

Baby alliance: helping daddy get a rich mommy chapter 542

“But is Jojo that talented?”

“That little fella is quite talented, and he shows talent in the field of programming. But he learns everything by himself, and he made the decision alone to hack Lake Corporation. This time, he did the same thing by hacking into the Oberlins’ electric circuit. I am worried that he will repeat the same thing next time.”

Pierre was secretly worried about his son’s talent. If Joaquin abused his skills, he might go off track.

“When we’re back in Astoria, I plan to hire a family tutor to give him proper lessons. That will teach him not to be overconfident in himself.”

She went over his words and suddenly sensed that something was off. Does he sincerely want to guide Jojo onto the right path, or is he acting in this way because he is jealous of his son?

“My son is not going to walk the wrong path!” She rolled her eyes at him. “Before this, I only knew about Jamie’s incredible memory. I didn’t know that Jojo is talented in programming. I wonder what Juniper is good at. After all, they are triplets, and she shouldn’t be too different from her brothers.”

“She just needs to stay pretty! What talent does she need?”

Selena was dumbfounded at his statement. This is going to be a long night.

After they landed in Yucaria, too many events had unfolded. She could not anticipate what would happen the next day, and she suddenly felt a strong wave of homesickness to the point that she wanted to give up on the search for the bracelet.

She walked out of the room and saw Joaquin still standing in the corridor, his tiny body standing tall and proud.

In a hurry, she went up to him and squatted down beside him. “Jojo, go to sleep.”

However, to her surprise, he looked up at her before uttering, “Next time, I will make sure my plan is flawless!”

She was shocked by the look in his eyes, for that was not a look that one would see in children.

I know that Jojo is capable and mature, but I wish he would act like the average child without shouldering too much burden.

“Jojo, you’re already doing great. To be honest, even I was shocked by you. You’re very talented. Did you hack into Lake Corporation for me?”

He did not reply, so she took it as a yes. Somehow, she felt a little comforted after learning that because Joaquin carried out the act to take revenge for her.

“Jojo, Mommy appreciates what you did for me. Still, you’re a young kid, and you don’t know the dangers in this world. That’s why Daddy and I hope you will come to us first if you have any problems. Come to us for help, will you?”

He slowly lowered his head without words. The upset look in his eyes made her feel sorry for him. Yes, he might have gone overboard, but he did everything out of goodwill!

Feeling sorry, Selena pulled him into a hug. “Jojo, Mommy is not blaming you. I know you’re a genius, and you’re different from other kids. But I’m worried that you will get hurt.”

“I know.” He sounded cold.

She caressed his hair and said, “Alright, then. You should go back to your bedroom and get some rest.”

Soon, he gave her a curt nod and walked into his room.

Staring at his petite figure, a wave of uneasiness crept up on her, for she knew that he was destined to be a special kid.

When she returned to her room and opened the door, she immediately saw Pierre standing there, sending her into shock again.

“God! You scared me. Why are you standing here instead of sleeping?”

“What were you doing out there instead of sleeping?” He looked grim as he stared at her.

“I suddenly remembered that Jojo was standing in the corridor, so I asked him to go to sleep.”

“Who told you to do so? Was he done with self-reflection?”