Chapter 59: Scratching

Adam 17 A.C.E.

"Adam?" I heard someone call. "Adam." They said again, shaking me. "Adam!"

I sat up in my bed. "Freedom what's pestering all the clerks' scanners and why are you shaking me?" I asked, rubbing my eyes. I looked around.

"This room is not mine."

"I have some work and I need to ask, someone's been taking the money in the cash register and I need to know who it is. I'm sorry to wake you, but I don't want to wait to ask it."

She rubbed her head. "I'm going to start on the paper. I haven't seen them in a while."

"Okay, just make sure the scanners don't pestering anyone happens. I'm sorry I'm not more help, I'm not used to waking up in a strange room. I'll be out in a minute." I said, getting out of bed and pulling on my clothes.

I walked and went to my car. I sat there and another were already in there. "Hey, what are you doing here?" I asked.

"We have gone from you and I need to talk. About the missing money. We couldn't find anything on the scanners, so we're going to ask you a few questions. Do you have any suspicions as to who it could be?"

"Yeah, I do, but I'm not sure. I'm going to check it out. Come on."

"Can I come with you?" Freedom asked.

"Yeah, I'll be happy to have you. Should we follow us the same thing to?"

"I'll be happy to have you. Should we follow us the same thing to?" My father questioned me.

I nodded. I let him in the car. I started the car.

"Do you see it's headed for the school?" Freedom asked.

"Yeah, I see it." I said, driving. "Do you know what's going on?"

"I'm not sure, but I think it's a bomb." Freedom said.

"Do you see it?" I asked.

"I don't know, I can't see it." Freedom said.

"Don't look at me, I can't drive." I said.

"I'm not looking at you