

Apex Chapter 509

Chapter 509 We're Going Somewhere Together "A meeting amongst the major families?!"

The old fox had told Javier that the Whites were organizing a meeting amongst the major families.

This left Javier feeling rather shocked, 'What's all this about?'

This was a meeting the family leaders from all the major families would attend, so it was similar to a United Nations General Assembly. The difference was that the people attending the latter were leaders from various countries.

Thus, a meeting of this scale would usually not be held unless something important was happening. This was not just because someone wanted to show just how powerful they were, but because whatever the situation was, it had to be very dangerous.

After all, there were many people, or many countries in fact, who despised the major families. Thus, a meeting of this scale would usually be the best opportunity for everyone to launch a missile at their meeting venue, and if they did, they would all be sitting ducks. Therefore, such a meeting would only be called if something especially important had happened. When Javier asked Zephiel about the reason for this meeting, the latter said nothing except that Javier needed to attend it with him.

Of course, Javier understood that this was a chance for Zephiel to officially introduce Javier as the next family leader.

Normally, this would be done during the coming-of-age rite, but it would obviously be a lot grander for Javier to be introduced during that meeting. Plus, it would be much more luxurious, as the people who would attend that meeting were the top people in the world.

"I want you to come back tomorrow and depart with me." The timing of the meeting was rather rushed, as it was set to take place the next day, immediately after it had been announced.

However, Javier had no reason to refuse to attend the meeting when Zephiel was the one asking him to attend it.

Most importantly, aside from Zephiel, Javier was the only one left among the Kerseys who could handle such matters.

So, was he going to allow Zephiel, an old man, to handle all these matters alone?

After hanging up the phone, Javier began making arrangements for whatever needed to be done while he was away, especially any safety issues, which were his top priority. The previous fire had ended up causing him to remain busy for a long time, so he was definitely going to be very annoyed should something like that happen again. When all the arrangements were done, Javier gave Jade a call.

At that moment, Jade was busily working, away on whatever tasks she was handling inside her office. In fact, the sudden ringing sound of her cell phone left her feeling a little frustrated.

'Who's interfering with my work at this moment?!'

However, her frustration instantly turned into excitement when she saw the word “Honey” on her cell phone.

‘Work can f*ck off now!’

In a hurry, Jade picked up her cell phone and then asked in a flirtatious, soft voice, “Honey? Why the sudden call?”

“I’ve been a little busy. There was an accident that I only sorted out recently, so I was just thinking about you. I just so happen to have something important to attend to, so I want you to pack up your things. I’ll fly over and meet you tomorrow, and we’ll go somewhere together.”

Jade was slightly stunned when she heard this. “Where are we going?”

Javier did not say anything else. He only asked Jade to pack fast and delegate her tasks to her subordinates.

Jade acknowledged this and then flirted with Javier for a while before hanging up. Feeling a little surprised, she began to wonder what Javier was planning. But this did not stop her from doing as she had been told, even though she could not figure out what Javier was trying to do. After all, she felt that anything Javier asked her to do was definitely the correct decision.

Even if there was an error, she would still do as she was told.

Jade immediately began making preparations after ending the phone call. Fortunately, Chad was managing the company at that moment, so there were many matters she could just delegate to him, and he would definitely do his very best. Hence, there was nothing Jade needed to be worried about.

After delegating all her current tasks, Jade headed home after work.

She was not able to sleep well that night, but she did have a smile on her face the entire time.

How could she possibly not feel excited when she was going to be meeting her husband the next day? Early the next morning, Javier left Audrey’s place and headed to the airport with Herschel, who was driving him.

On the way there, Herschel said, “Boss, let me go there with you. I won’t feel at ease leaving you there alone.”

Javier waved his hand. “There’s nothing for you to be worried about. The world isn’t as chaotic as you think it is, so don’t worry! Plus, you’re the only one who knows about Suzanne’s work, so I need you to keep a close eye on her. I’m leaving everything here to you, so I won’t forlat vase if you come with me.”

Naturally, Herschel had no reason to be stubborn about following Javier, as the latter had just assigned him a very important task

Upon arriving at the airport, Javier boarded his family’s plane. The airline had already informed the pilot beforehand, so Javier naturally did not have to be bothered by whatever paperwork needed to be done. Instead, he only needed to lie on his bed and rest. While he lay there, Javier’s mind was filled with thoughts of him being with Jade. It was indeed a little inappropriate for him to bring his family member along to a meeting with the major families, especially considering that he’d only be there as an escort.

However, in Javier's opinion, rules were meant to be broken. Hence, since the old fox had already pushed him into being the next family leader, there was nothing wrong with him bringing his wife along to show everyone. After all, Jade was going to be the female leader of the Kerseys.

Javier was sure that Jade was going to love this surprise.

He met up with Jade as soon as he arrived at the airport.

That day, Jade looked exceptionally beautiful. Although she was still wearing light makeup, her complexion and clothes were absolutely stunning

Let's put it this way... Javier had a strong urge to go to war the moment he saw her...
