Chapter 760

Daniel quickly read the situation. He knew that if they chose to fight back, Quincy would surely get injured in the process, even if they managed to take down their enemies. He quickly pulled Quincy up and ran. Bang! Bang! Bang! Gunshots kept sounding from a distance.

The opponent's firepower was overwhelming.

Although Daniel had brought experienced soldiers from the special forces, they were not equipped with destructive weapons and only carried pistols.

Their pistols were not enough to suppress the opponent's firepower.

Soon, the soldiers sustained injuries.

Daniel had no time to be concerned with their safety and quickly ran away with Quincy. Seeing them fleeing from the scene, Dominator quickly ordered his men, "Chase after them! Don't let even one escape!" The mercenaries quickly chased after them.

However, the mercenaries were quickly suppressed by the soldiers covering for them.

These mercenaries turned all their firearm toward Daniel.

Daniel had run for more than ten meters but was not out of fire range yet.

He stayed behind Quincy, acting as her shield, and sustained a shot in his back.

Immediately, he fell to the ground.

“Ahh...”

Quincy also fell to the ground.

“R-Run!”

Daniel pushed Quincy with all his might and shouted, “Quick, run! Find a safe place and call the Blithe King.

Ask him to send backup!” While speaking, he hurriedly handed his phone over to Quincy.

“The password is four eights. The Blithe King’s number is saved inside. Take it and run...”

Quincy did not have any time to think. She stood up and frantically ran away from the scene.

Daniel sat up, turned to the distance, and kept shooting to cover for Quincy. Although their opponents had heavy firepower, the soldiers with Daniel were not ordinary people. They were veterans that had gone through countless battles. Even with their pistols, they managed to take down twenty mercenaries. However, despite their excellent skills, they were unable to escape death. Daniel was shot but was not dead yet. After running out of ammunition, he stayed down on the ground and was soon surrounded by dozens of guns. Meanwhile, at the riverbank...

The mercenaries carefully examined the dead bodies. "Boss, thirteen of them are dead, and we captured one alive. However, a woman managed to escape. The person we captured alive is General Highsmith."

Hearing this, Dominator frowned.

The battle continued for a long time. Quincy had already disappeared without a trace.

"Send a few men to find and kill her. Keep a few here to clean up the bodies. As for the general, keep him alive so the woman doesn't escape and call for backup. We can use the general as a hostage."

"Understood."

A few mercenaries went after Quincy. Meanwhile, the others put on wetsuits and jumped into the river.

Quincy was still on the run. She fell a few times but never looked back.

After running for a long time, she noticed that no one was chasing her, so she stopped. She turned and looked behind her to make sure no one was there.

Seeing that she was safe, she squatted on the ground and sobbed.

She saw Daniel getting shot and knew he was in a bad position.

While crying, she took out Daniel's phone and entered the password with trembling hands. She looked for the Blithe King's personal number and dialed it.

In the Military Region.

The Blithe King was in a meeting when his phone suddenly rang.

His brows furrowed as he stopped the meeting. He took out his phone and saw that it was Daniel.

He answered the phone and asked, "What's wrong? Did something happen?"

"B-Blithe King, General... General Highsmith was shot. We were attacked, and the soldiers fought back...

The general... asked me to call for support... Boohoo..."

A woman's shivering voice sounded through the phone.

"F*cker!" The Blithe King slammed the table in anger.

With a grim expression, he ordered, “Locate James’ and General Highsmith’s phones and send troops to support them immediately.” After giving the order, the Blithe king comforted Quincy, “Miss, calm down. Tell me, what’s the situation right now?”

“I-I don’t know. General Highsmith was shot, and he told me to escape.”

“Alright. Hide and don’t expose your location. The army will arrive near Mount Dragon Treasure within half an hour.”

“Okay.” Quincy hung up the phone. Afraid that the enemies were still on her tail, she ran with all her might.

She dared not take the main road but instead crossed over it and ran deep into the dense woods.
