

The Amazing Son In Law ( Charlie Wade )

Chapter 3304-3305

So she subconsciously asked: "za...Miss zara? Why are you here?"

Zara was also a little surprised. She remembered Loreen, the daughter of the Thomas family. Although the strength of the Thomas family is much worse than those of these top families, they are still people in the same circle after all, and they all overlap each other.

So she smiled slightly and said, "Ms. loren has also come here. Is she here to watch the concert?"

Loreen hurriedly waved her hand and said, "No, no, I'm working in Aurous Hill, I'm in the Emgrand Group in Aurous Hill!"

Zara nodded and said with a smile: "It turns out to be the famous Emgrand Group."

After that, she glanced at Charlie intentionally or unintentionally, and even a little narrow in her eyes.

Because she knew that Loreen actually worked in the Emgrand Group, she felt that this thing was strange for the first moment.

She thought to herself: "Although the Thomas family is only a tens of billions-level family, it is far from allowing her prostitutes to work in Aurous Hill, which is thousands of kilometers away. Moreover, these families in Eastcliff are better than monkeys, and no one knows how to do it. To do such a shameful thing, something abnormal is bound to be a demon, and this move of the Thomas family must have a lot of meaning."

Two seconds before she was surprised. She immediately realized it, and exclaimed in her heart: "It must be because of Charlie!"

Although I don't know what channel the Thomas family used to find relevant clues about Charlie, Loreen must have rushed to Charlie.

Claire on the side didn't know the true background of Zara. She was busy with work all day long. Even though Zara had been involved in a car accident in the Forbidden Mountain Tunnel before, Claire had only heard of one thing, and had not taken the initiative to understand it.

So, she asked Loreen in surprise: "Loreen, do you know Miss zara too?"

When Loreen was about to speak, Zara took the lead and said with a smile: "When I was working in Eastcliff, I had a cooperation with Miss Loreen's company. Speaking of which, Miss Loreen was still my Party A before."

When Loreen heard this, she immediately understood that Zara did not want to tell her true identity.

So she had no choice but to follow Zara's words, nodded, and said to Claire, "That's it, but I didn't expect Claire that you and Miss Zara also knew each other."

Claire didn't doubt either. With a smile, "Ms. zara's mother is my client, and we have just met each other not long ago."

"Understood." Loreen nodded gently.

Zara was also very curious and asked, "By the way, Miss wade, how do you and Miss Loreen meet?"

Claire smiled and replied: "The two of us are good girlfriends. We used to be classmates from college, including Charlie who had been classmates with us for a year before."

Zara was even more surprised in his heart: "What the hell is going on? Charlie actually did classmates with his wife and this Loreen? But Loreen must have come to work in Aurous Hill with Charlie. And She works in Charlie's Emgrand Group again. Is this Loreen the lover that Charlie raised under Claire's eyelids? If that is the case, then Charlie's hand is dark under the light, and the play is really superb!"

Thinking of this, the ever-present dialectical thinking in her heart began to haunt her again.

She also felt: "It doesn't seem to be right. Based on what I know about Charlie, he is definitely not the kind of person who raises a mistress with his wife on his back, and it is even more impossible to get together with his wife's college classmates and girlfriends in private... Then Could it be that Loreen doesn't know Charlie's true identity? She just treats him as a classmate and the husband of her best friend?"

At this point, Zara tentatively said: "By the way, Miss Loreen, since you work in the Emgrand Group, then I have a gratuitous request. There are some projects on my side that want to connect with the Emgrand Group. I don't know you. Can you help me introduce the chairman of your Emgrand Group?"
