

The Amazing Son in Law Chapter (Charlie Wade)

CHAPTER 2610

Hank sighed: "Your mother was a great celebrity in Stanford back then! Not only is the best Chinese female student in Stanford University's history, but also the president of the Stanford Chinese Alumni Association and the initiator of the Stanford Internet Venture Capital Fund. Many of the top high-tech companies in Silicon Valley are now in full swing. They used your mother's funds to do it step by step."

He said that he couldn't help sighing, and said with a little melancholy and regret: "You Back then, my mother was really the most powerful woman in Stanford and Silicon Valley."

"Not only is she beautiful, magnificent, and knowledgeable, but she is also extremely capable. The strength of her family is also a wealthy country! The key is that the family is so rich that he can work so hard and create great achievements, this life I have only seen your mother a year all of our Chinese students, including those pretentious white classmate in front of your mother also eclipsed here , Hank sighed: "Back then, Stanford circulated a saying, saying that with so many entrepreneurial elites in Silicon Valley, at least one-third of men are admirers of your mother. This sentence sounds like an exaggeration, but that era , Your mother's name is almost unknown to everyone in Silicon Valley. Everyone respects her and admires her very much.

In fact, it was the first time Charlie heard about these things about his mother.

Charlie was not born when his mother was studying at Stanford and investing in Silicon Valley.

After Charlie was born, his mother gradually became his father's wise helper. Therefore, in Charlie's memory, his mother was not the image of a business elite.

Moreover, Charlie knew very little about his mother before he was born. His mother was low-key and never talked about it with himself.

Now that he heard what Hank said, Charlie was also very interested in his heart. He asked: "Professor Hank, do you still know anything about my mother?"

Hank said seriously: "That's too much. . Night can't be finished."

Speaking of this, Hank couldn't help but feel sad, and said with emotion: "After your mother had an accident in Aurous Hill, dozens of people from our classmate chartered a flight back to Aurous Hill to find you. I was there at the time, and there were many of you. My mother's classmate at Stanford back then, although I was a native of Aurous Hill, I started all the relationships that could be initiated in Aurous Hill at that time, but I couldn't find your whereabouts.

Later, there were more than 300 people in our Stanford Classmates Association, as well as Silicon Valley. In the field of venture capital, your mother's nearly 100 friends worked together to find your whereabouts all over the world. After searching for ten years, there was no result. Where have you been for so many years?

Charlie did not expect that after the parents' accident, My mother's classmates and friends have even been looking for him for ten years.

He was moved, and he couldn't help saying with emotion, "Professor Hank, in fact, I have been in Aurous Hill for so many years. "After that, Charlie explained to Hank about hiding himself in the orphanage.

Hank couldn't help sighing, "I didn't expect that you would have been asking him in Aurous Hill Charlie: " Professor, do you know my father?"

Hank shook his head and said, "When your father was in love with your mother, he had never contacted us. We only know that your father is the young master of the Wade family, but more details is not very clear, your parents' wedding in Eastcliff time, my wife and I have planned to come to participate, but when the United States there is some things, we can only temporarily change the plan."

said , He couldn't help sighing: "The United States and China are still too far apart after all. If I remember correctly, after your mother and your father returned to China and got married until she had an accident in Aurous Hill, I met her three times. Once, she took you to Stanford."