

The Almighty Dragon General Chapter 922

James also sent the meditation and cultivation method to the Elite Eight, who were far away in another country. He asked them to train according to the method he gave them, strive to cultivate their True Energy and become first-rank grandmasters as soon as possible.

Meanwhile, the Capital was in complete disarray because the painting protected by the Sullivans had been stolen.

The Sullivans' surveillance cameras clearly captured the culprit that stole the painting—the current patriarch of the Cadens, Tobias.

This sparked a full-fledged war between the Sullivans and the Cadens, resulting in severe casualties.

Ultimately, other forces in the Capital had to step in and mediate.

Unfortunately, the relationship between the Ancient Four was already beyond repair.

Even the Johnstons believed their family painting was stolen by the Cadens and demanded an explanation. However, the Cadens firmly denied all accusations.

Eventually, someone brought up that the martial world was in chaos because the martial community was left with no leader ever since the Great Grandmaster of the ancient martial world died Gu Sect incident. A martial art conference was suggested to elect a new leader and resolve the Ancient Four's conflict.
