

ARMIPOTENT Chapter 530

"Alright, we will confront them. To make sure they don't flee from us, we need the remaining five thousand knights to flank them from the back. We will pincer them from the back and front," Derekh Malone dared to take the risk to face the demon if this could get them a better position in the Revolution Army.

"Then it's decided," Duran Ambrose smiled and looked toward the scout who was still kneeling, "Do you hear us? Tell Commander Heaton to flank that small group," Duran Ambrose gave his command toward the scout.

??

"Yes, Lord Duran. I will take my leave now to inform Commander Heaton of the change of plan," Without hearing Lord Duran's consent, the scout did not dare to raise his head. Sweat damped his back, but he did not dare say anything since his life was in the line.

"Mnn, you may go now," With Duran's words, the scout immediately got up and quick-walked his way out of the tent.

*** **

"Don't we need a plan or something? We are facing five thousand knights, you know?" Ashley found it was unbelievable that the man decided to confront the five thousand knights head-on. There was no ambush set up like attacking them from the air or even moved sneakily around. They just walked toward the direction of where the knights were.

"There's no need, we are going to confront them head-on," Tang Shaoyang shook his head.

"I can do something big to surprise them, do you want me to do that instead?" Zowen turned toward him with an expectant look as she said that to Tang Shaoyang. She wanted to show off a bit of her power it seemed. He could tell that by looking at her expression and it reminded him about the fight against Ashley. She went crazy for that.

"We can do that and we have Aerelion too if we want an element of surprise," Tang Shaoyang pointed his finger upward. Aerelion had been staying up there, staying behind the cloud, making sure that he was not seen from the ground.

Just like that, they were walking toward the enemy that overwhelmed them with numbers. It seemed the enemy expected them to come and they were prepared as they met the knights. Two people in red armor stood in front of the thousands of knights. Tang Shaoyang could not see the face of the two men as they wore T-shaped helmets.

However, he could tell that these two people were Derekh Malone and Duran Ambrose, though he could not tell which one was Derekh Malone and which one was Duran Ambrose. The group stopped their steps thirty meters away from them and soon he found out which was Duran Ambrose.

"Damn Whore Ashley! Come here! I will present your ass to Lord Julius. You better be the Revolution Army's whore than this random otherworlder's whore!" Duran Ambrose took one step forward and yelled loudly. The father called her blood daughter whore in front of many people, even the knights of their side were shocked to hear that from Duran Ambrose.

Tang Shaoyang glanced at Ashley. The girl was shocked as her pupils widened in shock. She could not believe what she heard. But he knew that Ashley no longer had any use for him. Since the Revolution Army had shown themselves. The engagement was nullified as there was no way the Crown Prince would marry Ashley after everything was revealed.

"I told you, your father was using you to get closer to the Royal Family. He was just thinking about the Ambrose Family and the Revolution Army. He never thought of your wellbeing or feelings. Now you have no more use for him so he does not bother to keep his fatherly figure in front of you," Selena came closer to the girl, hugging her shoulder, consoling Ashley. She had been saying this many times so Ashley could be prepared if something like this happened.

"Should I start now? Should I start now!? Should I start with my kachaboom?" Zowen asked Tang Shaoyang for further instruction since the enemy was already in front of them.

Tang Shaoyang shook his head, "Give Ashley some time to talk with her father," He then looked toward Ashley and said, "Go ahead, this is your only chance to speak with your father,"

Ashley nodded and stepped forward, "What about Mother, don't you love..." Before she could finish her words, Duran Ambrose cut off, "Your whore mother? What about your whore mother? She has been selling her body to other villagers, did you think I don't know about that? She has shamed me, don't ever mention her name in front of me. You are no different than her, both are whores. I don't even know if you are my blood or not!"

"Let's not talk about that villager whore. Now it's about you! I have been raised and educated you well until you become a successful knight to lead a legion, now it's time for me to collect the interest. You should use your body to entertain the Revolution Army..." Before Duran Ambrose could finish his words, Tang Shaoyang's figure blurred and appeared in front of Duran Ambrose.

He used [Flash Step] to shorten the distance within the blink of an eye and appeared with his battle-ax. Tang Shaoyang raised his battle-ax with his right and brought it downward toward Duran Ambrose. The latter was not expecting that the opposite party would attack him at this moment and he was not expecting Tang Shaoyang would be this fast either.

"You can vent out your frustration, but you should not be careless. We are on the battlefield, Duran!" Fortunately, Derekh Malone noticed Tang Shaoyang's movement and reacted in time. He appeared in front of Duran Ambrose and raised his spear horizontally to block the battle-ax.

Dang!

Derekh Ambrose blocked the battle-ax. He could feel the huge force behind the strike. His feet sank deeper to the ground as he received the strike. A frown formed on Derekh's forehead even though it could not be seen since he had a helmet. He was not expecting that Tang Shaoyang would be this strong and this was just raw strength.

While Derekh managed to block the battle-ax, Tang Shaoyang prepared the next move. He gathered Slayer Energy in his right foot and did a spinning kick toward Derekh Malone's belly. The kick landed perfectly, sending Derekh Malone along with Duran backward.