain subsided gradually.

Aaron's staff is very efficient.

102 Chapter 102 Why Did She Run Away?

Before long, they find Aaron's car downtown.

After a while, a man comes in and reports, "Mr. Wilson, I checked all the people who went in and out of the bus station in Abbe City today. I didn't find Miss Miller."

If she didn't go out by bus, she must still be in Hadley City.

Aaron gnashes his teeth and says, "Keep looking for her!"

Half an hour later, another man comes back to report, "Mr. Wilson, we found a trace of Miss Miller at Hadley International Airport. She took a 4:30 a.m. flight to Abbe City. If we're not mistaken... It has already landed."

At the news, Aaron's sullen face becomes darker, a precursor to a storm.

He obviously refuses to believe it. He lowers his voice and says, "I still have her ID and passport. How could she possibly get a ticket?"

His man is scared out of his wits, and his head bowed low. He says in a low voice, "Miss Miller... She used a fake ID and passport."

A fake ID and passport?

Instantly, Aaron breath quickens.

Who secretly helped her get a fake identification card and passport? Who secretly helped her escape?

She stayed with him for so long, and he never noticed her having dealings with any stranger.

Who helped her behind the scenes?

At that moment, Aaron gets a rage beyond expression.

She actually left while he's negligent.

Hadley City is under his sphere of influence, where he can display his power in full capacity. But Abbe City is a strange city for him. Even with all his influence, he can't get Katrina back right away.

Aaron can't accept that Katrina is gone. He won't let her just disappear from him so easily.

Standing up, he says fiercely, "Get the private jet right now! I'm going to Abbe City!"

He will go to Abbe City and get her back in person. The woman he likes cannot leave him without his permission.

In the past, Aaron only used his private plane urgently for work. This is the first time he makes such a hasty decision to go to China because of a woman.

His men dare not take it lightly, in fear of getting into trouble. They hurriedly answer, "Yes!"

Fifteen minutes later, the private plane-lands in the yard of Aaron's villa.

He walks to the plane, empty-handed. He didn't have time to pack his luggage.

102 Chapter 102: Why Did She Run Away?

In the yard, two rows of men in black suits bow their heads respectfully, not daring to breathe heavily. The atmosphere is oppressive and dangerous.

103 Chapter 103: Severe Insomnia

Aaron walks steadily towards the private plane.

His handsome face is somber, making people shudder in his wake.

Just as he is about to board the plane, his head begins to ache again.

The pain this time is even more serious than before, so much so that he can hardly stand. Dizziness overcomes him.

On both sides, his men notice that something is strange. Surprised, they hurried over to help him. "Mr. Wilson!

Are you all right?"

The pain is not as transient as it had been earlier, and it's becoming more and more intense.

Unfortunately, at such a critical time, his head is about to explode from a migraine.

Aaron struggles and says through gritted teeth, "Help me up!"

It's just a headache. There's a medicine box on the private plane. He can take a painkiller.

"But..."

His men are stunned and at a loss with what to do.

Mr. Wilson's headache is clearly serious. Should they obey him and help him get on the plane?

At the commotion, Randy stops Aaron and says worriedly, "Mr. Wilson, it's better to have Dr. William come over. There's no hurry to go to China."

In any case, nothing is more important than Aaron's health.

After all, Randy has worked for Aaron for so long and is somewhat older. Randy's words carry weight in comparison to the rest of his men.

Besides, Aaron's head hurts so much, and it feels like it's about to burst.

Instead of insisting on getting on the plane, Aaron goes back to his room to rest with Randy's support.

He had never had such a headache before. Why did he get a headache twice today?

This damned woman!

Aaron is still thinking about Katrina. For the moment, he will let her enjoy her freedom before she suffers the consequences of her actions.

After getting a call from Randy, Dr. William quickly puts down what he's doing and hurries over with his medicine kit.

Is soon as Dr. William enters the villa, Randy immediately becomes hopeful and rushes over to him. "Dr. William Mr. Wilson got a sudden headache that doesn't let him stand. Come in and have a look!"

Dr. William observes the situation. It seems that Aaron is in serious pain,

Aaron always flaunts his superiority. If the pain is something he really cannot bear and not just a little pain, he wouldn't call him over so rashly.

Dr. William nods gravely. "Well, I'll go in."

Just as he is about to push the door open, Randy suddenly grabs him.

Dr. William turns back with confusion, "What else do you want to say, Randy?"

Randy hesitates for a moment, but says to be safe, "Mr. Wilson... is not in a good mood, Dr. William. After you go in, pay attention to your words and actions. Don't make him angry."

Aaron is already on the edge of rage. If anything goes wrong, the people in the whole villa will suffer. At Randy's words, Dr. William frowns slightly. "He's in a bad mood? Did he quarrel with his little girlfriend?"

It's the only reason he can think of.

Although Aaron didn't explicitly introduce Katrina as his girlfriend, he's not an idiot. They live together happily every day. She is definitely his girlfriend.

"It's more serious than that," Randy lowers his voice, "Miss Miller ran away in secret while Mr. Wilson wasn't paying attention."

"What? Runaway?" Dr. William can't help crying out. His mild-mannered face is suddenly covered with fear, Realizing that his voice is too loud, he hurriedly covers his mouth. Fortunately, the soundproofing in the villa is excellent. Aaron probably didn't hear it.

Dr. William never expected that Katrina would secretly run away from Aaron. The news is too shocking.

Many women want to queue up to climb onto Aaron's bed. This is the first time that a woman doesn't appreciate his kindness and runs away without telling him. For someone who's always been lofty, it's too difficult for Aaron to accept.

Dr. William understands Aaron's anger very well. No wonder he felt a low pressure hanging over the villa the moment he entered the door. So that's what happened.

Dr. William is a wise man. He knows that Aaron is easily irritated at the moment, so he will definitely be careful not to offend him.

But he feels a sense of schadenfreude in his heart.

103 Chapter 103 Severe insomnia

Probably because Aaron is too otherworldly in his daily life, it's surprising to see him get frustrated over a woman. He even thinks that Aaron deserves it.

Anyway, Aaron is his patient and his employer. It's urgent to help him with his treatment.

Dr. William nods in earnest. "Thanks for letting me know, Randy. I understand."

When he pushes the door of the room open, he sees Aaron suffering from a terrible headache.

Dr. William takes a serious look at him and comes to a conclusion, "The situation is even more serious than I expected. As I told you earlier, prolonged insomnia is bound to have an impact on the body. It's a sequela. I didn't expect it to come so suddenly."

Despite his occasional cynicism, once Dr. William returns to work, he becomes extremely serious. As an expert with superior medical skills, he takes in the patient's condition seriously and meticulously.

In particular, the sight of Aaron's severe headache makes him unconsciously worried.

"Bear it for now. I'll give you acupuncture. It should relieve the pain."

Dr. William takes out a set of acupuncture equipment from his medicine kit and selects several needles, inserting them accurately into several acupuncture points on Aaron's head.

Although it seems a little cruel, the pain on Aaron's head is relieved.

After inserting the needles into Aaron's head, Dr. William says, "Acupuncture can only relieve pain temporarily. It isn't a permanent cure... At this rate, your headache may become more and more serious."

Even if he cures his insomnia later, the headache won't disappear.

This is the sequela of his four-year insomnia, which is not easy to cure.

Lying in bed, Aaron looks up at him with dark eyes full of anger. "So much nonsense! You're a doctor, tell me the cure."

If what Dr. William says is true and he will have a headache like this practically every day, he can't imagine how many matters will be delayed because of this condition, What he wants is a proper cure, not listening to Dr. William talk too much nonsense.

Chapter 104: Why Did She Run Away?

Dr. William's mouth twitches uncontrollably at Aaron's words.

Despite having such a serious headache, he's still impolite and rude.

Isn't he afraid that as a doctor, Dr. William will deliberately retaliate against him and make him suffer even more?

Well, Aaron is the boss.

Considering he was just dumped by his girlfriend, Dr. William will yield to him for the time being.

Dr. William looks at him lightly and says. "There's a way. It's an operation. I'll be the surgeon, and the success rate will be very high. There will be no complications."

Aaron says, "Arrange the operation!"

As soon as he solves his physical condition, he will go find Katrina immediately. He wants to get the operation in three days and go to Abbe City in a week.

But Dr. William says, "The surgery isn't risky, but... it will destroy a part of your memory. That is to say, and after the operation, you may forget what happened in the last three months."

Aaron is stunned to hear Dr. William's words.

Forget what happened in the last three months?

He caught Katrina two months ago

After the operation, will he completely lose every memory of her? He will forget what happened in the past two months, and who Katrina is? Then how can he get her back after the surgery?

Aaron hesitates.

He doesn't want Katrina to disappear from his memory. He doesn't want to forget what happened in the past two months.

Although he is often furious with her, as he is now, he also has pleasant moments with her.

Her pretty face, the sweetness of her lips, the softness of her body...

He doesn't want to forget any of those.

How could he have the heart to forget her when she's so deeply ingrained in his heart?

But Aaron has always had high self-respect. He is unwilling to admit that he cannot bear to lose Katrina.

He says

through gritted teeth, "I have to get even with her!"

The operation will have to wait until he gets even with her.

104 Chapter 104 Why Did She Run Away?

Dr. William is not at all surprised to hear Aaron's response.

It seems that Aaron, who has never been close to women, is really serious this time. He even thinks that getting even with a woman is more important than taking care of his own health.

In the end, Dr. William chooses to respect Aaron's decision.

"Besides the surgery, the only way to relieve the pain is through acupuncture. I'll do it for you for three days, and you will feel better. Later, you won't need to do it every day, but you would need to have acupuncture at least once a week. Otherwise, your headaches will recur.

"But the sooner the operation, the better you will feel. Once you're ready... Inform me at any time, so I can arrange the operation for you."

If Aaron relies on acupuncture to suppress the pain, the condition will become more and more serious in the long run.

After the acupuncture, Dr. William sterilizes his tools and puts them away.

Dr. William can't bear to see Aaron torture himself like this because of a woman.

He is not only Aaron's personal physician but also his upperclassman, his friend.

Although Aaron is a great influence in the business world, he can still be ignorant in matters of the heart.

Dr. William can't bear to see Aaron frustrated and hurting so badly. He not only feels sad for Aaron but also for the innocent girl.

He sits on the chair beside the bed and speaks calmly, "Do you know why she ran away?"

Dr. William's bold words stun Aaron.

Katrina's departure is a sore spot for him. No one in the villa dares to mention Katrina's name in front of him, but Dr. William is bold enough to ask...

Aaron's bad mood sours even more as he glares at Dr. William.

Undaunted, Dr. William looks at him straight in the eye.

In the end, Aaron finally restrains his anger and closes his eyes, feeling a little sad. "Why?"

He also wants to know why.

It's obvious that he likes her so much and he's so kind to her.

Why is she dissatisfied? Why did she run away?

"Aaron, let me tell you a story.

"When I was young, I loved birds very much. One day, a very beautiful bird came into the house by mistake, and I caught it. At that moment, I was ecstatic.

104 Chapter 104 Why Did She Run Away?

"I bought the gorgeous cage and shut it inside. I prepared the most exquisite bird food for it and took good care of it every day. Because I loved it so much, the first thing I do when I come back from school every day is to see it.

"But the little bird seemed unhappy and refused to eat anything. I couldn't understand it at that time.

When it was outside, it took great efforts to find something to eat and fill its stomach. But after I fed it carefully every day and sheltered it from the rain and harsh wind, it refused to eat anything.

"I was afraid that it would starve to death. So I had no choice but to pry its mouth open and feed it.

Because of this, I accidentally injured its wing. After that, it still refused to eat on its own. It looked even more listless, completely losing its previous luster. Although I took great care to take care of it, soon after, it still died.

"After the bird died, I was very sad. I felt sad for a long time and never wanted another pet bird again.

"A year later, we had a nest of birds in the big tree outside our window. Occasionally, birds stopped on the windowsill to rest.

"I've lost all interest in keeping a bird for myself, but when I remembered the bird that passed away...

Out of sympathy, I occasionally threw some leftover biscuits and bread onto the balcony.

"In fact, it was completely unintentional. But over time, the birds still held affection for me.

Occasionally, when I sit at my desk to read, birds would come in and perch on my shoulders.

"Aaron, don't you think that Katrina is a bird you kept in a cage?

"You like her and did all your best to be kind to her, but you never understood what she really wants.

What's the difference between what you did and what I did? Accidentally injuring her wings will only make her more frightened and afraid.

"She is filled with fear of you. How can she feel your love for her? How can she be brave and be willing to be with you?

"Aaron, if you really like her and want to be with her, why not change your methods and actions? If you blindly use hegemony to keep her in captivity, she will only die like the bird I once kept."