

The Amazing Son In Law (Charlie Wade)

Chapter 3360-3361

Immediately, he immediately ordered: "Pass the order to prepare everyone for the shelling! Everyone must wear a helmet, cover their ears, and never leave the tunnel. At the same time, when the order is passed on, don't lean against the tunnel wall. It is best to lie on the ground. It is better if there is something softer to cushion it, so that it can effectively alleviate the vibration damage caused by close-range shelling!"

Most of the time, the damage of artillery to the human body relies on shrapnel from blasting, or rocks exploded by blasting. Or all other hard objects exploded.

However, the shock waves generated when the artillery explodes can also cause huge damage to the human body. If the distance is close enough, it may shatter the internal organs of a person.

Although Hunter (Hamid) doesn't have any grand strategic thinking, he has been on the battlefield all the way to today, so he has a lot of practical experience.

His orders were passed from layer to layer, and the soldiers in each tunnel received his orders.

As a result, many people began to collect materials on the spot, looking for some soft things to spread on the ground.

Many soldiers went to the entrance of the tunnel to get a lot of soft soil. Zayne, who was extremely nervous, hadn't understood what the group was doing, so he listened to the soldier who was specially watching him shout: "What are you doing? Come in and spread it under you. Otherwise, if the shell explodes in front of you, it will shock you into internal bleeding!"

When Zayne heard this, he asked in a panic: "Is there really going to be a war? Can you go talk to Commander Hunter (Hamid) and let him send a helicopter to send me away. I have never fought," It's no use staying here."

The soldier said coldly, "The helicopter has passed by. You can't go anywhere now. If you don't want to die. Get some dirt quickly. If you want to try your luck, just stay here and don't do anything. dry."

When Zayne heard this, how dare he pretend to be forceful.

So while cursing Charlie in the most vicious language in his heart, he reluctantly followed other people to prepare the soil outside the cave entrance.

Zayne used an empty diesel lubricating oil bucket, struggling to shovel a bucket of dirt, and as soon as he lifted it up to walk back, there was a sharp cracking sound outside.

Before he could figure out what the sound was, deafening explosions rang out one after another!

The shelling begins!

At this moment, the whole mountain seemed to vibrate.

And the base in the valley outside the cave entrance was suddenly plunged into a sea of flames.

Zayne screamed loudly in fright. It was the first time he had close contact with the war when he grew up so big.

He felt that his ears had been deafened. In addition to tinnitus, the eardrum is also very painful, and the internal organs in his body seem to have just been beaten by someone, how uncomfortable and uncomfortable.

The soldier in charge of guarding him quickly dragged him into the tunnel, and then the second round of shells roared!

The target of this second round of shells is still the base in the valley. The deafening explosion sounded continuously and endlessly!

Zayne hurriedly covered his ears with both hands, squatting on the ground tremblingly.

The other soldiers were already prepared to defend against the shock of the explosion.

Round after round of cannonballs tilted down, without any impact on these soldiers.

On the contrary, as the shelling lasted longer and longer, the soldiers felt a strong sense of security and superiority.

Because they have witnessed with their own eyes the great role played by the anti-slope fortifications in responding to the shelling.

Hiding in such a strong fortification to meet the shelling, this feeling is like hiding in an armored vehicle and being shot with bows and arrows by the indigenous people. The soldiers will not have any fear in the depths of their hearts, but psychologically produce the enemy. An almost mocking sense of superiority!

It can be said that the more shells fired by the enemy, the morale of the Hunter (Hamid) tribe will increase!
