Chapter 1001

Before Maxine boarded the plane, she called Thea and narrated the chain of events.

She told her the whole truth— starting from James going to Mount White, and how Madelyn framed her for something she did not do.

Upon hearing this, Thea's face darkened.

"I'm at the departure lounge and will soon head to Cansington. Once I arrive, we can discuss how best to save James."

"Got it."

Thea hung up the phone.

Then, she sat on the ground and contemplated. She had heard from the Blithe King that the Blithes were about to enter a marriage alliance with the Cadens. She also knew that the Blithe family was so strong that even the Cadens were fearful of them.

After a brief moment of thinking, she pulled her phone out and called Thomas.

"I'm sorry, the number you have dialed is not in service."

Thea frowned before she remembered that Thomas had told her not to call this number anymore.

"What should I do?"

She was anxious.

"And how many second -rank and first -rank martial artists do you have?" Maxine asked.

Thea replied, "I have thirty-six second-ranks and seventy-two first-ranks."

Since James was in mortal peril, Thea told Maxine everything about the God- King Palace. She believed that Maxine was better at devising plans than her.

At that moment, she was at a loss. She only knew that she had to rely on Maxine to save James.

"Whew!"

Maxine took a deep breath and said, "That's more than enough."

Although she did not know how powerful the Blithes were, she could guess from her grandfather's dread that they were comparable to the Cadens.

Not only that, the Blithe family had someone who could stand against Tobias.

"But you said that even Tobias is fearful of the Blithes, and he's a seventh-rank martial artist. If they intervene, our fourth-rank men stand no chance against them." Thea was doubtful.

Chapter 1003

Just the appearance alone would not be sufficient.

They still needed the Cadens' signature method—the Thirteen Heavenly Swords.

Though Maxine had never read the Thirteen Heavenly Swords' cultivation method or sword techniques, she had memorized the moves after seeing Tobias practicing them.

Now, they had to come up with a contingency plan so that they could prevent the Blithes from making a move on them at critical moments.

Besides, time was running out. They had at most two days.

Within two days, Thea had to make it look like the real thing.

Thea thought long and hard about it.

This was the only way to save James.

If Maxine could even sacrifice her life to save James, how could she give up so easily? She nodded her head firmly.

"I'll do my best."

"Mhm, you should summon your men from the God-King Palace. I'm afraid you won't make it in time."

"Got it."

While Maxine headed to Cansington to discuss matters with Thea, James was brought to the Western Border. The Western Border was located in the westernmost part of Sol.

As his acupuncture point was struck, he was immobilized.
Though he tried bursting the acupuncture point open, he could not no matter how hard he tried.
"Damn it!"
A vein popped out in his neck as he cursed.
"Burst through!"

He forcibly gathered True Energy to make a breakthrough at the sealed acupuncture point.

Bang! The sound of an explosion could be heard inside his body.

James was sent flying several meters into the air.

Then, he collapsed on the ground and vomited a mouthful of blood.

However, he could not move.

Enduring the excruciating pain, he got up from the ground and scanned his surroundings.

It was a dark and damp dungeon.

James was imprisoned inside a cell where a dim light allowed him to see what was there.

He walked over to the iron door, but it was locked.

The sound reverberated throughout the silent room.

In that moment, he chose to head west because he knew that there were many highly skilled martial artists in the area, but he had to explore the surroundings to find a way out.

He knew how to find an

of the dungeon.

"A dead end?"

James frowned.

There was a place light could not reach, the surroundings were dark, but he had better vision than most. It was pitch-black, he could still see things as he was looking for a way out, the sound of chains could be heard.

"Who's there?"

James swiftly turned around.

Chapter 1005

"Who are you? Why are you imprisoned here?" James asked as he approached the elderly man whose limbs were chained. He scrutinized him from head to toe.

The bearded man's hair was white and disheveled, and it seemed that he had not had a shower in years.

The moment James approached him, he could smell a nasty stench.

Looking at the chains on the elderly man, James tried pulling at them. He wanted to break them, but the chains were solid.

No matter how hard he tried, he could not break them.

"With how weak you are, you might as well give it up."

The elderly man sat on the ground.

The moment his body moved, the sound of chains could be heard. He said lazily, "This is made of quartz steel. You can't break them."

James sat down and looked at the elderly man before him.

"Who are you? Why are you imprisoned in the Blithe family's dungeon?"

"Answer my question first."

The man glanced at James.

After a brief moment of hesitation, James said, "I'm the commander-in-chief of the Black Dragon Army of Sol. I was captured because of some misunderstanding."

With a weary look on his face, the elderly man sighed, "I won't live for much longer anyway. There's no point in leaving this place where I've been imprisoned for decades."

James was stunned.

To think that this man had been imprisoned here for decades...He took a seat too.

The elderly man looked at James.

Wearing a calm and composed look on his face, he asked, "Who are you? Where do you come from?"

James looked at the man and told him honestly, "I'm a Caden, one of the Ancient Four."

"Oh, a Caden?"

Stunned, the man stared at James.

After a few seconds, he asked once more, "Who's Bennett Caden to you?"

James momentarily froze before shaking his head, "I've never heard of him."

James was feeling stuffy. He could feel energy circulating inside his body as if it was on the verge of bursting forth.

However, he fixed his gaze on Spencer, trying desperately to remember his every action and every word.

In the dungeon...

Spencer demonstrated all ten fists of the Blithe Fist of Abomination.

Meanwhile, James, unable to withstand any longer, lost consciousness.

After a long while, he regained consciousness.

Then, he hurriedly stood up as if he was reminded of something. He swiftly walked over to Spencer.

Spencer's head was lowered, and he was sitting in a lotus position.

"Master..." James called.

However, Spencer remained silent.

James approached him and gently pushed him, "What's wrong, master?"

The moment he pushed Spencer, however, he immediately collapsed to the ground.

"Haha...I don't think so. Didn't the Grand Patriarch say that he beat Tobias to a pulp twenty years ago?"

The men who were looking for James were chit-chatting.

Meanwhile, a man was concealing himself on the top of a huge rock. It was James.

Hearing their words, he frowned. It seemed that Madelyn's plan to sow discord between the Cadens and the Blithes went smoothly.

Now, both of the families had a falling out.

"I have to leave this place at once."

James catalyzed True Energy and glided in the air like a bat.

This time, he made sure to restrict the flow of True Energy to avoid making unnecessary noises.

Although many people were searching for him, no one found him.

Sneaking his way through the passageway, he arrived at the exit safely.

However, the place was guarded by the Blithes' disciples.

James frowned.

Then, he raised his hand, and powerful energy gushed forward to his fingertip.

The energy struck their acupuncture points,

Chapter 1009

James was stunned by the power of the Blithe Fist of Abomination. He took a deep breath and murmured, "Spencer told me that each fist is stronger than the previous. However, it would be more difficult to master with each increasing level. Even those who possess tremendous potential could spend a lifetime practicing the moves and never learn all ten fists. Regardless, he told me that I can defeat almost anyone as long as I master three of the ten fists."

"The First Fist: Mountain Shaper. This is a low-difficulty move. As long as I have True Energy that's strong enough, I can use it to catalyze the cultivation method."

"The Second Fist: Mirage,"

James murmured.

Then, he shut his eyes.

The image of Spencer demonstrating the Second Fist appeared in his mind. He could recall his master conjuring up the image of a hundred fists.

James sat in a lotus position and entered into a state of deep meditation. He conjured up the image of the Second Fist while chanting its cultivation method, and began learning the Blithes' signature martial art skills.

In the blink of an eye, two days passed.

In the mountains...

James was levitating in mid-air.

As he possessed concentrated True Energy, he could levitate in the air just by using True Energy.

Then, he struck.

An illusory palmprint materialized.

Chapter 1010

Another voice came.

Then, a group of people approached.

In its lead was a forty-year-old-looking man who weighed at least 300 pounds. His bushy eyebrows only accentuated his boorish and brutish appearance.

"Patriarch Sullivan..."

Flynn greeted him with a bright smile.

An elderly man was sitting on a rock at the foot of Mount Littleroot not too far away. He was wearing a green suit with slightly oversized buttons. It somehow looked a little out of proportion.

His face was shriveled, and his hair was disheveled.

"I didn't expect the Johnstons and Sullivans to come...I'm afraid all of the Ancient Four apart from the Cadens are here," the elderly man murmured with a grim expression.

It was James.

After returning to Western Littleroot City, he went ahead and bought an old-fashioned suit. He also created a face mask and disguised himself as an old man.

"They all have invitation cards. It won't be easy for someone like me to sneak into the mountains."

James stroked his beard, pensive.

However, he exerted too much force, so the beard fell loose. He hurriedly attached it back to his chin. He had been waiting at the foot of the mountain for an opportunity to make his way up the mountain to see what was going on.
