Chapter 571

The other was an unknown doctor.

Who would emerge victorious? The crowd watched in anticipation.

Looking at Jay and Jonathan on stage, Thea asked, "Mr. Caden, those medicinal herbs look ordinary. Can they really be made into a poison?"

"Yes."

James nodded. "Though the herbs themselves are not poisonous, they could be after being mixed together. Jay and Jonathan are both skillful doctors. The poison they concoct should be deadly. We'll have to see whose antidote is better."

Thea glanced at James and asked, "Mr. Caden, do you think you can win against them in a competition?"

The corner of his mouth turned up slightly with a smile. Seeing this, Thea understood. Time passed of the audience, Jay and Jonathan were concocting

The crowd stood up in excitement.

Though they did not know who Jonathan was, they knew Jay was the Asclepius. The poison he concocted in half an hour must be the deadliest in the world. If consumed, it could be fatal.

“Please.”

Being recorded by countless video cameras, Christine and Lucas unsealed the poison and consumed it.

Immediately, Christine felt her head spinning. Her vision went blurry, and her pupils turned dark black. She gradually lost consciousness and collapsed while vomiting white foam. Similarly, Lucas collapsed. His face turned green, and his body went limp. Upon seeing this, the crowd was at the edge of its seat. Everyone held their breath and stared intently at the two on stage.

Some timid ones even cried out in fear.

Chapter 572 As the poison concocted by both Jay and Jonathan was deadly, the symptoms showed immediately upon consumption. Christine and Lucas were lying on the stage. Their symptoms were different. Jay hurriedly crouched down and took Christine’s pulse to diagnose her condition.

Jonathan did the same.

There were at least a dozen cameras on stage.

Their every action was clearly recorded.

After diagnosing her condition, Jay swiftly pulled out a few silver needles and blocked off all of Christine’s acupuncture points and meridians to prevent the poison from spreading.

“Ten minutes.”

After diagnosing her condition, Jay knew what to do.

He needed to create an antidote to release the toxins in Christine’s body in ten minutes. Otherwise, she would be in mortal danger.

Meanwhile...

Jay was not sure that the antidote he created could release the toxins.

He created the antidote in five minutes and made Christine consume it.

Then, he used the silver needles to provide acupoint treatment.

Although some toxins were released, Christine's condition did not improve.

She was now unconscious.

Jay was the Asclepius. He had not suffered defeat in twenty years.

Chapter 573 However, Jonathan was no ordinary doctor. The poison he concocted was deadly, and the toxins spread at a rapid pace. Jay did not have time to release them from Christine's body.

If the toxins had spread at a slower pace... If he had more time, he could surely find an antidote. Time passed

Only two minutes remained.

The toxins in Lucas' body were almost completely released. Color returned to his face. Seeing that Jonathan had released the toxins in Lucas' body, Jay knew he had lost. He stood up and said, "I admit defeat. I can't find the antidote with the amount of time I have. Give me the antidote."

If he persisted and allowed the poison to spread freely in Christine's body, she would be in mortal danger.

The crowd gasped. "Jay Fallon is admitting defeat?" "Jay Fallon, the genius doctor who had held the title of Asclepius for twenty years, is admitting defeat?" They could not believe it.

They expected an evenly matched battle, not an overwhelming victory by Jonathan.

After Jay admitted defeat, the staff backstage immediately made their way over to him with the sealed antidote. After Christine consumed the antidote, Jay took her pulse and used acupuncture and acupoint treatment to completely cleanse her body of the toxins.

Christine regained

"Next, I will declare the competition rules of this year's medical competition."

“The top hundred doctors will challenge me one by one. If you lose, you must acknowledge that Solean Medicine originates from Goryeon Medicine and is only a branch of it.”

“If you can defeat me, I will retract my words,” Jonathan said.

Lastly, with a scornful look, he stared at Jay and said, “Mr. Fallon, I’ll give you another chance. If you win, I’ll return to Goryeo immediately. If you lose, you have to acknowledge what you’re currently practicing is Goryeon Medicine. Not only that, you will have to dissolve the Solean Doctor’s Association or rename it the Goryeon Doctor’s Association. You will also lose the right to be the chairman of the Goryeon Doctor’s Association. After all, it’s only natural for the rightful heir of Goryeon Medicine to be the chairman.”

Hearing this, the crowd was enraged.

James squinted his eyes and gave a slight smile. “So, this is what they were up to. They’re trying to get rid of Solean Medicine. They were worried that my appearance would make things difficult for them. That’s why they tried to prevent me from participating.”

Chapter 575 “Feel free to challenge me. As long as it’s related to Goryeon Medicine, I’ll accept the challenge. If I lose, I’ll immediately apologize and leave Sol. I promise I’ll never return.”

Jonathan had pushed it too far. Many were enraged. However, the doctors did not dare challenge him.

After all, Jonathan had demonstrated incredible proficiency in the art of medicine. Even Dr. Fallon was no match for him. They stood no chance against him.

“How about that?”

“Scared?”

“How difficult can it be to admit that Solean Medicine originated from Goryeon Medicine?”

“This is the truth. Why won’t you accept it?”

Delilah replied, "After discussion, we've decided to accept your challenge. Since you won against Dr. Fallon, you have the right to set the competition rules. Tell us what you have in mind."

"Alright."

Jonathan said loudly, "The rules are simple. Challengers, you may play to your strengths. If you think you're good at acupuncture, we'll compete in acupuncture. If you think you're good at medical prescription, we'll compete in medical prescription. If you think you're skillful at taking pulses, we'll see who's better at it. In any case, you may compete in anything you like. I'll defeat you all fair and square."

"If I lose even once, I'll apologize and leave Sol immediately. Not only that, I swear to never step foot in Sol ever again." "However... If I win, you'll have to dissolve the Solean Doctor's Association. Or you can also rename it the Goryeon Doctor's Association. I, on the other hand, will be its chairman. You will all also have to declare to the world that Solean Medicine originated from Goryeon Medicine."

Hearing the detailed rules, the emcees nodded. Kevin said, "Alright then, we'll play by your rules. However, this is no longer an ordinary medical competition. It has become a struggle between cultures and civilizations. Can any Solean doctor challenge you?" "Yes."

Jonathan nodded and looked at the camera. "For those of you who are sitting in front of your TV screens or laptops, feel free to challenge me if you think you're up to it."

Chapter 576 Jonathan was arrogant. Not only did he challenge the top hundred doctors in Sol, he even extended the invitation to the audience of the entire country.

He was trying to take on all the medical professionals of Sol on his own.

"He's too arrogant."

"Someone will have to teach him a lesson."

"Just wait till some big shot appears and beats him up. I want to see him humiliated live."

The internet exploded with rage.

"I challenge you."

An elderly man walked over to Jonathan.

He was the doctor of a hospital on Medical Street. He was seventy years of age. He had been practicing medicine since his teens and had been in the field for more than fifty years. To him, Solean Medicine had widespread uses and was profound as evidenced by its history through the ages. He was not going to let a mere outsider besmirch its name like that.

"Huh?"

Thea lifted her head to look at James.

She felt a deep attraction to his handsome facial features. 'If only I could marry him... I get to see this face every morning when I wake up.' She unwittingly blushed as she fantasized internally. "What's wrong? Why are your cheeks red?" "N- Nothing." Thea hurriedly lowered her gaze and asked, "W-What were you trying to say?" James continued. "Your husband is actually a good person. He's being framed."

When she heard his name, Thea's face distorted into a scowl. "Mr. Caden, there's no need to defend him. I'm extremely disappointed that he committed such an atrocious crime."

Thea had been reading dating tips. One must never bring up her ex-boyfriend or former spouse in front of one's lover to keep them from feeling insecure. She would have to belittle James as much as possible. "I wouldn't have to worry about him if he had a fraction of your capabilities. Forget about him. Mr. Caden, what happened at Mt. Thunder Pass? Why did the news report you as dead even though you're still alive?"

James did not wish engage with her questions.

He wanted to stand up for himself. However, Thea seemed to have already deemed him a reprehensible man.

"Sigh..."

He sighed in disappointment. "What's wrong? Why are you sighing?"

"I-It's nothing. Let's eat."

James said nothing else. He grabbed the cutlery and began to dig in.

He wolfed down his meal.

The way he devoured his food was in stark contrast to the way he was dressed.

Seeing the way he ate, Thea was reminded of her husband. The way they ate was identical. Do all soldiers in the Southern Plains eat like this?'

Thea was puzzled. However, she did not mention it. She grabbed her cutlery and ate her food as well. After the meal, they returned to the General Assembly Hall on Medical Street.

The crowd was repulsed by his obnoxious attitude. Had this not been in public, someone would have gotten onto the stage and beaten him to a pulp.

Jay looked at Jonathan and said, "Indeed, you are much more skillful than I am. However, this alone does not prove that Solean Medicine originated from Goryeon Medicine."

"Mr. Fallon, what are you trying to say? You promised me that you'd acknowledge that fact if you couldn't defeat me. Are you going back on your word?"

Jonathan's face darkened.

Looking at the reporters and the cameras, he loudly declared. "Citizens of Sol, Solean Medicine is a sham! Solean Medicine couldn't even hold a candle to Goryeon Medicine even though it originated from it. Now, just because he learned the bare essentials, Jay here claims to be a genius doctor. His medical fees are well in the millions. Can ordinary people even afford treatment like that?"

"The philosophy underlying Goryeon Medicine is to help the impoverished and the disenfranchised. Soon, the National Doctor's Association from Goryeo will establish itself on Medical Street of Cansington as a hospital. As the chairman, I promise we will not charge an exorbitant price for our registration fee. I assure you that everyone will be able to afford it." "Besides, our medicine is at least thirty percent cheaper than the other hospitals on Medical Street."

Jonathan talked non-stop.

Although this was beneficial to the citizens of Sol, they were sickened by his arrogance.

Seeing that the time had come, James said to Thea, "Thea, it's time for you to shine."

Chapter 578

"M-Me?"

Thea froze momentarily. Then, she shook her head vigorously.

“N-No way. Even those renowned doctors were defeated. I don’t know anything about medicine. There’s no way I can win.”

Thea was not confident at all.

Although she despised Jonathan, she was powerless to do anything.

James smirked confidently. “Yes, you can. Don’t worry. I’m here to help you out, after all.”

Hearing this, Thea suddenly remembered.

There was no way he could be the Black Dragon.

If he was, defeating Jonathan would be a piece of cake.

Even if he was not the Black Dragon, the incredible medical skills he had demonstrated proved that he could be on equal footing with Jonathan. The dismayed crowd immediately lit up with hope.

“Her?”

Jonathan looked at Thea with disdain.

Thea was nervous. Her palms were clammy. If it was not for James, she would have never gotten on stage to embarrass herself. Seeing there was hope, Delilah immediately walked over to James and asked respectfully, “Mr. Caden, will Jonathan be facing you or Thea?”

James flashed a smile. “There’s no need to bother Thea over this. He will only gain the right to challenge Thea after he defeats me.”

Chapter 579 “Fine.”

Jonathan proudly issued his challenge. “In that case, I’ll defeat you fair and square. What do you wish to compete in?” James said nonchalantly, “We’ll compete in whatever you’re best at.” The crowd gasped.

Everyone had witnessed Jonathan’s medical skills. He was extremely proficient in all areas of medicine.

Despite that, James arrogantly wanted to compete in Jonathan’s best field. “Goryeon Medicine? Utter cr*p! Solean Medicine has widespread applications and is extremely complex. What we have mastered barely scratches the surface of Solean Medicine. Since you claim that Solean Medicine originated from Goryeon Medicine, you must have fully mastered the intricacies of the true art of medicine. I will defeat you fair and square in whatever you’re best at to show you how much you’ve underestimated Solean Medicine.”

Hearing this, the crowd burst into cheers. “Nice one!”

James was confident.

He could not care less about Jonathan.

Although his medical skills were not unparalleled throughout history, he was still unrivaled in this era.

Seeing how arrogant James was, Jonathan became guarded. After some contemplation, he looked at James. "Since you're so confident, we'll first compete in herb identification. The rules are simple. We'll choose a thousand herbs from a hundred thousand varieties and mix them up. Then, we'll see who identifies the most herbs in ten minutes while blindfolded. How does that sound?"

"Bring it on."

James accepted the challenge without the slightest hesitation.

Chapter 580 "To ensure a fair fight and make you acknowledge that Solean Medicine is just an offshoot of Goryeon Medicine, I will leave the preparation of the herbs to Herbal Biotech."

Jonathan was self-assured. Jay knew this would be the last opportunity Solean Medicine have. If James was defeated, Solean Medicine would completely lose its credibility and from today onwards, the world would see Solean Medicine as Goryeon Medicine.

Thus, he personally chose the herbs.

He randomly chose a thousand of them.

The herbs each of the participants would receive were different.

Soon, two huge boxes were lifted onto the stage.

They were sealed and only had a single opening just big enough for a hand to fit through it. Jay looked at James and Jonathan and said, "The herbs were chosen randomly. Each box has different herbs in it. Choose one."

James glanced at Jonathan. "You may go first."

Jonathan pointed at one of the boxes.

After his selection, the staff separated the boxes.

All other necessary equipment was also prepared—tables, papers, pens, blindfolds, and the like. They each stood before a box and wore blindfolds.

The scene was clearly recorded by the cameras.

The crowd was shocked.

“W-What the hell is this? Can he really identify the herbs just with this?” “Impossible!” They exclaimed in disbelief.

Though the crowd was sitting on the sidelines watching, the experienced doctors knew what was going on. Many doctors who had spent a lifetime dealing with medicine were also present. There was a wide variety of medicine that used millions of different herbs. The herbs also included various plant species. Each herb has different medicinal properties and smells. Some give off a faint scent, while others have no scent at all.

“We’re done for.” “How can we win with him fooling around?”

Many practitioners of Solean Medicine shook their heads and sighed in resignation.

From their perspective, James was just fooling around. There was no way he could win.

Solean Medicine would end up being renamed.

They weren’t willing to accept it, but they had no choice.
