

The Amazing Son In Law (Charlie Wade)

Chapter 3110-3111

The equipment is completely based on yours. The previous program has been optimized, so you can rest assured that the performance will only be improved and will never be compromised."

Zuri looked at Fitz and said seriously: "Master Sbanks this matter is not just a question of the effectiveness of the performance. The fundamental problem is that we must perform our duties in cooperation and do our own job well. At the same time, we must also give enough respect to others. It is indeed very inappropriate for you to directly intervene in our work. If Stefanie Sun knew about it, she would definitely be very angry!"

With that, Zuri turned around and said to an assistant he brought with him: "Find the person in charge of the executive company. I want to ask him, it's clear that we are their Party A, why do they have to cooperate with other people to conceal the truth? Follow us and make big changes to our project!"

The assistant hurriedly said, "Good Sister Zuri, I'll go find him now!"

Fitz hurriedly stopped her, and then said to Zuri: "Oh, everyone is trying to make this concert more perfect, so there is no need for you to go online like this, right? In addition, the executive company is there. I spent money to manage it, but they also did the best job with quality and quantity. You can first let people try the effect of lighting and sound. As long as the effect is higher than the previous set of solutions, it proves that these tasks are not done in vain. ."

After speaking, Fitz continued: "Moreover, the lighting and audio equipment are operated by professionals like you. Whether Miss sun comes to rehearsal or perform, she focuses on the performance effect, not the brand of the lighting and audio equipment. As long as you don't tell her, how can she know? If she finds that the performance of this performance seems to be particularly good, I'm afraid it's too late to be happy. After the performance is over, I personally apologize to her, and I will definitely not let it. What do you think?"

Zuri understood Fitz's intentions too well.

He did this just to please Stefanie.

Why wait to apologize to her personally after the show is over?

It should be for credit, right?

At this time, Fitz said again: Miss sun will come to the rehearsal tomorrow, and the concert will officially begin the next night. Now this set of equipment has been set up, temporary replacement is definitely impossible, so this time I ask you. Do me a favor, I promise only this time, there will be no next time."

After thinking about it, Zuri felt that what Fitz said was really right. For a concert with tens of thousands of people, it would take a few days to set up on-site equipment, and the time to transport the equipment was longer. Now I want to change back to the original hardware. The equipment is simply impossible, and it seems that only the wrong one is wrong.

Thinking of this, she had to instruct the lighting engineer and sound engineer: "You two will work hard today and test all the equipment to see if this new equipment is perfectly compatible with our previous solution. If it can, it will be the best, but if you can't, you can take the time to solve it. Even if you stay up all night, you must make sure that everything is done tomorrow!"

The two agreed without hesitation, and then immediately began to work.

Fitz on the side breathed a sigh of relief, hugged Zuri, and said gratefully: "Thank you so much this time."

Zuri looked at him with a pious look, and secretly sighed in his heart: "This Fitz, for Stefanie Sun's concert so hard, this has to wait for the start of the concert, and see Stefanie Sun carefully prepared for Charlie's surprise. , Will you break down and die here on the spot?"