

ARMIPOTENT Chapter 679

"Hah..." Viona let out a long sigh as she expected this coming. "No, thank you." She refused the man politely.

"Why not? Fighting all day will be quite stressful for us. You should join us to have a drink to relieve your stress-" Captain Robert paused for a moment as he realized something. "Wait, your voice is familiar... Ah, are you Viona?" He realized that the woman was the bloody knight.

"Yes, I am Viona, and I also wish you not to get too close to me." Since Captain Robert pretended not to notice it, she drew a clear line between them.

"Why not? You are a woman, and I am a man. It's natural for the opposite to bound at each other, right?" Captain Robert maintained his smile even though Viona had said it out. "You don't know me that much, and I think you will be interested in me after we get to know each other closer."

"Hah... I don't want to say this since we will be comrades on the battlefield, but you force me." Viona got up and looked down at the man with a solemn face. "I belong to someone else. Suppose you get too close to me. I am afraid you will die without knowing how you die, so please stay away from me."

Captain Robert glanced at Viona's finger, and then he smiled again. "I am a persistent guy, after all, and I know you don't belong to someone." His smile got wider, "I know you are worried about me, but you don't have to threaten me like that."

"I am serious. Even your Vice Marshal Allan will not be able to help you if you piss him off." After saying that, Viona's face turned cold as she noticed Captain Robert still had a smile on his face. He did not take her warning seriously. "This will be my last warning for you. I am not worried about you, and I didn't even know you until a moment ago to worry about you. I just don't want someone else to die because of me!" Viona's voice turned cold, and she immediately turned around and left Captain Robert.

His smile stiffened because not just her tone turned cold, but the woman used her aura to intimidate him. For some reason, her aura was so intimidating, and Captain Robert was startled, and his heart skipped a beat.

'Damn, Bitch! Do you think you can lie to me? You don't even wear a ring, so you say you will kill me if I keep chasing after you?' Captain Robert's eyes turned vicious, and he smiled evilly as he looked at Viona's departing figure.

After stopping at Yoram City for an hour, General Goldien and General Arsi led the six thousand armies to the next city, Draum City. This city was bigger than Yoran and Bareham City, and this city produced one-fourth of the food for the Lionax Kingdom. Not just food, Draum City was famous for its drinks as well.

Thanks to their specialty, Draum City became the main target of the Revolution Army, and it had fallen to the Revolution Army's hands. So the Tang Empire would face The Revolution Army in the next battle.

"Our scouts have returned." General Arsi said as he looked at General Goldien. "There's around ten to fifteen thousand of the Revolution Army stayed in the city, and Myth Rank Knight is the one who is in charge in the city. It's understandable for them to put that many armies since Draum City is the one who supplies them with the provision."

"I see." General Goldien nodded his head as he rubbed his snout. "Let's send the scout once more to get more detailed information, like their average level. While we are on it, I will report this to Marshal Alton."

After his defeat against Tang Shaoyang, Goldien was becoming more cautious than ever. If it were him before his loss to the Tang Empire, he would order his force to storm into the city already. If one man could force his tribe and him to surrender, it was not weird for ten thousand force to defeat them even though he was confident in his subordinates' strength.

"There's no need!" Marshal Alton entered the main tent. "Their force's average level is around level 600 to level 700, and five Epic Rank officers, one Ancient Rank officer, and the leader are Myth Rank Knight."

General Arsi and General Goldien were about to greet Marshal Alton properly, but the latter waved his hand. "Skip with the formality. Are you confident taking them down with a minimal casualty?" Marshal Alton questioned the two Generals.

Goldien was Myth Rank Beast, and General Arsi was Ancient Rank Knight. Both looked at each other, and Goldien was sure that the battle was theirs as long as they took care of the officers and the commander. However, he did not dare to ensure minimal casualty.

"We can win, but I don't think I can guarantee the minimal casualty, Marshal." Goldien was the first one to give his response. Since even Goldien admitted by himself like that, General Arsi's confidence was shaken. He nodded his head, indicating that he agreed with General Goldien.

"I will call the Elven Division of Luminous Legion to help you two. Queen Ava is Primordial Rank, and I think three divisions should be enough to capture Braum City." Marshal Alton took out a scroll from his inventory. He opened the scroll and bit his thumb before putting his blood on the scroll.

After that, he handed the scroll to General Arsi. "Our main force is following closely behind. Send this to Vice Marshal Allan."

"Yes, Sir." General Arsi took the scroll with his two hands and left the tent in a rush.

Meanwhile, Viona was standing at the high hill and looked at Braum City. She heard from the others that the Revolution Army had taken over the city so that they would fight the Revolution Army soon... "Finally..." She smiled viciously while looking at the wall of Braum City.
