

Alpha's Surrogate by POOJA

Chapter 51

51. The Luna is pregnant!

The number of rumors and whispers among the members of the Sirius Bright Pack grew, but they were all favorable. The younger Alpha and his Luna had safely returned to the pack, which had brought a huge sigh of relief and a bright grin on everyone's faces. Word of the assault that had transpired to Kiara on the vampire's territory had traveled across the pack like wildfire, and everyone was anxiously anticipating her safe return.

"The Alpha and Luna have arrived!" Using her hawk-like eyes, Lena had noticed the two of them and yelled loudly. Drawing everyone's attention to Xavier and Kiara, who had only just come inside the entrance of the pack house. At the same time, she ran inside to call for the Beta female.

"Kiara!" Adira quickly placed the flower vase she had been holding aside and hurried over to her sister, pulling her into a tight hug. Earlier that morning, Adira and Zander had returned to the pack. The second in command, who had been in charge of the pack in the absence of the Alphas, had greeted Zander with a big bear hug. He hadn't met him as his Beta, he had greeted him as a buddy who had been afraid of losing his best friend. When Gamma Tyler met the younger Alpha, he had been in the same boat. Fortunately, the elder Stephen had been kept in the dark concerning anything to do with their disappearance.

Every member of the pack had been worried about the two of them. They hadn't gotten any sleep the night before as they kept searching for them until they had received a mind-link from the Alpha telling them to go home, that they would be there soon. They had been relieved to see Zander and Adira return safely, and they were pleased to learn that the Luna had accepted their Alpha wholeheartedly and bestowed her trust and the mate bond onto him. They were now mated and marked!

Before Zander and Adira had the chance to accept their delight and well wishes, they learned of the attack that the elder Alpha and his mate had suffered while visiting the vampire enclave. The younger twin had called his brother right away, only to discover that they were already on their way back to the pack. Xavier had also told him that they were safe. Adira had been waiting for news of her sister with bated breath.

"Adira, I'm okay. Please don't worry yourself needlessly. See I am alive," Pulling away from her sibling, the young she-wolf chuckled, earning an angry glare from Adira. Kiara was fully aware that her sister had been blaming herself for failing to take care of her sibling like she usually did back in the Ardara Moon Pack, but the situation had been beyond her control this time.

"Are you sure you are not hurt? I mean I heard..."

"I swear I'm alright," Kiara assured her, placing her hand on her shoulder.

"What about you, though? I heard the pack had been attacked..." The young Luna was at lost words when she noticed her older sister's neck.

"Oh, Goddess! I can't believe it!!" Kiara covered her mouth with both of her hands. Her chocolatey eyes widened in surprise as she observed her sister's flushed cheeks. It was enough to convince her that what she was seeing wasn't a trick of the mind. Adira who had decided to never fall in love or find her mate, was now mated and marked by her mate?

"You accepted Alpha Zander!!" Kiara placed her hand on her arms, shaking her a little.

"Yes, I did," Adira confessed with a giggle, feeling a little embarrassed. She knew she was going to get this kind of reaction from her.

"Oh my God. Oh my God. Oh my God!!"

"I am so happy for you, Adira!!" Kiara screamed with excitement while holding her sister as the two ladies jumped around like crazy in place before realizing their mates had been watching their craziness from the start, and had heard everything as well.

Both of the twins had blinked as they observed various expressions cross both the she-wolves' faces, which were so cute that they both chuckled at their mates at the same time. Kiara swallowed her saliva while she searched the room for Xavier. She assumed that he'd gone with his brother, but he'd been watching her like a weirdo, and what was that devilish grin? Was he making a joke about her? She just happened to act differently when she was with Adira.

Tearing their gazes away from ladies, the twins continued to offer each other a hearty embrace while acting causally, which both Lunas noticed right away.

"How are you brother? I heard there was an attack in the Pack."

"Don't worry, it was taken care of in a matter of hours. It was a thrilling night. I also discovered that there is a huge river beneath the cliff. It is ours since it lies inside our territory," Zander informed him casually as if it were no big deal.

"Yes, I suppose you are right. It is now ours. Well, Congratulations. You've claimed your mate. Invite Kaiden and Tyler over for a drinking party would be a good idea. Now it's your turn to tell those two curious males about your fantastic night. I remember how all of you had made my ears bleed last time with all of your questions," Xavier teased.

"Yeah, about the vampires..." Zander was about to change the subject and ask Xavier about other things before both of the Alphas noticed Adira and Kiara had been watching them with irritated looks.

"What?" It was as if they were being pelted with poisoned daggers by their mates. Xavier and Zander exchanged puzzled looks.

How could these two men go from nonchalantly discussing the cliff, the river, vampires, mating, and marking?! They had exhibited zero emotional response to any of it, as if all of it were a common occurrence. Why would they be talking about mating? Did this imply that Xavier had also told his brother, Beta, and Gamma everything about theirs?

"Perverts!" Both Lunas scowled at their Alphas and marched away, leaving them both perplexed as to what they had done to be labeled perverts.

That was when the Gamma female and the Beta female arrived and both hugged Kiara. She had so many questions, but that was for girl talk and they wanted some privacy, so she put it off until later.

"Come on everyone. I have prepared lunch," Jennifer informed the ranked males, who had entered the pack house. As all the ladies vanished inside the dining room, the Beta female grabbed Adira's hand, and Lena took Kaira's. When the males entered the dining room after chatting a little, every woman was seated at her assigned chair.

"Brothers!!!" Iris, who had been hiding behind the wall, rushed over to her brothers and gave them a big hug right away.

"Ahhh, do you want to kill us?!" Zander and Xavier yelled as she wrestled with both their necks, like she did every time she saw them.

"I was born to accomplish something that no enemy could!" remarked the green-eyed woman with a grin. Before either of the brothers could get a handle on their sister to teach her a lesson by pulling her hair and squeezing her face harder until she acknowledged defeat. Every woman at the ranked table enjoyed the simple family drama of siblings.

That's when Kiara spotted an Omega slipping on the floor as a result of the long skirt she was wearing.

"Careful!" The young Luna exclaimed, quickly reaching out to grab her hand before the hot food could slip and burn her.

"Thank you Luna," replied the woman, lowering her head. However, a faint growl erupted from the Alpha's chest, who had stretched out to grasp the young she-wolf's stomach in order to avoid her falling with the Omega.

"Didn't I ask you not to run and not to shift?" Kiara lowered her gaze to Xavier's hand on her belly. It was like a shield that had been protecting her since she had fled, but she had failed to see that he had also fled so that he could catch her.

"I am sorry," The young Luna quickly apologized quietly while looking and feeling guilty. She had not wanted to worry him.

"No need to apologize, just take care. It worries me," Xavier stated as he drew her closer to him and brushed the stray brown hairs that had fallen in her face.

"Am I missing something?" Xavier and Kiara eyes snapped to the younger Alpha who took a deep breath as he crossed his arms over his chest giving them a doubtful look. Of course, it was not just him but the Beta and Gamma couples, even Iris and Adira had narrowed their eyes at their siblings. They had been quietly watching as they were neglected by the both of them.

"Ummm," Kiara gave her sister a nervous smile but didn't say anything. She didn't know how she was going to tell everyone. She was pretty shy, and she had no idea where to begin.

"Kiara is pregnant. We are going to have a baby," Xavier announced, as if it were an everyday occurrence. Everyone's eyes flew wide in surprise but the boys' jaws had dropped when they registered Xavier's nonchalant attitude. What fg unexpected good news!! The Luna was pregnant!

"Oh my Goddess!" All of the females screamed at the same time. All of Kiara's friends and sister jumped on her for a big hug filled with squeals of delight, causing the Alpha to move away from her.

"Congratulations!!!" Adira, Jennifer, Iris and Lena said together. "Thank you," Kiara hugged all of them with a huge smile. She had not been expecting this big of a reaction from them.

"How long did you intend to keep this hidden from me?" Zander gave his twin a cold glare. It was tough to look furious in this joyous moment, but the younger Alpha was known for his acting skills.

Tyler sneered, irritated, "Yeah, I'm sure this bastard was trying to get out of attending the party."

"Yeah," Kaiden agreed.

"fk you, jerks! I only learned about it yesterday. Didn't I tell all of you now?" Xavier snapped, taking his seat.

"Yeah," all of the men conceded while still glaring at him but it was ignored by Xavier. Everyone took their seats to enjoy their lunch.

"We were planning a celebration for Adira's Luna ceremony. But seeing as another piece of excellent news has arrived. We'll be getting a new member in our pack soon, we'll celebrate that as well," Kiaden announced.

"A party? When?" Xavier asked, checking on the food.

"The day after tomorrow. It is a full moon," Jennifer explained to everyone.

"Wow, I was not expecting a party," Kiara said. She was excited about it. A party for an unborn baby?

"I was also surprised when they told me, but they had decided everything already," Adira chuckled. The Omega began to serve the table.

"Wow, everything looks so delicious and different. Have you hired a new Omega?" Zander asked Lena, noting each dish.

"Yes, there is something special about today. The only reason cannot be because of our return," Xavier pointed out.

"Everything today looks exceptional because Iris made it," Lena revealed. Both of the twins' gazes were drawn to their sister, who wore a proud expression as she waited for compliments.

"Are you sure it won't kill me if I eat it?" Zander inquired, his mouth full.

"Hey!" Iris shrieked, her cheeks flushed with rage. Why eat it if he was afraid of dying?! Xavier chuckled while shaking his head, then took a bite of the food.

"It's absolutely delicious. How did this lazy she-wolf enter the kitchen?" The elder Alpha mocked, but Iris smiled back.

"It's because I'm learning how to be a decent wife and mate. I don't want to let my mate down," she murmured, scratching her nose.

"Hmm, what do you mean?" He questioned, noting the flush on his sister's face. Iris shifted her gaze to Adira, who encouraged her with a small little nod.

"I found my mate," Iris revealed, holding her breath as she glanced between her brothers' surprised expressions.

"What!!!" They both yelled together as their green eyes were wide. "Yes," she answered, hiding her nervousness. "Who is he?" Xavier and Zander asked together in a shout-like inquiry.

"Please stay calm. You are scaring her," Adira grabbed Zander's hand.

"Exactly. Take it easy and let her explain. She found her mate. This is good news right?" Kiara suggested to Xavier who understood her and nodded. Iris got smiles from her sisters-in-mate but she was still holding her breath. If they were acting like this now then what would happen when they actually met him.

"I..." she started to speak but her voice stuck in her throat.

"I had decided to invite my mate to the party. He wants to meet you personally if you agree," she explained without giving any more information.

"Alright, invite him over for the party," Xavier agreed.

"However, you must promise me that you will not hurt him. You won't force me to reject him because you don't like him. I love him," the younger sister demanded. Xavier and Zander were paying close attention to her body language. Something wasn't quite right.

"Is he an Alpha blood?" Xavier asked, accelerating Iris's heartbeat.

"Yes," she replied.

"Then there's no issue," he remarked before returning to his meal.

"Invite him to the party," he said with a smile. Everyone began to converse while eating, but Iris's body had grown cold. Kiara and Adira had already noticed her.

"So you're saying that everyone, even that fg traitor and his banished brother, were poisoned?" Xavier cast glances between Tyler and Kaiden. After lunch, they had all gotten together in their office for a quick discussion of the critical issues.

"Yes, they all appeared to be a suicide since the investigation revealed that they were not forced to commit the act. They did it out of dread of being found, but it made no sense to kill their children. We had no intention of punishing, banishing, or killing that family's child. As a result, these suicides remain a mystery to us," Kaiden clarified.

"Not only are these suicides a mystery, but so are the attacks that vampires have been receiving from werewolves, who believe that they had been carried out by us. According to Kiara's theory, a third party is attempting to create a conflict between vampires and werewolves. But who could that possibly be?" Tyler stated, his eyes deep in thought.

"She said that it is someone who knows all there is to know about us and has spent years with us. They may have known about Xavier's trip to visit the Vampire King, as well as the fact that I was here handling the pack. They are someone close, but well concealed," Zander pointed out.

"The traitor or spy knew where we were both at the time and when they needed to attack our women. Kiara was about to be injected with vampire venom and a blood-sucking insect by that werewolf. She could have died at any moment. Adira was entrapped as well. They were about to feed her a potion then murder her. But why were our women the only ones they were after?" Xavier wondered, perplexed.

"You are totally correct. Why would they target Adira, who had been here for a month, if we trust the Head Warrior's statements and believe he let the wolves in that attacked our pack because they sought revenge on us? I would have been their target, but they were only planning to kill Adira," The younger Alpha pointed out

"You mentioned that one of them indicated they were going to kill her because she knew something that made her a threat, right?" Tyler had inquired.

"Yes, but when I asked Adira about it, she claimed she didn't know what they were talking about. Her life is an open book, with just the few intimate secrets she has shared with me," he explained.

"That means Adira knows something important, but she is also unaware that it has the potential to expose something that was previously hidden to us," Xavier spoke his thoughts out loud.

"This is exactly what I was thinking. Kiara had previously been attacked by a criminal wolf, but she had been saved. This is the second time she has been attacked. It's not normal," Zander remarked, making the Gamma and Beta look back and forth between the two Alphas. For a few seconds, their gazes remained locked before they spoke.

"The girls are in danger! Someone is trying to kill both of the sisters." Xavier and Zander realized at the same time.

"So, now what do we do?" Kaiden asked. "We should not just increase the security of the pack but the Lunas' as well," Zander ordered.

"Lance is a formidable bodyguard, but if the previous situation occurred again, he would be alone. Jennifer and Lena are the only two people that I have enough faith in to trust the safety of both ladies. Jennifer is expecting a child, therefore she can not be under the stress of following orders. So from now on, I'll reduce Lena's duties in the pack, and they'll be focused on spending most of her time with both the Lunas and Lance," Xavier ordered.

"I understand, Alpha! The Beta and Gamma said together.

"Where should I place it, Kiara?" Adira had been debating whether the flower vase should be kept on the right or left side of the bed.

"Right side," the young she-wolf decided, exiting the closet and examining her surroundings, that she had transformed completely. Xavier had already given her permission to change it as she pleased. So she had replaced the curtain, bed sheets, and a few other items. It was late at night, but Adira had been constantly assisting her in order to allow her sister to work less.

"Everything looks perfect," Adira claimed, taking a deep breath admiring the flowers that looked perfect.

"Yeah, and you look even more beautiful wearing your mark," Kiara smiled as she lifted her brow, while the other woman smiled and brushed her finger over her mark. They sat on the bed together.

"Yes, it is beautiful. This situation isn't completely repulsive to me. Everything that happened made me realize how much I love Zander. I was not bold enough to admit my feelings, but I could only disclose them when I was about to lose him. Fortunately, it was not too late for me, and I received my love," the elder sister recounted, recalling all of the amazing moments she had shared with Zander.

"Adira, I am overjoyed by your successful love story. Even though this is not the case for everyone. I'm sure Mother will be thrilled when she learns that you've conquered your long-held fear." Kiara gave her a warm smile. Adira's grin had vanished.

"You are right, my love story is successful, but what about yours, Kiara?" She asked, holding her hand as she looked deep into her sister's eyes. Kiara was stunned for a few seconds by her sister's question.

"There is nothing to talk about in my story, Adira. You know that my destiny is fixed. So there is no love and no success," Kiara replied, taking her hand back.

"Yes, I understand, but you've been with Alpha Xavier for over a month. I can see that you're happy with him, and you're his mate. So why can't your love story succeed?" Adira inquired, concerned. Kiara got off of the bed, her heart heavy due to her sister's questions. She could not help but turn her face away.

"Because I am just his surrogate, Adira. Yes, he is very good to me. He has never treated me badly. He's the man I've always wished for. Yes, his tenderness drives me so crazy that I can't think straight. When he isn't with me, I crave for him. I need him all the time, but I know I won't be able to keep him in this lifetime."

Kiara put her hand over her chest to hit it a few times to calm herself. Her eyes shone with tears but she took a deep breath.

"Kiara," Adira got up from the bed to face her sister and called her name in worry. "I'm well aware that I'm a moron. But I always gave it my all. I hold myself together whenever my heart threatens to betray me and beat only for him. I remind myself of the surrogacy agreement I signed with my mate. I understand that it is simply the mate bond. It makes me want to be closer to him. It was one of the things that drew me to him. I'm already pregnant with his heir and will give birth to him soon. Then, after a year."

"Enough, stop hurting yourself. I am sorry," Adira held her sister tightly, refusing to let her continue. Kiara hugged her back, but tears welled up in her eyes. She had avoided thinking about this from the beginning, but she had finally spoken about it in the end. She had no choice but to admit the truth of her reality.

"I wondered how you would handle this mate pull, Kiara. It is a living hell," Adira drew back, her eyes full of tears as well. Kiara had not planned a future like this herself.

"Adira, I've given it some thought. I can merely carry out my responsibilities as Luna and surrogate, but I refuse to spurn his warmth. I can't say I don't want it. He embraced me for who I was. And I'm confident that I can make a change his life. He is hurt and broken. I'm going to show him how to love once more. Following my departure, he will accept a woman he will be able to love. Yes, I admit that thinking about it hurts like hell, but at least I can have him for a year, right? Before I leave my pup and him, I can create memories with him," Kiara confessed with a smile on her face, oblivious to her own tears.

"I have decided to be a little greedy but I deserved this much, right?" Kiara asked, afraid that she was being too greedy.

"Yes"

"Yes, you deserve it," Adira smiled, nodding as she cried along with Kiara. They hugged each other again. Kiara looked up at the moon in sorrow.

Was it true that every love story was not bound to be successful?

Chapter 52

52. The day before full moon:

The day before full moon:

Despite the fact that the midday sun had neared its zenith, the intensity of its light was progressively reducing as the winter season was about to knock on their door in a few days time.

The Beta and Gamma were situated on sofas while the Alphas were on chairs at their respective desks, everyone's attention was focused on their paperwork and laptops spread across the huge air conditioned office space. Gamma Tyler had been re-examining the budget he had set for following day's full moon celebration, as the party was going to be spectacular and expected to double the happiness of the pack. Beta Kaiden, on the other hand, was busy discussing and obtaining signatures from both the Alphas and the other packs on matters surrounding the alliance.

"Finally, everything is done," Kaiden grumbled as he closed the final file that Xavier had signed then tossed on the desk, sighing deeply. Tyler turned off his laptop and placed the finalized budget in front of the twins.

"Please check this over when you have the chance. Lena just mind-linked me about lunch, all of the ladies are awaiting our arrival. Let's go get something to eat. I'm starving," suggested the Gamma. Everyone agreed and waited for Xavier to finish what he had been working on, which only took a few minutes. He had already asked Kiara not to wait for him when it was time to eat but his woman was stubborn. She believed in them eating together. The younger Alpha, who had been engrossed in his phone for a few moments, became aware of someone approaching them through the window.

"Xavier, you've got a guest," Zander teased. When the Alpha raised his head to follow his brother's gaze, he discovered Kiara's cat in his office. She snuck through the window then leapt to the ground and dashed over to the big Alpha.

"So you've begun following me to my workplace now?" Xavier narrowed his eyes at Meow, who leapt up onto the desk and began conversing with the Alpha. Just as Kiara had said, this cat was very boisterous and she had her own language.

"Finally, we have someone who can talk back to Xavier without getting punished," Tyler grinned, kissing Meow lightly on her furry little head. Xavier closed his laptop and rolled his eyes as he watched all the males adoring the little white cat. When she had been moved to the pack house she had been quite moody and would growl at others but now she had come to love all ranked males. Meow sat on Xavier's laptop, staring at him for a few seconds, allowing everyone to love her.

"Seems this little stalker likes you, Xavier," Zander commented. Kaiden and Tyler chuckled, and agreed right away. Every member of the pack had seen how Meow had become closer to Xavier the longer she had been here. At first she'd flee as soon as he noticed her, returning to her mistress' arms to play at being cute and innocent.

"I have asked Kiara to educate her en not approaching me, but this cat is rebellious just like her mistress," the Alpha stated, taking a treat out from his drawer and offering it to Meow, who immediately began to eat it.

"Wait! I thought you disliked the cat!" Kaiden pointed out. Why would the Alpha have treats for a pet that he never liked or tried to avoid. Nevermind the fact that the man was obsessed with keeping everything clean yet he was letting the cat dirty his desk with the food?! Was everyone dreaming?

"Who said I disliked her? I am just not comfortable around pets," Xavier replied casually.

"Then why do you keep treats in your drawer for Meow?" Zander grinned, having succeeded in irritating his brother.

"I just happened to have these treats on hand from when I went to the store to buy cat food. I forgot to hand them over to Kiara, which is why they ended up in my drawer! Don't even think of giving me those looks!" With a snarl, the Alpha defended himself and rose from his chair, as he watched the cat eat.

"Is everything alright, Xavier?" Zander became aware of his brother's agitated state of mind. Yes, the elder twin had finished his duty and business for the day, but there was a minor disturbance in his mind that his younger brother soon picked up on.

"I'm not sure if it's just my imagination or something is going on, but I think something happened to Kiara last night," he muttered as he remembered everything.

"Like what?"

"I had returned to the pack house the moment I sensed she was upset, and while I doubt that she had cried, she was already asleep when I entered the bedroom. Normally, she would check on her cat before going to bed, but Meow was the one who had been to our room looking for Kiara that night. Solled her back to her cat house and offered her cat food, assuming she was hungry, but she merely wanted to see her mistress," the Alpha recounted to his friends who had been listening intently.

"Why don't you ask, Kiara?" Tyler said.

"That's exactly what I did. I asked her the next morning, she smiled and claimed that she was fine, as expected. I'm not sure what caused her to be upset enough to cry," he seemed worried and at a loss. Xavier had not anticipated the sensation he experienced last night after hearing the fantastic news about their pup.

"Strange. What will you do now?" Zander questioned, hiding the fact that he, too, had sensed Adira's grief and tears. His mate had also lied to him.

"Xavier," Kiara knocked on the office door. Everyone turned around to look at the young Luna's smile. She was holding a big lunch box unsure of how Xavier would react. Today she had cooked everything in it for him. The Alpha noticed his friends' gazes returning to him, as if in response to what he had spoken about her sadness and tears. She seemed happy!

"I am leaving, Adira is calling me," Zander left the room quickly, holding Meow and was quickly followed by his Beta and Gamma.

"Why are you standing at the door, Kiara? Please, come in. You don't need to knock," Xavier commented as he drew her inside and locked the door behind her. Before entering his office, the young woman hesitated for a moment. His office was so large and beautiful.

"I'd like to have lunch with you. I brought it here since you were busy. But I was afraid you would scold me for breaking the rules," she murmured, her gaze wandering but never landing on the Alpha, who abruptly kissed her on the lips. The young woman gasped, blinking innocently.

"I would never scold you, Kiara. You have the same rights in this pack as I do." He noticed her lips curl into a bashful smile as she bit her bottom lip in an attempt to hide it. Had he been serious when he said that?

"You look beautiful when you blush, Kiara," He remarked as he grasped her long brown hair and deepened the kiss. Kiara kissed him back while closing her eyes. She was certain that Xavier had been aware of her crying last night, but she had come to terms with the fact that it was only a few minutes of emotional upheaval. She had finally found her soulmate and she was ready to enjoy every moment no matter how limited they may be with him. A year would be enough. Venus, her wolf, had also agreed. They had discovered a method to live happily in this situation. The Alpha detected her desire and wet folds in the air, which piqued his interest. He had already taken the lunch box from her grasp, but it was too late for her to notice.

"Xav... Xavier..." When he raised her short skirt, Kiara's body trembled with both excitement and embarrassment. His thick fingers slipped into her moist core while his other hand cupped her round ass.

"AHHH, fk!" When he began to finger her in a standing posture, the young she-wolf whimpered and threw her head back. Obviously, it was unusual position for them and hit her sensitive points.

"AH... Ah... Aaahhh!" When he increased the pace of his fingering he watched the pleasure that was revealed on her face as she panted and screamed loudly.

"Oh... yes, please!!" She screamed and moved her ass to allow his fingers to move deeper inside her aching py. Were there two or three fingers inside here? It was a dream come true! Xavier tightened his grip on her hair drawing her closer to his face. Was this woman really testing him?

"You have no idea, Kiara, how much your moans have turned me on. My dk is in excruciating pain. Feel free to touch me. Pull it out and love it," the Alpha teasingly coaxed. When she slid her hand down into his pants and stroked him, the young she-wolf noticed his lips widen a bit in excitement. Her hand was warm and soft! What more did he need? When his flesh felt so large, firm, and thick in her small hand, Kiara shuddered a bit. She was uncertain how well it would fill her needy honey pot.

"It is not fully hard," Xavier smirked, reading her expression. Kiara blushed, looking away. "Ohhh!" When he suddenly twisted his fingers inside of her, she leapt with delight.

"Do not look away. Look at me the whole time. Its not just my fingers, but my eyes that want to fk you," he explained as he curled his fingers inside her and watched her mouth widen. The Luna screamed and poured her climax down onto his fingers. He continued to finger her until every last spasm had passed, then he placed her on his desk.

"What are you doing, Xavier?" When he spread her legs wide and removed her top, skirt, and panties, leaving her bare for his greedy gaze, the young woman gasped.

"What do you think?" He asked, raising his brows. Kiara sat there watching him strip while his eyes were fixated on her soaked py. She licked her dry lips. Xavier made her to lie down on the desk as he buried his face between her thighs, licking and sucking her already wet py.

"Oh.. my... it would be bad if someone came in," His tongue took a big lick of her moist folds, and the young woman gasped. She wasn't the least bit concerned about someone coming in, to be honest. Her mind had been blown by his treatment of her body.

"I have locked the door," he muttered while his hands crawled up her body to roll her n*s.

"Why do you think everyone left the room as soon as you walked in? They're all aware that I'm doing something dirty with my wife. No one will bother us," the Alpha said, lifting his face slightly before his tongue resumed its playing.

"Oh... Ahhh..." She struggled to get his tongue deeper into her hole, the young woman buried her fingers into his soft hair. This was a living hell! For her, the way he was toying with her body was torturous. Her body craved his touch, but she was more interested in his massive ck, which he aimed at her. Before she could cm, Xavier stopped kissing and sucking on her moist folds. What game was he playing with her?

"Let's cm together," he proposed, gently sinking into her py before increasing his pace. The young woman lost her mind to the pleasure he was invoking. His big ck was driving her fg crazy!

"Is there anything you're concealing from me, Kiara?" Xavier inquired, his eyes locked with her chocolate ones, which she had closed due to the overload of pleasure thrumming through her body as she moaned.

"No, why?" She questioned, clutching the desk for support as her body swayed from each powerful thrust he delivered. The desk was sliding across the floor and making creaking noises that accompanied the dirty noises coming from his ck being rammed into her dripping py.

"Don't keep anything hidden from me. I admire your natural ability to communicate clearly and openly. If something is making you upset, I want to hear about it and your opinions."

He whispered this as he watched her bouncing breasts jiggle with each of his thrusts. Had they grown a little bigger? fk! He wanted to take them in his mouth. The young woman had an inkling as to why he was talking about this but at that moment she did not care.

"There is nothing. Please, just fk me harder!" She commanded, pulling him into a kiss while his body rested on her and his ck pistoned quickly in and out of her. She became enthralled by his massive ck, which was driving her insane. Was it the pregnancy hormones that had caused this? Jennifer had expressed an increased desire for s*x, but Kiara had no clue how wonderful it would be.

"Don't hold back," he drew her ass closer to the edge of the desk allowing his ck to penetrate deeper, Xavier forced her to get off the desk.

"AHH... so deep!" She cried, adoring his skill as a lover. The Alpha had been acting like a fk machine, he never stopped and never seemed to get tired. He grasped her hips and thrust even harder. She felt his ck in her stomach, while the Alpha acknowledged his woman's noticeable bump, anyone could tell that she was pregnant.

"You look so beautiful carrying our pup, Kiara," Xavier growled as he pulled himself out of her py. Before turning her around, the young woman was bent down over the desk. Then he entered her from behind, Xavier pressed her breast on the desk.

"OHHH... fk. What are you doing to me?" Kiara cried, biting her lip.

"Please, don't stop!" She demanded seductively, taking his ck from behind had been one of her wildest dreams fulfilled. His hand followed the curve of her spine before softly gripping her hair as he began to drive deeper into her.

"I want to fk you so rough that I'll make you bleed," Kiara heard Dean's voice, who had been fg her with his human. Venus looked over her shoulder at her mate.

"Then do it. fk me!" She winked, giving him the most provocative look.

"Stop, seducing me, Kiara. I could have hurt you!" Xavier growled, taking back command. Dean was attempting to take control of him because he felt so turned on and big inside her. The young woman giggled, clearly having a good time enticing her own mate. He seemed to be on the tip of her finger.

"You are such a little tease," Xavier tightened his grasp on her hair as he turned her face to crush his lips to hers when he began to feel his pre cumwell up.

"Oh... oh my Goddess! Yes, please.... Kiara whimpered, clutching the desk and closed her eyes as he began to deliver the powerful thrusts that she had been anticipating. Inside her stomach, she felt her orgasm building.

"What do you need, Kiara?" Xavier asked. As she moved her hips back quicker to meet him, he noticed her biting her lip and let her feel his pre-cum.

"You can cum."

"Give it to me."

"Please, give it to me, Xavier," she pleaded, then screamed when she couldn't take it any longer and let go.

"AHHHH!" Xavier shot his load deep into her core while growling like a beast who had found heaven. Their heavy breathing and moaning filled the room, the smell of their s*x was something Xavier wished he could experience all of the time. It was his mate's scent that gave him the freedom to breathe and live. He pulled his ck out of her, his gaze falling on Kiara's sweaty and weary bare body.

"Did I over do it?" He asked, holding her waist as he pulled her closer to his chest gently. "No, I am just tired," she admitted with a small blush.

"It's time to take a break, then we'll eat," Xavier whispered as he scooped her up in his arms. Before the Alpha laid alongside her, the young woman's body was placed on the comfortable sofa.

"I don't feel like eating," the young she-wolf pointed out. "Kiara, you must eat before your Doctor's appointment. Today, the Doctor will examine you." "The Doctor?" The Alpha noticed a frown on the young she-wolf's face. Apparently she hated Doctors.

"Yes, we must ensure the safety of our pup. You must follow a nutritious diet now that you are carrying our child. We both have a responsibility to keep our pup safe. Are you sure you understand?" He went on to clarify. The young she-wolf nodded quickly, her face tense with concern for her baby's safety. But when she heard the word 'we' she felt butterflies in her belly. She was falling for him more and more when he said things like that.

"Good," he smiled at her, giving her the most attractive smile she had ever seen. Kiara wrapped her arms around him and pressed her face against his chest before closing her eyes. Why was this man so fg amazing? He was fantastic in everything he did to her. Pregnancy was the greatest thing she had ever done. Xavier chuckled as he sensed her delight. Before wrapping her securely in his arms then he kissed her on the forehead.

Even though no one was coming, he opted not to take a nap. Kiara would have a nervous breakdown if any of the idiots arrived. That's when he received a message. He reached out to get his phone, only to realize he needed to leave.

"Kiara, i have some work. I will ask Adira to come here,"

Chapter 53

53. Confession

The Doctor was patiently waiting in the hall later that evening, sipping water and avoiding eating anything, before being taken to the Alpha's chamber. As he felt honored that he had been chosen to be Luna's Doctor, which had caused his hunger to disappear. When the Doctor entered the room, it was packed with all the ranked members of the pack. What were they all doing in this room?

"Oh my Goddess, it is so cute, Adira!" Kiara exclaimed. The Luna was overjoyed when her sister had given her a little teddy bear that would light up and laugh if the baby cried, as well as a pretty doll that would sing when the baby cried.

"It was Zander's idea. He is concerned that our nephew might become a carbon copy of his father, cold and expressionless," the last part of the sentence was spoken in hushed tones by Adira, yet it was clearly audible to everyone. Kaiden and Tyler laughed loudly as the other women struggled to contain their laughter. Xavier had listened to everything with gritted teeth while he sat next to his mate! spe*k you, jerk! Wait until its your turn and see what I give you!" Zander got a kick in the ass that stole his proud grin.

"st, how many times do I have to tell you not to kick my ass!!" The young Alpha growled, proceeding to attack Xavier before that a hand stopped him. I

"Fight later. Now it's my turn to give my granddaughter-in-mate a present," Stephen said as he handed Kiara a large bag.

"Grandpa, you didn't have to bring me anything." The young she-wolf hesitated to accept the gift, saying, "Your blessings are enough." Her entire family had unexpectedly showered her with presents. No one had been able to wait until the full moon celebration, so they had decided to surprise her with a present in honor of her pregnancy. The Beta and Gamma couples were the first to offer Kiara not just cute toys but also beautiful expensive necklaces and bangles. While Lance had given her a toy. She had not expected a gift from him, but she was grateful all the same.

"I am going to be a great-grandfather, Luna Kiara, therefore my present should be the best. Please open it," the elderly man insisted with a pleased smile as he patiently waited for his Luna to do so. Everyone's curiosity grew.

"Wow," all ladies gasped together when they saw a diamond set for Kiara. "I hope you like it, Luna Kiara," he asked, reading her expression.

"I loved it, Grandpa but it is too much. I can not possibly accept it..."

"Please, accept it, Luna. It belonged to mate," the old wolf continued.

"It was then handed down to Xavier's mother, and now you are the owner." Kiara was taken aback and turned to face Adira and Zander.

"I'm sorry, Grandpa, but I still can't accept it. Yes, I am Xavier's mate, but having this when Adira is also the Luna of this pack is unfair. She is also my older sister. Alpha Zander is only a few minutes younger than his brother," Kiara explained as she handed him back the set. That's when Zander and Adira joined Stephen in his laughter.

"What's wrong?" The young she-wolf asked in confusion.

"Actually, Kiara, I have already received my gift from Grandpa. Grandma had two similar sets, each in a different pattern, which she preserved for her two granddaughters-in-mate. So don't worry about me." Adira clarified, asking that she take the present from the twins' Grandfather. She was well aware of the reason behind her sister's hesitancy.

"Both of you ladies are equal in my eyes," replied the elderly wolf. With a smile, the young woman nodded. She then began to check the second bag.

"Oh my Goddess, is all of this for the pup?!" Kiara exclaimed, looking at the plethora of small clothes for either a boy or a girl. There were also a large number of toys that were too cute for words

"Wow! They are so cute, Mr. Stephen," Lena said, admiring them. "Of course," the old wolf crowed proudly until he heard his older grandson comment.

"It seems like he purchased an entire store. The baby hasn't even been born yet, and everyone is acting crazy," Xavier murmured. Stephen's brow furrowed as he looked at his grandson.

"You brat! We are happy, this is how we are displaying our happiness and affection. We brought gifts for the pup and the soon-to-be mother. No one came empty-handed. What have you brought for my granddaughter-in-mate and her baby?! The old wolf roared, hurling daggers at Xavier. The Alpha took a deep breath in response.

"Lance," Xavier extended his hand to the bodyguard, who stood some distance away with a small box in his hand. Xavier took Kiara's hand in his and slid the bag into it.

"Umm, this is for our pup," when Kiara noticed him hesitate, she giggled. The Alpha was obviously shy and had never done any baby shopping before.

"Should I open it?" She asked, making him look her in the eye.

"If you want," Xavier cleared his throat, but nodded. Kiara grinned as she opened the box, revealing a pair of tiny shoes and gloves for their baby that stole her heart.

"AWWWW... so cute!!!!" All of the ladies squealed at the same time, while all of the guys smiled. Kiara shifted her gaze to her mate, who was already staring at her.

"Do you like it?" Between all of the chatting that was going on around them, Xavier's voice sounded like a whisper.

"It is the most beautiful present I have ever received. I love it," Kiara responded, noticing a smile on Xavier's face, which made her smile as well. They exchanged smiles before Xavier began to get closer to his woman for a kiss. If he did not take those soft lips with his then he would have a heart attack! Kiara licked her lips as she watched him make his move before everyone sensed the Doctor's presence.

"The Doctor is here," Lance announced. Xavier stopped and glanced at the door.

"Well, I guess it's time for us to go. So that the Doctor is free to conduct his check up," Stephen stated. Everyone left the room except the Alpha and Luna, who were left alone with the Doctor.

Xavier walked alongside from the bed, allowing the Doctor to examine Luna, who was patiently lying on it.

Throughout the time he was checking her, her emotions were a mix of excitement, uncertainty, and a small amount of dread. Xavier had been standing next to the Doctor, observing everything he did and taking notes in his notebook. It was odd to watch the Doctor taking notes while checking her pulse and bump. What had he been up to?

When the Doctor learned something he hadn't expected, he frowned. He stood up and turned to face the Alpha.

"I believe I am unable to meet the Luna's needs, Alpha. We should contact Dr. Harvell," he made the suggestion with a lowered head.

"What? Dr. Harvell? Why?" Xavier demanded, perplexed. Harvell was a former pack Doctor who had been one of the greatest in his day. Alpha couldn't understand what the Doctor had meant when he said to call the old Doctor

"A..Alpha, I think that the Luna's pregnancy is a s.....special case," Xavier was enraged by the pack's best Doctor's stutter since his comments had terrified the young woman, who instantly put her palm over her bump in dread.

"Is something wrong with my baby?"

"Kiara, calm down," Xavier reached out to hold her hand and sat down beside her.

"Let me call Dr.Harvell," her husband suggested, helping her emotionally. She could not help but give a small nod.

The Doctor reappeared, accompanied by an elderly retired physician. Surely he had addressed his suspicions and fears with the old wolf before presenting him before the Alpha, who was undoubtedly dissatisfied with his performance.

"Alpha," the old Doctor bowed his head respectfully before moving closer to the young she-wolf.

"Luna, if you allow me then I would like to check you," Kiara was able to relax thanks to the elderly wolf's comforting smile. Xavier was now seated on the opposite side of the bed, holding his wife's hand as the Doctor examined her. He'd been keeping a careful eye on the Doctor's reaction. The old wolf's surprise was not hidden from Xavier even though he quickly hid it. He moved away from the young Luna to look at the desperate Alpha.

"What do you say, Doctor? Our pup is safe, right?" Xavier asked, helping Kiara sit back on the bed.

"Yes, Alpha, both mother and pup are healthy and safe. The Luna is one month pregnant," he stated. Kiara's face lit up with a wide smile. She jumped in the bed, clutching her mate's hand tightly. Xavier laughed as he watched her excitement.

"However, the Luna's pregnancy is a special case," the elderly Doctor continued. The Doctor standing behind him, who had taken meticulous notes, concurred with satisfaction that what he had suspected was correct.

"What do you mean by special case?" Xavier frowned his brows in displeasure. This old wolf was repeating the same words as the other Doctor.

"I had heard the rumor that the Luna was unaware of the fact that she was pregnant and shifted into her wolf. Is this true?"

"Yes it is true but it was an accident. She had bled, but our pup was unharmed at the time. It was confirmed by one of the vampire Doctors," Xavier clarified.

"Yes, the baby was unharmed, but Alpha, thanks to the shifting, a miracle has occurred. The Luna's pregnancy has been cut short. Normally, a woman would give birth after a nine month pregnancy, but hers has been cut short. She'll give birth in four months!" Xavier and Kiara were taken by surprise by the Doctor's announcement. The couple's eyes were wide with astonishment.

"How is this possible?" Kiara asked, worried that her child would not be able to be born healthy.

"Yes, it appears to be impossible. It's for this reason that I called your pregnancy

'exceptional. Only once every hundred years does anything like this happen. Even though you were shifting, you safeguarded your baby, so this predicament arose. I've only ever heard about it or read about it in books but today I've had the opportunity to witness it myself." The doctor explained, and Xavier tried to comprehend his words calmly before reacting to his claims. Everyone was admiring a miracle, but the pregnant woman was just concerned about her baby. "Will my child die as a result of the early delivery?" Her face had become white with fear, she felt as if she was going insane. She couldn't care less about miracles, her sole concern was for her child. The young she-wolf was not prepared to face the prospect of losing her first offspring.

"No, your pup would be the most powerful werewolf ever born. Perhaps you are unaware that the baby has been blessed by the Moon Goddess! He is destined to rule the world!" The Doctor confirmed, surprising the Alpha and Luna. The Doctor excused himself with a big smile while Kiara and Xavier sat there in stunned silence.

"Wait, did he say that our pup is blessed by the Moon Goddess?!" Xavier laughed like crazy.

"Did you hear that, Kiara? Our baby is blessed!" Xavier hugged the young she-wolf tightly. Surely he had stopped believing in the Moon Goddess but he loved that their pup would be blessed and powerful! Xavier pulled away from her to grab her hand.

"Our baby will rule over the world!" Xavier laughed again, peering deep into her eyes but finding no reaction from his woman.

"What's wrong?" He noticed that her face had turned pale and she did not look happy to hear the good news.

"Did he mention that the pregnancy will only be a four-month long?" Kiara bit her bottom lip as tears gathered in her eyes. Xavier became panicked when he saw her tears and slid closer to her.

"Yes, he said that but why are you crying?" He stroked her cheek, realizing that her body felt as if it were made of ice. He had no idea what had happened to her so suddenly. It was supposed to be a happy moment for them. Kiara had watched all her hopes shatter before her eyes.

"That implies that the surrogacy arrangement will come to an end when I give birth. I'll only be staying in your life for another three months," she whispered, tears in her eyes. Xavier's mind went blank as soon as he remembered about the contract and her leaving him alone. He froze in his place when he noticed her touching his face.

"It seems, it is time for me to stop letting my heart beat only for you, Xavier," Kiara said with a smile, allowing her tears to flow freely.

"Don't forget that you are my first in everything and that you will be last," she leaned closer to kiss his lips while sobbing, before she said.

"I will only ever love you."

54. His Vow.

"It seems, it is time for me to stop letting my heart beat only for you, Xavier," "Don't forget that you are my first in everything and that you will be last," "I will only ever love you."

Kiara confessed, then kissed Xavier on the lips stealing his heartbeat. The breath of a 6.3-foot-tall, once-rejected man had been stolen. Her declaration of love had astounded him. The day he had rejected Petra he had started to hate women. He had not thought about finding love again. He couldn't manage to close his eyes, couldn't push himself to kiss her back, and couldn't forget what he'd just heard.

The young woman broke the kiss from his lips and buried her face in his chest. She was terrified of confronting the truth. She was scared of looking into his eyes, that she was sure were filled with hatred for her. She was completely aware of the contract and surrogacy from the start, yet she nevertheless crossed every line that had been drawn in the sand and had fallen in love with the man she was not allowed to love.

The Alpha looked down at his weeping mate, gently placing his hand on her head.

"Kiara," she clutched his shirt so tightly that he felt her nails in his skin when he had called her name. The realization hit her like a ton of bricks, jolting her back to reality.

What the hell had she just said? She wished that this was a dream. A nightmare in which she would awaken only to realize that she had not confessed anything to him. Especially when her idiotic stunt and love confession, would ruin her chance to enjoy a quiet life with her mate for the next three months. If she had truly said that and he had heard her then she would have missed out on making those memories with him.

"Kiara," he softly called her again, but this time his arms slipped around her waist, startling the young woman. Was this when he exposed the other side of himself, where he was going to reveal the limits of what it meant for her as a surrogate in his life? Was this the beginning of an unpleasant reality for her of being despised by her mate? She drew back quickly, afraid of him pushing her away and accusing her of being a wicked bh who used his pup to entrap him.

"I am sorry," Kiara apologized hurriedly. Xavier watched her getting out of bed quickly.

"Please forget what I just said," she wiped her tears as she studied her hands.

"I'm sure I've completely lost my senses. I didn't mean to express my love for you. If I had the ability to go back in time, I would never..."

"Shhh..." Kiara gasped when Xavier appeared in front of her, drawing her into his arms, and placing a finger on her lips.

"The words from the mouth and the arrows from the archer never return," the Alpha murmured as her rosy lips glistened with hunger.

"Even if you went back in time, I will never forget what I just heard. Even after I die," he declared. The young she-wolf's terrified chocolatey eyes were fixed on her husband, who had a strange look in his eyes, one that she could never figure out. What had he just said?

"Why aren't you ready to forget?" She questioned, his thumb caressed her lower lip seductively. Xavier just watched her body reacting to his touch. She continued when he did not respond.

"Do you..." Kiara paused, frightened of the answer to her own question, but she needed to know, since he wasn't ready to forget her confession. His response was going to put an end to their relationship.

"Do you hate m..." "Ahh..." Before she could finish her sentence, she whimpered and closed her eyes. Xavier's lips were smashed against hers. What was he up to? Her body was hoisted into the air and leaned against the nearby wall in a split second. They did not interrupt the kiss at any point as it had turned wild and heated. The young woman had forgotten everything as she wrapped her arms around her man's neck until her lungs begged for air.

Xavier broke the kiss to allow her to breathe properly and to brush away the stray brown hairs that had been obscuring her beauty from his view. Her red cheeks might easily fool everyone into thinking he was being rough while kissing her, but his bleeding lower lip approved of the young she-wolf's desire and passion. That was what had made her flush.

"Kiara, there's somewhere I want to take you. Do you want to accompany me?" He wondered, still holding her waist and cradling her to the wall. He had not mentioned the location or area to her, yet his green eyes were eager and impatient to garner a response.

"Yes," with a slight nod, she responded. Despite the fact that it was late, the young she-wolf had no inclination to question where he was taking her. She was willing to follow him to the ends of the world as long as her hand was in his. The Alpha grinned when he saw her eyes light up with trust, as he helped her to her feet.

"Go and fresh up. It is going to be a long journey."

Kiara washed her face before changing into a comfy blouse and jeans. She had no clue what type of place they were going to so she opted to put on her shoes before exiting the bathroom, only to be greeted by the well-dressed handsome Alpha. He was dressed in blue trousers, a red t-shirt, and a black jacket, giving him the appearance of a devilish vampire. The small suitcase in his hand was soon noticed by the young Luna. When had he packed that? How quick could this man be?

"Let's go," the Alpha motioned for his wife to step ahead of him as he opened the door.

Kiara laughed as she hurriedly exited the pack house, where Xavier's car was already waiting for them.

While watching his brother and sister-in-mate drive out of the pack, Alpha Zander had crossed his arms over his chest. He was standing at the window of his room. He received a message from Xavier on his phone only a few minutes ago. His older sibling's departure had been announced prior to leaving.

"Where are they going this late?" Adira asked. His huge body had obscured everything from her view, Zander observed his little mate sneaking beneath his arms.

"I don't know," he took a step back to allow her to stand in front of him. They both stood there watching as the car faded away from their sight.

"Don't worry, as long as Xavier is with Kiara she will be safe." "That's what I would like to think, but your brother is quite mysterious. Are you certain he isn't abducting my sister?" Before the Alpha's large hands gripped Adira's waist, she peeked over her shoulder at him.

"Why is it you don't give a damn about yourself?" Zander inquired, throwing her on the bed, then proceeding to crawl closer to his woman like a predator.

"I wonder how you'd get away from your kidnapper mate?" He smirked as he pounced on her for a kiss. They resumed their play. A big evil wolf and a little she-wolf.

"Do you mind if I open the window?" The young woman shifted her gaze to her husband, asking for permission.

"Of course," Xavier responded by opening the window from his side as well. They had been on the highway for a while, the car filled with chilly yet fresh air in a flash. The night air was cool, but Kiara loved it so much that she was bouncing up and down in her seat from time to time. She had thoroughly loved the car trip the last time when they went to the Vampire Fort.

"What are you doing?" Kiara noticed that he was switching off his phone.

"I don't want any disturbances," he answered, tossing his phone into the rear of the car. The young woman chuckled as she took in the unexpected scene. The man, who usually could only be seen with a laptop and phone if no one else was nearby, had turned off his phone?

"I think you need to fill the tank," Kiara advised, pointing to the gas meter.

"Yeah, let me know if you see a petrol pump," Xavier said. A little while later, his car came to a halt at a petrol station approximately 2 kilometers away.

"Do you want some snacks?" Xavier pointed towards the 24-hour convenience store.

"Can we really buy something? Am I really allowed to eat inside your car?" Kiara was surprised by the news. It was past 2 a.m., and this man was truly fulfilling her dreams.

"Yes," the Alpha handed over his card to her little palm before he saw her running into the store. He let out a laugh while following her. How could this woman be happy with such little things?

Kiara grabbed a basket to put all her favorite snacks in one by one. Xavier had been watching her while trailing behind her.

"What kind of snacks do you like?" She asked as she bent over to grab her favorite chips packet. While eyeing her round ass, the big Alpha standing behind her was at a loss for words.

"I'll eat whatever you buy for me," he said again, subconsciously, as he followed his mate to a place where he had not anticipated her to go.

"How about this?" The young she-wolf showed two ice creams to her man.

"Are you sure you want to eat ice cream at this time?" He wondered, watching her put them in the basket.

"Yes, I do," she answered, handing the basket to him before continuing shopping for a few minutes before they sat and enjoyed an ice cream together.

"Why are you eating mine?" Kiara was perplexed, He had neglected his ice cream and continued to eat hers. She had failed to notice him doing it since she had been chatting, but now she had when she realized he had already eaten half of hers. His, however, was not even open.

"Yours tastes more delicious," he replied, taking one more spoonful.

"Trust me, I feel like I am eating you. I love chocolate," he commented further while putting the spoon in his mouth. Kiara took a deep breath and swallowed hard, realizing how seductive and provocative his behavior was. It reminded her of how he liked to suck her n*s, it was the same way he was putting the ice cream in his mouth. She blinked, then hastily averted her gaze.

"Both of the ice creams are the same flavor," she stated while staring down at her ice cream and placing a spoon in her mouth in an attempt to slow her heartbeat and act casual. Suddenly, she felt his arm around her waist pulling her closer to him before he pressed his lips on hers.

"For me, it is tastier, Kiara," Xavier whispered as he licked the ice cream from her lips. Kiara smiled and kissed him back as she closed her eyes and let him eat as he pleased. When their kiss became heated and deep, any individuals surrounding them were completely forgotten. This lovely and sensual time in her life became one of the memories she would cherish for the rest of her life.

They return the car with the bag of snacks. The highway journey had to be continued. Only large vehicles were on the road, thus it was quite empty for speedy driving. Time began to fly by as Xavier and Kiara were conversing. While he was driving, the young Luna would feed the Alpha snacks from time to time.

"I didn't know that you could stay up so long." When it got close to 5:00 a.m, Xavier was surprised that she hadn't complained about the length of the road trip or that, like other women, complained about their back pain and lack of sleep.

"Project work, assignments, examinations, and late night study teach you everything," the young woman explained as she enumerated the struggles of a student's life. Xavier chuckled and shook his head.

They chatted about her academic achievements, particularly in arithmetic, which she struggles with. When Xavier stopped getting snacks from Kiara after a while, he turned to peek at her face, only to discover she had already fallen asleep.

She had tried her hardest not to fall asleep while he was driving, which would be considered rude, but in the end deep slumber had drawn her in. Her favorite chips packet was still in her hand, which he took away, allowing her to rest her head on his shoulder.

The rising sun peeked out of the sky as it was the beginning of the full moon day. It had started.

The Luna yawned and cautiously opened her eyes, only to find herself in a new surroundings. After rolling her body on the warm, cozy surface, where was she? She sat up startled, surprised to find herself in a cozy bed. Was this a bed? Hadn't she been with her mate in the car? How had she ended up in such a lovely room, but was it someone else's? She initially sensed danger when she put her foot on the floor, but when she inhaled Xavier's whiskey and orange scent, she bolted out of the room.

"Oh my Goddess!" the Luna was taken aback when she discovered that she was on a yacht. She continued walking until she realized she was surrounded by nothing but the open sea.

"You wake up," Xavier's voice from behind her. She turned around to find her Alpha approaching her, bringing a glass of fresh juice for her and a glass of wine for himself.

"Xavier, am I dreaming? Are we really on a yacht? Surrounded by the ocean?"

"It's not a dream," he confirmed by passing her the glass of juice. Her chocolaty eyes remained wide as he sat her down on a deck chair.

"I still can't believe I am here," she murmured while taking a sip.

"I've always wanted to see the endless sea, and today my dream has come true..." she paused, returning her gaze to Xavier, remembering that she had once shared her desire to see the sea with him.

"Did you... Do you remember my dream? Did you bring me here because I wanted to see the ocean," she questioned. When he smiled at her, it filled her heart with warmth and affection.

"I remember every little thing about you, Kiara," Xavier revealed. His emerald gaze was fixed on hers while they exchanged smiles, she felt butterflies in her stomach.

"Come here," he guided her to the railing so that she could view the variety of gorgeous sea creatures that piqued her curiosity while holding each other's hands. She could see everything since the water was clear.

"The sea is so beautiful!" Kiara exclaimed, admiring it.

"Yes, it is," Xavier answered, his gaze falling on her lovely smile and curious eyes. She was like a mermaid who didn't know what was going on outside of the sea. The young woman's eyes returned to her husband, who was once again memorizing her face, making her cheeks blush shyly. Had she been acting childishly?

"Umm... what time is it?" She rubbed her cheeks, attempting to change the subject.

"It is past lunch time," Xavier answered.

"Why didn't you wake me up!" She gasped, glancing at her watch where it showed the time was 3

"I woke you once to give you your medicine, and you promptly fell back to sleep. In any case, the Doctor has advised you to obtain a lot of sleep, since only then will the medicine be able to work properly," he gave as an explanation. Kiara seemed perplexed. She had slept like a cat, completely oblivious to the fact that he had given her medicine at the time. Her stomach growled in hunger at that point. Xavier looked down at her little tummy, which she instantly clutched in embarrassment. What bad timing!

"Let's go eat something," he suggested with a chuckle.

The young she-wolf watched as a big platter of food filled with all the delicious spicy food that she liked. One by one he started to serve it on her plate.

"When did you buy all this?" Kiara wondered, while taking a big bite of the food.

"Before we got onto my yacht, I had ordered one of my men to prepare it in advance," he explained, causing the young Luna to cough uncontrollably. He encouraged her to drink the juice, which provided her with some comfort.

"Are you okay?" He asked. "What did you say? This is your yacht?"

"Yes," he replied casually. She had assumed he had rented it the entire time, but it turned out to be her mate's. They both continued to eat, she smiled and gave a small nod.

The Alpha and Luna had been resting on the comfortable deck lounge for some time. Kiara had closed her eyes and was basking in the sun, her eyes protected by sunglasses. Half an hour went by so fast. While they were talking.

"Do you know how to swim?" He asked..

Kiara took off her sunglasses to see the half-naked Alpha in all his glory there in front of her, with his brows raised and his hand extended to her.

"Yes," she nodded, then grabbed his hand with hers while eye fg his 8 pack abs.

She found herself in the sea in a flash. She hadn't anticipated a jump!

"I was scared!" She yelled and slammed her fist into his chest. He had forced her to jump with him, which she had never done before. The Alpha chuckled and kissed her on the cheeks.

"You look hot when you get angry," he admitted while staring at her lips with their chests only a few inches apart.

"Too bad. It is not easy to make me angry," she smirked, closing the gap between them by a few inches. Under his swim trunks, the Alpha felt his beast awaken.

"Then I will find a way to tease you until you start begging for my touch and ck," he shared his evil plan while leaning down to her lips.

"I will make you angry." "I will make you cry." "And then I will throw myself at you, until I devour you, in every way."

Kiara moaned, throwing her head back when he inserted his finger into her already throbbing py and licked her mark. His dirty words had really turned her on. She was quickly placed onto the yacht, where Xavier continued to fk her nonstop.

Between two rounds of long wild s*x, there was just a 15-minute break. They returned to the room after a few hours, when the sun had vanished from the sky, to have a shower.

"He picked the most beautiful gown for me," Kiara beamed as she admired herself in the mirror. She realized now that he had packed a dress for her. Was it possible that he had planned all of this ahead of time?

"Kiara, are you ready?" The Alpha knocked on the door while glancing down at his watch.

"Yes, sorry I took so long," the young she-wolf replied, by exiting the room. Xavier's gaze scanned her from head to toe. His green eyes were a great example of eye fucking. In her green explosive gown, she looked like an angel. He had chosen it specifically so that only he could see her in this sexy gown with its low neckline. Only in front of the Alpha was the Luna allowed to wear such a seductive dress!

"You look absolutely breathtaking," Xavier placed a soft kiss on her cheek, making the young woman blush more.

"Let's go," he said, taking her hand in his. Everything was dark around her as it was night, but Kiara could see their yacht standing next to the dock at the edge of the water. Her mate was taking her to land. Where were they? It looked like an island.

The yacht was left behind when they walked inside the woods. Kiara lifted her head up to look at the sky.

"Today is the full moon," she remarked, taking a deep breath. But the moon had yet to rise. Xavier had stopped walking while he continued listening to her.

"Grandpa had said that this full moon is special for the werewolf community. Everyone's life is going to change. How, I wonder?" she said, looking back at Xavier, then at a huge beautiful house to the side.

"Wow, whose house is that?" she wondered, looking at its height and beauty.

"It is our house," Xavier said.

"Ours?" Her surprised eyes snapped to him.

"Yes, let's go inside," he led her inside, hand in hand. Kiara's jaw hung open as she gazed at the mansion that was more gorgeous than the Sirius Bright Pack house. The house appeared to be built for the Royals.

"When did you buy it?" She questioned.

"Yesterday, when I left after getting a message," he explained as he escorted her upstairs. They entered a darkroom after traveling through so many rooms that the young she-wolf had forgotten to count. Slowly, Xavier closed the door behind him, letting Kirara roam on her own.

"Why is it dark in here?" She inquired as she continued making her way inside. Venus had come forward in her eyes, assisting her in seeing in the dim light. That's when Kiara noticed something hung from a thread in front of her. What was it, exactly? She c*d her brow, perplexed by the photo-like item.

When she realized it wasn't a photo but a sonogram of her unborn pup, she gaped and covered her mouth with her hand. There wasn't just one, but a bunch of them. Due to the accident, she'd had far too many check-ups and sonograms, all of those sonograms were there in this room.

"Our baby is so pretty," Xavier murmured from behind while Kiara was touching one of the sonograms. When she nodded in agreement, her eyes were filled with tears. The moon appeared to be a bit out of place in the sky.

"I've chosen to turn this room into a nursery for our pup," Xavier uttered as a ray of moonlight entered the room.

"This will be our baby's room whenever we return here for the holidays."

"will we come here again?" Kiara was perplexed as she peeked over her shoulder. She had to leave after the delivery, so how could she come back with her pup and mate?

"Yes, We. We will be coming back, Kiara. Our pup, you, and me. We will all be coming here together after you give birth," he responded. After hearing him, Kiara had a big unexpected smile on her lips. So was she going to be given the opportunity to return here with the baby? She wouldn't be able to leave the house for a month after giving birth, which meant that she'd have to return there after that month, right? Would it be possible for her to return with the baby and Xavier before she leaves forever? She might be able to spend some time with the pup.

"Thank you, for letting me..." Kiara's eyes welled up with tears of gratitude as she thanked him, until the moon rose higher in the sky, allowing her to notice another piece of paper hanging near sonograms that she had previously overlooked.

"The surrogacy contract," she whispered.

"Why is that here?" She inquired, her gaze falling on Xavier, who had a blank expression on his face. Slowly she understood everything. Why had he brought her here, why had he done all of this. She blinked as she shifted her gaze away from him.

"Did you bring me here because of my confession? You wanted to remind me of my position?" What an it she was. She had begun to dream once more. She had forgotten about her role as his surrogate yet again. She had thought he was doing everything for her, but in reality, he was making her happy for the sake of his heir. The surrogacy contract had always been hanging over her head like a sword.

"Haha, you did not have to do this, Xavier," Kiara laughed half-heartedly, wiping her tears away. It was humiliating.

"I'm aware of what I have signed. If you believe that I will remain in your life, you are mistaken. I won't even stay the extra two or three months that our contract allows after the delivery," With a smile, she informed him,

"I will leave the next day, handing your heir over to you." "Let me just take a sonogram photo with me," she requested. Her tearful eyes were cloudy enough that she couldn't see the contract clearly enough to decide to walk away. The full moon's bright light shone brightly across the room. She was caught off guard when the contract caught fire.

"What is happening?" She gasped, frantically trying to put the fire out. When her fingers got burned she hissed, but she didn't stop until Xavier drew her back, forcing her to look at him.

"Let it burn," he advised. Kiara's eyes widened in shock when he said that. "Did you... did you burn it?" She asked. Why would he do that? "Yes," he answered, wiping her tears away.

"Why?"

"Because, Kiara, you're not going anywhere. Even after you give birth, we're going to live together. I've destroyed the contract. You're never going to leave me. You are no longer a surrogate. You are the mother of our pup," he vowed, his gaze fixed on her. Hearing his words made Kiara's body shiver. Was what she had just heard accurate? He didn't want to let her go? They wouldn't reject each other, she wouldn't have to abandon him and the baby? No, this couldn't possibly be true.

"Don't lie! I know you are playing with me! Why would you do that when your aim was only a child from the beginning?" She cried, trying to push him away. Believing he would just make things worse for her. If not now, then later. Xavier tried to hold her, but she was crying uncontrollably. He grabbed her waist and drew her closer to his chest.

“Because I love you!” He admitted, stopping her movement. Kiara froze in his arms, holding her breath. What did he say? He loved her?

“I love you,” he repeated to help her believe.

“I fell in love with you the first day I saw you at your old pack. Kiara, I never had any intention of letting you go, so I trapped you in that contract. Then, when I found out you were my second chance mate, I started to push my feelings away but at the end, I lost. I didn’t think I needed to say my feelings loudly. But you scared me when you said you’d leave me in three months. That contract became the reason that I was losing you. I was terrified of losing you,” he revealed. Hearing his love declaration, Kiara let out the shuddering breath that she had been holding. The young Luna eventually blinked, causing her gathered tears to cascade down her cheeks.

“Now stop crying, Kiara. I hate your tears,” he whispered, wiping her cheeks with his thumbs as the moonlight shone over her through the window. Kiara rubbed her cheek into his warm palm, finally feeling his love.

“You won’t abandon me, will you? Please, Kiara, don’t leave me,” he begged. His face was filled with fear, sadness, and pain. Kiara got to see the real love in Xavier’s eyes that she had been dying to see. Yes, his care and treatment used to give her hints, but when he spoke it aloud and admitted his feelings, he blessed her life. He confessed.

“Never. I will never leave you, Xavier,” Kiara replied, filling Xavier with happiness.

“Please say it again, Kiara. Tell me you love me,” he pleaded, looking deep into her eyes. The young woman smiled. It was not a dream, right?

“I love you, Xavier,” the young woman said, holding her heartbeat.

“I love you too,” he lifted her chin up and crushed his lips into hers. Kiara closed her eyes, kissing him back. She had gotten the love of her life. She had gotten Xavier’s love. Her mate. Her love story had also succeeded.

“You are mine, Kiara. From this moment on there is no way, I am ever letting you go. You can’t run away from me.”

Alpha’s Surrogate by POOJA

Chapter 55

55. Failing love.

The evening meeting was held in the garden instead of the meeting room, the cool evening breeze felt even more pleasant while sitting beneath the shade of a tree. The Ardara Moon Pack was filled with delight due to the full moon, everyone was busy preparing for the celebration and anticipating what the night would bring.

If anybody was restless in this atmosphere overflowing with happiness and joy, it was the Ardara Moon Pack’s Alpha Sawyer. There wasn’t a single person in the area around him who hadn't noticed his restlessness. The Alpha had the appearance of a lost dog. What was the matter with him? The Beta had been discussing a few things with his Alpha, knowing that all of the chocolatey-eyed man's concentration was on the woods, and that every word out of his mouth was being completely ignored by Alpha Sawyer. That's when the Beta decided to shut his mouth, take a deep breath, and stand beside his Alpha.

Sawyer's objective in standing under the tree had not been to attend the meeting, check on the preparations, or enjoy an evening walk. It had been to seek out his woman, who had been missing for a long time with her Beta and Gamma females. Martha full moon party planning was in full swing, and everything about it was even more magnificent than before. But one thing was different this year. For days now, the Luna had been neglecting her Alpha!

"You know that you need to choose the next Alpha of the pack, right?" Beta Alan prompted, but was unable to pique his Alpha's interest. He had spoken in a casual and friendly manner. They had been buddies since childhood.

"How can you bring that up now?" Sawyer sounded irritated.

"Because the elders are pressuring you. After the Sirius Bright Pack's attack, you have successfully re-build this pack and are continuing business as usual. Your son's debt has also been paid off by you. But now you're being questioned about why Noah isn't going to be the next Alpha," Alan pointed out.

"Don't call that fg bastard my son! He completely ruined my life and my relationship with my mate. I wasn't going to name Noah Alpha Alpha Xavier didn't need to waste his breath warning that it would lead to the destruction of this pack. Now I can turn an Omega into the pack's Alpha, but not him!"

"He's lucky that I didn't cut off his hands when he attacked my daughters!"

Sawyer exploded, letting out some of his rage. His son had now become a source of additional stress, which he continued to experience at the mere mention of his name.

"Your daughters? Adira? And Kiara too?" The Beta asked, raising his brows.

"Yes, why The Alpha growled when he realized what he'd said. When Alan finally got his best friend to say what he had wanted to hear, he grinned. Looking away from Alan, the Alpha blinked.

"Find out where Noah is if you have so much time to play silly games. He hadn't returned to the pack in a week. He had better not try to pull another stunt like that behind my back," the Alpha remarked coldly.

"I am searching for him. I will let you know as soon as i find something," the Beta replied.

"Martha!" Sawyer exclaimed as he finally caught a glimpse of the gorgeous face that he had been missing. His grumpy expression instantly brightened., The Beta, knowing fully well that if he did not use his intelligence, he would be driven away, stepped aside quickly to allow his Alpha to race towards the Luna. When he ran, the older wolf resembled a teenager who had been waiting for a glimpse of his sweetheart.

"Martha, you are back," he came to a halt in front of her. The Beta and Gamma females quickly excused themselves.

"I have been missing you," Sawyer wore a big smile on his face. Martha had remained still, her blue eyes fixed on him. He looked stunningly handsome when he brushed his fingers through his dark hair and moved closer to her. The Luna came to a halt for a few moments as her heart rate became uncontrollable. She quickly averted her gaze before he could sense it.

"Didn't I tell you that you shouldn't speak to me unless it's concerning the pack or my Luna duties?" Martha's voice was as cold as ice, as was her demeanor. The Alpha's expression turned sad. She walked away without even glancing at her husband.

"Yes, I know," the Alpha murmured as he followed his Luna inside the pack house, ignoring the fact that others were noticing his behavior.

"But I wanted to know whether you will be attending the full moon celebration tonight." Martha did not respond, she just continued walking towards her bedroom.

"Martha, you're coming aren't you? I'm sure you will. We can celebrate it together like we always do," he continued, barring her entry into her room. Martha remained still, her gaze fixed on her mate's hopeful eyes.

"I don't see why I should go to these kinds of celebrations anymore, Sawyer. Have you forgotten that I have lost all of my children and have no idea how they are doing? Lewis died, my girls are mated to our enemies, and I don't want to mention Noah. If you are referring to the two of us as a family, you have betrayed my trust. You've hurt me so deeply that our love and relationship are now in jeopardy. I'll simply come to the celebration to do my duty as the Luna, and that's all" she replied, staring into his sad shattered eyes, which added to his suffering. Sawyer had lost his mate when Noah had been exposed and the twins had arrived in the Ardara Moon Pack. She had completely cut herself off from him. The Alpha grabbed his Luna's hand as she attempted to pass by him to enter her room.

"Martha, please forgive me. I'm aware that I've made far too many mistakes. Please stop punishing me. I was naive enough to trust Noah's word and push Adira to marry. Whether you believe me or not, there was no way I was going forcibly to marry her off. We both know she is terrified of men after what happened, so how could I be so cruel? Martha, I am her fg father! But you still regard me as a monster. I had only intended to threaten her so that she would admit to leaking information. That's all there is to it," Sawyer admitted. This was the hundredth time he said this to his mate to prove himself, but Martha as usual let go of his hand and closed the door.

Sawyer punched the door then leaned against it in frustration. He couldn't do anything else this time either. She would not trust him no matter what he did. Why would she when he had done so many things wrong?

"Please come back to our room, Martha. If you want I will move to another room but you must move back there. Please forgive me," the Alpha slid down to the floor when he heard his mate weeping on the other side of the door. The Luna was crying with her hand over her mouth. Martha couldn't bring herself to reject her mate, but they were both aching over their failing love.
