

Baby alliance: helping daddy get a rich mommy chapter 645

Jordyn smiled awkwardly. "Indeed." "Okay, I understand. Please lie down, and I will make sure you sleep well." Jordyn lay down on the bed as instructed by Juniper, who found the acupuncture points and started the moxibustion therapy.

At the airport, a woman wearing a wide sun hat walked out carrying a rose-colored suitcase. She wore sunglasses, and with the wide brim of her hat, it was completely impossible to see what her face looked like.

Taking off the sunglasses, she revealed a pair of blue eyes full of charm, which attracted many people to cast their gazes toward her. Her lips rose slightly at the scene surrounding her. It's great to be back!

After undergoing moxibustion, Jordyn got up and put on her clothes. The aroma of mugwort did relax her, but she felt that it wasn't very effective. Selena asked Jordyn expectantly, "How was it? Wasn't it very comfortable?"

"It was very comfortable and relaxing; it's just a pity that..." Jordyn smiled awkwardly. "I don't think it has much effect." Juniper was inevitably a little upset. "You'd better go to bed at 9.00PM." She had a stern face on and spoke in an annoyed tone.

But Jordyn stroked her head and replied, "Little one, do you know that if I lie down at 12.00AM, I would be ecstatic to be able to fall asleep at 1.00AM or 2.00AM? And you want me to sleep at 9.00PM? How many people even sleep at 9.00PM nowadays?"

Juniper rolled her eyes. "Anyway, this is my advice. You'd better go to bed at 9.00PM. I don't care if you'd heed my advice or not."

"Juniper!" Selena hurriedly admonished the little girl because she was being a bit rude. However, Jordyn was not surprised, as Juniper was, after all, still young.

"Okay, I will follow the doctor's advice and try to go to bed at 9.00PM, okay?"

Hearing that, Juniper's expression then slightly eased. After sending Jordyn off, Selena came over to comfort Juniper. "Juniper, don't talk to adults like that."

"Hmph, she still doesn't believe me! I shouldn't have cured her!" Juniper was clearly upset.

"Juniper, how could you have such an attitude as a doctor? You have to think about it in another way. Even though she doesn't trust you now, maybe tomorrow, she'll realize that it's effective and then bashfully come over and ask you to treat her again. When people don't trust you, it's even more important for you to show all of your enthusiasm to convince them."

Juniper nodded. "Mommy, I have confidence in myself. She will definitely come back to me."

"Yeah, I believe in you too."

The next day, Selena finished the company's business before she set out to pick up the children from kindergarten. At this time, it was almost time for the children to leave the kindergarten, so there were many cars on the road. A man with a limp came toward her car all of a sudden; his body was dirty, and his clothes were torn with several big holes. He knocked on the glass window of Selena's car. When Selena saw him, she knew that he was begging for money. Some beggars took advantage of the traffic jam to knock on glass windows of cars to beg for money, and they would especially target wealthy people's cars.

Knowing such a phenomenon existed, Selena also felt quite helpless about it.

"Have pity on me," the man said while knocking on the car window.

As Selena rolled down the car window, a strange smell wafted in, but Selena did not mind.

"Don't you know that it's too dangerous to do this?"

The man smiled nervously. "Sorry, there is no other way except to do this so that I can have a little more money. I have a child at home who has leukemia, and I need money to save his life!"

When he brought up the child with leukemia, Selena was at a loss for words.
