

The Amazing Son In Law ( Charlie Wade )

Chapter 3404–3405 )

This is also the goal that the offensive is most eager to achieve in all tough battles, because only in this way can it be the easiest work goal and pay the least casualties.

The second best option is to use RPG rockets to accurately strike the fortifications after touching the vicinity of the fortifications. This method is like the process of smashing the bunker and the artillery in the anti-Japanese film.

As for the third worst and worst plan, it is a storm at all costs.

However, there are few winners in the third option.

Because once it enters the opponent's firepower net and cannot solve the opponent's fortifications, the opponent almost forms a harvester-like killing advantage. In this case, if it can be won, it will almost rely on the corpses to pile forward. .

Therefore, Gorka is not a last resort and does not intend to use the third option.

But as a commander, he must also consider every possibility. Therefore, he has formulated a red line for the third plan. Once the casualty reduction exceeds 60%, he will immediately withdraw.

However, he knew very well in his heart that such a situation would never happen.

After the preparations were completed, Gorka led all the soldiers to check their own equipment and ammunition. After confirming that there was no problem, he said to the commander on the front battlefield through the walkie-talkie: "We have now touched the west side of the opponent. You are now Immediately launch a feint!"

The other party immediately replied: "After I launch a feint attack on my side, your side must also launch a surprise attack immediately!"

Gorka looked at the time and said, "I will launch a surprise attack from the west wing ten minutes after you launched a feint!"

"Why do you have to wait ten minutes?" The opponent said in a puzzled manner: "The opponent has very strong firepower and strong defense. I don't know how many brothers will be lost in ten minutes. If I fight on my side, you will immediately outflank it. , This is the most reasonable plan!"

Gorka said seriously: "I have to wait for you to attack first, and wait for the enemy to start fighting with you, before I can visually determine the location of the enemy's firepower point. Only when the enemy's firepower point is determined can my people launch a quick sneak attack accurately. , Dismiss the enemy's firepower directly, otherwise if we rush over together, we won't be able to attack it at all!"

The other party hesitated for a moment, feeling that the same was true, so he said: "Okay! I will let the soldiers prepare and launch an attack in ten minutes!"

He knew very well that he had no other choice now. With the strength of Hunter (Hamid)'s fortifications, it was impossible to attack from the front, and there was no chance to fight all of them. The only chance for success lies with the Gorka.

And Gorka has been a mercenary for several years. Although he is said to be rich in experience, his experience is all combat experience in attacking small armed forces in war-torn areas, and he has never encountered a truly powerful and strategic opponent.

It's like a martial arts master who has always been relying on beating street gangsters to accumulate actual combat experience.

If a person abuses food too much, he will definitely become more and more food.

What's more frightening is that he will be immersed in the sense of accomplishment of repeated abuse of food, unable to extricate himself, and not even aware of the fact that he has become more and more food.

Therefore, at this moment, Gorka didn't know that he was roundabout sideways, he had already roundabout into the enemy's encirclement, and he was still holding a high-powered telescope to observe the movement on the frontal position.

At this time, he was still instructing the soldiers around him, saying: "You all pay attention to observation. After a while after their second round of feint attacks, we can just observe the location of Hunter (Hamid)'s firepower. All the firepower points are marked. After we start the offensive, we will unplug all these firepower points as quickly as possible! As long as they unplug their fortifications, we will win!"

Several soldiers nodded immediately, and then took out the observation equipment and drawing tools, preparing to map the opponent's firepower point position as quickly as possible after the feint attack began.

Gorka is now in his chest, and Hunter (Hamid)'s frontal position has become his possession in his eyes!