FINAL CHAPTER

The birds were chirping, and the trees are dancing by the gentle touch of the wind. She removed her hood, closed her eyes and took a deep breath. The fresh air was delighted upon entering her vessel. The fragrance of the woman, standing by the leaf is breathtaking. Even animals from miles away can detect her presence.

“Lady Viennese, let us go back.” She heard her attendant.

She turned to him and smiled. “Maybe you want to break free from me and find your mate, might as well?” She asked him silly.

Her attendant didn’t even flinch from what she said. Instead, he took her hand and guided her from walking on the thin branches of the maple tree.

“Where will you lead them?” Kir asked.

Viennese didn’t spoke a word until they landed on the leafy ground. “To the west, where they belong.” She said.

In her vision, she can see the happy face of the couple who just got back together. Her heart ached, she focused her vision to Vigor but the difference, she couldn’t seem to grasp him like how she used to.

She immediately blinked to remove the vision.

“I have already removed the traces of the clan. I have also removed the memories of his mortal mate.” She said.

Kir nodded. He fixed her hood unto his head.

“How about the child?” The attendant asked again.

“She’ll give birth on the next full moon. We shall attend.”

Kir just nodded and they continue their journey.

...

After the war that happened a long time ago. The Sylrians were drifting which resulted with the division of the clans. Viennese was the only Sylrian that was being present, and no one knows the reason why the others were gone.

When she got older, it became her responsibility, she found out that they were being experimented. To protect the clans, she has to distant herself to them and protect them from behind the scenes. Even if it means that she has to break the heart of the man she loves.

After what happened in between them, Vigor refused to take a mate which will solve the problem of their numbers. He could easily impregnate a Vista, but he didn't. That made her realize that Vigor was truly in love with her.

Vigor was truly in love with the woman that came next to her in 300 years.

That inflicted pain in her heart. She just closed her eyes to remove her thoughts. She refuse of thinking about it further.

...

The day of the childbirth has come. Everyone was busy for the awaited moment finally came.

Liria prepared the virgin wine that's never been touched for 100 years, because it only takes a drop of blood to make the clan a full pledge creature.

"Almost there!" Riva said excitedly.

Pyress was panting, she's in pain!

She took a deep breath and prayed that it will be her last push.

"AAHHH!" She screamed and she couldn't hear nothing because of the intoxicating pain.

She lost her consciousness but before that, she can feel Vigor kissing her forehead and her child crying actively.

"IT'S A BOY!" Riva Vista said with a wide smile.

Everyone was delighted. She immediately begun the ritual. The moonshine gave blessing to the newborn heir. The Alpha's heir was born!

After the blessing, they poke the baby's index finger and let the three drops of blood, drop on the jar of wine.

After a while, the baby's hands healed. He looks like her mother, but his eyes are golden like his father.

The feast immediately started, and after everyone shared the blood of the heir. They went outside to receive the moonshine blessing.

After more than 2 hours. The effect immediately hit them. They run to the woods and little by little, they transformed.

On the other hand, Vigor was attending Pyress. She's slowly gaining back her senses.

The first thing that she saw was her worried husband. She smiled.

Vigor then gave her a soft kiss on the lips.

"I love you so much, Pyress." He whispered softly.

"I love you too- oh wait, are you..." She paused and chuckled when she saw tears in his eyes.

"Don't cry." She hushed and kissed his husband again.

"Thank you for everything, love. I am sorry for all the things that I have done." He whispered.

She only smiled and hugged him.

"I only want assurance that I am the only one, Vigor. I love you since those days we've created memories together." She whispered.

Both kissed and hugged each other. After few minutes, they've heard a cry.

"Let me see our child!" Pyress said excitedly.

Riva went to her and gave her the strong, active and grumpy looking baby.

"Oh look at him. Probably because your dad gave me so much anger that you're looking so grumpy hmm?" She talked to the child.

The baby only pouted, "I love you." When Vigor said that to the baby, he giggled.

Pyress eyes widened. "Whaaat! But I carried you, yet you only smiled to your daddy?"

The room filled with chuckle; the baby was continuously having mood swings which is pretty adorable.

Not so far away, Viennese walked away with tears. She's grateful that the wolf clan was finally happy. She's happy that the clan finally achieved their goal.

Every step and her every tear that fell from the ground gives birth to a rare flower.

She continue to step away..away from everything.

Pyress can't even explain the happiness that she felt. This is not the end of their journey. It might be just the biggening.

She looked at the baby and kiss his nose. "I didn't even have any idea that I was carrying the Alpha's heir." She said mindlessly.

Vigor leaned on her ear, "You will next carry the heiress.."

She just rolled her eyes, but deep inside...she's excited.
