

Baby alliance: helping daddy get a rich mommy chapter 681

Now that Pierre came back, the Fowler Residence instantly became lively. When the couple came down from upstairs, they saw Pollux sitting on the sofa in the living room like he was the master of the house. Crossing his legs, he was drinking wine while eating peanuts and watching TV. When Pierre saw him, his face sank. "Why is this guy here?"

"Hey! Didn't you ask me to come?" Pollux threw a peanut into his mouth.

"I..." Pierre tilted his head to think about it. It seemed that before he left for home, he did indeed send Pollux a text.

Pollux stole a glance at Pierre and Selena. "Well, distance makes the heart grow fonder, I guess. You've really vocalized your fondness for each other just now. Pierre, your voice was really unpleasant, like a mule. But your wife's voice is okay. In fact, it's quite nice."

Selena's face instantly turned red at his words. Why is this old geezer speaking in such an unscrupulous manner? I'm still here! Maybe it was because it's been too long since I've seen Pierre, so when we were making out, I didn't think about my voice that much!

Pierre picked up the vase next to him and threw it at Pollux. "Get out!"

Pollux caught the vase and threw it over instead. "Don't be so upset."

Pierre glared fiercely at him. "Go back to wherever you came from!"

For the first time, Selena found that Pierre had met a rival; there had never been anyone who could make Pierre so angry. But there really should be such people. Otherwise, he really would have no rival.

"Didn't you ask me to teach your son? Well, I've acknowledged him as my disciple. I can tell you right now that your son is a genius like me." Pollux winked at Pierre.

When Selena looked at Pollux's expression, she always felt that these two had some kind of improper relationship going on because Pollux kept being so suggestive about things!

Pierre was so angry that he couldn't say a word. Ugh, why did I invite Pollux over?

When school ended in the afternoon, Selena and Pierre appeared together at the entrance of the kindergarten. When the three little ones lined up, waiting to be picked up, they saw the tall and handsome Pierre in the crowd at once.

"Daddy!" Juniper ran toward Pierre with an excited scream.

Pierre then picked up Juniper, who held his face and kissed him all over. On the other hand, Joaquin and Jameson looked as if their time was up. "It's over, and now we don't have any good days again."

Juniper was simply too excited, and her shrill laughter drew the attention of many people. Selena, who was standing to the side, sighed deeply. In the end, Juniper was still closest to her father. Pierre held Juniper in his arms and looked at the two boys standing nearby.

“Now that you two have seen me, is there nothing you’d like to say?”

Jameson slowly clapped with an awkward smile. “Daddy, welcome home.”

Joaquin, on the other hand, still had a taut expression on. “Daddy.”

Pierre thought it was extremely boring and simply said, “Forget it. Let’s go home!”

Anyway, he had his darling girl, so what did he need the boys for?

Since Pierre came back, Juniper seemed to lose the function of her legs. In fact, she became an accessory on Pierre’s body, clinging to him wherever he went, while Pierre was also happy to entertain her. However, Selena was a little jealous of that.

The house became lively again, but there was the addition of Pollux, who kept saying things to annoy Pierre from time to time, which made the latter cranky.

At night, Pierre came to the basement, where Rick was still locked up. After Rick woke up, he screamed until his voice turned hoarse. “Help! Anyone there? Let me out! What kind of place is this? This is a country with laws! Let me out! I’ll sue you for illegal imprisonment! It’s against the law!”