

BABY MAFIA 1041

Chapter 1041: "Offending The Winged People"

The first trouble happened when the group was playing the capital.

It started with Ainsley not wanting to use the carriage to explore the capital city.

"Let's just go on foot, shall we? We can buy a lot of food and such."

When Ainsley and the others had passed through the inspection, the baby suggested that they get off the carriage and roamed around the capital city on foot.

After all, they didn't have any specific destination and only wanted to see which place would be the best to build a guild branch.

"No problem. That will be more interesting."

The team members agreed with Ainsley's suggestion, and one by one, they began to get off the carriage.

Elliana was right next to Ainsley, and Axelle was also not far from the baby.

Code-L was still in her human form while holding Cellino and Bello, who were in their cat form.

Their group was like a small group of tourists and it didn't really attract unnecessary attention.

Especially when Ainsley had dyed her hair black and her eyes crimson, mimicking Jake's appearance so that no one would know she was from the Sloan Family.

With that, Ainsley started to take out a small floating ball from her pocket, which turned out to be a super high-tech camera used for a live broadcast.

The baby also put her microphone on her collar so that her voice would be clear and pleasing to the viewers.

It was already eight o'clock in the morning, and coincidentally, Ainsley was scheduled to do a live broadcast.

Without boldly announcing her entry to the entertainment industry through being an internet anchor, the baby's live broadcast room wasn't that popular.

When Ainsley first opened the live broadcast room, only a hundred or so people who were Ainsley's diehard fans scrambled to enter the broadcast room.

[Wooo! The cub is here!]

[Hello, hello, Ain!]

[Ohhh! Ain's hair is now black and her eyes are also crimson! Are you in disguise?]

[This appearance is really similar to Jake!]

[SizzlingAugust throws you a bottle of cola ×1]

The broadcast had just started and Ainsley hadn't even spoken, but a loyal reader had already thrown a cola worth less than a dollar or so.

Still, when Ainsley saw the gift, the baby couldn't help but hook the corner of her lips.

"Good morning, everyone. Thank you, Sizzling August, for giving me a cola." Ainsley waved at the audience while walking down the street.

Since this was a live broadcast, Ainsley also put on special glasses to be able to see the comments section without having to open her phone or something.

Of course, the comment section didn't hinder Ainsley from looking around the Gasha Country's capital.

After a simple greeting, the baby started to control the camera with a flick of her fingers and showed the audience the beauty of the Gasha Country's capital.

"I'm now at the Gasha Country's capital, and this is a small area not far from the airport. As you can see, the Gasha Country's people are really wing lovers!"

Ainsley showed so many winged people and ordinary humans wearing decorative wings on the street.

Not to mention that the Gasha Country's capital was unlike the Godlif Country that looked like an old western era or something.

This city was really a high-tech city, but there were tons of towering green trees everywhere.

One could see so many winged people sitting on the branches of these huge trees and there were even a lot of small shops in the shape of a treehouse.

The balance between nature and technology was what made the Gasha Country ranked in the top 10 most beautiful countries on the human continent.

Not to mention that unlike the dangerous Godlif Country's capital city, this city was free of miasma and wild monsters or beasts.

One didn't have to be careful when roaming the street because this city was fully protected from the random dimensional hole where the monsters came out.

It was said that the capital city's barrier was actually a huge wing of a guardian creature that guarded this country.

No one knew the truth because one couldn't even see the wings, but it was said that the wings were invisible.

Ainsley explained a few things about the Gasha Country that she learned from Code-L and didn't hesitate to share it with her viewers.

The number of her viewers remained stable throughout the morning live broadcast, but then, an accident happened.

Ainsley and the others had just bought street food and sat not far from a gigantic and towering tree when a few winged people suddenly descended in front of them.

FLAP!

Their wings were as huge as usual, and the feathers scattered everywhere in the air.

Their wings alone blocked the sunlight from reaching Ainsley's group of people.

When Ainsley felt that it was quite dark around her, she lifted her chin...

And saw three to four celestials, a.k.a, the winged people standing in front of her with frosty faces.

The Godfather, who was always following Ainsley in the dark, couldn't help but remind Ainsley with a stern voice.

[These people are strong. Be careful!]

The Godfather didn't know what these people wanted to do, but he could feel their indifference and a bit of contempt toward Ainsley's group.

Ainsley's face was also tense. She motioned Elliana and the others to stay alert while facing the sudden guests.

At the same time, the live broadcast room was still active, and the camera faithfully projected what happened around the host, Ainsley.

It was even equipped with an intelligent AI that could control the live broadcast room according to the situation.

When the camera captured the image of the five celestials, the AI immediately changed the title of Ainsley's live broadcast room!

Chapter 1042: "Bird Lovers"

[Shock! Five celestials are provoking a baby mafia boss in Gasha Country's Capital!]

The live broadcast room was a global website that every person in this world could visit.

The platform was also one of the biggest broadcast platforms with close to a billion users.

There could be users from the Godlif country, the Gasha Country, and even non-human races could also make an account to be a viewer or an anchor here.

Ainsley's new broadcast title was extremely eye-catching and provoking, especially when the thumbnail was a picture of five celestials with their wings fully spread.

Such a sight was rare for people other than the Gasha Country's people, who rarely saw the celestial race.

Thus, in just a few minutes, the number of viewers soared to more than a thousand people!

And this number was still climbing fast, approaching 10,000 viewers.

Not to mention that the Gasha Country's people also clicked on this broadcast room because they saw the Gasha Country being mentioned in the title.

What happened to the celestials at the Gasha Country? So far, they were all kind and humble!

How could they block people unreasonably?

But when they entered the live broadcast room, they did see a group of five celestials surrounding a baby, a loli, two cats and a mature man and woman with frosty faces.

The celestials looked like they were going to fight anytime soon.

Then, before the viewers could ask the anchor what's going on over there, Ainsley had already opened her mouth to speak.

"These brothers and sisters. May I know why you are blocking us?"

The baby had a sweet smile and a milky voice, instantly capturing the heart of both male and female audiences.

Now that Ainsley was in disguise, not a lot of viewers knew that she was the famous baby mafia boss.

It's just that the title already explained Ainsley's hidden identity, and the viewers immediately recognised her even with her back view.

[Petit_pep1: This baby sounded so cute! I want to see her face!]

[Mysticgen: The title says that this baby should be the famous baby mafia boss, right? How come her hair isn't purple but black?]

[KaosLok: Upstairs, the boss is on an adventure abroad. It's necessary to go with a disguise!]

However, there were also a lot of people not from the Godlif Country who had never heard of Ainsley's name as a baby mafia boss.

They all thought that the title was only a gimmick so when they saw the barrage mentioning this baby mafia boss, they couldn't help but be curious.

[kattorney: This baby is really a mafia boss? Is she from the Godlif Country?]

[bbjy_ : Yes, she is! Her name is Ainsley Sloan. Go and check on the internet. She's the real youngest mafia boss in history. And she's awesome!]

Ainsley's fans didn't forget to advertise their own idol to these passersby, hoping they would also become Ainsley's fans.

At the same time, the five celestials in front of Ainsley had already responded to the baby's words.

The one who spoke first was the one with the biggest pure white wings. It was a woman with a frosty face but an hourglass figure.

"This child here— I don't mind you being the blood clan's cub and playing in Gasha Country under our celestial race's protection. But..."

The woman looked at Axelle, who was hugging the blue chicken Blaze. She didn't look at Axelle and only looked at Blaze with fiery eyes.

"Don't you know that in Gasha Country, you aren't allowed to make a contract with bird-type monsters or beasts? You also can't make them a pet!"

And this rule applied to the foreign visitors, which meant the visitors had to hide their contracted beasts and monsters if they belonged to the bird type.

"The Gasha Country respects bird-type living beings and holding them as a pet is an insult to our celestial race or the Gasha Country's citizens!"

It was no wonder that Ainsley didn't see any transportation using flying-type beasts or monsters with bird bloodlines.

Only flying-type monsters and beasts with no bird bloodlines were used as a means of transportation, but no other bird-type beasts and monsters were used.

All of them were completely free from humans' touch and could roam the Gasha Country without fearing that some beast or monster tamer would tame them.

At the same time, there were also no beast or monster hunters who would hunt them!

Ainsley's previously calm face instantly cracked. The baby ignored the fact that the celestials thought she was a vampire's cub but the thing with Blaze...

A chicken was also considered a bird? Then...the Gasha Country didn't eat chicken??

Ainsley believed that no one could guess that Blaze was actually a Phoenix from her body shape and appearance alone.

It means...these celestials really cared about a chicken! A blue chicken on top of that!

Ainsley and the others instantly twitched their lips.

Even Code-L also looked unnatural in front of these celestials with frosty faces but gentle voices.

They thought that these celestials were offended by something but it turned out to be a chicken activist?!

Ainsley looked at Blaze, who was huddling with Axelle, without looking at the five winged people.

Somehow, she felt that her first journey abroad was already full of troubles...

"This...sister. What should we do with our pe-chicken, then?"

Ainsley didn't want to fight with the winged people in someone else's country.

Thus, it was better to follow the local custom.

It was just that...the ordinary people didn't approach Ainsley and her people back then because they were just ordinary people or local ability users.

Only the celestials would usually do this kind of thing to remind tourists and locals not to harm any types or birds.

They're bird lovers!

Chapter 1043: "Living Weapons"

After all, the Gasha Country could be officially protected by the celestial race...solely because their country looked like a pair of wings.

It showed how much love the winged people had towards birds and wings with feathers.

Hearing Ainsley's polite questions, the celestial softened her face and tried not to be prejudiced toward the blood clan's cub.

Although the celestial and the blood clan were forever enemies, they couldn't involve an innocent cub in their feud.

The female celestial with the biggest wing slowly folded her wing and squatted so that she could look at Ainsley without the baby needing to lift her head.

"You should put your chicken in your storage necklace or something. If you don't have storage space for living beings, keep your chicken at your hotel."

Just don't bring them out and show others that it was your pet!

The celestial was a reasonable sister, and her first imposing entry was only because of habit.

The other celestials also softened their expressions and tried not to scare the baby.

"Don't be scared, cub. We won't fight you or anything. We just want to remind you to hide your little chicken."

"Yes, yes. We might look like this, but we aren't bad people."

It was just that...the celestials were a race with a high combat skill and often went to war with other small races.

They were the sword under the fairy race and they were all born to be menacing.

That's why, unlike the aloof and arrogant elves, the winged people often looked colder and inhumane.

They were like angels in charge of purifying the world so that the filth would disappear.

But these winged people were also kind at heart.

Although their aura and behavior were imposing and dangerous, all of them didn't think of making trouble with Ainsley.

The male celestials even secretly peeked at the cute baby and silently rubbed Ainsley's head within seconds.

"I'm sorry if we scare you, cub. Just hide your pet, and everything will be okay."

Ainsley and the others were already dumbfounded, especially the Godfather.

His instinct did tell him that these people were dangerous and full of fighting spirit.

But he didn't expect they only wanted to warn Ainsley to hide Blaze because of the local custom...

This...isn't this a misunderstanding?

Even the smart AI also realized that it just made a wrong title that might put the winged people in an unfavorable position.

Thus, the AI immediately changed the title again.

[Shocked! Five celestials suddenly come to rub a child's head!]

This title is less eye-catching but it was really funny and interesting.

The number of viewers didn't decline because of the title change and it increased instead!

After all, a lot of people knew that the winged people were cold, indifferent and inhumane.

They were really more dangerous and scary than elves.

At least, the elves liked children because they were pure. But the winged people rarely cared about children.

They were like emotionless war machines in the hands of the cute and friendly fairies.

But the audiences really did see a few winged people taking turns to rub Ainsley's head while trying not to scare her silly.

[NEEDforTHNEED: This...this...is this really the winged people that I know?!]

[Knight_Fearless: I'm a Gasha Country's local. I've never seen celestials acting like this!]

Of course the celestials wouldn't be like this in front of other people.

But in front of Ainsley, who subconsciously emitted a lethal charm, they just couldn't be mean toward her.

Not to mention that this 'blood clan's cub' looked so cute and plump...her blue chicken was also cute...

The winged people couldn't resist the charm of cute bird-type living beings.

The power of Ainsley's subconscious charm and Blaze's plump body was enough to make these war machines hide their cold aura.

After warning Ainsley and her team, the five winged people even stayed around the group and proposed to be their tour guide!

"It's not safe for two children and two adults to travel alone. How about we guide you around this city?"

The leader of the five celestials, the female winged people, couldn't help but rub Ainsley's head once more while giving this proposal.

Oh. Being escorted by a group of winged people...

The audience behind the screen was already feeling sour, full of jealousy towards Ainsley.

[DaoistL6Ey4z: I finally believe that this kid is a baby mafia boss. I heard that the baby mafia boss has a strong charm and can even charm non-human races.]

[At first, I thought there's no way a child can be a competent boss, especially when it is a mafia family.]

[I also thought that her special abilities are all made up and aren't true. But seeing this video...maybe it is true!]

Many local Gasha Country's people also testified that although they lived with so many winged people who came to play all day long, they couldn't get too close.

The winged people were all cold and indifferent.

Unlike the elves' indifference due to arrogance, the winged people were just indifferent to all lives.

It was strange that they were the most similar race to angels but they were far from being kind-hearted and such.

They were really a race born to be a war weapon in the hands of the fairy.

It was exactly because of the fairies and the celestials that, so far, the 7 big races could live in harmony with each other.

Although there were often wars in the past, but there was never anything like a world war or a race genocide— all because of the fairies and the celestials.

Now that this era was a peaceful era, the celestials didn't seem that scary anymore, but because they still continued to train themselves...

Their aura was just different!

Chapter 1044: "Winged Nannies"

It was hard for humans to get close to the cold and ruthless winged people, even when these humans were ability users.

After all, the humans were always ranked in the bottom barrel among the other 7 big races in terms of strength.

These celestials also had ability users in accordance with their powerful wings and physical strength.

But the five celestials, who were usually cold and ruthless when warning other tourists in Gasha Country, suddenly acted kind toward Ainsley.

Although their faces were still cold, anyone could see that they were trying to be soft to not frighten the baby.

[DRSAD: This is not all. I heard the celestial misunderstood the anchor as the blood clan's cub.]

[bratzkc: Yes, yes. Who doesn't know that the celestials hated the demons and any races related to the demons?]

[ktleeb: But the celestials are still kind to the anchor despite thinking she's the blood clan's cub!]

[Darkstar21: A new audience here. When I first saw the anchor, I thought she's really the blood clan's cub!]

[Dark_rose: Look at her tiger teeth, black hair and crimson eyes...if she has horns, small bat wings and a tail, that would be perfect!]

[Anmoncep: Yes, yes. If the old audiences didn't tell us the anchor's true identity, I would have misunderstood her identity too.]

[Milaya_Mya: Ainsley Sloan, is it? I'll dig out her information within an hour and become her momma fans!]

[Golden_Man5599: Cubs, dad is here!]

[Golden_Man5599 sends you a castle x5]

The online audience was lively, but the situation across the screen was actually awkward.

After the celestials offered to be Ainsley and her group's tour guide, Ainsley happily accepted the offer.

She put Blaze into her dimensional bracelet and then followed the celestials to enjoy the Gasha's capital city—

But along the way, these celestials were more like soldiers coming to report to their supervisor.

The way they introduced a scenic spot or a popular tourist attraction was like reporting a strategic place to snipe the enemy.

It was so awkward and tense that even the poker-faced Elliana couldn't help but twitch her lips once every minute.

The five celestials did bring Ainsley to a lot of good spots and tourist attractions.

They also introduced her to a lot of good restaurants and merchandise shops...

They even told Ainsley a lot of things related to the power balance at the capital and such.

But they did all of this with cold faces. Not even once they smiled or softened their faces!

Ainsley and the others had to tour the whole capital for a few days with these celestials.

When it was nighttime, the celestials would bring them to a gigantic tree hotel and give the group a pleasant experience.

It was really a novel thing to have a hotel inside a gigantic tree.

But for these three days, Ainsley and her group had to endure the celestials' cold and dangerous aura.

Whenever they went to a place, the local people or fellow tourists would look at the five celestials and Ainsley's group with eyes full of terror and curiosity.

Just what kind of important people needed five celestials to escort them?

Even the live broadcast audience had long been accustomed to the celestials' tsundere attitude towards Ainsley.

For a whole three days, the live broadcast video title changed from a controversial title to a more comical one.

[Shock! Five celestials escort a baby mafia boss to explore Gasha's capital city!]

Many curious people clicked on the live broadcast video and watched the five celestials entertaining Ainsley with cold faces and stiff movements.

They were like a group of soldiers transforming into a group of nannies...

Because of this, the five celestials even got a title from the audiences–

Winged nannies.

Unexpectedly, the live broadcast room became quite popular because of the five celestials.

The audience could immerse themselves in a unique experience of touring the Gasha Country's capital with five celestials as their escort.

The female leader of these celestials was called Leah from the Jachow clan, while the male leader who rubbed Ainsley's head before was called Zach, Zach Lecoupe.

The two people were the most enthusiastic celestials among the five people, and they often took turns rubbing Ainsley's head or sneakily pinching her cheeks.

In front of these big ancestors, Ainsley could only laugh and let these two pinch her chubby cheeks to their heart content.

After getting along for three days, the celestials finally left Ainsley and her group.

"We have to go now. Remember, hide your pet because it's the custom here, "

Leah rubbed Ainsley's head again, but her face remained cold, as cold as ice.

At the same time, Zach was silently pinching Ainsley's cheek, and when the baby noticed his fingers on her cheek, he immediately retracted his hand as fast as lightning.

It was strange for these celestials to use their superb skills to sneakily rub Ainsley's head or pinch her cheeks...

Ainsley pretended not to know what Leah and Zach did to her and sweetly smiled at these winged people.

"Thank you for accompanying me these past few days! Brothers and sisters are so kind! You don't look scary at all!"

The celestials' sore spot had always been the fact that people feared them just because of their upbringing as a living weapon.

Children and small animals were especially afraid of winged people like them, so even when they tried to help children and small birds...

The children and the birds would cry out loud or faint right away.

It was the first time that a child didn't get scared of them and even said that they're not scary!

The five celestials' cold faces seemed to melt under the baby's sweet words.

This baby's mouth is smeared with honey, right?!

Chapter 1045: "Meeting A Foreign Irregular Tamer's Guild Member"

Zach was hit by so much cuteness that he was powerless to stop his evil claws.

Without thinking much, he kneaded Ainsley's cheeks ruthlessly to express his fondness for this blood clan's cub!

Yes. These celestials still didn't correct their understanding of Ainsley's true identity and Ainsley also didn't bother to correct them.

Just let these people think that she's a little vampire...

Leah pursed her lips at Ainsley's sweet words and her eyes were full of reluctance when she finally had to leave the baby.

"Then...goodbye, cub. If we are fated, we will meet again."

Ainsley and the celestials regarded this sentence as a mere formality.

Both groups didn't think that they would meet again after such a fateful encounter.

But fate is really wonderful because soon, they will meet again under different circumstances...

After playing and building a fanbase through the live broadcast for three days, Ainsley finally went to do her business.

Of course, she still opened the live broadcast room, but because the content was specific to a guild development, not many people watched the live broadcast.

In the live broadcast channel, there were only a handful ability users who really wanted to join Ainsley's guild and patiently watched the live broadcast.

At this time, Ainsley and her group had departed to a certain guild member living in Gasha Country's capital city.

This member was one of the guild's foreign members, and after joining the guild, he went back to Gasha Country to continue his life.

Of course, after he got Ainsley's inheritance charm skill, the young man's business thrived.

Now, he was even somewhat famous among the upper circle's youngsters.

When Ainsley met the young man at the cafe they had chosen for this meeting, the young man was wearing the Irregular Tamer guild's special robe.

He was one of the best charm ability users, and he was affiliated with the Crimson Lily branch.

The young man's chest was adorned with the Crimson Lily badge, showing his identity as a member of the Crimson Lily branch.

When Ainsley arrived with her group, the young man immediately stood up with his face flushing red.

"N-nice to meet you again, guild founder!" The young man stuttered for a while, but he tried hard to keep his composure.

Looking at the young man with afro hair yet pale skin and blue eyes, Ainsley immediately felt that the young man looked like a clumsy wizard apprentice or something.

But he was only nervous and clumsy in front of Ainsley.

As the son of a good noble family in Gasha Country, how could he be a simple and naive young man in his twenties?

Ainsley put aside her opinion and immediately stretched her right hand to greet the young man.

"Hello, Aaron. Nice to meet you again. I see that you've improved your ability a lot."

Ainsley gestured to her group and Aaron to sit down on the couch as she looked at the afro-haired young man.

This young man is Aaron Graph, the youngest son of the Graph family and is extremely doted upon by the entire family.

The Graph family is a noble family and has a lot of connection with the celestials.

Their main business is to trade with celestials and open many tourism spots for both celestials and the Gasha Country's people.

The local people called the Graph family as the king of tourism because they had tons of hotels, tourism spots, and so on.

The unique tree hotel that Ainsley visited a few days ago also belonged to the Graph Family.

And this Aaron is the entire family's favorite boy.

Not only because he's cute, sensible, smart and kind, but also because of his charm ability.

The boy had no other ability other than charm ability, but because of this, he could survive in such a huge Graph Family without being bullied by other family members.

Even the illegitimate children and other enemies in the family had more or less a good impression of this boy.

This showed just how strong the young man's charm ability is!

He awakened his ability at the age of ten but even before that, he had already owned a small amount of charm skill that he subconsciously used on the people around him.

If not for this, how could he become the treasure of the Graph's family when he wasn't a genius, only a solo ability user and owned a trash ability on top of that.

The young man used his charm ability from a very young age. No wonder he was a part of the elite team despite being a foreign member.

When Aaron heard Ainsley calling his name, the young man instantly felt flattered until he felt like floating to the clouds.

"G-guild founder, you remember my name? I-I thought you wouldn't..."

After all, Ainsley was busy, and she only paid extra attention to the elite members.

Aaron didn't live in the guild, unlike other local members. So, no matter how talented he was, he thought Ainsley wouldn't remember him.

But she did! She just called his name!

Aaron really felt flattered, and his heart suddenly felt light.

The guild founder is really caring. She even remembered the name of a foreign member like him...

Seeing Aaron like this, Ainsley was actually a bit speechless. But who made her a cute guild founder with so many fans?

Aaron must be one of her fans. It's normal to be excited when his idol remembers his name.

Ainsley had rarely acted cute or used her charm ability to make others like her, but since Aaron was like this...

Ainsley smiled sweetly at the young man and even softened her voice.

"It's not hard to remember you. Your appearance is eye-catching, and your assessment test result is outstanding. Good job!"

Chapter 1046: "Guild Union Zone"

Ainsley praised Aaron to the moon with her cute milky voice.

When she spoke, she would blink her eyes, and the bright, innocent look in her eyes was really cute to the bone.

Aaron held his breath and felt he would lose control and pinch the baby's cute cheeks.

Thankfully, he slapped his sinful claws and coughed to distract his thoughts.

"T-thank you for coming to my country...anyway, I heard that you want to build a guild branch here?"

This is the main matter that they had to discuss today.

Ainsley also put away her cute face and immediately tried to look like a serious adult.

That face and behavior when a toddler tried to look like an adult is still extra cute, though...

Ainsley nodded at Aaron's question and didn't shy away from the young man. She didn't bother to hide her plan at all.

"Yes. I want to build a guild branch here and accept a batch of new guild members."

"I need the guild license from the local government, the guild building, the official permission..."

Ainsley told Aaron all the things she needed to open a branch here successfully.

As a local, Aaron knew more than Ainsley about things related to building a guild in Gasha Country.

It would need quite a time to receive the official permission to open a guild branch, but the most pressing matter was actually the guild territory itself.

"So...you want to buy land or a finished building, guild founder?"

Aaron guessed the crux of the problem, and Ainsley immediately nodded.

"Yes, I need a good and sturdy building but also a unique one. As you have seen before, the Crimson Lily branch and other branches are all unique."

For now, Ainsley would only build one guild building in the Gasha country, so she immediately chose to make it in the capital city.

It was strange that Ainsley built so many guild buildings in the Godlif Country, but she didn't make a branch at the capital city.

Usually, all the big guilds put their main headquarters at the capital city, but Ainsley chose Pandora Island instead.

Anyway, the Sloan Village branch and other branches weren't that far from the capital city, so it wasn't a problem not having a building in the capital.

However, it was still a must to make a guild building at the Gasha Country's capital city.

Ainsley had explored the capital city for the past three days and had seen many suitable locations to build her guild.

But she still seeks Aaron's opinion and suggestions as a local.

"How is it? Do you have any recommendations? A good place or a finished building suitable for the guild's headquarters in Gasha Country?"

The first guild building Ainsley would make in this country would naturally become the headquarters.

Thus, she needed the best location and the best building!

Since Ainsley wasn't a local and was just a tourist, she couldn't stay at Gasha Country for a long time.

Thus, it was better to buy a finished building and renovate it a bit rather than building it from scratch.

Aaron listened to Ainsley's questions and was silent for a few minutes before slapping his knees.

"That's it. My father and my elder brothers inspected a new location a few days ago. The place is not far from the guild street, and the safety is also good."

Not to mention that this place already had a finished building in the shape of a tall, slim tower with a pair of crystal wings.

"The building used to be a high-end hotel, but it went bankrupt for some reasons."

"My dad and my brothers wanted to buy this building to build a new hotel or high-end restaurant," Aaron added.

The building was really tall, and it could be used as an observational tower too.

Anyway, it would be a good scenic spot for tourists, mainly because the building's shape was unique.

Ainsley hadn't seen the building yet because she didn't visit the so-called guild street, but just listening to Aaron's description already tempted her.

However, what intrigued her the most was the so-called guild street.

"A guild street...do you mean it's a street dedicated to guilds?" Ainsley couldn't help but ask.

After all, there wasn't such a place in Godlif Country's capital city. There was only a potion shop street but never a guild street.

For a second, Aaron forgot that Ainsley was a foreigner here and immediately explained about the famous guild street.

"It's like this...the capital City has so many guild buildings, and to better accommodate these guilds, the local government creates a special area for the guilds."

It was called a guild street, but it was more like a zone.

It was quite big, taking up around 1/6 of the whole capital city's area.

All the guilds existing in the Gasha Country put their headquarters in this zone.

However, there weren't only guild headquarters in the area. There were also a lot of hotels, restaurants, entertainment places, lodgings, and so on.

It was a heaven for all guild members of various guilds because this guild zone provided everything they needed.

So much so that some hermits had never stepped out of the Guild Union area because of this.

"There are tons of guilds in this country from big to small, but they put all the headquarters in one place. Won't they fight or something?"

Ainsley blinked curiously and asked what she wanted to ask for a long time.

There would be a lot of conflicts among guilds, right? Especially the big guilds....

How could the Guild Union Zone remain peaceful up to now? Or maybe it wasn't peaceful at all?

Anyway, there must be a secret there!

Chapter 1047: "Inspecting A Potential Guild Building"

Aaron immediately smiled wryly and pointed at the passersby outside of the cafe with wings on their backs.

"There are celestials taking turns to act as the local police in that zone."

The celestials didn't live in Gasha Country and mostly only came to play.

But there were also a few tribes who had lived in this country for more than a hundred years.

They were integrated into the Gasha Country's society and either became high-ranking officials, celebrities, or Guild Union police officers.

They also became mercenaries and do other jobs.

Of course, since this country is a human country in the end, no matter how much love the humans have towards the celestials, the celestials are still foreign visitors.

Thus, even the high-ranking officials were only in name and didn't really have a deciding power.

Still, no one would be idiot enough to offend a war machine like the celestials and the celestials were also reasonable.

They wouldn't attack others if others didn't offend them first.

"With the celestials acting as the police, the Guild Union Zone has been peaceful for more than a decade."

Aaron looked a bit proud as he explained things to Ainsley.

Oh well, another reason why the Gasha Country built such a guild union zone was also because of their unique regulation.

In this country, every ability user had to be affiliated with a guild.

And the guild built here wasn't based on the special ability type alone but could also be based on the ability users' family background and such.

In shorts, there were many clubs and organizations becoming guilds here.

Thus, a Healer Guild might have so many different guilds with different members and leaders, unlike at the Godlif Country.

No wonder the government had to set up a special zone in the capital city.

"So far, I've been affiliated with a merchant guild related to my dad and my siblings..." Aaron slowly dropped his head as he spoke.

After all, he was a charm ability user and there wasn't even a single person who dared to create a charm ability user guild in this country.

Even if there was, it turned out to be hidden prostitution or a celebrity guild.

A unique guild like Ainsley's Irregular Tamer full of charm ability users, didn't exist in this country.

But Aaron could imagine what happened when Ainsley successfully built her guild...

The tamers' guilds would be the first to oppose Ainsley, and the celebrity or brothel guilds would be the next to annoy the baby.

But Aaron believed that Ainsley could solve all of this with her strength!

"In this country, whenever there is a dispute between guilds, they will fight in a mini tournament in front of the local citizens."

Thus, all sorts of troubles could be solved on the ring.

It was much safer than fighting in the dark and using dirty methods.

The celestials were all people with a high sense of justice, so the people here were also afraid to use dirty methods to compete with other guilds.

That's how this challenge battle was created.

"Anyway...we can see the building now and buy the building if you like it? I can buy it for you first, guild founder. It will be easier to buy a property when you're a local."

Aaron, a rich young man, didn't even think too much about buying such a gorgeous building in a strategic spot.

Ainsley's lips twitched at Aaron's words.

She also didn't lack money now, but she still thought of negotiating the price with the seller...

But Aaron immediately thought of buying it if she wanted it. So overbearing!

"Is it okay if I use the building for the guild headquarters in this country, though?"

Ainsley was still a bit uneasy.

"Didn't you say your dad wanted to change the building into a hotel or something..."

Hearing this, Aaron immediately waved his hands nonchalantly.

"It's okay. If I told dad that I wanted that building to build the Irregular Tamer guild, he would even invest in the guild and support me."

Ever since he joined Ainsley's guild at the Godlif country, the family had been celebrating for him.

His unique taming ability really stood out a lot, and the family didn't have to worry about him being bullied outside anymore.

If they knew that Ainsley would make a guild here, they would immediately support her.

With a guild, their son's future would be more secure!

Not to mention that so many people had been curious about Aaron's new taming skill.

Even famous beast and monster tamers often visited his house to inquire about this.

Of course, the family hid that it was a unique charm ability skill.

After all, a charm ability user's position in this country is still as low as the one at the Godlif Country.

Once the others knew that Aaron's charm ability could have such a skill, they would want to use him, and the Graph family might not be able to protect him.

Thus, everyone only said that he gained mew taming ability, and it wasn't categorized into a beast or a monster tamer ability.

It wasn't a dual taming ability either—just a new type of tamer.

Because of this, both guilds had been trying to recruit Aaron to join their guild because of his 'new taming ability'.

Still, Aaron only wanted to wait until Ainsley created the Irregular Tamer guild in his country and immediately joined!

Listening to Aaron's explanation, Ainsley felt a bit complicated.

No matter where she goes, the charm ability users have always been looked down upon...

It was really a good choice to build more guild branches in other countries as well.

"Okay, then. Since you said I can use the building...let's see it first and immediately buy it after we inspect the building!"

Chapter 1048: "Exploring Guild Union Zone"

After the brief discussion, the group immediately departed to the Guild Union Zone.

It only took less than thirty minutes to arrive at the Guild Union Zone.

But public transportation couldn't enter the Guild Union Zone at will and the group had to switch vehicles or walk on foot.

Once they arrived at the zone entrance and got off the vehicle, Ainsley subconsciously opened her eyes wide and inhaled deeply.

"So beautiful...there are so many unique buildings here!"

Ainsley was still at the entrance but she could already see the looming buildings behind the entrance.

There wasn't any gate or whatsoever at the entrance.

However, there was an invisible barrier, and visitors had to visit the security posts for a brief inspection before entering the zone.

"Let's go to the security post. After that, we can enter the Guild Union Zone," Aaron reminded Ainsley as he brought the group to the security post.

All visitors who came here had to enter the zone on foot, and there was even a no-fly zone when people entered the Guild Union Area.

Thus, no matter their identities, all visitors had to obediently line up in front of several security posts, no matter when it was raining or snowing outside.

Thankfully, the weather was good when Ainsley came here. So, while waiting in line, Ainsley had time to look at the looming buildings behind the transparent barrier.

These buildings were all guild headquarters from all over the Gasha Country.

Despite the shape difference, each street had its own theme.

For example, the street closest to the entrance was called the food street, which means all the guild headquarters here had something to do with the food section.

Some food merchant guilds were here, a chef guild, a small farmer guild, and so on.

There were also several other streets, such as the weapons street, the battle street, the beast and monster street, the medical street and so on.

There was also a large street full of other guilds that didn't fit into any category.

These buildings also followed the general theme decided for that street.

For example, the medical street's buildings had an ancient eastern vibe, while the weapons street had a cowboy and old western vibe.

This classification made the whole Guild Union more beautiful, even with so much diversity.

Not to mention that the restaurants, hotels, lodgings, and other non-guild buildings also followed the same style as the street they were in.

Ainsley couldn't help but think about her future guild building.

Since it was a towering building like a modern pagoda with crystal wings as decoration...

It should be a futuristic theme, right?

The irregular tamer guild could be classified as the non-categorized guild, so it was possible to take that building and make it into a guild headquarters.

Ainsley let out another sigh as she waited for the inspection to end.

15 minutes later, the group finally entered the Guild Union Zone, and the previously quiet environment instantly became noisy and bustling.

It turned out the barrier also blocked sounds from the outside, which means outsiders couldn't hear anything that happened inside the Guild Union Zone.

From the previous small whispers in front of the security posts to such a lively and bustling scene...

Ainsley and the others were not used to it for a while.

Still, the baby didn't forget to open her live broadcast and excitedly explained about the Guild Union Zone in front of her.

"Hello everyone, it's me again, Ain! Today, we are visiting the famous Guild Union Zone in Gasha Country."

Ainsley waved her hands at the floating camera before she continued her speech.

"Here, we can see a lot of famous guilds from all over the Gasha Country!"

"For those who want to visit this country, the Guild Union Zone is one of the places you have to visit!"

As usual, today's audiences were around 5,000 up to 10,000 viewers, but the audiences were more energetic than before.

One by one, they quickly commented and chatted with Ainsley through the live broadcast's comment section.

[The cub is finally online!]

[Guild Union Zone? That's in the top 10 list of best tourism spots in Gasha Country! Host, you're really good!]

[Me, me! I'm also an ability user. I want to see the gathering of so many guilds in one place.]

[I heard that there are often small fights in this zone? The local government even created various fighting arenas in this area.]

[Host, host, you have to check the fighting arenas too! I heard that once there are matches, there will be many audiences.]

[+1. I also want to watch a foreign ability user match.]

Ainsley glanced at the scrolling barrages and laughed before controlling the camera to shoot her surroundings.

"Okay, everyone, we will visit that arena, but first, we should look at the guilds here!"

Aaron said that the crystal building that Ainsley wanted to see was quite far.

Thus, they could just enjoy the trip around the zone until they arrived at their destination.

Because this Guild Union Zone was too large, there were many public transportation inside.

There were buses, taxis, motorcycles, and some open-ceiling cars for tourists.

There were even bicycles and vehicles using land beasts or monsters as transportation.

Ainsley and the group choose a huge hairy beast as their transportation.

The beast had its own street route and wouldn't collide with other non-living vehicles.

Mainly because these beasts and monsters were all slower than the vehicles because the purpose of using them was to sightsee the entire zone.

The group rented a Yak-like beast that could fit five adults for an entire day, and after paying for the rent to the beast rental owner, they got onto the back of the Yak.

It's time to explore the Guild Union Zone!

Chapter 1049: "Battle Street"

The Yak itself had super smooth and thick fur, really comfortable as a moving car.

There were even barriers erected on the beast's back so the passengers wouldn't fall to their death when they sat on the beast's back.

Because this is a beast with high intelligence, the rental owner, a.k.a the beast owner, didn't have to follow the group to drive the beast.

Aaron gave the beast a few simple commands, and the beast immediately growled in answer.

Sitting on the back of this carpet-like beast, Ainsley felt that everything was so novel.

The beast was as tall as an elephant and had a longer body than an elephant.

It was really like the cute furry beast from the Avatar Ang movie.

Ainsley couldn't help but lay down on the beast's back and enjoyed the smooth fur beneath.

This beast was super unique because when it was hot, the fur would be cool and when it was cold, the fur would be warm.

No wonder this beast was a favorite transportation means for the tourists.

The beasts also moved slowly, but not as slow as a turtle. The pace was just right for the tourists to enjoy their surroundings.

Not to mention that when it walked, its back didn't sway that much. Because of this, no one would feel tired when they sit on the beast's back for hours.

If the tourists were tired of sitting without a backrest, they would lay down on the beast's back like when they were about to take a nap.

The beast's back was wide enough to fit five adults sleeping on their backs!

Not to mention there were only three adults here with two children and two cats...

The Godfather and Zev weren't counted because they didn't even take up space.

With this beast as their transportation, Ainsley's group explored several famous streets in the Guild Union Zone.

They visited the closest food street and bought a lot of local food. They even take a look at several big guilds related to food.

There was this one guild that Ainsley couldn't help but take a look for a few more glances.

The same was true for the audiences behind the screen.

[Quick, quick, take a look at that building! Isn't that a chef guild?]

[I didn't know a chef guild even existed...]

[Same here. But don't you think the shape is so cute?]

Yes. The building's shape was like a chef's long hat, and there was still chef-like scarf decoration around the building.

The building looked soft and fluffy, but it was definitely harder than metal.

Such a unique building...

There were many other guild buildings with unique shapes like that too, but the chef guild's pure white building with a red scarf attracted the most attention.

[I heard that in this zone, there was also a food critic guild? The ability users there have abilities related to tasting food.]

One of the live broadcast audiences commented, and Ainsley couldn't help but wonder.

This country really allowed so many weird guilds to exist....

There were even guilds with no specific ability types and was only a place for people in certain circles to gather.

However, recently, the government separated these kinds of guilds from the genuine guilds and called them clubs instead of guilds.

The clubs could still stay at the Guild Union Zone, but they had to open a business as a cover so that they could be useful for the Guild Union Zone's people.

It was said that there were also a lot of rental houses and properties for people to live permanently in this zone.

It was not an exaggeration to say that this zone was really like a city.

So, it was like a city within a city.

The Gasha Country was really bigger than the Godlif Country!

A live broadcast showing the Guild Union Zone in Gasha Country was quite rare.

So, for a while, Ainsley's live broadcast was quite popular.

More than 10,000 viewers came to take a look out of curiosity, and after watching the adventure, everyone was reluctant to leave the live broadcast channel.

Thus, more and more people came to know Ainsley as the anchor, but the baby was already busy enjoying the day's sightseeing.

After spending more than five hours enjoying the Guild Union Zone, Ainsley and her group finally came to the futuristic street to take a look at their future guild building.

The moment the group entered the futuristic street, what they saw was immediately so different from other streets.

They had seen various ancient Eastern Streets, old Europe streets, cowboy-themed streets, horror-themed streets, etc.

But this was the first time they saw a futuristic-themed street.

The street itself wasn't built with rocks or asphalt, unlike the previous roads.

This street was built using an unknown metal, making the road's surface look smooth and glossy.

The silver glow gave off a cold vibe, but it was beautiful under the sunlight at noon or moonlight at night.

The surrounding buildings also gave off sci-fi interstellar era vibe.

There were many floating cars, floating vehicles, roads in the air...

It was a really cool street, and surprisingly, this street wasn't the street for uncategorized guilds.

"This street is called the battle street. All guilds with battle-focused goals are all gathered here, "

Aaron told Ainsley and her group some knowledge about this street.

"Because the battle street has the highest conflict rate, there are as many as five battle arenas here."

Not to mention that the battle street was thrice as large as the other streets.

One could say that almost all famous and big guilds gathered here instead of on other streets.

This is a street full of elites!

Chapter 1050: "A Risky Location"

The Shaman guild was here, the mercenary guild was here, the other battle-focused guilds were all here.

No wonder the atmosphere was different from other streets.

The people on this street were all elites, the ones at the top of the pyramid in the whole Guild Union Zone.

Seeing this, Ainsley couldn't help but swallow nervously.

"That, Aaron...the building you mentioned earlier...is it also here?"

She thought that it would be on an uncategorized street!

But such a beautiful building really did have a futuristic vibe. So if it was located here...it made sense.

"Ah, yes, yes. That building is located not far from other big guilds."

Aaron scratched his hair as he spoke in an awkward tone of voice.

"It was once a famous restaurant, but because the owner offended someone, they shouldn't offend...it was closed."

That's why they could buy the building for themselves!

Ainsley's head was already dizzy at Aaron's words.

That restaurant was located near countless big guilds, and she wanted to make a guild there?

Wouldn't these guilds come to make trouble for her?!

But Aaron believed that the Irregular Tamer Guild would also become a behemoth guild.

So, it was not unreasonable to choose such a good place.

Anyway, other guilds already had their own buildings and wouldn't covet this building.

At most, other restaurant owners would want to buy the building.

Aaron didn't explain much, and Ainsley also didn't speak anymore, but the audiences behind the screen were all puzzled.

[The anchor came here to see a building? Do you want to buy one?!]

[Oh wow, so rich! I heard from my local Gasha friend that the property price in Guild Union Zone is even higher than in other places.]

[Not to mention the battle street. Battle street had the highest land and property price throughout the entire zone!]

[I heard that they didn't use money anymore and use energy crystals, monster and beast cores or other valuable treasures as the currency?]

[Yes, yes, that's right. These powerful ability users don't care about mere mortal money anymore. They want something more beneficial for them.]

[Dang...it means the anchor should be a rich ability user, too, right?]

[Upstairs, don't you know that she's from the Sloan Family? Check the internet. This kid is even richer than your whole family!]

Even the Graph family couldn't say that they were richer than Ainsley if Ainsley counted her Inheritance Stone's mine to her net worth.

Ainsley didn't see the barrage talking about how rich she was because right now, they had arrived in front of the dream building.

The moment Ainsley saw the building, she instantly fell in love.

The building was really similar to a Pisa Tower, but this one wasn't tilted like the real Pisa tower.

Not to mention that the whole building was built using tough yet beautiful 7-colored crystals.

Under the sunlight, the building would emit various colors depending on the angle you're seeing.

Added with the wide crystal wings behind the tower...

The building seriously looked like something that a celestial would love to death.

As if to confirm Ainsley's wild guess, Aaron couldn't help but comment.

"This building used to be the celestials' Favorite gathering place. It's really a pity that the owner closed down the restaurant..."

Such a big restaurant with so many floors...it was said that the building also provided lodgings, spa, pool, casinos, bar, and other places just like a hotel.

But it was most famous for its rotating restaurant at the top of the building.

"How is it, guild founder? This building will definitely be the best guild headquarter in Gasha Country!"

Aaron was already so excited that his cheeks flushed red.

He had seen the Crimson Lily branch and was jealous of how unique the building looked like.

Thus, he recommended this building so that the guild branch in his country would be the most beautiful and the most unique among other branches!

Ainsley also loved the building and despite all the risks, she immediately agreed.

"Let's check the interior too. Should we call the property agent or something?"

Ainsley was already impatient and anxious to check the building and buy it!

Aaron was really deserving to be the son of a wealthy family.

Without speaking much, he dialed a number, and in less than ten minutes, a property agent in charge of this building immediately came over.

When the property agent arrived, he immediately went to see Aaron and bowed politely.

"Welcome, third young master Graph. We have been waiting for you."

The property agent had a decent business smile on his face with a hint of flattery in his eyes.

The property agent and the previous owner had heard that the Graph family was interested in buying this building.

If it's the Graph family, the king of tourism, they would be glad to sell this historical building so that it would be another scenic spot in the future.

Many people also wanted to buy this building, but the previous owner was more optimistic with the Graph Family.

It's not only about the Graph's family reputation in tourism but also because of their vast treasury.

A businessman in the tourism field would have a lot of unique items in hands, right?

The previous owner needed this very much so that he could immediately leave the Gasha Country, leaving the people who wanted to target him because he offended them.

Not to mention that the Graph family was known to be generous. They would offer a high price for this building!

Aaron nodded calmly at the agent without showing any expression on his face.

The young man only pointed at Ainsley beside him and spoke,

"She is with me. Their group is with me. Can they also enter the building to inspect the interior?"
