

The Amazing Son In Law ( Charlie Wade )

Chapter 3366-3367

Originally, the soldiers on the attacking side found that their charge had not received any resistance, and thought that the enemy had already been maimed by rounds of artillery at this moment, and it was impossible to launch effective resistance.

Therefore, they all relaxed their vigilance one by one, just thinking about rushing up, and then using a single charge to completely take out Hunter (Hamid)'s lair.

But who could have imagined that just when they thought this battle would be won, a large number of machine guns suddenly spurted out of the cracks in the rocks in many mountains in the highlands!

The ubiquitous gunfire quickly covered the entire hillside, and the soldiers rushing in the front fell like wheat.

The soldiers behind were all beaten up!

They raised their guns in a hurry and wanted to fight back, but where can they see the shadow of half of the enemy!

The only thing I can see is the tongues of fire gushing out of the cracks in the stones everywhere.

And whenever they saw the tongue of fire gushing out, there would be a group of them being hit and falling to the ground along with the gushing out of the tongue of fire.

In less than a minute, the attacking team lost at least five or six hundred soldiers.

Some soldiers subconsciously fought back in the direction of the flames, but their weapons had no practical effect on Hunter (Hamid)'s permanent fortifications.

At this time, the front-line commander shouted loudly, asking the soldiers to find shelter as soon as possible.

But the most detrimental thing is that Hunter (Hamid) had already dealt with all the hiding places on the slope of the slope. The previous potholes were filled up, and the previous boulders were directly blasted to pieces.

All in all, these thousands of people are now on the hillside, and they simply cannot find any shelter to avoid bullets!

And Hunter (Hamid)'s troops are still in the permanent fortifications, frantically fighting back!

His troops are equipped with a large number of Russian-made weapons. In each permanent fortification, they are equipped with more 7.62 mm caliber, air-cooled Russian-made PK general-purpose machine guns, and a small number of 12.7 mm high-fire heavy machine guns.

The former has a fast rate of fire and a wide range of firepower. After multiple angles and multiple machine guns form a cross firepower net, it is very lethal to ordinary soldiers;

Although the latter's rate of fire is slow, it's powerful, and it's basically a death when there are too many people. What's more, when there are many people, the penetrating power of this thing far exceeds that of ordinary machine guns. It can penetrate several soldiers in one shot. body.

The combination of these two weapons makes it invincible in this kind of highland warfare. In addition, the enemy has no place to hide, so it is completely passive.

Because these enemies were about to charge, and they had made the mistake of underestimating the enemy before, they didn't carry heavy equipment at all. At this time, the firepower alone was very different from the opponent.

The bigger disparity lies in the fact that the offensive's army is completely insecure and uses its body against bullets.

But Hunter (Hamid)'s soldiers are different. They are all hidden in permanent fortifications constructed of rock and concrete. The front is reinforced with steel plates and covered with a layer of soil. The bullets hit it like a mosquito biting an elephant. , There is no lethality at all.

Their commander in front of the formation, seeing more and more soldiers falling around him, realized that the opponent was prepared long ago and that such a strong attack would be impossible, so he immediately shouted: "Retreat! All retreat to the back of the armored vehicle. !"

As a result, the remaining three or four thousand soldiers began to flee frantically.

In this retreat, the soldiers who had rushed to the front completely exposed their backs within the range of the Hunter (Hamid) soldiers, so they lost hundreds of people in the retreat.

All the soldiers retreated behind the armored vehicles, and the front-line commander immediately began to count the numbers.

Soon, the attrition was reported from each company. Five thousand people launched an assault, and one thousand three hundred people died.

Among them, there are more than 500 mercenaries from the Wanlong Temple.

This time, man sent 10,000 mercenaries to Syria.

In principle, these people must obey the command of the Syrian government forces and cooperate with them in the suppression of the rebels.

The Syrian government army split up the ten thousand Wanlong Temple mercenaries. Ten thousand people were divided into four equal parts, and they cooperated with the four divisions of the government army.

And this time there were 2,500 mercenaries from the Ten Thousand Dragon Palace in the army that came to fight Hunter (Hamid).
