

Baby alliance: helping daddy get a rich mommy chapter 381

“I dare you!” Satan pinched Jude on the face, then boldly walked into the lingerie shop with her. Of course, Jude was feeling elated.

When the sales attendant saw the man beside her, she complimented, “Miss, you’re blessed with such a caring boyfriend. He even comes shopping for lingerie with you.”

Scanning through the shop, Satan realized he was indeed the only man in the shop. Damn! I’m really the only man here! This is humiliating! “He’s not my boyfriend.”

Hearing that, Satan’s expression darkened. “He’s my hubby!” Jude wrapped her arms around Satan’s. “Isn’t that right, hubby?”

The moment he heard her calling him ‘hubby,’ Satan froze. “Oh! Pardon me, I didn’t know you two were married.” “Yes, we are!” Jude happily tugged onto Satan’s arm and went to pick lingerie.

Gazing at Jude, Satan could still hear the word ‘hubby’ echoing in his ears. Maybe it’s about time I give her the status she deserves.

“Which one of these looks better?” Jude held a leopard print bra in one hand and a rose-colored bra in another to show Satan.

At the sight of this, the thought he was pondering on just now had immediately vanished into thin air. If it wasn’t because he had tan skin, his face would already appear as red as blood. Can’t this woman just give me peace of mind?

“Hurry up and tell me! Which one’s nicer?”

With his head lowered, Satan didn’t even dare to look straight at those sexy bras. She had a proportionate curvy body, so she would look good in any of them—he was sure of it. “The one on the left.”

Looking at the leopard print bra, Jude giggled and whispered in Satan’s ears, “You really have a poker face. I didn’t know you’re into this style.”

“Shut up!” Satan growled.

“It’s fine. I’ll put it on, as long as you like it.”

After that, Jude picked a few other bras and even a set of sexy lingerie. The moment he saw her sneakily asking the sales assistant to wrap up the set of nurse lingerie, he could almost feel his nose bleeding. No! Stop fantasizing about it!

With Satan carrying the shopping bags, they finally walked out of the lingerie shop. “I’m a little hungry. Should we grab a bite?”

Just then, Satan’s phone rang. Picking up the call, he frowned. “Alright, I’ll be there soon.”

The smile on Jude's face faded slowly. "What's wrong?"

"Nothing. Aren't you hungry? Let's go eat."

Perhaps it was because they had a lot going on in their mind, as both of them didn't have a good appetite. When they were done with their meals, Satan said, "I have some matters to settle, so I'll be away for two days."

As Jude heard that, the smile on her face disappeared entirely. Two days? I guess my time is up. God, why can't You bless me with a little more time?

She even wondered if Satan really loved her very much, would he consider releasing Jameson if she begged him. Unfortunately, based on the current circumstance, it seemed like that wouldn't happen.

"I just bought the bras," grumbled Jude.

Seeing the disappointed look on Jude's face, Satan couldn't bear to leave her too, but he had his duties, and in fact, he originally had something planned today. "I'll try my best to come back soon."

"Alright, then. You... Just stay safe," said Jude, sounding like a dainty little lady.

As soon as Satan dropped Jude at home, he didn't even step into the house, but was prepared to leave right away.

"Hubby!"

As Satan pivoted, Jude threw her arms around him and hugged him tightly. "Come home safe. Don't get yourself hurt—not even a little bit. You have to come home safely every time."

Though it warmed his heart hearing that, the words he uttered sounded different from how he truly felt. "Why are you being like this? It's not like we're going to be apart forever."
