

The Amazing Son In Law ( Charlie Wade )

Chapter 3402–3403 )

When the young people in China were still holding thousands of dollars of drones and shooting blindly in the outdoor wilderness, Hunter (Hamid)'s men had already used this inconspicuous thing to achieve complete airborne surveillance of local battlefields. .

The advantage of being completely suspended is that the UAV can remain stationary in the sky and observe the target closely, unlike the American Global Hawk, which needs to keep flying around the target.

While Hunter (Hamid) admired Charlie's tactics, he had already made tactical arrangements.

Through the image transmission signal uploaded from the sky, he analyzed that the other party should not exceed one thousand two hundred people at most.

And they are now rounding around to the west wing, 80% of them want to outflank themselves from the west wing, so he has long passed the order and sent three hundred more soldiers to the permanent fortifications on the front slope of the west wing to defend.

Although three hundred soldiers are not too many, it is more than enough to take advantage of the right time and place to resist the attack of more than one thousand soldiers.

Although the permanent fortifications built by Hunter (Hamid) have not been fully constructed, they have also been specially disguised externally.

After the disguised fortifications, if it does not fire, it is almost impossible to find it even if it passes by it ten times.

The shooting holes of these fortifications have been blocked in advance with a large number of fist-sized pieces of gravel, and then covered with a layer of loess from the outside. This camouflage is extremely realistic on the mountains that are originally full of gravel loess, and it is extremely difficult to be spotted. .

Moreover, when they were doing disguise, they also left a few door-like gaps inside.

With just such a small gap, the people inside can easily observe the external situation.

The camouflage made of this kind of gravel is also very convenient and easy to remove.

Once you need to shoot, you only need to grab it at your fingertips, you can grab all the gravel, and then you can stick the muzzle out and fire with full force.

If Gorka outflanks the West Wing, it will happen to pass through these hidden fortifications in the West Wing. At that time, all of his will be exposed to the crossfire net of the machine gun.

However, Gorka didn't know this.

He just thought about taking Hunter (Hamid) down quickly and using a victory to cover up his mistake just now.

This time I came to Syria, and the Ten Thousand Dragon Palace was a little underestimated.

I always feel that the opposition forces are just a group of third world bandits with no military literacy, not much better than the Somali pirates.

The elites like them come here to fight against these guerrillas, who can only shoot indiscriminately with the AK, and it's easy.

Therefore, they did not fully prepare before the war, nor did they carry very expensive high-end weapons and equipment.

For the soldiers of the Dragon Temple at this moment, the RPG shoulder-mounted rocket is the most powerful individual weapon they have now.

But Gorka felt that RPG was enough.

The huge loss of the frontal attack just now was not because of how strong the enemy was, but because of how weak the enemy was.

As long as I pay attention now and find the correct strategic plan, I will be able to lead the soldiers of the Pantheon to easily overcome each other.

Now that he and his men have arrived at the foot of Hunter (Hamid)'s west wing, he believes that this war will end in an hour at most! This time, in the tactics formulated by the Gorka, there are a total of three plans.

The first and best solution is to quietly touch the entrance of Hunter (Hamid)'s permanent fortifications, and then suddenly rush in, catch them by surprise, and destroy them all in the fortifications they built.