it would be equivalent to sending her back to Banks's day.

It was returned to the Banks Family. Master banks decided to sacrifice her for the Banks Family.

Although I am Xion's grandfather, but also an outsider, Master Banks doesn't have to apologize to me."

Lord Elms (Wilfred) didn't say this from the bottom of his heart.

He actually loved Xion very much.

Lord banks betrayed Xion, and he was also very resentful.

However, he knew that his strength was too far from the Banks Family.

If he said that he hated the Elms family in front of Bank's Butler today, he would undoubtedly turn the Banks Family into an enemy.

Therefore, he deliberately used this kind of rhetoric that Xion was the Banks Family and he was an outsider

. On the one hand, he could not directly offend the Banks Family on this topic.

On the other hand, he could also implicitly express his dissatisfaction with the Banks Family. .

After all, a person who can even sacrifice his own granddaughter has nothing worthy of his continued friendship with Lord Elms (Wilfred)

, so it is best to go on his own path in the future, and no one will bother each other again.

Bank's Butler is like a human being, how can he not hear the meaning of Lord Elms (Wilfred)'s words.

However, he still spoke very wittily: " you are right. Since Xion is the illegitimate daughter of the eldest young master, it must be of the Banks Family's blood. However, if this is the case, the master still feels towards you and the Elms family. Very guilty, after all, half of the blood flowing in Xion's body comes from the Elms family..."

Lord Elms (Wilfred) was a little irritable. He found that Bank's Butler was always reluctant to move the topic away from Xion.

In fact, he didn't want to talk on this topic, why did he hold onto it?

Just when he was puzzled, Bank's Butler said: "lord Elms, in fact, what the master meant is that the Elms family and the Banks Family are not an ordinary master-servant relationship.

After all, the Elms family has bred a blood line for the Banks Family.

The master feels deeply guilty for this, and very much hopes that he can make up for this matter."

While talking, Lord Elms (Wilfred)'s eldest son, Yoel, walked in with an iron charcoal brazier.

Hearing this, he was immediately overjoyed. While placing the brazier in front of Bank's Butler, he couldn't help but waited for Bank's Butler's following in surprise.

He wanted to know what Banks Family Master was willing to make up for the Elms family.

At this moment, Bank's Butler put his hand into the inner pocket, took out a check, handed it to Lord Elms (Wilfred), and said, “Lord Elms (Wilfred), this is a cash check of one billion yuan. The master asked me to bring it to you. !”
