

Baby alliance: helping daddy get a rich mommy chapter 577

After Pierre and Selena got there, they began climbing up the mountains. Halfway through their ascent, Selena was already gasping for air as she glanced at the mountain with her hands on her waist. "How long do we have left until we get there?"

On the contrary, Pierre still had a lot of stamina left. "Are you tired now? Serves you right for not listening when I told you to work out."

Upon hearing that, she glowered at Pierre. "You were the one who wouldn't stop last night even though you knew we had things to do today! What is the point in that?"

As of late, Pierre had been constantly demanding to have sex with her. Even though she already reminded him they would have a long day ahead, he insisted that it would be fine when he pressed her down on bed. If it wasn't for the alarm she set the previous night, she might have just overslept.

"It takes two to tango. What could I have done without your cooperation?" He tried to shift the blame. Upon hearing that, the bodyguards behind them snickered while covering their mouths.

Flustered, Selena yelled, "You b*stard!" How dare he blame it on me when he was the one who insisted on having sex? Then, she muttered, "Don't you even think of laying a finger on me in the future!"

"Okay, calm down. Let's get some rest if you're tired." Pierre approached her to lend a helping hand, but she ignored him in a surge of anger, opting to continue walking instead.

I wonder where the doctor lives, she thought. After making some inquiries along the way, they found out that the doctor indeed lived on this mountain. However, they had yet to see a single dwelling even after climbing halfway up the mountain.

To her surprise, she noticed an old man tidying his garden when she scanned her surroundings. There was a small garden that was surrounded by a fence, where the old man seemed to be planting something while squatting down. What could he possibly be planting during winter?

She walked up to the elderly man curiously. After all, she figured someone who would set up a garden in the mountains had to be familiar with the place, so she thought she should try asking. "Good day, sir!"

Upon seeing that the old man didn't seem to notice her, she raised a few decibels as she repeated, "Sir! Hello, sir!"

"I'm not deaf. Just tell me what you want." The old man didn't even lift his head when he spoke. All the while, he continued to plant the nameless seeds.

Startled by his reaction, Selena chuckled in a silly manner. "I would like to know if you have heard of Doctor Werner, who lives in the mountains? He's an elderly man with superb medical skills. We are seeking him out for some medical advice. Would you happen to know where he lives? Could you give us some directions?"

The old man said nothing, so Selena could only wait. After a long while, the old man replied, "That old geezer is too old to be of service, so you should go back while you still can."

“Huh? But my friend said—”

“Go back downhill before the sun sets. Otherwise, it’ll be hell if you get stuck in the mountains. Don’t blame me for not reminding you.” Without even sparing Selena a glance, the old man left with his basket.

Although Selena tried to go after him to ask him more questions, she fell down and scraped her hand on the stones. Pulling her closer, Pierre chided, “Watch your step!”

“I’m fine. I need to ask him a few more questions.”

“There’s no point in asking. Didn’t you notice his attitude? It’s as if the world is out to get him. He sure doesn’t look like a decent human being. Let’s go.” With their speed, it would be nightfall when they arrived at the foot of the mountain. The mountain wasn’t a tourist attraction, so there were no steps built. It was tiring to climb it, more so when they had no idea where Doctor Werner lived.

“Alright.” For lack of a better option, Selena agreed to go back down. As predicted, the sun had set when they arrived, so they settled down in an inn nearby.

“Let’s go home tomorrow,” Pierre suggested.

Gritting her teeth in chagrin, Selena was reluctant to leave before she even met Doctor Werner.