

Baby alliance: helping daddy get a rich mommy chapter 687

Selena massaged her sore arms while asking, "Where's Pollux?"

During this period of time, Pollux was fed and clothed in the Fowler Residence, and after he changed into clean and tidy clothes, he looked quite handsome and suave without any trace of having been a beggar before.

"What? Do you miss him when you don't see him for a day?" Pierre was sitting on the sofa playing a mobile game, and the words coming out of his mouth were rather unpleasant.

At this moment, Joaquin was fiddling with his computer. He looked up at Selena and replied, "Master has left."

"Where did he go?" Selena could not talk to Pierre properly, so she could only hope to get information from her son.

"Didn't he say he would teach you well during this period? Why did he leave just like that?"

Joaquin subconsciously looked at Pierre, and Selena instantly understood. It must be Pierre who had said something. These two people were fighting and arguing every day, causing havoc in the house. Selena had never seen Pierre so grumpy before, and clearly, Pollux knew Pierre very well and was aware of many things about him.

"What are you looking at me for? Did I tell him to leave? He was the one who wanted to go!" Pierre rolled his eyes at Joaquin, then followed up with, "Also, you are not allowed to call him as your master any more. It's his honor to teach my son, so he is not qualified to be your master!"

Selena put out her tongue, then pulled Joaquin to the side. "What the hell is going on?"

"I only heard Daddy mention someone."

"Who?" Selena was suddenly very curious.

"He mentioned someone called Penny. Daddy said if it were not for Master's indecisiveness back then, Penny would not have died. Master looked very upset at that time, so he left."

Selena could guess that this person Pierre mentioned should be the most important person in Pollux's heart. This person had already died, so when Pierre said this, Pollux left in anger.

"Ah, it's okay."

Joaquin raised his head to look at Selena. "Mommy, do you think Master will come back? I still have so many things I haven't learned yet."

Selena stroked Joaquin's head while saying, "If you're destined to learn from him, you will definitely meet again."

Hearing this, Joaquin nodded.

When Selena sat down next to Pierre, the man spoke furiously without waiting for her to speak. "I didn't do it on purpose! He keeps listening to rumors every day, and then he comes up with all sorts of nonsense comments and opinions! I couldn't hold back for a moment, so I said it!"

Pierre shouted in a righteous manner, as if he was the one who was hurt, and Pollux was to blame.

Shaking her head, Selena knew that Pierre was also aware that he had gone overboard.

"Who is this Penny?" It sounds like a girl's name.

"Who else could it be? Pollux's lover." Pierre looked frustrated. Ever since he got together with Selena, he had changed. Now, he even cared about whether he had gone overboard.

In the past, it was rare for him to consider other people's feelings.

"Pollux had a lover?"

"Of course! So, you should give up on him. He already has someone in his heart, and even though that person had died, he would never be interested in anyone else!"

Selena rolled her eyes. What has it got to do with me? Pierre's ability to become jealous is truly increasing day by day.

"Then tell me, what happened?"

"Pollux had a young apprentice who was twelve years younger than him. He watched her grow up, and then the two grew fond of each other. But Pollux felt that he could not be with her. After all, there was such a big age difference, and he did not want to mess up her life. But Penny had fallen in love with him and would not leave."
