

ARMIPOTENT Chapter 695

"I can see what you see, including those screens from the system. I think it's because I am your spirit, so that makes me part of you." Zara nodded her head and looked at the transparent screen in front of Tang Shaoyang. "I am still curious what this Gunslinger is about."

"Ah, you haven't gone to my world yet, right?" Tang Shaoyang remembered that Zara had not been on Earth before. He contracted her when he was on the Trial of the Epic. "While people on Earth don't know anything about magic and stuff, we invented something called a gun. Gun is..." He explained the concept of the gun and also the type of the common gun.

"I see, then this only makes me even more curious about the class. Even the System recognizes the gun to create such a class. Maybe there are even mana bullets, so your skeletons will shoot mana bullets instead of the ammo you are talking about." Zara smiled as she scanned Keeper from top to bottom.

"Now you say it like that, and I am also curious now." Tang Shaoyang almost forgot this was not just the same gun on the earth. It was something that the system recognized, just like Zara said. He then looked at Keeper. This one was different than the others, calmer, thoughtful, and more intelligent than the other three skeletons. "Maybe I should ask him instead?"

"You can do that too, but I already can tell Keeper's answer. Do you want me to answer it for him?" Zara smiled while shaking her head and continued even though Tang Shaoyang did not ask her to. "He will answer it like this, 'I will follow whatever you want me to be, My Lord,' or something similar like that."

Tang Shaoyang could not refute that. He felt like Keeper would give him a reply like that because this skeleton was smarter than the others. Even though he knew the answer, he still motioned Keeper to come over and ask the Elite Skeleton Archer. "You have four choices for your next evolution, Master Skeleton Archer, Hunter, Ranger, and Gunslinger. Which one do you want?"

Keeper knelt with one of his knees and replied firmly. "I will follow whatever path you choose for me, Master." Those words directly entered Tang Shaoyang's head as Keeper still could not speak. Thanks to this as well, Zara could not hear it.

"So, what is his answer?" Zara had a victorious smile over her face as she asked Tang Shaoyang. The latter shrugged and smiled in response. "Keeper chooses Gunslinger. You are wrong about Keeper, and he chooses Gunslinger himself."

That was a straight lie, but he did that for fun. Since Zara was not in the Spiritual World, she could not listen to what Keeper said. She could see the system screen, but she could not hear what was inside his head. The Angel of Death looked down at Keeper, but the latter ignored her.

Tang Shaoyang ignored the suspicious gaze from the angel and chose Gunslinger. The same bright light enveloped Keeper, and it lasted for thirty seconds before he could get to look at Keeper's new look. The bow and the quiver disappeared, but he did not see any guns attached to Keeper.

[Your Elite Skeleton Archer has advanced to Gunslinger Skeleton!]

Tang Shaoyang scanned from top to bottom to ensure he did not miss it, but he could not find the gun. "Where's your gun?" He asked while trying to find the difference on Keeper. The only difference was Keeper no longer had its bow and quiver. Gunslinger did not get taller or bigger. It remained in the same size but without bow and quiver.

'Are you talking about this, Master?' Keeper raised his right arm, and the whole right arm slowly formed a gun. It was not just a handgun, but something similar to the sniper rifle in the movie but made of bone.

Tang Shaoyang squinted his eyes and observed the gun. He never had a gun before, even when he was still a street thug with the Dragon Talon. However, he knew the most important part of the gun: the cartridge to put the bullet into the gun. He did not see that in that sniper made of bone.

Tang Shaoyang did not bother to ask the details about the gun from Keeper as he pulled out another eight knights. He placed all of them ten meters away from Keeper as he wanted to try this gun. "Use your gun to kill them! But wait, do you only have one gun?" it was kinda suck if Keeper only had one gun, the sniper one. That meant Keeper could only fight from a distance.

'No, I have this one too.' Keeper raised his left hand, and his left palm transformed into a handgun, but bigger than a normal handgun. The normal handgun in his mind was something like a Glock, but the one that formed in Keeper's hand was twice bigger than the Glock. From the look of it, that smaller gun had big firepower as well. "So you have two guns you can use for the short-range and the long-range. Good, try your new guns on them."

Keeper nodded and aimed the smaller gun at one of the knights. Even though the gun had no scope, Keeper had an eye skill to help with the aim. The muzzle aimed at the knight's forehead, and the Gunslinger Skeleton released the shot.

Bang!

The smaller gun released a blue smoke at the end of the muzzle as a blue streak line formed in the air. Tang Shaoyang observed the bullet that came out of the gun, and he was sure it was not a bone. The bullet was made of mana, and the mana bullet went straight to the man's head.

The head exploded as the juice and blood spilled all over the place. The seven knights around the dead body were screaming. The head explosion, the scream, and the clanking noise filled the atmosphere. Yes, the clanking noise from Kaiser... The Meteorite Skeleton was getting excited with the explosion.