Zara nodded and asked her, "Mom, what book do you want to read?"

Deana smiled and said: "Suddenly miss our youth, the most popular literary works in China at that time were a batch of classic masterpieces from the former Soviet Union, such as "How Steel is Made", "The Dawn Here Is Quiet", "Quiet River Don", at that time, most of the movies shown in the cinema were films from the former Soviet Union period.

The most famous one was "Lenin in 1918"."

Zara said blankly, "Mom, what you said, I don't seem to have any impression..."

Deana smiled slightly: "They are all very old works. You young people may not like to watch them, but the influence on our generation is still very deep."

Zara nodded: "Then I'll talk to the guard at the door in a while."

Having said that, she couldn't help sighing helplessly, and said:

"I don't know when my benefactor is going to see us. I dreamed of him last night..."

Deana asked curiously: "What did you dream about him?"

Zara smiled bitterly: "I dreamed that he was fighting with Dad.

Dad was beaten with a bruised nose and swollen face. He called me to help..."

Deana smiled and asked her: "Then have you helped?"

"No." Zara stuck out his tongue and said, "Not only did he fail to help him, but he kicked his shoes into the river."

Deana couldn't help laughing a few times: "Haha, what is your dream."

Zara smiled and said: "In my dream, it seems to be by the Yongding River, which is where I liked to fly kites when I was a kid."

After that, Zara said again: "You said it's strange to dream. I seem to be a little girl in my dream, but when I dreamed, I didn't feel at all against it."

Deana nodded: "What's weird about this, most of the dreams that violate peace are incomparably devoted when they are in the dream, and they feel absurd after waking up."

As she said, she sighed softly, and continued: "Hey...in my life, I don't know how many ridiculous and absurd dreams have been made.

I dreamed that the dead are still alive, and dreamed that I changed my way of living... "

Zara looked at Deana and saw that there was a regret that could never be erased on her face.

She couldn't help but ask: "Mom, do you regret marrying my dad?"

Deana was slightly astonished, and immediately gave a wry smile, and said: "If it was the girl who was as old as you, knowing that marrying that man will accompany her lifelong unwillingness, then she would definitely not marry, but when that girl had a girl just like she did.

When you are the eldest daughter, ask her again, and she will definitely not regret it."

After Zara listened, his eyes couldn't help but a reddish color.

She knows the meaning of her mother's words.

If only for herself, marrying her father would be regrettable;

However, if she counts herself in, marries her father, has herself and a brother, she will not regret it.

It's just that I don't regret this sentence, but the true love of my mother's life is buried.

Zara couldn't help but said, "Mom...thank you..."

Deana smiled and said, "Silly Girl, what do you thank me for?"

After all, she gently wiped away the teardrops from the corners of Zara's eyes, and said seriously:

"So, you are not me, you are the same as the girl who was the same age as you back then, so you must be cautious when choosing the other half in the future. , Don't take the mother's old path, there are countless kinds of men in this world, tall, short, fat, thin, white, black, poor, and rich.

All these are not important, only The right one is the most important, so in the future, you must choose the right one, remember what mom said, don't just do it."

Zara nodded repeatedly, and said earnestly: "Mom, I know..."

At this moment, the doorbell rang suddenly.

Zara hurriedly said, "It should be the aunt who came to collect the tableware. I'll open the door."

After that, he got up and went to the door of the room, stretched out his hand and opened the door.

But she never dreamed that at the moment when the door was opened, it was the man who leaped into her eyes and dreamed about her for a long time...

Charlie!

At this time, Charlie, who was tall and lanky with a cold expression, was standing at the door of Zara's room. When Charlie's face was close at hand, Zara's whole body was struck by lightning, and the emotions of excitement and excitement in his heart were already gone. Can't hold back.

She looked at Charlie with ecstasy, and blurted out: It's really you!"

Charlie looked at Zara, and said blankly: "Miss Banks, please go in."

Zara didn't know why, but he took a few steps back obediently and asked subconsciously: do you want to come in?"

Charlie didn't speak, he pulled Zayne out from the wall outside the side door and dragged him in front of him.

Zara didn't have time to see Zayne's face in an instant, and saw Charlie pull out a person from the blind spot next to him, and then...

Boom!

Seeing that Charlie actually raised his foot,

he kicked the man into the room with one kick!
