

The Amazing Son in Law Chapter (Charlie Wade)

CHAPTER 2608

With that, Hank said with some emotion: "In fact, after the money reaches a certain level, it doesn't make sense to me. My life state must have been fixed since I earned half a million dollars a year, until I When I was able to earn 10 million U.S. dollars a year, my living standards and conditions were the same as when I made half a million a year. Although I am not a rich person, I have worked for so many years and I have tens of millions of dollars. In addition, I have made some stock investments. I have a portion of Apple's stock and Tesla's stock in my hand. If all of them are discounted, it may cost US$200 to US$300 million. The Emgrand Group is incomparable, but I don't know where to spend it."

"The house I live in is not expensive, and all the investment is added up, and it's about one million dollars, and I am not an expensive house I can't afford it, but I think it's too much trouble to live, and it's not necessary."

"The car I drove is a Tesla, which is the most common one. It is economical and environmentally friendly. The renminbi is less than 60,000

U.S. dollars. And my monthly expenses, only a few thousand U.S. dollars are enough, and this expense can be covered by my current salary alone. As for the rest Money can only be stored in a bank account. It has completely lost its liquidity. No matter how much money is made, it will be donated to charities in the future. So, for me, I feel that I might as well teach here. .

Charlie surprised and asked: "do not you prepared to give their children left a generous money?

Hank smiles:" I really have no idea of this, my daughter the same age as big as you, me and her living conditions Almost, it will make money, but it will not spend money at all, and there is no motivation to spend money at all

Charlie can't help but feel a bit difficult when he hears this.

Hank is obviously not interested in money, and just wants to teach and educate people. What did he use to impress him and make him willing to do it with him?

Charlie thought about it, but didn't think of a good way.

However, a black-and-white sketch on the wall of Hank's office attracted his attention.

The simple strokes of the sketch only drew the shape of a tree. It doesn't seem to be peculiar. Even most people find it difficult to distinguish the species of this tree by its shape.

But Charlie still looked at the painting and said with interest: "Professor Hank, did you draw this sketch by yourself?

Hank asked curiously: "How do you know? I didn't sign on it either. .

what.

Charlie smiled and said, "Because I know this tree

"Oh?" Hank hurriedly asked him: "Since you know this tree, can you tell me something about it?"

Charlie nodded and smiled: "Professor Hank, you draw This tree is actually a redwood tree in California, USA."

Hank was taken aback, and Charlie continued: "Actually, this simple stroke of yours should be taken from the emblem of Stanford University. If I If you remember correctly, the pattern in the center of the Stanford University badge is such a red cedar tree."

Hank asked in surprise: "Is Mr. Wade also graduated from Stanford?"
