helicopter landed on the surface of hard as iron ice.

Kairi Elms didn't wait for the plane to stop, so he pushed the door and jumped down.

After saying goodbye to the pilot, he hurried to his home 1.5 kilometers away.

At this time, many of the Elms family had already risen early.

The living habits of the Elms family have always been somewhat different from those of modern society.

On the contrary, they have many similarities with the ancients.

For example, the Elms family rarely relies on modern technology in their living habits.

Except for essential things like telephones, most of the Elms family seldom rely on mobile phones, computers, and the Internet.

The generations from eighteen to fifty years old are the mainstay in Elms's family.

Regardless of men and women, as long as they are in their family, they are all busy practicing martial arts.

No matter spring, summer, autumn or winter, as long as the rooster crowed, everyone will do it.

Get up in a quarter of an hour and start practicing.

If there are no special circumstances, they usually stay asleep for about six hours, and most of the other time is spent on exercises.

Other elderly people who have stopped practicing, as well as the married women, also get up early every day to do some housework, keeping the whole family in order.

Although the Elms family also got up very early today, there is no scene of young and middle-aged practicing qigong.

Everyone is busy packing their bags and tidying up the housework. After all, this time the Elms family is migrating, and even the elderly in the Elms family have to leave with them. ,

So for a long time in the future, any mansion in this place will be in a semi-desolate situation with no one to operate, so it must be settled before leaving.

The old man of the Elms family, Lord Elms (Wilfred), dressed neatly early in the morning.

He put on his most upright set of Tang suits, his silver hair was combed back into his back, and his gray beard was also deliberately taken care of, even though he was over a year old. Eighty, but still looking at the same style back then.

Lord Elms (Wilfred) wandered through the forecourt and backyard of the Elms family compound alone, looking at this century-old mansion, he was unavoidable.

He is not a person who is greedy for money.

The only temptation for the two billion yuan promised by the Banks Family is to make the Elms family even better.

However, he is also very clear in his heart that he is already an old man, even if he has the foundation of practicing martial arts all his life, if he wants to live to be a hundred years old, he still has to look at God.

Therefore, there are still at most twenty years left to complete the calculation.

For him, money has long been something outside of his body, and he has no interest in the rich material life.

If he put aside the future plans of the Elms family, he hopes to be able to live in Mocheng with peace of mind until he enters the earth.

It is not a comfortable thing for him to take his family to fight south in his eighties.

It's just that he couldn't help himself in many things, so this time it was just that his family burned out the last remaining life before he died, and he was prepared in his heart that he would never return before he died.

This is not that Lord Elms (Wilfred) is hypocritical and pessimistic, but he has already thought about it in his heart.

Why did the Banks Family father suddenly let Bank's Butler come over to see him at this time, and also offered such good cooperation conditions? The only possibility is that the Banks Family is now encountering a strong enemy, and the Elms family is urgently needed to enhance the strength of the Banks Family in force.

Therefore, although the data of these two billion is huge, it will certainly not be easy
