Chapter 251

This was not too bad either.

“Honey, you have to believe me.”

“I believe you.”

James looked Thea in the eye and said, “It’s my honor to have married you. Whatever the outcome is, I won’t blame you.” “Sigh.” Thea sighed deeply.

Soon, Newton arrived.

“W-What’s his name?” Thea stammered.

Newton smiled and glanced at James. He remained silent.

“I-I would like to meet him.” At that moment, Thea could feel her heart thumping. She knew of this man. Yet, she did not know his name. She had been dreaming all this while. She kept having dreams of the one she saved. She desperately wanted to know his identity. Thea’s behavior did not go unnoticed by James. He knew Thea had fallen in love with his other identity. Otherwise, she would not have lost control of her emotions. Thea treated him with respect throughout their entire marriage. However, they lacked passion and love. She showed affection, not love. "Whew!"

James took a deep breath. Newton laughed. "You'll meet him soon. He's announced he'll hold a romantic wedding ceremony and promised he'll make you the most blissful woman in all of Cansington." Newton did not say anything else. After saying those words, he stood up and turned to leave. After Newton had left, Gladys burst into a peal of laughter. "I told you these were for Thea. How could Megan have received such a huge blessing?" "Haha, my luxury car. My villa." David cackled. Meanwhile, Howard and his family wore surly expressions. They remained silent. Knock, knock, knock Knocks sounded from the door once again immediately after Newton's departure. The door opened, and a few policemen walked in. They were headed by Wyatt Jeremiah from the Organized Crime Division. Wyatt presented an arrest warrant and shouted, "Howard and Tommy Callahan, you're under suspicion of committing a professional crime. Please come with us to assist in the investigation."

Chapter 252

With the cops at the doorstep, Howard and Tommy freaked out. Lex stepped forward and glanced at Wyatt. As the patriarch of the Callahans, he had heard of him.

"Mr. Jeremiah, could this be a misunderstanding? How could they have committed a professional crime? What have they done?!"

Wyatt glanced at James.

James took a step forward and said, "It was me who reported them to the authorities."

"You?"

They fixed their gaze on James.

Tommy burst into a fit of rage. "James, you piece of trash! You've been leeching off the Callahans since the beginning. How dare you call the cops on me! And on what charges? Just what did I do?!"

Do you know what's going to happen now?!" Lex was enraged. The Callahans watched helplessly. No one dared speak up. James said calmly, "And did doing that work? I brought Yosef here to Lex's complexion turned pale with anger.

"Besides..."

James continued, "Thea's no longer the chairman of Eternality. She's the chairman of Pacific Group and owns ninety percent of its shares. This afternoon, she'd just taken over the company from Trevor through a loan."

Cough! Upon hearing this, Lex coughed up blood. Then, he fainted. Seeing this, the Callahans freaked out and swiftly made their way to his side. "James, what are you doing?" Thea rebuked him with an indignant look on her face. "How could you call the cops? This was a family matter. Why did you report it to the authorities without consulting me?"

After rebuking James, she quickly made her way to Lex. Lex had passed out from rage. Soon, he regained consciousness. He sat on the sofa, panting, "You think you're so smart and all grown-up now, Thea? Do you not care about the family rules anymore? If that's the case, I have nothing to say. Leave. From this day onward, you're no longer part of the Callahans." "Grandpa..."

Disoriented, Thea said, "Although I've taken over Pacific Group and am no longer the chairman of Eternality, I'll ensure the contracts signed between Eternality and other corporations remain. Eternality will continue to receive orders from them in the future."

Chapter 253 "Forget it."

Lex lightly waved.

"Lex, you can't just ignore this," Jolie cried out, weeping. "Howard and Tommy have been taken by the police. Even if they did something wrong, how could James call the cops? This is a family affair, after all."

"A family affair?"

James said coldly, "Is framing Thea considered a family affair? Fortunately, nothing serious happened. Would you still call it a family affair if people had died?" "You..."

Her face livid, Jolie pointed at James and rebuked him, "Who do you think you are? This is the Callahan residence. What makes you think you have the right to speak?" "That's right. You've pushed it too far." "How could you call the cops?" "Why can't you just sit down and talk this through? It's nothing serious, after all. Now that the police have arrested them, what should we do if word gets out?"

"Damn you, James!"

John nodded.

After all these years, it was finally his turn to call the shots. "Megan." Lex turned to look at her. "The Oswalds have broad connections. Ask them if they can bail Howard and Tommy out of prison." "I'll call Colson this instant and have him come over." The Callahans were all busy trying to handle Howard's and Tommy's arrest.

Meanwhile, Thea's family was smiling from ear to ear. They formed a circle around the betrothal gifts, which were worth a fortune. "Thea, isn't this limited-edition Ferrari the one we saw during the auto show? I'll give you my Maserati. In exchange, this Ferrari will be mine. By the way, mom, we should move into a new villa that's at least a thousand square meters. Hehe, owning a villa at Goodview Villa District is a sure sign of power and wealth."

David was smiling from ear to ear. Thea disagreed with him. "We can't accept this. I'm returning them." Smack!

Gladys smacked her head and scolded, "Are you dumb? This is free!"

Chapter 254 Thea could not retort.

She did not know what to say.

She pulled James into her room.

Meanwhile, the others formed a circle around the betrothal gifts. Alyssa took a beautiful dress and some expensive-looking jewelry and dashed excitedly into her room. She changed her clothes and put on earrings, a necklace, and a ring. "Darling, do I look pretty?" She came out of the room and walked around the living room. David exclaimed, "Wow, you look gorgeous, darling! The dress suits you perfectly." Upon hearing this, Alyssa was flattered.

Meanwhile, Gladys wore a worried expression. She muttered, "Mr. Watson is rich, but so is Mr. Caden. Who should Thea marry?" "She should marry both." David blurted out.

Smack!

Gladys smacked him on his head. He instantly shut his mouth and headed toward a box full of cash. "Mom, can I have this?"

Gladys glanced at him."No way. They'll be kept in safe custody. I'll be putting them in the bank tomorrow."

She knew what would happen next.

She thought she had prepared herself. She would finally belong to James, and they would officially be husband and wife.

However, the moment James got onto the bed, she became hesitant. She became fearful.

It was a fear of the unknown, and a fear of marriage.

James turned his body and looked at Thea. Her cheeks were red, and she was irresistible. He extended his arms to embrace her. Then, he went for a kiss.

It felt chilly and a little sweet. "N-No..."

Thea pushed James away forcefully. She got up, panting. "I-I'm not ready for this. Darling, c-can we do this some other time?" She dared not lift her head to meet his gaze.

Chapter 255

James was at a loss.

What was going on?

Did she not agree to it? Why did she change her mind?

He momentarily froze. Then, he quickly recollected himself and smiled. "I-It's alright."

As he said that, he got off the bed and spread the mattress on the floor. Thea did not understand what had gotten into her. She felt terrified the moment James kissed

Thea stormed out of the house. James glanced at them and said with a smile, "Feel free to keep them. I'll have a word with Thea."

"Hmph, at least you're not stupid," Gladys grunted.

David chimed in, "Say no more, James. Just get the divorce so Thea can find another man with her glamorous looks, she'll have no problem getting a rich guy."

"I - I'll go find her." James turned to leave.

However, he did not go after Thea.

Since Thea was headed to Majestic Corporation, he had to hurry there to meet her as Mr. Caden.

“Since she doesn’t like the current me, I’ll make her fall in love with the other me.”

Chapter 256 After leaving the Callahan residence, James called a taxi and headed to Majestic Corporation. On the way, he called Newton. “Mr. Quinn, who’s currently in charge of Majestic Corporation?” “That’ll be me, James.”

“Got it. Prepare a suit and a mask for me. I’ll be there soon.”

Though Newton did not know what James was up to, he obeyed. “Alright, I’ll make the necessary arrangements.”

After the call, James closed his eyes to rest.

Soon, he arrived at Majestic Corporation.

It was an eighteen-story skyscraper. Though it used to be a business under the Great Four, it had been returned to its original owner. After Newton took over, he renamed it the Majestic Tower.

It was also the headquarters of Majestic Corporation.

Majestic Corporation had only been established yesterday. Although there were rumors about its opening, the company had not officially announced its opening ceremony, nor had it held a press conference. However, news about Majestic Corporation’s hiring activities had appeared on the online job market.

“Y-You are...?”

Thea looked at the slender woman in the red dress. She had curly red hair and wore lipstick. For a moment, Thea could not recognize her. "I'm Quincy Xyla." "Quincy?!" Thea exclaimed. Quincy was her classmate at senior high. She was also her best friend. After the incident, Quincy transferred schools. Thea heard she went overseas to study. She did not expect to run into her here.

Quincy stepped forward and pulled Thea's arm. A smile flashed across her beautiful face. "What a coincidence. Come, let's find somewhere to sit and have a chat."

"Sure."

Thea was excited.

It had been ten years.

They found a table at a coffee shop near Majestic Corporation.

"Thea, I just got back, and I heard about what you went through. I didn't know you'd been suffering all these years. Thank goodness you're strong enough to withstand those hardships."

Chapter 257 "Enough about me. Say, where have you been for the past ten years?"

"Sigh..." Quincy sighed.

"Back then, something happened to my boyfriend's family. I was devastated and moved to Melpolis with my family. I just came back. Coincidentally, I heard a member of the Cadens had survived and even managed to take back the former businesses of his family from The Great Four. I thought about it and decided to see what it was all about. I also applied for the vice president position while at it."

Quincy looked at Thea.

"By the way, I heard you got badly burnt while you were saving a Caden from the Caden residence?"

"Yes." Thea nodded.

"Who was it?" Drinking her coffee, she looked at Thea. Thea shook her head and said, "I don't know. He was on fire when I saved him. The situation was dire, and I pulled him out of the fire without having a clear glimpse of his face." "Did he not look for you?"

"He..."

Wearing a flustered look, she contemplated and said, "I guess he did. However, he was wearing a ghost mask. So, I couldn't see his face. I came here today to find him and explain things to him." "I see..."

"By the way, why didn't you tell me your boyfriend from ten years ago was a Caden?" Hearing this, Quincy sighed. "We were only dating for a few months. We planned to announce our relationship after graduating senior high. However, I didn't expect such a disaster to fall upon the Cadens before graduation. Sigh..." Thea was curious. "What's his name?"

"James."

"Huh?"

Thea froze.

Thea immediately dismissed the idea 1

She knew her husband very well. How could he be the mysterious Caden? Although James was rich, he got his money through illegal means. He had also been dismissed from the military.

Having two hundred million dollars was completely different from having tens of billions. Besides, she would not believe that her husband was the ghost-masked man. If he was, why would he conceal his identity?

Quincy said with a smile, "I agree. It'd be too much of a coincidence. However, if it turns out to be true, don't blame me for stealing your man."

"You're still the same after all these years. I say feel free. My husband is a good-for-nothing who stays at home all day. He has no ambition whatsoever. He even asks me for money to buy cigarettes."

"Alright, now. Since we're both here, let's go in together. I'm interested to find out the identity of the man you saved ten years ago. I wonder if he's my boyfriend, James."

Hearing this, Thea grew expectant.

She was looking forward to meeting the person she saved ten years ago.

She was looking forward to meeting the ghost-masked men who turned life upside down for The Great Four.

Chapter 258 In a lavish office on the topmost floor of Majestic Corporation, James had changed into a brand-new suit worth millions of dollars.

Serena was adjusting his necktie.

Wearing the suit, James exuded a completely different aura.

He was a house-husband just a moment ago. Now, he was a man who succeeded in life.

“I- James...”

After adjusting his necktie, Serena lifted her head and looked at James puzzledly. “Why are you concealing your identity?” James smiled. He did not explain. He did not know the answer to her question.

Perhaps he wanted to live an ordinary life.

At that moment, Newton walked in.

James, who had his back to Serena, waved his hand. "Got it. You may leave."

"Understood."

Serena turned to leave.

Thea stood in the office and stared at the man before her.

The man was approximately one meter and eighty centimeters in height, short-haired, and was wearing a white suit. She could not see his face. However, looking at him from the back, she imagined he would have a handsome face. At that moment, Thea was a little nervous.

"Greetings..."

She stammered.

Chapter 259 James turned to face Thea.

She could not take her eyes off him.

However, in the instant James turned, she was dismayed.

She could not see his face as he was wearing a mask. It was not the same ghost mask from before. Instead, it was a silver mask. It covered his face, and only his eyes, nose, mouth, and chin were revealed.

James turned and glanced at Thea.

He saw the nervousness in her.

He gave her a slight smile. "Make yourself at home. Have a seat." Thea recollected herself and took a seat on the sofa of the office.

James took the seat opposite her. "M-Mr. Caden, thank you for everything you've done for me."

Thea opened her mouth to speak Her voice was shaky.

Anyone could tell she was nervous.

James waved her off. "If not for you, I would've died in the fire ten years ago. I know you've gone through a lot over the past ten years. I could never pay back my debts to you." James was speaking the truth. He could never truly repay his debts to Thea.

Though she had met him, she did not get to see his face.

Thea did not say much. She turned to leave.

Whew!

Removing the mask, James sighed a breath of relief as she left. His face wore a helpless expression.

"I only wanted to send her some gifts. I didn't expect things to go so wrong. Great, Now I'll have to get along with her with two identities."

Chapter 260 James came to Majestic Corporation to meet Thea. After meeting her, he changed into the casual wear he always wore. "This is much more comfortable," James muttered.

He walked out of the office and took the dedicated lift to the first floor.

He walked out of Majestic Tower and stood by the side of the road to call a taxi. Thea walked out of Majestic Corporation, dejected. Although she had met the person she wanted to meet, she did not manage to see his face.

However, he exuded a strong aura. His every word and action could sway the thoughts of others.

At that moment, she saw James standing by the road.

She froze.

There was no way he could tell her he was the mysterious Mr. Caden who had sent her the betrothal gifts.

“James, I’ve seen through you.” After meeting the mysterious Mr. Caden, Thea could not help but compare them. Now, she believed James was worthless. Perhaps her family was right. They were not a good fit.

Thea’s apathy stunned James. I

They had been married for quite some time.

Although they had their misunderstandings, Thea had always stood up for him. He knew of his place in her heart. However, at this very moment, he felt he had no place in her heart. Could it be she had fallen in love with the other him and had begun to look down on her husband?

The moment Thea spoke those words, she felt she had gone too far. She remembered it was James who had treated her and cared for her. That period was the happiest she had ever been in the past ten years.

“Whew!
