Chapter 1050 Just A Look

With that, Lucian strode out of the Farwell main residence with Estella in his arms. Sonya was fuming as she watched her son take Estella away just like that, but there was nothing she could do about it.

For the next several days, Estella didn't go to kindergarten and just stayed home to play under Lucian's orders. She had become a lot more stable after returning to a familiar environment.

Although she was still angry with Lucian, she was at least willing to speak to Catalina. Lucian was aware of her temperament.

After finding out that she wasn't completely refusing to speak, he no longer tried to force her.

When the weekend came around, Archie and Benny wanted to see Estella. As they didn't know if Estella had gone home or not, they were extremely worried.

It just so happened that Roxanne was working overtime, and Lysa had taken leave to return to her hometown, leaving the two kids alone in the mansion.

Hence, it was a lot easier for them to sneak out this time. After exiting the mansion, they called for a cab and went straight to the Farwell residence.

Archie and Benny were on tenterhooks throughout the entire journey. The injuries they had sustained had not healed yet, and they didn't know if the juveniles were still there.

When they thought about how they were going to be able to see Estella again, all of their fears disappeared. The car slowly rolled up at the Farwell residence's entrance.

They paid the driver and ran up to the front door.

With Catalina's previous words ringing in their ears, they weren't sure if they were going to be turned away at the door.

Deciding not to waste any time, Archie led Benny to the gap they had snuck through the previous time.

To their surprise, the gap had now been sealed, and they were no longer able to squeeze through it.

"What do we do now?" Benny asked anxiously.

Archie furrowed his brows. "We have no choice but to ring the doorbell. Even if Ms. Catalina doesn't let us in, it'll be fine as long as she tells us how Essie is."

Hearing that, Benny nodded in agreement. They went back to the front door, and Archie pressed the doorbell, standing on his toes. It didn't take long for someone to answer the intercom.

"Hello, Ms. Catalina. It's Archie and Benny. Is Essie home yet?" Archie greeted in a cute voice. The kids' obstinance caused Catalina's heart to melt.

Ms. Estella hasn't been speaking much these few days. It's obvious that she misses them. Moreover, Mr. Farwell seems to feel a bit guilty toward them because of the previous incident.

With that thought, she smiled at Archie and Benny and said, "Yes, she is home. Come on in, you two." Not long after, she opened the door for the kids. There was an incredulous look in Archie's and Benny's eyes as they watched the door slowly open. Archie was the first to recover from his shock. He pulled Benny along with him as he rushed into the mansion.

"Where's Essie?" Archie asked in an adorable voice. Catalina pointed upstairs in response. They thanked her politely and immediately ran upstairs.

Warmth washed over Catalina as she watched the children's retreating figures.

I've always felt that these three children should be together just like this.

Meanwhile, Estella had locked herself in her room, playing with Legos by herself. Her hands were busy stacking the blocks one by one.

When she heard a knock on the door, she assumed that it was Catalina.

Recently, Lucian would only come in to see her when he came home at night.

Catalina was the only one who would talk to her during the day.

With that in mind, she answered the door without even looking up.

Immediately after, the door to her bedroom was pushed open.
