

Almighty DG 201

Chapter 201 "No way. Is Thea that influential now?"

"Even if the Cadens were a powerful family, they are now long gone. Why would they make an effort to curry favor with Thea?"

"In my opinion, Grayson from the Gourmand must've taken an interest in her." Upon hearing this, Thea's face reddened. She refuted the thought, "D-Don't spout nonsense." "Thea, Bryan Grayson is part of the Grayson family from the Capital. It's a good thing he likes you. In my opinion, you should divorce James. That trash only leeches off the Callahans. Though he has no abilities whatsoever, he boasts non-stop." The Callahans, once again, tried to convince Thea to divorce James. James had an exasperated look. Now that the scar was gone, they had forgotten about the pain. Besides, the scar was still here. Thea glanced at James and said, "I married him, so I'm his wife. We may have had some misunderstandings in the past, but we've resolved those issues. I'm willing to give him another chance."

James felt a sense of warmth growing in his chest upon hearing her words. He could not help but grab Thea's arm. "Darling, you're the best."

"Alright, now." Lex stood. "Since Thea's able to make a reservation at the Gourmand's Diamond Room, we should go and prepare our gifts. We need to ask for Ms. Brooks' forgiveness this time."

and made a

Soon, it was noon.

in on the feast. After all, the Gourmand was the most luxurious restaurant in Cansington, and Callahans were

After all,

Callahans made their way on the sofa. He was at ease. 'I feel much residence for several the Callahans walked in, talking and laughing away. "Thea, I just after sharing a single meal with us." "Xara, how did you get into the Group in just a few days? You're even acquainted with Ms. Brooks. You've made us proud." Xara walked close behind the Callahans. Xara played a part in helping the Callahans avert their crisis by inviting Scarlett out for a meal. As such, the family was showering her with praise. Xara said with a smile, "I came to Cansington looking for work. Coincidentally, the Group had just been established and was on a hiring spree. I went for an interview to try my luck and bumped into Ms. Brooks along the way. I didn't know she was the chairman of the Group back then. We conversed a little, and I was summoned into the room when the time came for the interview session." Thea smiled. "I genuinely thought it was James who introduced you to the job." "He..."

Xara paused and said, "There's no way a useless man like him could find me a job, not to mention one in the Group. How would he be capable of doing so? Though I have to say, Thea, nothing's going on between us." "Alright, I trust you." James stood with a smile. "Since you guys are back, I suppose you've dealt with the problem?" Thea nodded. "Uh-huh, everything's settled." Upon seeing the ashes on the table, David yelled, "James, who allowed you to smoke in the house? The table's full of ashes now!" Gladys rebuked him as well. "Clean them up now.", "Got it." James did not talk back. He swiftly cleared the ashes beside the ashtray. Upon witnessing this scene, Xara frowned. The Callahans were ordering the behind-the-scenes owner of the Group around. At that moment, she could not help but be envious of Thea's luck. How great would things be if she had been the one to save James ten years ago?

Chapter 202 Lex had organized a birthday banquet at the House of Royals. It was meant for the most powerful and influential people and hence, was supposed to be a huge sensation in Cansington. Some went to get a glimpse of Thea, but most were there for the House of Royals. The House of Royals was no ordinary place. Since the Callahans had managed to organize a birthday banquet there, it could only mean they were now acquainted with some big shot.

No one expected there to be a false alarm.

Now, everyone knew that all happened because of a son-in-law of the Callahans, who used to be the vice-captain of North Cansington's police force.

Someone from the Cadens had been working as the secretary of a general of North Cansington's Military Region, and it was only because of his connections that the Callahans were able to organize a banquet at the House of Royals.

However, the secretary had made a mistake, which led to the false alarm at the Callahans' banquet. As such, they were now once again made a laughing stock.

"Huh."

"I thought the time had come for the Callahans, yet it turns out it was just a front." "Now that the Callahans have offended the Blithe King and Scarlett Brooks, it's over for them. Not even Thea can save them."

Though the matter had been resolved, everyone was still discussing it. Meanwhile, James had nothing to do, so he became the house-husband of the Callahans.

the blink of an eye, making preparations for the banquet. Today was also the was the deadline James had set for the culprits of his day. However, not a single one of them showed up. He then put out

It was morning

Festival, a day of reunion. Watch your words at the family banquet. I won't be able to help you uncomfortable wearing go, I'll only embarrass you in front not go?" At that moment, the door opened. Walking in, Gladys overheard their conversation. She immediately said, "You're not that dense, after all. At least you're aware that your presence be going, Gladys. Thea has finally become the chairman. If I go and somehow offend grandpa and the other are you dilly-dallying for? You know grandpa doesn't like people being late." Tommy walked took a few hundred dollars and handed it to James. "Today's the Mid-Autumn Festival. Since you're not going to the Callahans, at least treat yourself to took the money, his

you only embarrass you if I go. I don't want to humiliate you in front of and said, "Fine. I'll be back early. We'll have a

"Thanks, darling," James said, smiling,

Thea sighed in resignation. Though she had arranged a job for James, he had offended many people on his first day. Those people had even launched a formal complaint.

She had no choice but to send James home.

The moment the Callahans left, the smile on James' face vanished, only to be replaced by a grim expression

He had a murderous look on his darkened face.

He pulled his phone out and called Henry. "Henry, what's the situation?"

"James, I've been waiting for your call. I've been keeping an eye on the cemetery. Today's the day of the burial of the leaders of the Great Four, and they've chosen a tomb near the Cadens' cemetery. Besides the core members of the Great Four, the likes of Dawson, Nine Fingers, and the underworld forces of Cansington have gathered in the suburbs. They number in tens of thousands."

Chapter 203 Henry reported the situation to James.

James' face darkened. "How are the preparations going for the Blithe King?"

Henry replied, "I've inquired about it. He told me he had assembled the forces. A hundred combat aircraft, three hundred tanks, five hundred armored vehicles, and a thousand convoys have assembled in the military region. They're simply waiting for your command. However, the Blithe King said this would be the last time he's helping you out. He also said he doesn't want to create a commotion."

James said coldly, "I'll spare those unrelated to the case. However, there'll be no mercy for the ones involved."

Henry could feel the murderous intent in James' voice.

James walked out of the Common Clinic.

and was now wearing a large-sized trench coat. He held the mask he had earlier in his from The Great Four were gathered in the suburbs of Cansington near Flora Lakeside, As far as the eye could see, there were waves after waves of black-vested men armed men from the Rowena was also present.

wretchedness. She glanced at the men of The Great Four who had gathered before looking gathered here today. Why should we be scared of the mere remnant of the Cadens? Even if they have the guts to show unconcerned look, "This was where the fire burned the Caden residence down ten years ago. It's ten years later, and we're at the same place. If the remnant of the

as Dawson's here, he wouldn't even

The Great Four were

Fraisers looked at the time. It was already nine o'clock in the morning. He spoke, "We'll wait man with a Green Dragon tattoo on his body ran them in. This place will be their final resting place." From afar, Henry drove toward them. Scanning his surroundings, he could only see men armed with machetes and metal rods. Countless men surrounded the Cadens' cemetery Upon seeing this display of force, Henry's heart skipped a beat.

"Yes."

Henry stopped the car.

James opened the door and got off the vehicle.

By the side of the roads stood black-vested men armed with machetes and metal rods. Their formation was imposing. Any normal person would be scared out of their wits upon witnessing the scene.

However, James marched forward, undaunted.

The leaders of The Great Four watched with their binoculars from afar. Upon seeing James and Henry walk toward them, they laughed. "Damn, this is hilarious!" "Are they seriously approaching us when it's only the two of them? They must be tired of living." "I've been worried sick for the past few days thinking about the remnant of the Cadens and how scary they might be. Who knew there would only be two of them?" "Stand by and let them come. I'll end their lives in the Cadens' cemetery." The men from The Great Four dissolved into laughter upon seeing James and Henry. In their eyes, they were already dead.

Chapter 204 Though this was the suburbs, local farmers were living here. Today was the Mid-Autumn Festival, and families gathered for the reunion. In the morning, armed men in the tens of thousands swarmed the area. The locals were appalled. They remained in the safety of their homes and did not wander. Some were even scared away, evacuating to other places. On both sides of the road stood black-vested men armed with weapons with ferocious looks on their faces. James and Henry approached them.

The men had received orders not to harm them for now.

Soon, James arrived at the Cadens' cemetery.

The Cadens' cemetery was teeming with people. A few coffins lay in holes dug on a slope not too far away. There were some flowers at the burial site. Outside the Cadens' cemetery on an empty plot of land stood the current leaders of the Great Four: Hector Xavier, Melvin Fraiser, Kelvin Wilson, and Drake Zimmerman.

Even Dawson, Nine Fingers, and the various underworld forces of Cansington were present. They had brought their men to help.

They totaled over ten thousand people.

On the ground lay a seventy-year-old man and a twenty-year-old woman.

up and laid too, was tied up. Her hair was disheveled, and her white dress was mud splattered. She wore a disconcerted expression.

men surrounding them. "Remnant of the Cadens, do you not see how powerless you are? Or are you just here to get yourself killed?" Drake stepped forward and yelled, "It was me who tied up the Cadens and burned down the Cadens' villa ten years ago. Little did we know, Thea Callahan noticed the fire and saved you. Regardless, today will be your doom, no matter how strong you tap, tap. Taps sounded as their boots hit the in on the man lying on the ground. "Argh!" The man was wearing a mask, and squinted. "I, too, didn't know there'd be a Caden who slipped through our grasp. After the destruction of the Cadens, he built this cemetery and looked at the man lying on

"M-Mr. Quinn?"

He shivered.

the butler of the escaped the fire as he was not in Cansington during the incident. According to Henry's turned and looked Henry explained, "I'm sorry, James. This is all my fault. I've looked into it. The information I gave you clearly stated that he'd left Cansington many years ago. I didn't think James was indeed exasperated at Henry. How could he have missed such an important detail?

However, James himself was also to blame for neglecting Mr. Quinn. All he thought of was Thea.

James clenched his fist and stepped forward.

“Halt..

Dawson pulled out a firearm and pointed it at Newton. “Kid, if you take a single step forward, I’ll blow his brains out. Now, take off your mask.” “Remove it.” “I’m curious to see who this fella is that’s acting all mysterious.” “I know you’re just trying to mess with us by wearing a mask” “Did you not hear what Dawson said? Take it off, now.”

Chapter 205 The men from The Great Four chimed in.

Meanwhile, Rowena was stupefied.

There was nothing she could do now. She only hoped that not too many people would die today.

She prayed that James would not touch those who were uninvolved. Under their gaze, James slowly took off his ghost mask

Upon seeing this, Henry followed suit.

James’ true identity was unveiled.

“J- James Caden?”

“James, the son-in-law of the Callahans?”

“No wonder. Since Thea Callahan had saved his life, it’s not surprising that he opted to be the son-in-law of the Callahans.”

the Callahans, the renowned trash in all of Cansington.” Upon glimpsing

Dawson gave a look around him understood immediately. They stepped forward composed the “Haha.”

how did you think you’d settle the feud?” “I’ll let you reunite with sick

had managed to kill Trent Xavier, they thought he possessed extraordinary powers. They did not his surroundings with a surly expression. “Ten years ago, you gathered at the Caden residence. You tied my family up and forced my grandfather to hand over the Moonlit Flowers on Cliffside’s Edge. After getting your hands on it, you burned everything down.” “Thirty-eight members of James glared at them.

his gaze

menacing glare it as if they were being targeted by a ferocious beast. Feeling shivers down their spine, they took a few steps back Even the likes of men of The Great Four gave James an obnoxious look James said coldly, “I’m a reasonable man. Just kneel before me, confess your wrongdoings, and end

“Yes. What of it?”

5

“Hahaha....”

The men of The Great Four thought of his words as a complete joke. Even the surrounding honchos could not restrain their laughter.

“James, look around you. Do you still not understand the situation you’re in? You have a gun pressed against your head. A single order from me, and bang! We’ll blow your brains out.” Dawson crooked his fingers as if he was firing a gun. He looked at James and burst out laughing James walked toward Newton, who was being stomped underfoot. “Stop,” Dawson shouted.

Newton muttered weakly, “J-James, stay away.” James looked at him and made a promise, “Don’t you worry, Mr. Quinn. Everything’s going to be alright. The culprits who brought about the destruction of the Cadens will not escape. An eye for an eye. “Leave, James. Get out of Cansington and never return. You don’t understand how powerful your enemy is. You’ll never find out who the true mastermind is.”

James frowned It seemed Newton had inside information.

Before James arrived at the Cadens’ cemetery, he had instructed the Blithe king to mobilize.

At that moment, the sound of a propeller came from afar. Everyone looked up and saw the combat aircraft approaching them, flabbergasted. “What’s going on?” “I- Is that a combat aircraft?”

They fell silent

“T – this is bad. The military’s here, and a few hundred tanks and armored vehicles are coming our way.”

Chapter 206 Hundreds of combat aircraft circled the sky. On the ground, hundreds upon thousands of tanks, armored vehicles, and convoys drove toward them in mighty formation.

Rumble!

As the tanks approached, the ground shook

Upon witnessing this spectacle, the men of The Great Four, Dawson, and Nine Fingers went silent.

“What’s going on?”

LEE

“W-Why is a military formation heading toward us?”

“What’s happening?”

They were durnbfounded.

“Could be a military exercise.”

.

“Yes, it has to be. Order the men not to act rashly. We’re gathered here today for the burial of our former leaders. As long as we don’t provoke them, they shouldn’t make things difficult for us.”

men immediately tossed the weapons in their hands. Meanwhile, those armed with firearms concealed in a hurry to wait for the military exercise to of her wits. She never thought James would resort mobilized the have surrounded us. Look at the sky! The combat aircraft have been circling above us for quite rebuked him, “After us? Do you really think that highly of us? Who do you think we are? Think about it. We’re just a bunch of gangsters.

11

Smack!

that he collapsed to the ground. He hurriedly stood and shook his head.

looked at the combat aircraft circling above them in the sky. His face darkened, and a similar thought appeared in his

they really be

He glanced at Dawson.

WE

expression. He wished for the combat aircraft to leave. Yet, they remained. The men of The Great Four looked at one another. James smiled slightly before going to untie Newton, who was still on the ground. “What are you doing?” One of the sidekicks yelled. Holding a metal rod, loudspeaker voice came from a helicopter in the sky Upon hearing that, they were at a loss. Immediately, of The Great Four looked at him who brought the military here? Who exactly was he? No way. There was no way it could be James. The military was just passing of The Great Four would not believe it was James that moment,

TEL

DIE

The tanks aimed at everyone in the Cadens' cemetery.

James untied Newton and helped him up.

Then, he untied the woman beside Newton and helped her up too.

The woman was around twenty years of age with exquisite facial features.

Though her beautiful face was mud-splattered, it did not obscure her allure and glamor. "J-James, is that really you?" Newton extended his arm and gently pulled James. His shriveled arm trembled.

James grabbed Newton by the arm and said, "Mr. Quinn, it's me. It really is me, James. Mr. Quinn, step aside for now. I'll settle the feud from ten years ago." Saying this, James scanned the surrounding men.

They were on the ground with their hands on their heads and did not dare move a single muscle. There were snipers on the helicopter aiming their guns at them. If they acted rashly, this would be their final resting place.

The men of The Great Four shivered in fear.

Dawson crouched on the floor, his pants wet.

Nine Fingers reacted more dramatically. The smell of excrement wafted in the air. He had soiled his pants!

At that moment, they knew. James had brought the military here. Hector was full of regret. If he had listened to Rowena, the Xaviers would not have had to face destruction. Now, none would escape.

Chapter 207

Henry got up and went to the car. He took the joss paper, joss sticks, and other items to pay their respects to the deceased.

James walked to the tomb of Thomas and knelt.

His eyes were brimming with tears.

It was this fateful day ten years ago.

The men of The Great Four appeared at the Caden residence, tied them up, and afflicted unspeakable acts of horror upon them.

He was only eighteen years old back then. He could never forget his heart-wrenching screams as he witnessed the Cadens being tied up and burned to death in the fire.

S

“You... It was you...”

James stood abruptly and pointed at the men on the ground.

He roared with a broken voice, “It was you ten years ago. You beasts in human skin! If you had even an ounce of conscience, you wouldn’t have done such a depraved thing!”

His roar was akin to that of a thunderous clap.

men of the Great Four, as well as the underworld forces, did not

“James, I was wrong. Please, give me

James’ eyes were bloodshot.

give the Cadens a chance to escape? Hand me the Blade of Justice.”

a sword out. The sword was covered in the Blade of Justice. James lifted the cloth, and a razor-sharp sword revealed was the Blade

highest authority of Commander of Sol. With the sword in possession, one would have the right to depose tyrant kings and punish treacherous officials. The sword was awarded to James the day he became the General, and never once had he used it. “I’m a reasonable man and will never falsely accuse the innocent, nor will I let a single wicked man off the hook. Step forward and face justice if you’re the culprits who went to the Caden residence were appalled, and their bodies shivered step forth. He knelt before James and eye for an

James lifted the sword.

The sword fell.

Slash!

sword pierced through Hector’s spilled all over the Hector’s body went limp

This scene stunned everyone.

James roared, “Next.”

moment, was the Great Four were scared out of their wits. Some James approached Drake.

The sword fell.

Slash!

Drake was now dead.

James wore a cold expression. Step by step, he walked. Anyone he passed fainted out of fright.

However, they could not escape their fates. Soon, a dozen men lay in front of the Cadens' cemetery. Only Rowena remained.

James approached her.

His sword was blood-tainted. Rowena knelt on the ground, her body shivering non-stop. She could not utter even a single word.

James raised the sword.

Slash!

Rowena collapsed into a pool of blood. The Blithe king waited for James to be done before walking toward him. He glanced at James and asked, "Are you done? If you are, I'll deal with the rest." "Argh!"

James knelt before the tomb and bellowed.

At long last, the feelings of hatred and anguish that he had suppressed for the past ten years were released

Chapter 208 James knelt before the tomb and bellowed.

Soon, his voice cracked.

He choked with sobs.

Ten years. It had been ten years. Ten years ago, he was only an eighteen-year-old boy who had just graduated high school. His life was full of promise and hope.

However, a conspiracy took everything away from him.

"Ah..."

"You beast! My daughter was only three years old. How could you?!" "I will die in my grandchildren's place. Let them go..." The image of the burning residence and the sound of heart-wrenching screams filled his senses. The scenes were as fresh and vivid as they had happened yesterday. He could never forget. Just as he was suffering excruciating pain and crying his eyes out, a young lady appeared. She leaped into the sea of fire without hesitation and dragged him to the riverside. Compelled by the desire to live, he dived into the river.

He drifted with the river flow and found himself in a cave. With a stroke of luck, he found a medical book Cansington was the capital of medicine. Meanwhile, his grandfather was a doctor. He had some medicinal knowledge. He had learned them as a child. After obtaining the medical book, he studied hard and treated the injuries on his body according to the instructions in the book there was unrest in the Southern Plains, and Sol was recruiting men into the military. He then into the climbed the ranks by crossing over the bodies of his enemies. For the past ten years, he was highly regarded in the military. Just a year of the five commanders of Sol, and stood was recognition of his military career by the higher-ups. He had pacified the Southern Plains and the world his resignation letter. Before the higher ups could approve, he had returned to Cansington. He was here to pay back his debts and repay Thea for saving his to avenge the destruction of the the souls of the fallen Cadens could which he had suppressed for ten years, was by the side and watched the weeping that moment, he felt sorry for the

renowned Black Dragon girl from the city. She had

Newton gently patted time, James recollected himself. He stood up, pulled the Blade of Justice out of the ground, and tossed it to Henry. He then headed toward the “Yeah.”

James nodded.

He was a reasonable man.

After killing the main culprits, he did not make things difficult for the rest of The Great Four.

He scanned the men of The Great Four, some crouching on the floor and some passed out, and said coldly, “Return all that belongs to the Cadens in three days.”

“Yes.”

No one dared object to him.

James approached Newton.

“J-James.”

“Mr. Quinn.”

Chapter 209 James greeted him and immediately turned toward the girl holding Newton’s arm. “Mr. Quinn, who is she?”

Newton explained, “James, she’s my granddaughter, Serena Quinn.”

“Mhm.”

James nodded, “Three days later, go to The Great Four and take over the businesses of the Cadens.”

“James, this...” Newton was at a loss. James was aware he had insider information.

He knew that the Cadens had moved from the Capital thirty years ago.

Since Newton had been by his grandfather’s side the whole time, he had to know the history of the Cadens and information about the Moonlit Flowers on Cliffside’s Edge. He could even know who was the one targeting the Cadens “Hey, thank you for helping me out here. I’ll treat you to a meal.” James looked at the Blithe King

Mhm.”

king gave a he gave the Great Four and from the were too many of them here. There would not be enough space in prison if every one of not intend to pursue matters

“Yes.”

start spreading.”

the Blithe King, James, and the others had left, make the Blithe King appear in person?”

lose our lives if we dig into each other, relishing that they were still alive.

grudge was no

of the mobilization of a hundred-thousand army sent shockwaves a hundred combat aircraft, tanks, armored vehicles, and convoys was simply too impressive. The people of Cansington gathered to discuss announced that it was ones who knew did not

District in the House of Royals, James changed into clean

On a luxurious sofa of the palace-like foyer of the House of Royals, Serena was firmly gripping Newton's arm. She was a little nervous. At the same time, however, she kept glancing over at James.

James was holding a cigarette. "Mr. Quinn, since you've been following my grandpa around, you should know the Cadens inside out. As far as I know, the Cadens migrated from the Capital thirty years ago. However, I've found nothing, no matter how hard I've looked into it. What's going on?"

Newton wore a reluctant expression.

He glanced at James, who was seated in front of him.

The scene from before kept replaying in his head. Although he had not been in Cansington for many years, he knew who the Blithe King was. And now, the man before him was James Caden, who escaped the fire from the Caden residence ten years ago. "J-James, who exactly are you?" Newton could not help but ask

He got the Blithe king to mobilize a hundred-thousand army. Newton could not figure it out. Just how powerful was James?

"The General of the million-strong Black Dragon army of the Southern Plains. Together with the Blithe King of the West, the Centurion of the North, the Barbarian King of the East, and the Emperor of the Capital, I'm one of the five commanders of Sol."

Chapter 210 "B- Black Dragon?"

Newton was stunned by James' words.

One of the five commanders of Sol?

The Black Dragon of the Southern Plains who sent shockwaves across the world in a battle a year ago? His granddaughter, Serena, could not help but glance at James. The Black Dragon was a name known to all. However, no one knew what the Black Dragon looked like.

She never thought the Black Dragon would be a Caden.

James looked at Newton and asked, "Mr. Quinn, can you tell me more about my family?"

Though James now stood at the pinnacle of power and exercised great authority, he still could not find anything about the history of the Cadens.

He believed his family was not an ordinary one.

Not only that, the Moonlit Flowers on Cliffside's Edge was no ordinary item either.

Newton took a deep breath. Since James was the Black Dragon, he could confront the enemy of the Cadens.

ever heard of The Four

“Huh?”

James frowned.

Great

that they were

They’ve existed for almost two thousand years.

you saying the

“Yes.”

Newton nodded.

their possession, few knew of their existence. Thirty years ago, infighting broke out within the Cadens. Your grandfather, Thomas, left the Cadens what does the Moonlit Flowers

the destruction

Moonlit Flowers on Cliffside’s Edge was brought here by your grandfather from the Cadens and that someone powerful was interested in it. Thomas once told me that the Four Great Families are scattered across the world. The current Emperor, who’s one of the five commanders, is also in one of the Four Great Families. As for which family, I don’t know. The destruction of the Cadens could be an inside job, or it could be one planned by the other three of the Great Families were shrouded in even know of plan to Dragon of the Southern Plains and one of the five Commanders of Sol. He stood at the pinnacle strength, it was possible to confront the Four Great Families. Upon this, then the five commanders of Sol would become the four

Though the Emperor was one of the most powerful amongst the five commanders, taking his life was no difficult task for James.

“Mr. Quinn, do you know the history of the Moonlit Flowers on Cliffside’s Edge and what secrets it holds? Why would anyone be interested in it?”

Newton shook his head. “James, I do not know. Thomas said nothing about it.”

“Then, do you know who currently has the Moonlit Flowers on Cliffside’s Edge?”

Newton, once again, shook his head.

James was disappointed.

He thought Newton had plenty of insider information.

He never thought he would only be knowledgeable about the history of the Cadens.

He took an ordinary key out of his pocket.