

BABY MAFIA 1091

Chapter 1091: "Like Father, Like Daughter— Jake's Past"

Ainsley almost laughed out loud at the thought of fighting so many people a few times just to confront the big guilds— even having to act like a villain against those teens.

But this seems to be an effective idea.

"So...I might have to apply for three battle royales in total, right?" Ainsley joked with Aaron but what she said was true.

The first battle would involve the three geniuses from the Winged Guild— Charles' close friends.

And then the second battle would involve that granddaughter's suitors and best friends.

The last battle would involve the older brothers and sisters of the suitors and that genius merchant girl.

All in all, Ainsley's battle would be more complicated and dangerous as she proceeded further.

But Ainsley had never been afraid of challenges.

She was used to winning in many fights and had never encountered a bitter fight except for when fighting monsters and beasts.

This battle royale could actually push her into a dire danger, but it would also further hone her battle skill.

She had to prepare to fight against the transmigrator hunters, right? So, fighting these people would be a way to strengthen her abilities further.

Ainsley quickly decided when to provoke the three geniuses, and she chose to do it tomorrow.

"Help me inform the potential guild members that I'll start the inheritance ceremony once the sun falls down. After that, I'll have to rush to Celestial Lake."

Aaron, who had been 'trained' as the Gasha Country's Irregular Tamer guild branch, was happy to execute Ainsley's command.

"Roger, guild founder! I'll also get someone to leak the news that you are coming to Celestial Lake. This way, you can confront the three geniuses faster than ever."

Aaron only knew Ainsley for a few months, but he already had an unwavering faith in Ainsley's strength.

He had seen Ainsley's various fights and believed that the girl would emerge victorious.

Alas, the upcoming battle royales would definitely give Ainsley some injuries and Aaron could only hope that Ainsley wouldn't be seriously injured.

After arranging the plan, Ainsley said goodbye to Aaron and went to find Jacqueline.

The baby invited Jake's mom to live in the same hotel as her, and the woman happily agreed.

Of course, she also told Jacqueline about the things she planned to do to end these little tricks.

To Ainsley's surprise, Jacqueline didn't denounce Ainsley for being hot-blooded and rash.

On the contrary, she started to laugh out loud.

"Ah, ah, hahaha! Really— like father, like daughter, huh?"

Jacqueline fell onto Ainsley's bed in the hotel while wiping her nonexistent tears.

The baby could only look at Jacqueline with eyes full of confusion. Even the invisible Godfather and Zev were curious about Jacqueline's words.

"Auntwie...what do you mean by like father like daughter? Did dad do the same thing as me before?"

Ainsley couldn't imagine Jake challenging a lot of guilds like her.

After all, in her mind, Jake was a businessman, and he would choose a safer option rather than engage in such a dangerous fight.

But Ainsley was wrong.

Jacqueline quickly hugged Ainsley and dragged her to the bed before telling Ainsley a story about when Jake was still seventeen or eighteen years old.

"You see. Back then, he was just a potential heir to the Billios Family, and he is still not restricted to the family's image."

So, why should he solve things peacefully when he didn't carry the burden of the whole Billios Family as a 'merchant' family?

"Back then, he used his God of Wealth ability to challenge many people who play tricks on him when he's doing business."

The Godlif Country was a chaotic family, after all.

Jake often challenged people and beat them until their mother couldn't recognise them!

"One of the reasons why the current Billios Family is so feared and has such a huge influence is also because of Jake's brutality when he's young."

Jacqueline reminisced about Jake when he was in his rebellious period.

"His God of Wealth ability is really strong. Jake uses his business talent to gather a lot of money and then use the money to fight people who dare to provoke the Billios Family."

This is also why Jake became the family head in the end because their Billios Family lacked someone who could bare their teeth to others who wanted to covet their family's wealth.

"I'm also an ability user, but my ability is not suitable for a fight."

Jacqueline let out a long sigh as she stroked Ainsley's head.

"Because of this, when I was the family head, many people wanted to mess with me and my husband."

Thankfully, Jake's dad, the mysterious guy, was quite powerful and despised not having a business talent...he could protect his wife and child along with the entire Billios Family.

Jake's dad, whom Ainsley had never met before, was an orphan, but his unique ability was what made the Billios Family insist on taking him home as Jacqueline's husband.

"My husband's ability is a bit similar to Jake's God of Wealth, but the thing he has to sacrifice is not money. It's his body part."

Jake's father's ability was similar to Code-L's ability in terms of paying the price.

Because of this, Jake's dad often lost a lot of blood, hair, and so on.

"Of course, he's quite powerful because his second ability is actually regeneration and healing ability."

Because of this, he could sacrifice his body parts like a madman and then regrow his limbs and heal his wounds.

If not for Jacqueline's husband's strong ability, so many enemies would have killed Jacqueline when she was the family head!

Chapter 1092: "A False Rumor"

Of course, now that she became the patriarch, she focused on the Billios Family's internal matters while Jake concentrated on his business empire.

"Jake inherited his father's hot-blooded nature when he was young, but after becoming the family head, he changed his attitude to be a mysterious, playful casino owner."

Jake's vibe always felt like a naughty and charming fox that would trick you into giving him money because he loved money so much.

But hidden behind his playful nature was ruthless blood and a strong bone.

"Jake once brawled with the 7 sacred families' young masters and almost killed all of them. This battle made him famous all over the capital."

Jacqueline laughed when she mentioned the past, but Ainsley was truly shocked.

No wonder Jake was the unwritten lord of the capital city and the 7 sacred families didn't dare to touch her after she got along well with Jake.

They still got some past traumas from Jake!

Maybe Jake once beat Michael black and blue in his younger days, right?

No wonder Jacqueline said like father like daughter...the blood feud is still there, and the nature to provoke so many people at once was also there.

Ainsley suddenly suspected that she might be Jake's child in her various past lives or something.

"Anyway, you can go and provoke those youngsters but be careful of the older generation. No matter what, they're all-powerful."

Jacqueline didn't forget to remind Ainsley to keep her head clear and not be arrogant because of her strength.

After all, those grandfathers and grandmothers could already open a fully functioning domain for all their abilities.

If Ainsley fought them one by one, without using the full strength of her luck manipulation ability, she would most likely die without a burial.

After all, in the past year, she had never fought the older generations even in wars.

The older generations usually didn't join any territorial war and would only come out when someone provoked their grandchildren or their children.

Up to now, Ainsley had never seen the older generations of the seven sacred families or the seven great families.

She had never seen Finley's grandparents or Jake's grandparents either.

She had only seen the big guild leaders and they were all really strong.

If Ainsley didn't have the Godfather by her side, she would be much more nervous in front of the big guild leaders in her country.

"Owokay, auntwie, I'll be careful around the older generation." In the end, Ainsley promised Jacqueline not to take the older guys easily.

After the conversation, both people separated to their own rooms and slept until they woke up naturally.

That morning, Ainsley went to the guild building to accept the new guild members who would register today.

From the listed 200 people, at least 80% of them came and registered, while the rest didn't come until the inheritance ceremony.

They didn't even participate in the inheritance ceremony and just disappeared like that, never coming to the guild.

At first, Ainsley was too lazy to care about this, but then, one of the young new guild members cautiously approached her.

"T-that...guild founder, did you see the news on the internet?"

Ainsley was busy preparing this and that, so how could she have time to check the internet except for when she was doing a live broadcast?

It's been a few days since she last opened a live broadcast, mainly because the following content was not suitable for the audience.

After all, it was a kind of guild secret when she filled up the building and did other things.

Now that the new person suddenly asked, Ainsley couldn't help but retort.

"I haven't checked the internet these days. What's wrong?"

Somehow, she got a bad feeling...

The new person fidgeted as he looked down at the baby, who was even younger than his youngest sister in the family.

For a while, he felt pity and remorse that the baby had to face such an accusation on the internet.

Thus, he didn't dare to explain the truth and just urged Ainsley to open the internet, especially the local social media app for the Gasha Country.

"I-I believe in you. Don't worry, guild founder. Don't take all those words to heart!"

The new member cheered on Ainsley before slowly leaving the building.

Only Ainsley was left on the lobby's couch, busy checking the internet.

Maybe because both Elliana and Aaron were busy, none of them checked the internet and noticed the ongoing storm.

Once Ainsley opened the Gasha Country's most famous social media app, the first on the trending list was actually related to her and her guild.

"The unique Irregular Tamer Guild from the neighboring country is actually a scam?!"

The article and the discussion that topped the whole Gasha Country's internet didn't reveal the fact that this guild had already started to expand in their country.

But this discussion still brought many people both from the Gasha Country and from the Godlif Country to argue.

[What the hell is this article? You are slandering someone! Just because this is the Gasha Country's social media, it doesn't mean you can slander something from our Godlif Country!]

[The mafia country's citizens upstairs, how can you believe such a magical guild exists? If it's not a scam, what is it?]

[I remember the guild founder was said to be a toddler? Will you believe a toddler so easily? What a dummy.]

[Upstairs, close your stinky mouth. You don't know Ainsley Sloan. She's not an ordinary toddler. She's stronger than a bastard like you!]

[I don't care whether it's a super baby or not. There's no ability listed in her personal information that can make charm ability users into a unique tamer.]

Suspicious!

Chapter 1093: "Great Slander"

[Just because she can be a tamer herself, it doesn't mean she can make others into a tamer, right?]

[The article said that the Irregular Tamers are indeed tamers who were once charm ability users, but it was said that there will be a huge side effect from this transformation.]

[What do you know? It's not a transformation. It's a skill of enlightenment! There's nothing dangerous with that!]

[I'm from the Irregular Tamer Guild that you mentioned and I can assure you that it's been a few months and there's nothing wrong with me!]

The person attached his guild license and guild identification to the comment, proving that he's really someone from the Irregular Guild Tamer.]

[I demand the person posting this discussion and article to immediately delete it. Even if you're not from the Godlif Country, this article is a huge slander!]

[Upstairs, I know you want to protect your own country but look at the evidence written in the article. I think it's all true.]

[What do you know?! Are you one of the people who had become an irregular tamer like me?? If not, shut up and go away!]

[Yes, yes! Don't speculate things without proof! Even the person involved said that this article is wrong.]

[I don't care whether it's true or false. Anyway, if there's such a guild in my Gasha Country, I won't let my friends and family join it.]

[Ewww. Just spread your cult to your chaotic mafia country. What is a mafia boss doing in our Gasha Country?]

[Hey, hey, I heard that the guild founder fought someone from the Winged Guild. Let me fetch you the link ASAP!]

[Goddamn. She's too ruthless, right? She wants to shame our Gasha Country's people!]

[Upstairs, are you crazy or what? The battle arena's rules are like that. It's not ruthless at all for the baby to do that. If she didn't do that, Charles would be the one breaking her limbs!]

[A bunch of weak ability users from Gasha Country. Just sparing that Charles' life is already taking it easy, okay?]

[If that Charles guy comes to our Godlif Country, he would have died without a burial. So weak.]

[No wonder these idiots can believe the article's nonsense. They don't understand anything even though they're ability users. Shame on you!]

The topic escalated from the article itself to a fight between the Gasha Country and the Godlif Country.

Many people from the Gasha Country who previously didn't think that the article is correct, started to side with the person who posted the article—

Simply because the discussion started to involve the two countries' dignity.

Ainsley didn't know who reposted the article and the discussion on various global social media.

When Ainsley checked Godlif Country's special social media, the number one trending topic was also this article.

Countless people started to drag the internet experts to see whether the article is true or not.

Ainsley's guild members also joined the fight and posted various proof that they were fine and healthy.

The article is big nonsense!

The topic became so popular that even ordinary people knew about this and lamented that the ability user's circle seemed to be more dangerous than what they thought.

[Fortunately, we aren't ability users. It's so chaotic every day in that circle.]

[Hey, hey, I heard that ordinary people in Z Country live a better life than in other countries. I really envy them...]

[We, ordinary people, are actually the majority in various countries, but these ability users dominate the society, simply because this world respects the strong and doesn't respect the law!]

[Heh. Once someone wants to stand up for the ordinary people, it's easy for those lunatic ability users to kill them. Who wants to defend us, the weak side?]

[I don't care about this article. Anyway, the guild founder of that Irregular Tamer Guild is a mafia, and I can't say that she's completely innocent.]

[I heard that this mafia is a 'kind' one but hey, if she's kind, why did she become a mafia? Disgusting.]

[Don't you know that this baby even abandoned her powerless father and chose a strong father to replace her biological father? What a filial child.]

[She's clinging to a more powerful force. As expected of a cunning mafia.]

[I hate the mafia. Even if this mafia boss looks cute and harmless, she's still a disgusting mafia!]

[You people— aren't you ashamed talking bad about a four-year-old toddler?! Where's your humanity??]

[Ability users aren't human. Humans don't have special power.]

[What the heck— are you an ordinary people activist? Go away! This article is the ability user's field. What kind of trash can enter this discussion?]

[I think the ordinary people are the ones who can't be called humans. Obviously, you guys are lesser humans and not humans.]

[Lesser humans. What a good nickname for these people who can only protest and can't do anything! Hahaha!]

The topic deviated a lot from the original one, and it even involved injustice towards ordinary people.

There was also bias and prejudice towards all mafia in Godlif Country.

The people were talking about the topic day and night.

Naturally, those who knew that the Irregular Tamer Guild already existed in Gasha Country became even more confident in their judgment to obey the big guilds.

The big guilds threatened them not to join because they felt that the Irregular Tamer Guild was shady as hell!

Many members who had listed themselves on the pre-registration list became wary of the guild because of this rumor.

Eventually, their family forbade them from joining the guild, and that's how only 80% of people on the pre-registration list came to register formally!

Chapter 1094: "Thank You, I Love You"

After reading the whole discussion for more than an hour, Ainsley finally put down her phone and rubbed her tired temple.

She really underestimated the big guilds' small tricks to prevent her guild from developing in Gasha Country.

They even dared to share false news and slandered her guild!

But just like how people couldn't really prove that her inheritance was abnormal, she couldn't really prove that it was harmless.

Maybe it really had a certain risk and price to pay, but it's so cheap that the charm ability users didn't feel anything.

Or maybe it was completely harmless because it was an item that Zev gave her and Ainsley believed Zev wouldn't be so malicious to give her something dangerous.

But there's no concrete proof to all of this.

The big guilds used this loophole to slander the Irregular Tamer Guild and even if the people from the Godlif Country wouldn't believe it...

Others from other countries might believe it because only a few people from their countries had joined the Irregular Tamer Guild in Godlif Country.

This slander not only planted a seed of doubt in the potential guild members in Gasha Country but also in other countries' potential members!

Ainsley couldn't explain her emotion right now. Mad?

She's already fuming in anger that she almost crushed the floor with the magical brush.

Anxious? She's really worried because she doesn't know how to refute the article.

Nalisha had contacted her just now, and she also asked Ainsley what their guild had to do to respond to this article.

After all, the crux of the problem came from Ainsley and Nalisha needed Ainsley to personally handle it.

The three cats, Godfather and Zev also read the entire discussion with Ainsley, and now, all of them were itching to find the big guilds to fight.

"Lil brat, this is already too much. Let's visit those big guilds and destroy their buildings!"

It's easy to camouflage things as a natural disaster or something. After all, Code-L's ability enabled her to do that.

No one would know that it was a man-made disaster from Code-L's special ability!

Even Jake called Ainsley a few times and comforted her 'fragile' heart.

"My daughter, don't be sad, okay? Dad can handle the matter on the internet for you. Let's find the person who posted the article and expose them."

Jake believed that this person should have a connection with the big guilds in Gasha Country.

That way, they could expose the big guilds' cunning tricks.

"Okay, dad, you can do that. But still, people had already doubted my guild, and I can't prove them wrong."

This is the main issue, and Ainsley was frustrated that she couldn't do anything!

"How about asking the special doctors to check all the guild members and post their test results on your guild's official social media account?"

"That can suppress the rumor a bit, but dad...people will still come up with various excuses..."

Anyway, the seed of doubt had been planted and Ainsley needed a way to completely eliminate this doubt.

"It's okay, just do it. At least the rumor will be suppressed." Jake comforted Ainsley before giving her another suggestion.

"As for eliminating the doubt...you can create a plan to showcase your guild's ability, just like at the beast and monster tide event."

"Hum. I planned to challenge all the big guilds after provoking their younger generations...maybe I need to make this a bigger issue than I previously planned."

Now, Ainsley wanted her to fight with the big guilds to be a global sensation among other human countries, not just a national event in Gasha Country!

For this, Ainsley might need Jake's influence to lobby the Gasha Country's government.

After all, if Ainsley single-handedly defeated all the big guilds in Gasha Country and the whole world was watching...

That would be embarrassing for the Gasha Country's government itself.

They might reject the proposal after thinking about this possibility.

"Okay, okay, just tell dad what dad can do for you. For now, you should just focus on your agendas. Dad believes in you!"

Jake was always gentle and accommodating in front of Ainsley.

Of course, he would also tease Ainsley from time to time but in this situation...he is highly reliable.

Ainsley felt her eyes getting slightly wet with tears. Her heart was full of family warmth that she rarely felt in her previous life.

"Thank you, dad. I love you!"

Ainsley suppressed her shame and blatantly expressed her love for Jake, her father who was really the best young father in this world.

Previously, Ainsley had never said the word 'love' to Jake and Jake also knew that she might feel awkward about it.

But now that Ainsley suddenly gave him a surprise, Jake squealed excitedly before laughing out loud.

"Hahahaha! Dad loves you too!"

After the two people chatted with each other to comfort their hearts, they said goodbye and went to do their own business to solve this problem.

Ainsley left the matter to Jake while she prepared for the inheritance ceremony.

Since all the people who registered today trusted her, even after reading the false news, Ainsley was extremely kind towards them.

"Don't worry, that article is false. There won't be any side effects after getting enlightenment."

Ainsley explained herself in front of the new guild members and didn't forget to comfort them, afraid they still had some anxiety and small doubts.

"After all, I only guide you guys to be enlightened, and how far you can be enlightened depends on you."

Ainsley's words really soothed the new guild members and they no longer had even the slightest doubt about the guild!

Chapter 1095: "Cameron, Felicia and Sean"

After the inheritance ceremony ended, the Godlif Country's guild members welcomed the Gasha Country's guild members through their shared app.

While the outside world was busy arguing about the topic, the guild members were busy welcoming their new colleagues from abroad.

There was no barrier between the two countries due to the international human language, and they also put aside their nationalism.

Now, they only had one identity, which was a fellow guild member!

The guild members were getting along with delight, and the guild founder was currently on the way to Celestial Lake with Aaron, Elliana, Axelle, and her team of cats plus invisible beings.

On the way there, Aaron gave Ainsley a popular science lesson about the three teens she would provoke anytime soon.

"Charles's best friend is also twenty years old like him and he is actually much more powerful than Charles."

But the guy was low-key, and he really didn't mind letting others think that Charles is stronger than him.

"It was said that this guy is extremely cunning. He uses Charles as a 'shield', making others think that Charles is the one worth paying attention to while he's just mediocre genius at best."

Aaron rubbed his chin as he escorted Ainsley to the baby's carriage parked near the hotel.

"The close people think that this guy will be mad at whoever harms Charles because with Charles getting weaker, the guy's true strength will be exposed instead."

Ainsley couldn't help but inhale deeply while she listened to Aaron's explanation.

This guy sounded difficult to provoke. So how could she provoke him to avenge Charles when this guy wanted to conceal his true strength?

"This guy's name is Cameron. Some rumors said that his family used to be a mafia family in Godlif Country before moving to Gasha Country."

That's why this guy is actually far more dangerous than he looked like.

"Unlike Cameron, who had ulterior motives and deep thoughts, the other two teens weren't that complicated."

Aaron moved to talk about the Winged Guild leader's granddaughter and another boy who was also in Charles' circle.

"The boy is nineteen years old this year and he's actually Cameron's suitor. Because Cameron becomes Charles' best friend, he also gets close to Cameron."

Aaron actually didn't want to talk about the four people's romantic story, but many people already knew that the nineteen-year-old boy liked Cameron.

Unlike in Godlif Country who couldn't accept homosexuality so easily, it was relatively free here in Gasha Country.

Thus, even the boy's family didn't stop the boy from pursuing Cameron.

"Anyway, this guy is a typical pure and naive young master. He's also a second-generation rich teenager, but fortunately, he's also a genius."

However, in terms of ability, he's weaker than Charles. Thus, Ainsley didn't need to pay much attention to this transparent guy.

"Just remember his name— Sean."

"Okay, okay, what about the granddaughter? Is she particularly strong or something?" Ainsley urged Aaron to discuss someone else.

She's a bit awkward when discussing Sean's love life instead of his ability!

"Oh, yes, the granddaughter. Her name is Felicia. She is not that strong in terms of offensive ability, but her wings are surprisingly unique."

People called her 'angel' because not only her wings resembled a real celestial both in width and size, but they also had a unique healing feature.

"She can heal her companion with her fallen feathers. I heard that her wings could also purify others like priests."

So, she's both a priest and a healer who can fly.

"Her wings are huge but extremely light. She can move super fast, and her battle video also showed that her wings had an excellent defensive ability."

Thus, this Felicia girl is an all-rounded support.

"Felicia and Sean are both support types, but Sean leans to buff-style support. I heard that his feathers could make people move slower or something like that."

This is an extreme advantage when combined with Felicia, who had light wings and fast movement.

"Of course, Cameron will always be the main attack in their team, but so far, no one knows exactly what his wings can do."

"They don't even know his wings' color?" Ainsley couldn't help but raise an eyebrow at Cameron's mysterious ability.

Knowing your enemy is important, even when the enemy is much weaker.

"Well, he showed his wings once or twice and the color of his wings are surprisingly pitch black."

Aaron grinned at Ainsley as he beckoned her to move closer.

Then, the young man whispered in a low tone, as if afraid that others would hear what he said.

"He is rumored to be a fallen angel— a descendant of a celestial and a human or other races."

Anyway, that's how his wings are pitch black because there are not many winged ability users who have black wings!

But all the owners of black wings are usually famous for their super strength.

They're all legends in Gasha Country which was why although Cameron rarely showed his ability in public, he was still hailed as one of the Winged Guild's four young geniuses.

"Anyway, guild founder, you have to be careful with Cameron and Felicia. Felicia's healing ability through her feathers are really superb."

One had to deal with the healer first in every battle!

"Okay, okay, thank you for the information. Now...how do I provoke the three people? Will they accept my provocation that easily?"

Ainsley couldn't help but worry that Cameron, the group leader after Charles got into the hospital, wouldn't want to fight in the arena.

But as Charles' best friend, although his motive might be impure, he should still avenge Charles in the public eyes, right?

Chapter 1096: "Evil Spirit From Hell"

"I think you can just taunt them and remind them of Charles' miserable situation. You can also provoke them by blocking them when they want to take Celestial lake water."

Aaron was indeed a good seedling to be a guild leader. He quickly captured the three people's weaknesses in one go.

"Cameron is a low-key but proud guy. If you provoke him by saying he's a coward, he will definitely fight."

It's not like no one never provoked Cameron, but all this time, it was Charles who fought on Cameron's behalf.

"And I heard that Cameron usually took care of those who offended him outside of the ring."

Aaron's tone of voice became mysterious as he whispered in a low voice.

"In other words, those who offend him and can't bring him to the arena will all die of mysterious circumstances."

Some people died because of food poisoning. Some people died in a robbery.

Some people died from drinking too much wine. Some people died from consuming forbidden drugs—and so on.

"Although the government can't catch Cameron and his family because they lack evidence, smart people already know that Cameron must be the murderer behind the scene."

After all, these people died a few days after provoking Cameron!

That's how the rumor about his family being an ex-mafia family spread around society.

"Anyway, be extra careful with Cameron. He's a suspicious guy!"

After Aaron said this, coincidentally, they arrived at the so-called Celestial Lake.

When the group arrived, it was already sunset, and the whole lake was covered in orange-ish, red and golden light.

The celestial-like lake looked even more heavenly this way.

The water that was usually turquoise or azure blue slowly changed to gold, red and orange.

People said that this lake was the celestials' wine reserve when it was sunset or sunrise, all because the lake water looked like a magical wine or something.

After seeing the real deal, Ainsley had to admit that this lake is much prettier than Xocolet Lake.

Xocolet Lake has so many water plants and the water is usually not as clear as Celestial Lake water.

On the contrary, the celestial lake is so clear that it looks like a heavenly mirror.

All the fish-type monsters and beasts or normal animals inside the lake can be seen with naked eyes, reducing the danger rate for all people who roam around with boats here.

Around the lake's bank, one could see eight huge white pavilions and countless smaller pavilions.

There were even a lot of stalls near the road leading to this lake, selling drinks and food for those who wanted to stay around the lake for a long time.

"If the tourists want to stay a night around the lake, they can rent a room at that tower mansion not far from the lake itself."

Aaron pointed at a towering white mansion surrounded by trees from the forest around the lake.

That mansion also belonged to his Graph Family, and the monthly income generated from that mansion alone was enough to feed Aaron for a few years.

"I bet the three geniuses will also stay a night here because they will have to wait for the full moon to come out before heading back to the lake."

Aaron explained things to Ainsley as he led her to a VIP passage to enjoy the lake's beauty without so many people.

"They will either take the boat and go to the center of the lake or far from the lake's bank or just take the lake water from the lake's bank without getting into it."

Aaron was used to seeing tourists getting on various wooden boats provided by the lake's staff to collect magical water or to simply enjoy the lake's night view.

After all, many sparkling lake monsters came out at night and it was indeed a beautiful view as long as there were decent ability users on the boat.

There were unique fireflies above the lake's surface too, and many people liked to watch the fireflies or the fireworks show at night.

Hearing Aaron's words, Ainsley decided to rent a room at the towering mansion and blocked the three geniuses before they could go to the lake at night.

"Okay, let's rent two rooms...one for Elliana and me, the other one is for you and Axelle."

As for the cats? They can turn back into their cat forms and sleep anywhere, just like ordinary cats.

Just like that, the group settled in the towering mansion, and after having a hearty dinner, they went to the hotel's lobby to block people.

Ainsley's effort to wait for people in the lobby finally came to fruition.

Once the full moon was out, many visitors went out of the hotel to go to the lake, including the three geniuses.

The three teens had just come out of the elevator when Ainsley had already spotted them from afar.

The baby immediately paid attention to the guy in the middle, the one with pure black hair and black eyes.

It's rare for Gasha Country's people to have pure black hair and black eyes because they're actually like western people in Ainsley's previous world.

Of course, there were many citizens with oriental faces too, but the young man in the middle looked too much like someone from the Godlif Country.

No wonder Aaron said that Cameron's family might be an ex-mafia before they move to Gasha Country that prohibits any mafia family.

This Cameron guy really looks ordinary and plain, with round eyeglasses similar to Harry Potter's famous glasses.

But hidden behind the glasses were a pair of gloomy eyes, like an evil spirit crawling out from hell!

Chapter 1097: "Spilling Hot Coffee"

The guy's facial features actually looked nice and mature, so Ainsley doubted that his face was so ordinary....

He must be a handsome man, but he wore a disguise or something! Maybe only his close friends knew his true face.

The girl was full of angelic aura, and even her face was as beautiful as an angel.

Blonde hair, blue eyes and fair skin...a typical angel. Even when she walked, she gave off this holy light aura— warm and bright.

Then, when she smiled, she could topple a city and a country with her beauty alone!

It wasn't an exaggeration that so many geniuses chased after her like a mad dog...

The Winged Guild leader's granddaughter was really beautiful!

On the contrary, Sean, whom Aaron said as an 'average' genius, actually looked cute and handsome.

He's shorter than Cameron but a little bit taller than Felicia, who was the shortest in their group.

If Cameron was like a gloomy grim reaper and Felicia was an angel, then Sean was like a pure elf.

His chestnut-colored hair looked fluffy, and that pair of deer-like eyes really evoked people's affection for him.

Even Cameron, who looked gloomy and evil, would subconsciously soften in front of Sean.

Albeit, he might not know about this.

Ainsley watched the three people with different characters walking to the hotel's gate.

No one was talking, but they looked comfortable with the silence.

Maybe usually, the chatterbox was Charles, but after Charles got admitted to the hospital, the group became much more silent.

Only Sean would occasionally talk to Cameron and Felicia.

After all, Felicia looked like a quiet and shy girl type.

Although she's close to the three guys, she still didn't talk much and would only smile sweetly at every turn.

The three people were silent, but they all had the same goal in their minds– to get the magical lake water and heal Charles' severed arm.

The current technology could indeed regrow Charles' arm but it wouldn't be as good as the original one, which was why a lot of people relied on Celestial Lake's legend.

Whether the legend was true or false, no one could really prove it.

Seeing that the three people had already approached the couch area where Ainsley and her group were waiting, the baby immediately signaled Aaron to move.

Aaron got Ainsley's signal and immediately stood up.

Then, the young man casually strode toward the three people, seemingly about to go to the elevator.

However, Aaron didn't choose the empty path but purposely walked close to the three people.

The three people had noticed Aaron but they didn't really know him due to his cap blocking his face.

It wasn't until Aaron got extremely close to Felicia that Cameron pulled Felicia to dodge the guy with no eyes.

Unfortunately, Aaron deliberately bumped into Felicia's shoulder, and his strength was quite strong.

Not to mention that he was holding a cup of hot coffee and the coffee instantly spilt over the teen's clothes!

"Ahh!" Felicia staggered and shrieked in a soft voice as she felt the burning sensation on her chest.

The hot coffee just spilt all over her chest, dying her pure white dress brown in an instant.

The burning hot coffee even almost scalded her skin under the dress if the dress didn't have a heat-resistant feature!

At that instant, the three people stopped at their place and glared at Aaron.

The first one to react was none other than Sean.

"Are you blind?! You purposely bump into Feli and even pour the hot coffee onto her clothes! You deliberately harm her!"

Sean hurriedly dragged Felicia and his behind Cameron, who was the tallest among the three.

He was only twenty but already close to 185 cm.

Before Sean could scold Aaron once more, Aaron already looked at the three people with an innocent face full of guilt, as if he really didn't intend to bump into Felicia.

"I'm sorry, I'm sorry! I was looking at the floor and didn't see this lady...I'm really sorry! I'll pay for the clothes and the medical bill. How is it?"

Aaron's attitude was earnest, and the group of three couldn't really blame him.

However, Felicia already felt uncomfortable after the incident and couldn't help but feel a bit hostile to this 'blind' guy.

Unlike her angelic face, the girl's attitude was surprisingly tough when she was angry.

"This young man— apologizing alone and reimbursing the dress or the medical bill isn't enough!"

She believed that this guy did it on purpose, which means the guy might have some grudges with them or with Charles.

To be honest, the three people had suffered similar harassment in the past few days after Charles was defeated so badly.

Coincidentally, their patience was exhausted after Aaron purposely bullied them like this.

Even Ainsley, who came up with the dirty trick, couldn't help but feel a little bad because the three people didn't do anything wrong to her.

It was only their misfortune that they belonged to the Winged Guild and Ainsley wanted to provoke the guild through them.

Before the matter could escalate, Ainsley immediately ran toward Aaron and acted innocent in front of the three people.

"These bwig bwothels and sistel. What's gwoing on here? Did my fwiend do something wlong?"

Ainsley was shot, and for a moment, the three people could only hear her milky voice and messy pronunciation.

Until the three people lowered their heads, only then they saw a cute toddler with black hair and red eyes.

...a blood clan's cub?

Chapter 1098: "How About A Battle Royale?"

Such a face feature was uncommon here and for the three people who had watched Charles' battle video, they instantly recognized the baby.

It's the one who severed Charles' arm!

The three people instantly let out their hostility and didn't bother to mask their hatred for the one who beat their best friend to the hospital.

"It's you!" Sean gritted his teeth as he looked at Ainsley with poisonous eyes.

If not for this girl, Cameron wouldn't be in a bad mood for the past few days!

Ainsley pretended not to know Sean and looked at the young man with puzzled eyes.

"Excuse me? Do you know me, bwig bwo?"

As usual, Ainsley subconsciously released her charm as she spoke to Sean, but because Sean already hated her, the charm didn't really work.

At most, it only made Ainsley a little bit more pleasant, and Sean also suppressed his bad tone of voice.

"I know you. You are the one who severed our friend's arm. How can we not know you?"

Sean snorted as he looked at Ainsley with eyes full of malice.

The young man actually had a warm and cute vibe, but at the moment, he was utterly hostile to Ainsley.

Cameron and Felicia next to Sean didn't say anything, but their silence was suffocating enough, especially Cameron's silence.

It was full of invisible pressure akin to a mountain.

Ainsley pretended not to feel the malice and great pressure coming from these three people, but Aaron definitely couldn't act that well.

The young man's face paled a bit, and he worked hard to maintain his posture so he wouldn't lose Ainsley's face in public.

In the end, Aaron was just a charm ability user, and he usually fought against monsters and beasts, not other ability users.

He wasn't trained like the other people in Godlif Country, all because he was here in a foreign country.

Ainsley also noticed Aaron's state, and her friendly smile slowly became a bit menacing.

The baby squinted her eyes as she let out her bloodthirst aura and her heavy pressure.

"Oh, so the three of you are Charles' friends! Then, I suddenly doubt that the whole incident just now is my friend's fault."

Ainsley laughed like an anime villain, and the blood thirst aura in the air was enough to choke Sean and Felicia to the point of staggering.

"I don't even know you guys, but you guys know me. You should also know Aaron as my friend, right?"

Ainsley shrugged as she added more pressure to the aura she just released.

If the blood thirst aura made people feel deep fear inside and the taste of blood was strong in the air, the heavy pressure made them realize that this person couldn't be offended casually.

"Maybe this lady right here purposely tricked my friend into bumping into her and then started the whole drama."

Ainsley shrugged as she watched Sean and Felicia's face turning pale bit by bit. Their bodies swayed and they couldn't even stand still.

The large amount of sweat already soaked their clothes, making their backs almost exposed under their clothes.

Only Cameron looked a bit better, but he also silently clenched his teeth and fists, enduring Ainsley's silent provocation.

This trick to use pressure and a bloodthirsty aura was actually common among Godlif Country's ability users who didn't want to fight using their abilities.

Many Gasha Country's ability users also did this, so they didn't have to drag the case to the fighting arena.

After all, the stronger the pressure and the bloodthirsty aura, the more fearsome the person was.

This is the first time Sean and the others see Ainsley and this moment is also when they realize why Charles suffered a huge defeat in front of the baby.

Unlike Charles, who rarely fought to the death, Ainsley was someone whose hands were full of other people's blood.

She looked innocent, but there's no way in hell that she's innocent!

Sean gritted his teeth and nudged Cameron, silently asking him to rebuke or retort Ainsley's provocation.

In his heart, only Cameron could face Ainsley because the two of them might be the same type of people.

Cameron did kill a few people in the dark, but it was definitely less compared to Ainsley, and he usually went for a sneak attack or assassination.

Where would he fight openly with other people until only one of them remains alive?

Ainsley's aura had been honed on the battlefield full of death and dangers. Just a slight carelessness could kill!

However, Cameron still believed that he could fight against Ainsley in the arena.

As long as death wasn't involved, he wouldn't need to fear anything.

After all, unlike Ainsley, who was good at the massacre, he's good at assassinating one person at a time or seriously injuring them to threaten them.

The silent Cameron finally opened his mouth and spoke in a deep, hoarse voice full of confidence and a bit of resentment.

"If you insist on chasing this incident, should we solve it in the arena? Just you and me. We can fight tomorrow afternoon."

Ainsley was taken aback for a moment, not expecting Cameron to take the initiative first.

She thought that it would be hard to provoke Cameron...but maybe her bloodthirsty aura and her pressure really poked Cameron's pride.

A pity...she didn't want to fight only Cameron. She had to fight the three of them, especially Felicia, because she's the key linking to other guild members.

Ainsley shook her head at Cameron while clicking her tongue with a disdainful tone of voice.

"I don't have time to take care of you one by one. How about we apply for a battle royale? The three of you versus me. That will be more efficient!"

Chapter 1099: "Great Teamwork"

Ainsley smiled sweetly at the three people, as if what she said was just a casual small talk.

But her words really poked people's nerves, especially arrogant geniuses like the three people.

"Don't be so arrogant! You want to fight the three of us at the same time? You won't even last long facing Cameron!"

Sean raised his voice a bit and his face also flushed red from anger.

There's no way he wouldn't feel provoked because the way Ainsley looked at him and Felicia were like looking at small fries...

This can't happen! Although he's not as strong as Charles or Cameron, he's really great in a group fight!

Apparently, Ainsley could 'read' Sean's mind and couldn't help but chuckle.

"I'm not looking down at your brother Cameron or you or this lady. I just feel that if I fight you and this lady alone, you will be too weak to defeat me."

Ainsley shrugged casually as she inched closer to Aaron, who already felt better after Ainsley counter-attacked the trio.

"I know that this young man and this young lady are better in a group fight. Isn't that why I propose a battle royale? Otherwise, it will be boring, ah."

Ainsley's tone of voice was really annoying, but both Sean and Felicia couldn't refute him.

After all, they're really good in a group fight but never a solo fight.

"I just want to defeat the three of you when all of you are at your best. Lest that you think I'm just lucky to win over you because you're not in your best state."

Ainsley smiled warmly at Sean and Felicia, completely giving off a good baby vibe.

It's just that...this good baby severed their best friend's arm without a single hesitation.

At first, Felicia didn't really want to get involved in this matter because she's not that close to Charles, anyway.

But when she saw Sean slowly getting provoked, she knew that she had to join the fight.

Anyway, the three of them plus Charles were said to be the best team in their Winged Guild because, so far, no one ever survived under their joint attack.

Now that this ignorant baby is challenging their team...why not? Let's teach her a lesson!

The usually silent and shy Felicia immediately lifted her chin as she spoke in a slightly arrogant tone of voice.

"Okay, let's apply for a battle royale tomorrow. I don't believe you can defeat the three of us with your meager abilities."

They could use items to block Ainsley's shaman and charm ability, so what else does Ainsley have?

The shaky curse ability and the one she showed in the battle against Charles, right?

As long as they attacked her before she finished her drawing or her summoning, they could finish this ignorant baby within a few seconds.

Charles was unlucky because he didn't know Ainsley's hidden ability, but now that they knew...it was easy to guard against that ability!

Cameron didn't speak, but he nodded at Felicia and Sean's decision. Anyway, he also wanted to avenge Charles, who became his shield for all these years.

Maybe this battle royale could be his stage to debut and showed his true ability to the whole world.

His family situation had stabilized, and he didn't need to conceal his ability from other people anymore.

Ainsley was pleasantly surprised that it was quite easy to provoke the three teenagers with hot-blooded nature to agree to fight her in the arena.

She was lucky that the rumored mysterious and calm Cameron actually agreed with her proposal.

Ainsley immediately flashed a satisfied smile at the three people.

"Okay, let's meet at Arena C, how is it? I heard that only Arena C and above can host a battle royale."

After all, Arena C's official battle arena was already above the ground and not an underground venue anymore.

It was three times bigger than the volleyball field-sized arena that Ainsley used to fight Charles back then.

As for why she didn't want to fight at Arena B or Arena A...let's just use a bigger arena to climb higher and attract more attention.

The three teens didn't know that Ainsley took them as stepping stones.

They only focused on tomorrow's battle royale and agreed to apply for the battle at Arena C.

"Okay, that's it. We will be waiting for you at 2 p.m in the afternoon. We will apply for the battle royale, and you only need to come and fight."

Sean was quite generous to help Ainsley, considering that she's a foreigner and might not know how to apply for a battle royale.

Anyway, they also wanted to use this chance to show other people how they avenged Charles and restored their guild's name!

Battle Arena C could host 3,000 people and there was even a special broadcast channel in God's view for online audiences.

The arena sold the online ticket for those who wanted to watch the live broadcast.

Each fighter could also open their own live broadcast and that could be a paid broadcast as well!

Ainsley knew about this from Jacqueline, and of course, she intended to make a paid broadcast as well, but the price would be much lower than the official arena's broadcast.

That way, more people would watch from her POV and more people could see how she handled her enemies perfectly.

After the four people make the agreement to fight, the trio doesn't talk about the coffee incident anymore and just leaves Ainsley to go to Celestial Lake.

Before going, the usually silent Cameron suddenly looked back and smirked at Ainsley.

"I advise you to take the magical lake water too for tomorrow's event."

The meaning is— you will need the lake water to heal your broken or severed limbs.

Chapter 1100: "Netizens' Battle"

Hearing the blatant provocation, Ainsley only laughed and nodded.

"Likewise. You also need to take more than just Charles' portion."

The incident ended just like that, and Ainsley brought her people back to the hotel room.

Of course, Aaron also advised Ainsley to play at the lake to see the night scenery, and because of this, her group met Cameron's group at the lake's bank.

But they tacitly chose to ignore each other and went to do their own things.

The next day— Cameron and the others apply for the battle early in the morning and really get a spot for 2 p.m in the afternoon when the traffic is usually the largest.

Of course, Ainsley didn't go there to apply, but she sent an official letter to Battle Arena C, agreeing to open the battle royale fighting arena.

The news spread around pretty fast, and an hour after the application passed through, almost all people who often watched the battle arena's fight got the notice from Battle Arena C.

Even those who didn't usually watch the battle at Battle Arena C also got the notification because they followed all the battle arenas' official social media.

[Breaking news! There will be another battle royale at 2 p.m today at Battle Arena C. The first battle royale after years!]

Then, the excited audiences looked at the released battle schedule and were surprised to see the fighters' information.

Three people against one, and that one person was a baby who got famous after defeating Charles.

Still, there would be some people who didn't know Ainsley and suddenly felt that the match itself was unfair, especially when the three people were famous geniuses from the Winged Guild.

They're Charles' best friend's!

[Is this really a fair fight? To be honest, I thought a battle royale is usually used for people who have grievances with more than one person–]

For example, three different forces got into a fight because of the same case, and then they chose a battle royale when they fought each other but not one versus one.

It saved time and energy.

It was rare for a battle royale to be used for one person to fight against many!

The other battle maniacs were all excited to see this legendary one versus three, but the rational audiences couldn't help but denounce the trio.

[I know that this baby is strong, but seriously...one against three is just too much!]

[Upstairs, you haven't watched this baby's first battle video, right? She's basically fighting a whole army. How could she be weak when fighting only three people?]

[But back then, her charm ability was still a powerful weapon! Now, her enemies already know her ability and will surely drink some anti-charm potions...]

[That's not unfair. People need to hide their abilities from the public eyes for reasons, and since this baby doesn't bother to hide it at all, it means she's confident.]

[Is it only me who thinks that it's inappropriate to have underage fighting in the official battle arena?]

[The one upstairs must be ignorant and has never watched Charles' great defeat a few days ago, right? Go watch it first before you comment!]

[This baby... wasn't she the one on the trending topic two days ago? The founder of that shady guild–]

[Ah, yes, yes! Ainsley Sloan, isn't it? Don't be fooled, everyone. She's a strong mafia boss in her country! She definitely doesn't deserve your pity!]

[I hope the three geniuses can restore our country's pride against the neighboring barbarian country.]

[Pffft. Godlif Country is really a barbarian country. I heard there are small and big wars every day. Poor common people there.]

[Hey, hey, just because the Godlif Country's netizens can't comment here, you can badmouth them! PS: keep going! I support this!]

[Lmao. So funny. Anyway, I hope the three geniuses can teach this arrogant foreigner a lesson. Our Gasha Country is full of strong youngsters!]

The majority sided with the trio, just like when Ainsley fought Charles and the audiences also supported Charles.

But some extremists who liked to challenge the impossible sided with Ainsley instead.

Those who had a good battle analysis skill also believed that Ainsley's chance to win was definitely not as low as what these ignorant audiences thought.

The experts and genuinely strong ability users were actually more optimistic about Ainsley.

[Does no one think that our country's ability users are actually only good in a fake battle and not in a real-life battle involving lives?]

[Upstairs, I have to agree. How can these three brats who almost never go to a real-life battle defeat someone who's literally growing on the battlefield?]

The geniuses' playground is the official battle arena or the guild tournament that doesn't risk your lives, but this kid's playground is actually wars that threaten her life every second.

[I hope this baby can teach the arrogant geniuses a lesson. This way, our country's ability users can be better.]

[Yeah, yeah. They said the neighboring country is a barbarian country, but the ability users that can survive there are enough to defeat all of us 'elites' here.]

Could the three geniuses really defeat Ainsley with their current strength?

Maybe if Ainsley only used her blood wings to fight, they could win.

But would she do that?

The experts analysed Ainsley's personality here and there and immediately made a judgement.

No! She won't deliberately restrict herself when her current option is only her realism art ability!

Especially when she's about to fight three people whose wings have various attributes!

This means they will finally see the true power of that realism art ability, right?

The experts and elites couldn't wait to watch the match, while other audiences were also impatient to see the three geniuses beat Ainsley, the foreigner.

Let the match begin faster!
