

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 1606

Chapter 1606

Xavion was under house arrest as the information in his hand was closely related to the next generation of communications technology. Whoever obtained the information would gain an edge over their competitors.

Although he was confined to a restricted space, his safety was guaranteed. Besides, he lived a rather comfortable life inside the villa.

“This is the place.”

Gloom pointed to the villa before them and said, “Xavion is isolated from the rest of the world here.

Besides, he was sent here secretly by the King and has no interactions whatsoever with the outside world. Even if there’s an apocalypse outside, there’s no way he’d know.”

“Mhm, I’ll go have a look.”

James nodded and headed in the direction of the villa.

As the villa seemed to be unguarded, he simply pushed the door open and walked right in.

Upon entering the villa, the tip of a sword was immediately pressed against his.

As the sword wielder moved at lightning speed, James did not manage to dodge in time.

“Legend, this is James.”

Gloom hurriedly made his way over to them and said, “The King sent me to take Xavion back.”

James looked at the sword wielder.

It was an elderly man around sixty years of age. He was short-haired, mustached, and had a slightly chubby face.

Wearing a grey suit, his expression was fierce and vicious.

Upon hearing Gloom’s words, he took a step back. However, his gaze remained fixed on James.

Although he was in Mascuoyae, he was well-informed about the news back home. There were simply too many rumors about James.

As the Leader of the Yada Sect, he was naturally informed of James' deeds.

Gloom introduced James to him, "James, this is Legend Xerxes, the Leader of the Yada Sect.

He's one of the King's most loyal subordinates.

The King was able to secure his position for so long not because of Mr. Gabriel and Lance's assistance, but rather because of Legend's existence.

He's a powerful martial artist who had crossed into the eighth rank.

However, he had always kept a low profile and seldom interacted with the outside world."

"Mhm." James nodded slightly.

Upon seeing Legend's moves, James instantly knew he was not someone to be trifled with.

Otherwise, with his current strength, he should have been able to dodge with ease even if he was caught unaware.

"James, your reputation precedes you." Looking at James with fire in his eyes, Legend said, "I wish I could spar with you."

James smiled and said, "Though you've crossed into Celestial Raiser of the eighth rank, you only managed to press the tip of your sword against my chest because I let my guard down.

Otherwise, you wouldn't stand a chance against me."

James was haughty. However, he was indeed powerful. A martial artist who had crossed into Celestial Raiser of the eighth rank stood no chance against him.

Upon hearing this, Legend was displeased.

He said coldly, "What a bold claim. Since you came under the orders of the King, I have no choice but to step aside.

However, you can only take Xavion back today after you have defeated me!"

He brandished his sword, and invisible Sword Energy reverberated throughout the region.

Boom!

The door behind James immediately shattered into pieces. Meanwhile, the trees outside the building had been uprooted.

Though Legend demonstrated terrifying power even before the battle had begun, James only gave a faint smile. Looking at Legend, he said smilingly, "Not bad."

"We'll fight somewhere else."

As Legend spoke, he disappeared only to reappear in the air. Then, he swiftly flew toward the mountain ranges behind the villa.

James followed close behind.

At that moment, in the mountain range..

Legend stood on a tree several meters in height, exuding a great aura that affected his surroundings as fallen leaves swirled around his body.

James, meanwhile, was standing twenty meters away from him.

Looking at Legend, a grin crept up on his face.

Gloom hurriedly made his way here too.

He was curious to see how powerful James was.

As he was Legend's disciple, he knew about his strength. Before the Spirit Turtle was slain, only a handful could defeat him.

Even though many powerful martial artists had emerged after the Spirit Turtle was slain, he was still nonetheless one of the most powerful martial artists there was.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 1607

Chapter 1607

His Six Streams Blade was invincible. Gloom was curious to see how the Yada's Six Streams Blade compared to the Cadens' Thirteen Heavenly Swords.

He observed the situation in anticipation.

James stood on a branch of a tree and looked at Legend not too far away from him.

Then, he made a welcoming gesture and said, "Come on, you should strike while you have the opportunity to do so."

"Hmph! How impudent!"

Though Legend had seen arrogant people before, this was the first time he met someone as haughty as

James.

He smiled coldly

Then, in the blink of an eye, he appeared before James and slashed with his sword. James remained there, unmoving.

At the moment Legend slashed, he pulled out the Blade of Justice. In that instant, a golden light glimmered.

He raised his hand and easily blocked Legend's attack.

However, as Legend's attack carried great force, the branch James was on was shattered by the terrifying Sword Energy.

In that instant, Legend disappeared only to reappear several meters away and prepared his next move.

This time, he appeared beside James. James, however, easily blocked his attack. Before James could react, Legend swiftly retreated.

Then, he slashed six times with his sword. On the seventh time, six waves of Sword Energy materialized and attacked James from all sides like homing missiles.

A chill ran down James' spine.

"What a bizarre sword technique..."

Though James was stunned, his expression remained unchanged.

He slashed with the Blade of Justice, and the waves of Sword Energy dispersed.

Then, at lightning speed, he appeared behind Legend and pressed the Blade of Justice against his back.

Legend froze.

“You’ve lost.”

James’ voice came from behind.

“...”

Legend opened his mouth. However, no voice came.

He knew James was strong. That was why he used the Six Streams Sword, the signature martial art skill of the Yada Sect, right from the get-go.

However, James deflected them with ease. He did not stand a chance against him. In the case of a real battle, his body would have been pierced by the sword.

“Y-You win,” Legend said in frustration.

James was right. Killing him was a piece of cake.

He sheathed his sword, and so did James.

In the distance, Gloom’s mouth was left agape.

“U-Unbelievable...”

After the battle, the three of them returned to the villa.

In the courtyard...

Legend looked at James and asked, “James, just how powerful are you?”

James smiled slightly and remained silent.

“Your sword technique is impressive.”

Legend said, “The Six Streams Sword is my sect’s signature martial art skill.

Though it’s considered one of the most powerful sword techniques in the world, you deflected them with ease.

Meanwhile, I couldn’t even see the movement of your sword. That didn’t look like the Thirteen Heavenly Swords. What was it?”

“Is that so?” James murmured.

Not too long ago, he was trampled underfoot by everyone. Now, someone said he was powerful.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 1608

Chapter 1608

Tyrus had utterly defeated James. After reflection, James realized that his level of martial arts was abysmal.

Unwilling to waste his breath on this subject, he simply cut to the chase, "Where's Xavion? I'd like to see him."

Legend pointed at the stairs and said, "He's upstairs. Here, follow me."

Saying that, he stood up and said, "Please."

James stood up and followed him upstairs.

Upon arriving on the second floor, James noticed there was much research equipment one could only find in a research laboratory.

Meanwhile, a man was busy smashing his fingers on the computer.

"Xavion, someone's here to meet you," Legend said.

"Hold on a second, will you?"

Xavion did not even lift his head.

Legend said smilingly, "He's been this way ever since he came here. Sometimes, he'd even skip his meals. because of work."

James walked toward Xavion and had a glimpse at the monitor screen.

However, as there was only unrecognizable data on it, James could not understand anything at all. So, he waited patiently.

Soon, an hour had passed.

After Xavion was done with his work, he turned to look at James and asked puzzledly. "Who are you?"

James looked at Xavion. He was slightly different from what he had imagined.

Since Xavion was the owner of a vast conglomerate, he should have been wearing a suit and tie.

However, the Xavion before him was wearing short sleeves. He had an unkempt, bearded appearance, and he looked a little dispirited as if he had not slept in days.

James looked at Xavion and said smilingly, "Hello, my name's James."

"Huh? Which James?"

Xavion was momentarily confused.

James was not yet the Emperor when Xavion left the Capital. So, he could not recognize him immediately. After some time, he exclaimed, "Could it be that you're the Dragon General of the Southern Plains?"

James nodded and smiled, "The one and only."

"How do you do, Dragon General?"

Xavion extended his arm.

James clasped his hand and said, "Let's discuss things downstairs."

"Sure, let me change my clothes first."

"Mhm."

James headed downstairs first.

He waited for approximately twenty minutes before Xavion was ready.

He was now wearing a suit, and his beard was shaved. He looked much more spirited than a moment ago.

James pointed at the sofa and said, "Have a seat."

Xavion took his seat.

He guessed something must have happened for James to be here.

"Dragon General, did you come for the information in my hands?" He looked at James.

"Mhm." James nodded. "A lot has happened while you were in here..."

James briefly narrated the chain of events that unfolded-the bankruptcy of Blue Tech Corporation, Delilah's abduction, and his being wanted by practically every force there was out there.

"You may not know this, but the world is descending into chaos because of the technological breakthrough you made.

I came here to express my wish to cooperate with you."

Xavion knew about this.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 1609

Chapter 1609

Although he could not interact with the outside world without a phone, he had a computer that he used to check the news.

Besides, Legend would occasionally talk to him about the events that took place in the world.

He looked at James and asked, "Are you here on behalf of the nation or you as an individual?"

"The nation." James looked him in the eye and said, "If not for Sol, I'd have no interest in the technology in your hands whatsoever."

Xavion asked, "How do you plan to cooperate?"

James said, "You're both a scientist and a businessman, so you shouldn't know much about the situation in the Capital. How about I tell you more about it?"

James narrated the chain of events that unfolded-starting from Orient Commerce, which was established a century ago, to the current convoluted web of relationships.

After that, he reiterated once more, "I established New Era Commerce to fight against Orient Commerce.

Now, though it has reached a rather large scale, we need a common interest to tie everyone together."

"What does that have to do with me?" Xavion looked at James.

James said, "I need the technology you have. Feel free to speak up if there's anything you need."

After thinking for a moment, Xavion said, "How about this? The chamber of commerce will be responsible for securing the funds.

Meanwhile, I will provide you with the technology in exchange for fifty percent of the company's shares."

"No way." James shook his head.

Although he knew little about business management, he knew what 50% of the company's shares entailed.

There were too many businesses in New Era Commerce. Besides, a huge amount of funds would be needed to continue research.

This was the dawn of a communications technological breakthrough. If they succeeded, they would stand to profit immensely from this.

So, he had to ensure that every member business in New Era would gain something from their cooperation. If Xavion alone controlled 50% of the shares, what would the others stand to gain?

"What can you offer me then?" Xavion looked at James.

After some contemplation, James said, "How about this?

We will establish a brand-new telecommunications company to which you will be entitled to five percent of its shares.

Besides, there will be no need for you to spend a single cent on your future research.

Not only that, but I can also promise you that you will hold five percent of the company's shares no matter how much the situation changes."

Xavion shook his head and said, "Five percent is too little, James. Do you know what the technology in my hands is capable of?

I can earn a fortune by cooperating with anyone."

James smiled faintly and said, "I am the best cooperation partner there is.

By cooperating with anyone else, I assure you that your interests would only be trampled upon.

Your wife is already dead, and I went to great lengths to save your daughter.

Do you wish to be confined here for the rest of your life?"

He stood up and continued, "Reflect on what I said, Xavion. If you agree to cooperate with me, return to Sol at once.

If not, I won't concern myself with your affairs ever again."

Upon hearing this, Xavion was lost in thought. After some time, he spoke, "It's a deal, then."

He had thought long and hard about this. Only by cooperating with Sol could he further his research and have the Z network popularized.

Entering into a partnership with a conglomerate would not guarantee him the widespread popularity of the Z network all across Sol and even the world.

Besides, although he had made a research breakthrough, he was still quite a ways from succeeding.

Furthering his research required a huge fortune that no business could afford to pay.

"Sure." Hearing this, James smiled and said, "Pack your bags. We're returning to Sol this instant."

"Got it. Give me a minute."

Xavion immediately headed upstairs.

Meanwhile, Gloom and Legend remained silent. After Xavion left, Gloom asked, "James, Xavion is extremely vital to our plans.

Can you really guarantee his safety after bringing him back to Sol?"

"Of course." James nodded.

Gloom said anxiously, "I know you're invincible, but can you stay by his side at all times?"

Smiling, James said, "Once we return to Sol, I'll officially announce my partnership with Xavion.

Now that he's under my protection, who would dare make a move against him?"

Now that Lucjan of the Gu Sect was dead, only Orient Commerce posed a threat to him.

However, James was confident that Orient Commerce would not resort to such underhanded tactics as assassinating a scientist.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 1610

Chapter 1610

Xavion acted quickly. He made a backup of the data, destroyed the computer system of the research laboratory on the second floor, and also smashed the monitor and the hard drive to pieces.

Then, James boarded the plane headed to Sol alongside Xavion and left Mascuoyae.

Soon, they arrived at Sol. Since Xavion was crucial to his plans, James brought him to the Cadens' residence straight away so that he could reunite with his stepdaughter.

Although Delilah was an adopted child, he nonetheless treated her well.

After sending Xavion to the Cadens' residence, James returned home and checked Thea's condition. Fortunately, it had not deteriorated.

"I'm fine, Darling." Thea said smilingly. "By the way, didn't you go to Mascuoyae? Did you bring the guy back?"

"Yes, I did. I have to go find Quincy at once and discuss our next course of action."

"By the way, I have something I need to tell you," Thea said hesitantly.

James said, "I'm all ears."

"G-Grandpa..." After briefly hesitating, Thea told him about Lex's trip to the Capital.

"You see... New Era Commerce has become one of the most influential chambers of commerce in Sol after the Cadens and the Sullivans announced their withdrawal from Orient Commerce.

Believing that the family could stand to gain from this, Grandpa brought the Callahans here to the Capital to join New Era.

In fact, they plan to participate in the meeting that will be held soon. But..."

"But what?" James asked.

Thea continued, "New Era Commerce has very high standards for businesses that wish to join.

You need to possess a certain amount of assets and powerful connections.

Although the Callahans have been developing well recently, they are still unqualified to join New Era Commerce. C-Can you think of a way to let them join?"

Upon hearing this, James fell silent.

He hated using interpersonal relationships to advance one's interests.

Under normal circumstances, he would have rejected Thea's plea since he was in a rather precarious position at the moment.

If word spread of his partiality, his reputation would be tarnished.

However, he was concerned about Thea, who was in a rather grave situation. He did not wish to aggravate her.

"I'll think of something."

In the end, he made a compromise.

"Thank you." Thea spoke softly.

"I'll be taking my leave."

James wore his jacket and turned to leave. Then, he gave Quincy a call.

Quincy was currently at New Era's headquarters.

New Era was both a chamber of commerce and a conglomerate. Quincy, meanwhile, was the person in charge.

Located in the central region of the most prosperous parts of the Capital, New Era Commerce was surrounded by skyscrapers on all sides.

Many MNCs established their headquarters here.

New Era Commerce's headquarters was a building eighty stories tall. As it was only recently established, there was not much to do.

Now, their current priority was to investigate businesses and win them over, making them another member of New Era.

Upon his arrival, James was immediately recognized by the security guards.

They greeted him respectfully, "W-Welcome, Emperor."

James was a renowned figure in the Capital. Besides, rumors on the street were that he would be the next King and the future leader of Sol.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 1611

Chapter 1611

This was evident by the events that had unfolded as of late.

“Mhm.” James nodded and said, “I have an appointment with Quincy Xenos.”

“Please, come in.”

The security guards did not dare stop him.

Meanwhile, many reporters gathered just outside of New Era Commerce.

James’ arrival caused quite a stir, and a photo of him entering the building was taken. In an instant, rumors began spreading.

Meanwhile, the reporters who wished to garner more attention exaggerated the minute details.

In the chairman’s office on the eighteenth floor of New Era Commerce...

Quincy was scrutinizing a few documents in her hands.

A glamorous-looking woman in business attire stood beside her.

It was Xiomara Lee, the former person in charge of the Lees’ businesses.

She was now an assistant to Quincy.

“Quincy, we have issued the release.

In the morning of the day after tomorrow, the members of New Era will gather here for the first Annual General Meeting.

Please have a look at the newly-compiled list of participants.”

Quincy waved slightly and said, “I’ll read through the list later.”

“Understood.”

Xiomara put the list on a table beside Quincy.

“By the way...” As if reminded of something, Quincy stopped her work and asked, “Is the threshold for joining New Era too high?”

Xiomara said, “I don’t think so. Orient Commerce has much stricter requirements than we do.”

Quincy said, “James wishes to create an invincible chamber of commerce.

Meanwhile, the only businesses joining us are huge, well-known conglomerates.

I think we should slightly lower the requirements when our name has spread far and wide after the first Annual General Meeting to allow medium-sized enterprises to join us.

That way, we get to accumulate much more capital in a short amount of time.”

Upon hearing this, Xiomara nodded and said, “That sounds like a great idea.

However, to facilitate the management process, we have to conduct a detailed examination of the businesses that apply. Otherwise, things might get troublesome in the future.”

At that moment, the office door opened, and James walked in.

“James.”

Quincy greeted him.

Xiomara looked at James and greeted him as well, “Emperor.”

James waved slightly and walked toward the sofa and took a seat.

Quincy walked over to him and sat opposite him.

Xiomara followed suit.

After taking her seat, Quincy asked, “What a rare guest we have here today. This is your first time here if I’m not mistaken.”

James smiled and asked, “I’ve brought Xavion back. Now, I’m here to discuss our next course of action.

“Really?”

Quincy asked excitedly, “Have you really talked things through with him?”

“Mhm.”

James nodded and said, “Yes, we have. He will be entitled to five percent of the company’s shares in exchange for the data in his hands.

Here’s what I think. We will register a new company that concentrates primarily on the Z network.

As long as you’re a member of New Era, you’ll be eligible to invest in the company.

Participation in board meetings and the exercising of voting rights will be determined based on the capital contribution ratio.

That way, we will have a common interest that ties everyone together.”

“That sounds like a great plan.” Quincy nodded and said, “I share the same opinion.

How about this? We will announce this during the coming Annual General Meeting.

However, what will be the registered capital of the new company? How much capital do you wish to invest?”

James waved his hand and said, “I don’t understand the specifics. I’ll leave everything to you.”

Quincy nodded, “Sure, bring Xavion here to see me.

I have to inquire about his research progress in person and roughly estimate the funds needed to research the Z network.

By having a preliminary budget, we can better collect the funds and distribute the shares.”

“No problem at all. I’ll ask the Cadens to send Xavion here immediately.”

James knew nothing about business. His objective here was to understand Quincy’s next course of action.

Only by understanding her plans could he better cooperate with her. Meanwhile, he would also seize the opportunity and wipe out all the remnants of the Gu Sect in the Capital.

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 1612

“By the way...

James was reminded of Thea's request.

Looking at Quincy, he asked, “What are the current requirements for joining New Era?”

Quincy replied, “The requirements are rather strict.

Only companies that have a market value of fifty billion dollars and above are qualified for the application process.

Not only that, but we even have a professional team to audit their accounts.

Only businesses with a healthy cash flow can pass the preliminary round.”

James nodded and said, “Here's the case. The Callahans wish to join New Era Commerce. Could you do something about that?”

Quincy said smilingly, “The chamber of commerce belongs to you, James.

I'm only a manager helping you. Your word has the final say.”

Hearing this, James was relieved.

“If there's nothing else, I'll be taking my leave. I'll arrange for someone to send Xavion here in secret.

However, be mindful that Xavion should be kept out of the public eye for now, or else he might be in danger.”

“I see...” After thinking for a moment, Quincy said, “In that case, I'll head over to the Cadens' residence and have a discussion with him.”

“That works too.”

After the brief conversation, James returned home.

Upon returning home, Thea walked over to him and asked, “Did everything go smoothly?”

“Yes, it did. I told Quincy about the Callahans' matter, and she's willing to turn a blind eye.”

James leaned on the sofa and rubbed his temples, contemplating his next course of action.

While strengthening the Chamber of Commerce at the same time, he would annihilate the remnants of the Gul Sect as soon as possible.

Not only that, but he had one other thing to deal with-Centennial Corporation, which was established by the Gu Sect.

However, Centennial's development had been swift, and it was now a multinational pharmaceutical corporation.

If he acted recklessly and shut down the business, many would be unemployed, thereby causing a media sensation throughout the world.

Now, the only available option was to take over Centennial silently.

James pulled his phone out and called a number.

"I want you to investigate Centennial Corporation. I want to know the shareholders and person in charge of the company."

After calling Henry, he tossed his phone aside.

Thea asked, "Darling, do you plan to make a move against Centennial?"

"Mhm." James nodded and said, "Now that Lucjan is dead and the Gu Sect is leaderless, I have to seize control of Centennial before the next Sect Leader of the Gu Sect emerges."

After brief contemplation, Thea said, "Since Lucjan is dead, why didn't Callan retake control of the Gu Sect?"

He was once the Sect Leader, after all. He should be able to regain control easily, right?"

"Not a bad idea... However, Callan isn't in the Capital right now. He's still at Divine Sword Villa at the moment.

He won't be able to make it back soon. Once he returns, I'll discuss the matter with him," James said.

He believed that Thea's words made sense.

Rather than annihilating the Gu Sect, gaining control of it was a much better choice.

After all, the Gu Sect was rather formidable. If he could gain control of it, dealing with Orient Commerce would be a less strenuous task.

Speaking of Divine Sword Villa, James wished to return to that place. Dragonslayer would soon be created. It was a sword forged with the blood and tears of Divine Sword Villa over multiple generations.

James wanted to witness Dragonslayer with his eyes. However, since he still had matters to attend to in the Capital, he could not leave prematurely.

For the whole day, James remained at home.

In the evening, the Callahans arrived. Lex, Howard, Benjamin, Tommy, and David stood outside the door "Hello, please come in," Thea greeted them.