

Chapter: 640

The fact that Lin Ziming defeated Gu Hanxing was not something that attracted much attention to most businessmen. However, it spread to the martial arts circle, but it caused a great shock. In an instant, the name Lin Ziming was noticed by many martial arts circles.

It is said that interlacing is like a mountain, and the same is true of circles. Today's society has developed to the present, and every field is a circle. For example, real estate is a circle, catering is a circle, and the Internet is another circle. But these circles are generally connected, and they are all composed of ordinary people.

But the martial arts circle is different. It directly divides people into two categories, ordinary people and warriors. Now Lin Ziming has shifted from the sight of ordinary people to being discovered by warriors.

Especially the top masters who have reached the pinnacle of acquired nature, and even the innate realm, they have in a sense, have been out of the category of ordinary people.

For them, the pursuit is no longer money and material, but the exploration of the limits of the human body, so as to climb the pyramid of human civilization.

Most people think that the martial artist is a martial artist, with a grumpy personality, especially unreasonable, and even a barbarian. In fact, this is not the case at all. Once you have practiced martial arts to a certain level, you will continuously improve your wisdom and spiritual realm. So many real big shots are masters behind the scenes, but ordinary people don't know it.

Take Lin Ziming as an example. He has been practicing martial arts since he was a child, and his brain is better than most people his age. Now he has broken through the innate realm and is even more terrifying. If it is to be specific and scientifically speaking, after he breaks through the innate realm, the brain will continue to secrete hormones, carry out secondary development, and improve his various strengths.

This is also the main reason why Ouyang Feng would lower his posture to win him over. He knew the innate realm was so powerful, as long as Lin Ziming didn't die halfway, Lin Ziming would continue to improve.

In many mysterious places, some people who have devoted themselves to practice have learned about this one after another and heard the name Lin Ziming.

For example, in a mysterious deep mountain and old forest in China, there is a huge waterfall. On a large rock below the waterfall, a person sits and is suffering from the constant impact of the waterfall. The height of the waterfall is over a hundred meters, and the force of the water rushing down is extremely huge. If it is changed, ordinary people will already be unable to bear it.

But for this person, it was unharmed. He used this idea to stimulate his potential.

He suddenly opened his eyes and looked at a white dove flying over from the sky. He jumped easily from the big rock and jumped to the flat ground. He just caught the flying white dove and took off the white dove tied to his feet. The creed of “The innate realm who is less than 30 years old? So powerful, defeated Gu Hanxing with one punch? It’s kind of interesting...”

At the same time, similar things happened in other places. Many masters who usually conceal cultivators also learned about this one after another and began to focus on Lin Ziming.

Lin Ziming seemed to be totally unaware of this.

Tao Sanniang found the opportunity and came over to talk to him, “Master Lin, through today’s battle, you must have rushed into the sight of many people.”

“Really? That’s not bad.” Lin Ziming said with a smile.

Tao Sanniang looked at him with a weird expression and said, “You don’t seem to be worried at all? You have become a target of public criticism like this.”

Lin Ziming asked back: “Why should I be worried? I must not sin against them.”

Tao Sanniang had finished speaking, but looked at Lin Ziming for a few seconds, and then suddenly smiled, showing a charming smile, “Lin Ziming, you are such an interesting person. I am more and more interested in you now. Next month, there will be a very interesting hunting competition in Fengcheng. Come and participate in it when the time comes.”

“Hunting competition?” Lin Ziming was a little curious, is there such an event in Fengcheng?

“Yes, the hunting contest is very interesting. You will know when you come, and I will invite you in advance.” Tao Sanniang blinked and said, now her eyes are full of expression, and she seems to have seen Lin Ziming. The majestic scene of the hunting contest.

Lin Ziming waved his hand and said, “Look again.”
