

Baby alliance: helping daddy get a rich mommy chapter 466

Gazing at Juniper's smiling face, Joaquin nodded in a serious manner. "Okay." "My happiest days were when I was on Emerald Island with our daddy and mommy. Sadly, I didn't know that he was my daddy at that time. I want to go there again because it's a fun place."

Joaquin nodded. At least Pierre and Selena had brought Juniper to Emerald Island before. In contrast, he and Jameson rarely stepped out of the house, and he only saw the pictures of the island online and in the books. "Jojo, if I survive and you die, what do you want me to do for you?"

"I wanna go to Harvard one day." "What? I've only heard of Harry Potter before, but not Harvard." Juniper tilted her head and gazed at him.

Joaquin put on a helpless expression, for both of his siblings were not intelligent as he was. "It's an excellent university." "Oh... If I survive, I'll go to that university for you, okay?"

"Okay," Joaquin replied. Although he didn't think Juniper would qualify to enter Harvard, he didn't point it out. At that moment, Selena's eyes were drenched in tears as she had overheard their conversation in the doorway.

Sitting up, Juniper took his hand. "Jojo, thanks." Joaquin was startled upon hearing that.

"I'm worried that if I can't survive, I won't have a chance to say thanks, so I should probably say it in advance. Jojo, a nurse told me that no one was willing to do the matching test. Even the adults were afraid. So, I think you're really incredible," Juniper said sincerely.

At that instant, Joaquin blushed because he wasn't used to this kind of situation. "It's nothing. You're my sister."

All of a sudden, Juniper beamed at him. "You are the best brother in the world."

Before this, they didn't think that having a brother or a sister would make a difference in their lives. However, at that moment, they realized the importance of family as their fates had been woven together.

After stepping out of the room, Selena crouched down and started weeping. She was moved by their conversation, but at the same time, she felt utterly sorry for them. She needed a shoulder to lean on, but there was no one around. Pierre, what are you doing now? Are you still alive?

At night, Selena decided to sleep with Juniper and Joaquin on the same bed. The bed was too small for the three of them, but they felt warmth in their hearts.

Selena didn't mention the operation. After telling each other their last words, Juniper and Joaquin didn't tell their mother about it. As Selena told them bedtime stories, the kids gradually slumbered off.

The next day, all of them woke up at the same time as this was the operation day. Selena was told to see the doctor. Since the operation involved two kids, the doctor had to give her some explanations, including the risks associated with the operation.

“Miss Yard, if you don’t have any questions, please sign your name on this agreement.”

Selena gazed at the piece of paper, but she didn’t seem to understand what was written on it. She wanted to raise her arm, but she couldn’t do that.

Jude had told Wyatt to follow Selena into the office. Seeing how absentminded she was, he quickly explained, “Selena, there are always risks associated with any operation, but it doesn’t mean they will happen. We have excellent medical expertise in the country, so you have to trust the doctor.”
