

In a Love Nest with the Aloof CEO Chapter 301

Men would often crack dirty jokes among themselves. Tobias wouldn't have given a damn in the past.

However, he raised his head and stared at Brayden coldly that time. He says too much.

Brayden thought he would best shut up right then.

Skylar couldn't get through Penelope as the latter had already blocked her number. Skylar could not comprehend why she would do that.

Her emotions were all over the place. In her mind, she started imagining poor Penelope holding her child, suffering alone with no place to go.

Tobias noticed Skylar's dazed look. He stated the facts harshly, "Maybe your friend knew all along that Brayden was married. She didn't show up because she didn't want to face it and lose face in front of you. She brought this all on herself. Brayden never once took off his wedding ring."

"That's impossible! Back then, when she thought that I was your mistress, she nearly skinned me alive. She wouldn't do something like this. She is an upright person," Skylar insisted stubbornly.

Tobias thought of Skylar as being delusional. Upright my foot! The onlooker sees most of the game. However, when it comes to themselves, they would often get lost in their own feelings.

Perhaps she had been more than eager to spread her legs for the married man. And to justify herself, she beautified her inexcusable act as sacrificing and giving herself away in the name of love.

He was unwilling to further argue with Skylar or try to convince her. Lifting his hand, he undid the buttons on her shirt one by one. "I did not accept your bribe yesterday. I guess I'll accept that offer today instead."

Tobias pressed his body against her. He whispered hoarsely, "Don't wear this kind of shirt in the future. It's a hassle to take off."

I remember Brayden saying it's time for my little girlfriend to vent her desires.

Tobias made sure that her desires were well taken care of alright. He was especially vigorous that day, even a little rough, like a looting bandit.

Skylar noticed that Tobias took out the box of condoms from the drawer out of his own this time. Maybe he didn't want me to become a single mom.

She was more clingy than usual that day, perhaps, she really needed to vent her desires.

Tobias had wanted to end their lovemaking a few times, but her arms refused to let go. Her nails dug into his skin, preventing him from ending their steamy session.

He was surprised at that. Skylar is a quick learner. At this rate, she would soon surpass me.

At the filming site, Skylar tried to call Penelope whenever she had time. However, the calls did not connect at all. It was as if Penelope was the heartless playboy, and Skylar was the pitiful admirer who kept chasing after her.

Kate shared with Skylar her upcoming work arrangements—among those were the publicity activities for the movie premiere and a commercial shoot for Fendi's spring collection.

Skylar wondered if Kate had mistakenly input the job as she couldn't believe Fendi would take her in as their model. What a coveted opportunity this is!

"Are you sure? Why would they want me? I don't think my popularity is worthy to them."

Kate smirked. "Why not? Don't forget that you are an artist of Royal Entertainment under my care. There is also Ford Group backing you up. Why is it so hard to believe? As long as you can hold on steadily, your future prospect is boundless."

Skylar smiled bitterly. She had dreamed of the day when she could face Tobias with pride when she became established in the industry. It looks like I could not escape from Tobias' clutches, even if I had wings made of steel.

Kate reminded, "You have an interview today. If the host asks you about your relationship status, you must say that you are single. Always bear in mind that you and Tobias do not have any relations in the eyes of the public."

Skylar nodded. She was suspicious that Kate's repeated emphasis was because of Tobias' reminder. I'm not that foolish to expose something in concealment!

If everyone knew about their relationship, they would have to put an end to it.

After their night of passion the other day, he hadn't come back for a few consecutive nights.

Skylar did not call to ask where he was. He would come home when he wanted to. She didn't want to create problems for herself.

Skylar was someone who lacked self-assurance. Tobias once told her that sense of security should not come from anyone else but the person himself.

Coming to think of it, Tobias was a good mentor. He had taught Skylar a lot of important life lessons.

After the filming had wrapped up, Skylar went straight to the TV station. That was her first time filming alone. However, she appeared natural on-screen as she greeted the host gracefully.

Facing the camera, Skylar was undeniably the epitome of gorgeousness. Kate had mentioned before that good looks could bring one many things—money and a career.

Those words truly hit the nail on the head. Right then, Skylar was indeed using her looks to rope Tobias in to pave the way for her with his money. She just needed to ride on the wave and make a name for herself.

Her interviewer was one of the lead hosts for the TV station, Tom Reyez. He was supposed to interview his idol—Melissa Nivans, the famous actress.

He was all pumped up for the interview before the TV station informed him at the last minute that he was to interview an uprising starlet instead. Tom was so disgruntled that he lost his temper with the producing director in the dressing room. His words were, "Since when did I have to stoop so low as to interviewing a newbie! Isn't this for the young hosts!"

However, Skylar took his breath away the moment they met.

She had only light makeup on—that highlighted her flawless porcelain skin. The outfit she wore perfectly accentuated her curvy figure. On the whole, she was gorgeous beyond words!

Tom held the interview according to the script. Skylar spoke meticulously. Her answers to all the questions were quite brief. She was afraid that she would have a slip her of tongue and the Internet would make a mountain out of molehill out of it.

"Skylar, I heard that you are still studying. Do you have a lot of admirers at your institution?"

Skylar shot a glance at Kate, who shook her head slightly. Getting the hint, Skylar answered unhesitatingly, "There are a lot of beautiful girls in Southwood. I am just average, so I don't have any admirers."

"This means you are currently single?" Tom had strayed from the script and started asking her about her current relationship status.

Skylar kept a straight face but she was struggling internally. Are we in a relationship or merely exchanging favors?

She gracefully smiled. "Yes, that is right. I am currently single. I hope to have a campus romance too, but I am far too busy filming."

Upon hearing Skylar's response, Kate smiled with satisfaction. Great! It would create a sense of anticipation for male fans who are attracted to her beauty. Skylar was managing herself well without much guidance. I'd give her answer ten out of ten.

After that, Tom asked a few more inconsequential questions. The way he looked at Skylar was evident that he was captivated. The look in her eyes was as clear as crystals, untainted by the humdrum of the mundane world. She seemed to be such a wonderful girl.
