

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 761 - "Collective Soul Oath"

Ainsley told her allies that she intended to let these 'treasure hunters' explore the island on her behalf.

That way, they didn't need to waste any human resources to explore the island.

As for whether the treasure could be taken out or not, it all depends on the rarity.

If it was something as rare as the inheritance stone, none of the hunters could take the item away.

Ainsley planned to make things clear for the hunters too. After all, they should know that they're digging treasures at someone's island.

It's not open to the public, but the island's owner was generous enough to let them scrape some benefits.

How kind!

"This plan will also build a good image for the public. We won't want them to think that we are monopolising the island, right? With the treasure hunting project, it won't be a problem anymore."

The people inside the meeting hall were all amazed at Ainsley's broad vision. They didn't think that such a young baby already had such a mature thought on business management!

How could they not agree with her proposal?

"I think this is good. Of course, we have to send troops and miners to help in the project. We will need to build a storage house too, and maybe a transportation route."

Jake quickly joined the discussion and helped Ainsley to complete her plan. The young man flipped over the business proposal before putting it down on the table.

"As for the transportation route...do you need a teleportation portal? The island's distance to the Godlif Country or other countries and continents are too far away."

If they could build a one-way teleportation portal where only people from the island could go to other places, the transportation issue would be solved easily.

"I do need a portal. We need one for each controlled area, for example, one portal to the Godlif country, another one to neighbouring countries, and many more to other continents."

Ainsley didn't shy away and immediately asked Jake to provide the portals.

In exchange for building the teleportation portals, Jake would receive more dividends and would also be able to purchase more Inheritance Stone from the Sloan Family.

After all, the Inheritance Stones still belonged to the Sloan Family, and the allies still had to buy the stones from the Sloan Family before they sold the stones to other people.

However, they didn't need to worry about not making a fortune even after investing in the Inheritance Stone's business.

After all, Ainsley said that each of them would receive a certain percentage of the stock, and they also could sell each inheritance stone with tenfold the original price.

As long as they sold it bit by bit, the price would still be kept high.

"I know that the price of the Inheritance Stone might fall once we announce the mine's existence, but if we control the business flow by not selling too much, we can still earn a fortune from each stone."

Ainsley sincerely believed that this alliance would reap tons of benefits from the Inheritance Stone's business alone.

"Right, I also think we can sell the stones to some famous academies. They will really need these stones to let the old teachers pass down their abilities to the younger generations."

Ainsley added another potential customer, and she immediately divided the business route for her allies.

In the end, the one who would introduce and sell Inheritance Stones to the Elton Academy would be the Sloan Family.

For this reason, in the near future, after visiting each non-human race, Ainsley might need to visit the Elton Academy.

Not to enroll as a student, but to sell something!

The fourteen allies immediately agreed with Ainsley's plan to sell the stones to popular academies.

After all, the academies are separate powerhouses, and they should be rich enough to buy some Inheritance Stones too!

The group started to discuss the issue even more detailed than before, and after two hours, they managed to print out the finalized contract.

"As you can see, each contract is different, and we already stated the benefits and the responsibilities of each party. Now, if you agree with the contract's terms, shall we start the soul oath?"

Ainsley looked at the clock on the wall and it was already near 3 a.m in the morning. She hadn't slept yet, and she's so sleepy, okay? That's why let's close the meeting already!

Hearing Ainsley's words, the fourteen allies looked at each other before signing the contract and putting their hands on their left chests.

"We shall swear on our soul that we will be a part of this alliance. All kinds of acts that breach the alliance's rules will result in death!"

The fourteen people swore a soul oath, and Ainsley received the oath. She also swore the same soul oath so that the allies could trust her with their backs.

After the soul oath was finalised, the allies immediately stood up and clapped for the sake of their newly-founded business alliance– the T  ssera Alliance.

"Cheers for all of us!" The mafia council's representative laughed as he looked at the others and nodded gently.

He's one of the most excited with the meeting's result because the mafia council could finally join Ainsley's little awesome circle.

Of course, since he's just a representative when he went back, he needed to get the mafia council's leader and other higher-ups to swear the same soul oath to become Ainsley's official ally.

He believed that the mafia council would agree since he had reported the case to the mafia council, and they unanimously agreed to ally with Ainsley regarding the Inheritance Stone's business.

With this, the T  ssera Alliance was born, and they're ready to shake the whole world.

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 762 - "Invading The Naran Family"

After the meeting ended, Ainsley immediately slept until lunchtime. She slept for around 8-9 hours and was just in time to wake up with delicious foods prepared by the hotel.

Thus, after drinking, eating and sleeping to her heart content, Ainsley finally browsed through her agenda and saw that she still had a meeting with Jake in the evening.

They will talk about the business license to do business with non-human races.

But they promised to meet at tea time, around 3 p.m. There's still two hours left until it reaches 3 p.m.

Ainsley had two hours to relax, but instead of relaxing, she contacted Grandpa Yofan back at home.

"Grandpa, I'm already at the capital...hum, hum. I'll be back after another three to four days. I still have some business here...yes, yes. Right, what about the Naran Family?"

Ainsley didn't forget the grudge with the Naran Family. The Naran Family dared to use viruses to fight her family. If she didn't take over their family, she wouldn't be content with it.

"The Naran Family...we don't have proof that the Naran Family buys such a dangerous virus and uses it on us. We can't report them to the mafia council. But..."

Grandpa Yofan paused before his eyes glinted dangerously.

"I've arranged 500 members along with the 9 generals to go and invade the Naran Family. Using weird potions created by Axelle, we can win the war with minimum casualties."

Anyway, the Sloan Family's casualties rate in a war was the lowest compared to other families.

More often, if the scale of the war was just a battle between their family and a middle-ranked mafia family, they didn't lose even a single person.

After all, they still had Zilla and her children to fight in the war!

"Bring Zilla when you attack the Naran Family. Grandpa, you should attack them at night. As for the mansion's security...I believe in you and the other elders, plus our defensive mechanism."

And so, they could bring Zilla to attack the Naran Family and ensure victory without sacrificing too many members!

"Right, Grandpa. After the coronation, we should recruit more members. Our mansion is now big enough to hold many members. We should have up to 5000 members in total."

After all, most of the high-ranking families at the top of the pyramids had at least 5000 members and countless mansions.

Their influence spread like a fishnet, covering a large area. The Sloan Family, on the other hand, wasn't too keen on spreading their members to other areas.

Although they did spread their members to the Roid Valley and the Godfather Mausoleum plus the Pandora Island, other territories only have empty mansions.

Thankfully, those territories weren't that valuable for middle-rank or high-rank mafia families. Otherwise, they would have been invaded a long time ago.

As for those weaker than the Sloan Family? They never dared to offend the Sloan Family.

Even now, other forces outside of the mafia society also didn't dare to offend the Sloan Family if not necessary.

After all, the Sloan Family Head was really powerful enough and could silently kill you if she wanted. Not to mention that she had several big backers behind her...

Too scary!

At Ainsley's suggestion to bring Zilla to invade the Naran Family and recruit more members, Grandpa Yofan immediately agreed.

"Okay, Grandpa will do that. Anyway, we don't lack money, food, or shelter to cultivate more members..."

"Yep, yep. And after 6 months, those who I sent to the island a few days ago will be swapped with the new recruits. All new recruits will have to go through the 6 months training period to become an official member."

Since only 500 people would be required to stay at the island for training, if they recruited 2000 new members, the members might have to go to the island after joining the family for a year or more.

They couldn't be said as a new recruit anymore, but they still had to go through the compulsory 'training' program.

"I think the old members should also try going to the island to temper themselves. But not for too long. One or two months are enough," Ainsley added.

Anyway, they still had to recruit workers and miners for the island. Ainsley left these to her allies and to Grandpa Yofan, who worked hard to be her 'prime minister'.

"Alright, alright, Grandpa understands. Anything else? Oh, right. You should go back after the coronation to celebrate the end of the year, okay?"

Grandpa Yofan knew that Ainsley planned to build her own guild after her birthday or maybe before her birthday, but he thought she shouldn't be that busy when it was almost the end of the year.

She should rest well, ah!

Sensing the concern in Grandpa Yofan's voice, Ainsley's heart melted into puddles.

"Hum. I'll be back after the coronation. Don't worry. I think I can push back the guild ceremony after my birthday..."

But the paperwork was almost ready, and her guild would be legalised before her birthday.

It was a good idea to invite all the potential guild members to her birthday party to build more chemistry, too, right?

It wasn't uncommon for mafia families to make a guild. Look at the Meidian Family who created the Healer Guild. They were also a part of the mafia family but as a guild, they had to be neutral.

Ainsley also planned to do the same.

The Meidian Family's value soared because of the Healer Guild.

Yes, Ainsley's goal was to further spread her influence and lead her family to be as awesome as the 7 great and 7 sacred families through this new guild!

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 763 - "Discussing The Non-human Races' Business License"

Who said that the Irregular Tamers Guild consisting of mutated charm ability users couldn't be as influential as other guilds?

Actually, they could. This guild would not only win in terms of monetary and rarity value but also in the number of guild members.

The percentage of ability users owning a charm ability, no matter what type it was, is actually quite high because others didn't think it was that powerful or rare.

Most people's charm ability was always seduction, and it wasn't as powerful as Ainsley's.

Thus, these people weren't as scarce as alchemists, monster tamers, beast tamers, summoners, healers, array masters, priests, hackers, and so on.

The charm ability users were considered 'common' and had no use other than becoming spies to seduce people.

But if Ainsley could bestow her charm ability's unique skill through the book item thingy that she got from Zev, those charm ability users would be more valuable than anyone else.

They would be able to charm monsters and even help non-tamers to make a contract with these monsters.

They could even become a pseudo beast tamer because they could also charm beasts!

The previously 'lowly' charm ability users would surely want to join such a guild to change their fate. And, of course, they had to swear a soul oath to be able to get Ainsley's 'blessing'.

But the thing is...maybe they could only do the Enlightenment Ceremony when they received Ainsley's unique skill around twice a year to reduce Ainsley's workload.

If Ainsley had to visit the guild to 'convert' the new guild member every single day, it wouldn't be effective.

Thus, the guild would only receive new members twice a year.

There would be tons of new guild members, and they would all be sent to the island for training before going anywhere else.

Sounds good!

Ainsley was thinking about her future guild, but she still focused on talking to Grandpa Yofan, ensuring that their family would be able to conquer the Naran Family once she went back to the mansion.

"Hmm, be careful of another possibility of an epidemic. The Naran Family might use another virus to fight our people."

"Okay, we will be careful. We have ordered vaccines for our members so that common viruses won't infect them."

"Good, good. Well, I wish you a grand victory, Grandpa. Although you won't be the one fighting, hehehehe."

Ainsley talked a bit more with Grandpa Yofan before ending the call.

After that, she still had an hour or so to relax, and she did enjoy her time by exploring the hotel and enjoying their services.

At three o'clock, Ainsley went to the private meeting room on the hotel's top floor to meet Jake.

She knew that Jake would arrive on time, and indeed, the baby had just entered the small private room when she saw a young man with his eccentric golden rabbit mask.

Ainsley, with her casual white t-shirt with her own chibi version printed on the t-shirt, trotted cheerfully to the brown sofa.

"Jake!" The baby's light blue skirt fluttered as she jumped onto Jake's lap.

The young man, who was looking at his phone, almost dropped it in shock.

"Little Godtoddler?" Jake hurriedly took off the rabbit mask and gripped his phone as he looked down at the tiny toddler, who was already sitting on his lap.

As usual, the baby used his lap as her chair...

"Hehehe, it's me, Jake."

Seeing Ainsley's bright smile, Jake couldn't help but chuckle and was about to pat the baby's head when the two people suddenly heard a low yet child's growl from behind Jake.

"Grrrrrr..."

"Huh?" Ainsley heard the low growl and immediately hugged Jake's waist while peeking at the thing behind Jake...and she was surprised to see a familiar baby raptor.

Just...this baby raptor was bigger than when she last saw her and also plump like a meat bun.

"...Aina?" Ainsley looked at the baby raptor as big as a year old toddler and was shocked until her jaw almost touched the floor.

It's only been a few months, and Aina is already this big! Just what did Jake feed her? Even the raptors living inside her dimensional bracelet aren't as plump and big as this one!

Aina looked at Ainsley's blue eyes, and her ruby eyes flickered with jealousy.

The baby raptor growled once more, showing off her sharp teeth as if to intimate Ainsley.

Go away! This is my dad! Mine! Hmph!

Ainsley could vaguely understand the meaning behind Aina's growl, and the baby was rendered speechless.

Who wants to rob your daddy, ah? And how come your dad is a human, but you're a raptor? Are you smart or not?!

Ainsley chose to ignore this walking vinegar jar and looked up at Jake instead. A playful smile hung on her chubby face.

"Heheheh, Jake. Your daughter is still as petty and jealous as before. She's fatter too~ "

Jake was speechless at Ainsley's mockery, but he could only shake his head while suppressing his laughter.

These two creatures have been at odds from the start and they didn't change. But...they're just so cute!

Jake didn't deny that Aina was indeed his 'daughter'. He casually patted Aina's back as he let the raptor sit on his right side.

"Be good, Aina. Daddy has something to discuss with your older sister, " Jake's face was full of playful smiles as he fixed Ainsley's sitting position before clearing his throat.

"Right, little Godtoddler. Let's start our discussion. Here's the contract that my mom owed you...did you bring the contract's copy?"

Since Jake had started their discussion, Ainsley stopped being playful and immediately took out the contract Jake's mom gave her in exchange for the Juvenile Potion back then.

"Here it is. Now...let's discuss the contract's terms."

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 764 - "Pandora Island's Sudden Invasion"

Ainsley and Jake discuss the contract for a few hours before finally agreeing. After that, they had dinner together and talked about Pandora Island's development.

Currently, Ainsley's allies, the T  ssera Alliance, were busy preparing men to go to the island.

They're also busy buying many things to build based on the island while also mining the Inheritance Stone.

However, none of them had set off to the island since the alliance had just been built a few hours ago, or maybe just yesterday.

"Even our family can only set off after two days, and we can't use the teleportal because we have too many people to send over."

Jake generously told Ainsley about his family's movement as they enjoyed dinner.

"Humm....the teleportal can't be used many times in a day? I thought it could..." Ainsley tilted her head as she recalled the underground base where Jake placed his teleportal.

There were a number of visitors when she visited the teleportal's airport. The Teleportal should be able to work several times a day, right?

And Jake had more than one Teleportal, ah!

"Well, we can. But the biggest Teleportal can only send thirty people in one go, not counting the heavy loads. One or two carriages are fine, but tons of them..."

Jake shook his head as he smiled bitterly.

The Teleportal had to send his troops sixteen times, and that might disturb the Teleportal business. Not to mention such a large movement would alert many of the visitors.

"That's why I only send some core members through Teleportal. Anyway, they won't immediately land on your island because you don't have a Teleportal yet..."

Jake had another small island used as a port for ships to unload goods or trade items from non-human races.

That island was located right in the middle of several non-human races' continents, making it a convenient trading port belonging to the Billios Family.

"The Port Island is only a few hours away from your island by ships. It's only an hour away through the air route."

Thus, Jake sent his core people to Port Island before departing to Pandora Island.

"Hmmm, that's quite good. We can visit your Port Island to ship Inheritance Stones to other non-human races' continents...I think our alliance's members will like this arrangement."

Ainsley didn't shy away from borrowing Jake's Port Island.

Anyway, there would be many non-human races on that island, and their Téssera Alliance could easily find their specific business target and sell the Inheritance Stone to these merchants.

Jake wouldn't lose anything, and instead, more non-human races merchants would visit the island to buy the Inheritance Stone.

The Téssera Alliance members could also follow the merchants to other non-human race continents, spreading their stone business.

For Jake, if the Port Island became livelier than before, his business would flourish as well. It's a win-win situation.

"My Port Island is only half as big as your Pandora Treasure Island, but it's still as big as the Roane Region. You can trust my island management and the security issue as well."

Jake smiled like a proud peacock as he introduced his Port Island which was as big as the Roane Region.

The Roane Region alone was actually as big as Singapore in Ainsley's previous world, so one could guess just how big Godlif Country is.

But even that country is still counted as a medium-sized country compared to other countries in the human continent.

Now...there were several more continents...this world is really big. Maybe tenfold bigger than Earth, who knows?

Ainsley listened to Jake's explanation about his Port Island since she would also soon come in contact with various races to spread her stone business.

That day, the duo were busy talking about their business and Jake didn't leave until it was almost midnight.

The two of them parted with satisfaction, knowing that their future would be bright once they fully developed Pandora Island.

Alas, maybe good things never last long, or perhaps it was the backlash of Ainsley's recent fortune of finding the Inheritance Stone's mine...

An unforeseen incident happened the very next day.

Ainsley was lazying around the hotel's lobby when Jake suddenly called her.

"Hello, Jake— "

Ainsley hadn't finished her words when Jake's voice sounded the next second. His tone sounded so grave that Ainsley's heart leapt to her throat.

"Ain, bad news. I don't know who investigated your recent movement, but somehow, many forces know about the Inheritance Stone Mine's existence on Pandora Island."

Jake inhaled deeply before continuing in a cold voice.

"And they just sent an army to attack Pandora Island."

!

Ainsley instantly broke in a cold sweat.

"What?? How come— how did they know about the mine's existence? Are you sure it's not because of our alliance's betrayal? Maybe the mafia council?"

Ainsley didn't truly believe the mafia council despite the higher-ups already swearing a soul oath, and she had sensed it too.

They could possibly sacrifice one of their own people to spread the news and then silently become the hero to save the damsel in distress.

With this, they would gain the upper hand in the alliance, and the Sloan Family might be suppressed!

But Jake immediately denied Ainsley's assumption.

"No, it's not the mafia council. It's the government and other noble families. They traced your recent activities and found out that you have been staying on Pandora Island for a week."

Jake wiped his forehead as he continued to speak as fast as bullets.

"From there, they make a wild guess that there must be an Inheritance Stone mine on that island. It's all because they think that you must have more than one stone, and it means...you find a mine."

When Ainsley heard of this, she silently regretted auctioning the Inheritance Stone.

She made a big mistake!

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 765 - "Born To Be A Mafia Boss"

Clearly...Ainsley could still enter the top 10 even without the Inheritance Stone.

But she wanted to raise her family's connection and prestige among the Godlif Country's top powerhouses.

But she's too hasty. Too arrogant. Too impatient! And she didn't know how to cover her traces when she moved to other places, allowing people to track down her recent schedule.

And her carelessness leads to this trouble.

Ainsley's head throbbed for a bit as she replied to Jake with a slightly hoarse voice.

"How many people attack the island? And where are they now? When will they arrive at the island?"

Ainsley forced herself to calm down since she had to protect her island. Of course, the T  ssera Alliance would also fight with her.

"My people noticed the anomaly today at dawn. I think they will only arrive at your island tomorrow since they use airplanes and jets, not flying-type monsters."

Jake paused before informing Ainsley about the number of people attacking the island.

"I think about 1000 people or more because there are many powerhouses involved in this attack and each of them sends 100 people."

Around 1000 people! And there can be more if these powerhouses decide to add more reinforcements.

Hearing that her enemy used advanced technology and even sent 1000 people, Ainsley became even more nervous.

Thank God the island's barrier was already activated. If not, some areas might be damaged from this sudden invasion.

However, the bases on the island weren't ready yet. It was still hard for her people stationed there to fight off the intruders.

There were only 500 of them. The enemies are double their number!

No. This won't do. She has to help them!

"Jake, this is an emergency. Can you call all the Téssera Alliance members to gather at your house so we can depart using your Teleportal?"

Ainsley didn't ask Jake to send reinforcement because she knew Jake already deployed his reinforcement to help Pandora Island.

Since their secret is already revealed, Jake doesn't care about using the Teleportal to send the rest of his people to the Port Island and then go to Pandora Island.

As for Ainsley, she already had her people on the island to fight the intruders.

She only needed the other alliance members to quickly send some reinforcements while they fought to buy time for the reinforcements to arrive.

After all, not everyone's troops are at the capital and can use Jake's Teleportal.

The others will have to fly to the island and it will take a day or two, depending on what transportation they use.

Meanwhile, the enemy will arrive tomorrow or maybe tonight...they have to be ready to defend the island!

"I want the alliance members to fight with me while waiting for the reinforcements. Right, have you told them about this matter?"

Jake immediately replied to Ainsley's question.

"I have told them about this, and they are also sending their reinforcements to the island. Don't worry, I'll call them to gather at my place, and we can depart anytime."

It was a bit rash to make these big shots fight on the frontline, but since the youngest of them all dared to do that, why couldn't they?

Thus, after informing Ainsley, Jake called the rest of the alliance members, and in an hour, all of them had gathered at Jake's house.

Currently, fifteen people including Ainsley sat on the seats around the circle table with grave faces.

"The government and those nobles are really too much!" Benjamin, the Monster Tamer Guild Leader, hit the table hard as he vented.

He had just woken up and got this bad news...how could he not be mad?

The other big shots also had dark faces. This was the first time that they had to fight at the frontline. But they couldn't refuse Ainsley's idea.

Even with the reinforcements already starting to depart to Pandora Island, if they weren't there, the enemy might have breached the island's security measures, and then, it would be too late.

Even though they could take back the island with the number of their reinforcements, what if the enemy destroyed the Inheritance Stone or, even worse, stole the whole mine?

There's always an ability user who has this kind of unique ability. No one could be sure that the mine wouldn't be stolen.

Ainsley knew that her alliance members were upset, but she immediately calmed these old fogeys.

"Don't worry, uncle, aunties. We only need to fight around 500 enemies. My people stationed on the island can fight the other 500."

Fighting 500 enemies with only fifteen people...the big shots were all speechless.

They knew that Ainsley is used to fighting a crowd of enemies, starting from the Aretha War, the Roid Valley Invasion, and the Godfather mausoleum battle..

The baby is used to fighting enemies with double or triple the troops compared to her own troops.

But they're not used to such a crazy deal, okay? They're not!

The big shots looked at each other and silently felt ashamed.

Ainsley is only three, but it seemed that she's more suitable to participate in a large-scale war compared to those who would only send troops and wait at the rear.

Coincidentally, they're the latter type who would only send troops while they're hiding at the rear...

No wonder Ainsley's mafia members are all so loyal to her and will not hesitate to sacrifice their lives for this toddler.

It's all because of her might when she fights countless enemies to protect her people! When she's needed at the frontline, she never escapes.

But when she's supposed to be at the rear, she's also at the rear, not forgetting her duty as a mafia boss, not a gangster who only knows how to fight.

She's really born to be a mafia boss.

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 766 - "Transit At Port Island"

Coupled with Grandpa Yofan, who acts as the mansion's guardian and the prime minister, the Sloan Family is really stable.

No wonder they can rise to such a height in just a few months...less than a year!

Ainsley's tenacity moved the big bosses and bravery despite her young age.

Thus, they also patted their chests and reassured Ainsley that they would fight with her until the reinforcements arrived.

"It's just 500 ants! With fifteen people here, each of us can kill thirty. No big deal!"

Rie, the Shaman Guild Leader, proudly declared as she looked at the other guild leaders and the head of the five high-ranking mafia families.

Evan and Jake were obviously ready to fight because they're also the same type of boss as Ainsley.

When the guild leaders and the parents of Ainsley's close friends heard Rie's statement, they couldn't help but blush in embarrassment.

Right, it's just dealing with thirty people for each of them. What's the big deal? They can't back down in front of someone who's much younger than them yet stronger and braver!

The five mafia bosses, the parents of Ainsley's friends, also thought they should be a good example for their children.

Their children's best friend is fighting at the frontline. Why didn't they? If their children heard about this, they might lose their respect toward their parents, ah!

Thus, the five mafia bosses also agreed to go to the frontline. With this, even the mafia council's representative had to agree.

Anyway, he's not some paper tiger and could still fight.

Since all T  ssera Alliance members agreed to go to Pandora Island to hold back the enemies, Jake immediately prepared a huge carriage for them to board.

That morning, the group went to Jake's underground 'airport' and used the man's Teleportal to arrive at the Port Island.

The Teleportal on the Port Island was placed at the center of the island, inside the office building.

The journey to Port Island only took five minutes through Teleportal, and all thirty people step out of the portal at the same time.

The rest of the big shots' people who were also with them at the moment, took the Teleportal's second departing schedule.

With this, their group actually had around 50-60 people, with fifteen of them being big shots of the Godlif Country.

Would they still need to fear the enemy's 1000-ish people invasion?

Once the group went out of the portal, Jake immediately led them out of the building to go to the port.

Anyway, they needed flying-type beasts or monsters as their mounts or used a ship to go to Pandora Island.

Along the way, Ainsley could clearly see Port Island's bustling activities.

This island was really like a small country with many people living there, working as the port workers or businessmen.

Of course, the businessmen were all people under the Billios Family, just like how the 7 great or 7 sacred families had affiliated high-ranking or middle-ranking mafia families as their 'subordinate'.

Such a big family like the Billios also had tons of merchants and businessmen or businesswomen under their wings.

They even founded the famous Merchant Guild which had countless branches all around the Godlif country.

The Godlif Country's merchant guild built by the Billios Family was even hailed as one of the best Merchant Guilds among other Merchant Guilds in the human continent.

No wonder many individual merchants or huge corporations fought to become a member of Godlif Country's Merchant Guild.

After all, this is one of the merchant guilds who could have some stable businesses with many non-human races.

There were only two or three Merchant Guilds aside from the Godlif, who also had access to trade with the non-human races.

Alas, the Billios Family was still in the lead thanks to their close relationship with many non-human races' upper society— even the royalties.

Ainsley once again understood Jake's strength in the world of business.

When she passed by the street in Port Island, she saw many non-human races, even though only for a few seconds since their carriage was running quite fast.

Seeing 'weird-looking' creatures casually strolling the street, Ainsley was even more impressed with Jake's ability to build his business empire.

The Port Island is really a heaven for merchants!

Alas, she couldn't appreciate Port Island's beauty and value anymore because they had already arrived at the port.

The port was even more bustling with activities than the city they had just passed by.

Fortunately, Jake always had a special privilege on this island, and he quickly arranged the fifteen big bosses, including himself, to ride a few flying-type beasts.

The others, who were the big bosses' subordinates, had to wait for the rest of the people who were sent to Port Island through Teleportal before they could depart using the prepared ship.

Once the big bosses got their own flying-type beasts to ride, they didn't wait any longer and immediately departed.

The flying-type beasts that Jake prepared for the alliance members were all super fast, and they surprisingly arrived at Pandora Island in just thirty minutes.

Looking at the familiar gigantic black 'lump' spreading in front of her eyes, standing proudly amidst the tranquil ocean, Ainsley's heart tightened.

"That's my Pandora Island. Be careful. The miasma concentration here is high!" Ainsley spoke to the alliance members through the AirPods.

She had previously received AirPods from Jake as a means to communicate between them.

After all, Jake knew that Pandora Island's environment wasn't good for any communication.

But the AirPods were powered using tiny energy crystals, making it possible to communicate with each other without worrying about the signal.

After hearing Ainsley's crisp voice through the AirPods, everyone silently held their breath as they looked at the gigantic black island not far from their place.

So this is Pandora Treasure Island!

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 767 - "Arriving At Pandora Treasure Island"

The island was truly big, twice the size of Port Island. It might be as huge as the Roane Region.

If one were to develop this island, they might even be able to create their own country...

But sadly, the environment wasn't suitable for humans' living habitat. Only the demons would like to live on this island.

But would anyone let the demons create a country and live here? Hell no. The demons should stay in the Abyss and never come out!

While the fourteen big shots were silently admiring the size of Pandora Island, Ainsley was clutching Cellino in her embrace.

The others didn't own the island, although they were her allies.

Thus, they weren't too worried whether the island was damaged or not, as long as the mine was safe.

But Ainsley's heart ached at the thought of this treasure island being damaged through the war.

If she could, she should drag the battlefield to be above the ocean, not on the island.

Anyway, there were tons of monsters on the island. The enemies would have to face these obstacles before they could seize the unfinished base.

Knowing that her allies had only superficial knowledge about Pandora Island, Ainsley immediately explained a lot of things to them while they waited to descend to the island.

"There are tons of dragon-type monsters on this island. Also, there are many dimensional holes, and they can appear anywhere, anytime."

Ainsley took a deep breath before continuing.

"That's why, please be careful! This island also has one Abyss Entrance."

When talking about the entrance, Ainsley's voice became heavier and full of warning.

"But don't worry. I have marked the entrance area and put some obstacles so that no one will accidentally fall onto the entrance."

Although Ainsley's voice became a bit stern when she mentioned the entrance, she still spoke of the entrance so lightly as if it wasn't something horrifying.

But those who heard her words almost fell from the beasts' back.

There's an Abyss Entrance here?? No wonder there's an Inheritance Stone's mine, ah!!

At first, these people still doubted whether there was an Abyss Entrance or an exit on this island.

After all, one of the many conditions to form the Inheritance Island was to have an Abyss Entrance or Exit.

They hoped that they were lucky and the Inheritance Stone's mine wasn't build upon those two things.

Who would have thought that the island did have one.

And it was even the entrance, which was more dangerous than the exit because people could fall onto the entrance but no one would accidentally fall to the exit.

Not to mention that the seal was stronger at the Abyss Exit, but it was weaker at the entrance!

The big bosses finally looked at Ainsley as if she was one of the demons herself.

"Kiddo, how could you be so calm when you have such a dangerous thing on your island?" One of the five big bosses couldn't help but ask Ainsley.

After all, even he himself was scared silly. Why is this kid still so calm? That's the entrance, ah! Once you fall inside, the chance of coming out alive would be close to zero.

And there would be some demons trying to come out of the abyss through the entrance.

Although the seal would kill them, some of the stronger demons could survive long enough to walk away from the entrance by several miles!

That's why the dismembered bodies of the demons were scattered throughout the island because not all of them died the moment they came out of the seal.

Well, they would still die in the end, though. The seal is extremely toxic and would kill even the strongest demon— except for the demon king.

But the demon king was inactive and basically rumoured to disappear, leaving the demon race even more miserable than before.

If the demon king didn't disappear, how could the demons be pushed into the Abyss and got sealed for so long like that?

When Ainsley heard the question one of her friends' parents asked her, she simply grinned.

"I'm not that afraid. The people I choose to be stationed here are all strong, and after I develop the island, I don't need to worry about the demons."

Most of the demons who escaped were low-level and mid-level demons. They're not as threatening as the high-level demons.

As long as her people are armed to the teeth and have the most outstanding offensive and defensive technology, why should she fear the demons?

She could even create a Demon Hunter team right away!

Of course, she didn't do this because of Axelle, who had some of the demon's blood flowing in his veins.

She respected Axelle and didn't want him to feel targeted just because he's a half-demon.

"Okay, okay, uncles and aunties, just keep up your guard, and you will be fine. Look, we are about to land!"

Ainsley diverted the topic as she pointed at the half-finished building below them.

That's the first base of Pandora Island belonging to the Sloan Family!

Seeing that they were already so close to the barrier surrounding the island, Ainsley hastily sent a signal to inform the people at the base to open the barrier to let them in.

When the people at the base saw the familiar purple pillar of light beaming into the sky outside of the barrier, the base's leader, Candea, immediately ordered the people to open a gap in the barrier.

"Hurry, open the barrier. The boss is back!"

The people at the base still didn't know about the upcoming invasion and were just happy to see their leader again after a few days.

Some of the hot-blooded members immediately saluted at Ainsley, who was still in the sky and shouted.

"Welcome back, boss!"

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 768 - "An Unknown Danger Level"

The Sloan mafia members worked fast and in no time, they opened a gap in the barrier, allowing the fifteen people to come into the barrier.

Once they're in, the barrier closes again, not allowing monsters or other creatures to come in.

So far, since they came at noon, there were no flying monsters above the island.

The people at the base were also diligent enough to clear the area around the base, creating a no-wild monster zone.

Thus, when the fifteen people arrived, the others aside from Ainsley were surprised to witness the safety measures around the base.

The kiddo' people are really talented and hardworking, ah!

Candea was the first to welcome Ainsley, followed by the Treasure Hunter team members.

When they saw Ainsley come with other somewhat famous guests in the mafia society, they were rendered speechless.

Who are these guests? Is the boss bringing her friends to sightseeing the island or something?

Ainsley didn't bother introducing her guests to her people because time was pressing. They could have a formal welcoming party after they faced the crisis.

Thus, Ainsley merely looked at Candea and immediately explained what was going on.

"There will be an invasion tomorrow. Let the people at the base get prepared for war. The estimated enemy's number is around 1000 people."

Candea obviously froze at Ainsley's words, but she was witty. She quickly controlled her expression and nodded with a solemn face.

"Got it, boss. We will prepare asap."

Candea saluted Ainsley before excusing herself because she had to go inform the rest of the people at the island's base.

At the same time, the treasure hunter team, who was about to go out and hunt for some treasures, cancelled their plan and stayed at the base instead.

Witnessing Ainsley's quick command and her people's organised reaction, the bosses behind Ainsley were all amazed.

They heard from Ainsley that the people assigned to guard the island were all newcomers who were recently recruited but they truly didn't look like that.

It seems that Ainsley's plan to send her members to the island regularly to train them was a good idea.

"Maybe I should also send some members from my family to be trained at this island, " Jake laughed as he spoke to Ainsley.

He did think like that. Even the others also thought the same thing. They could send newbies to guard the island for 6 months to train them and fulfil the contract's agreement.

Of course, they would also station some elites to make sure the island wouldn't lack elites.

"Hum. I think each of our alliance members should build one base, and then we make one other base used to gather all the people who lived on the island."

There would be 15 bases including the Sloan Family's base, and then they needed one huge base to accommodate all the people at the island.

Of course, this one huge base could be an underground bunker used for emergencies, and a means for the members to gather once a month or something.

After all, there might be some friction between each force sent to this island, and Ainsley didn't want that to happen. Thus, a monthly assembly is a must.

"That's a good idea. Each of us should have our own area on this island where we can establish a base." I

Jake rubbed his chin as he continued to talk to Ainsley while they headed to the unfinished Sloan Family's base.

"Of course, the land and everything will still be yours, but each of us will be responsible for a certain area, " Jake added.

He thought that each alliance member should be given a responsibility aside from the Inheritance Stone's mine.

After all, the island was so big that if they didn't properly manage it, they would waste the island's unknown resources.

"And if any of us find something new, we must not hide it from you. You can set up ambassadors or spies to monitor us too, "

Jake generously advised Ainsley on how to manage the island.

Ainsley already had such a thought, and the soul oath also carried the same rules. She immediately nodded at Jake's thoughtfulness.

"Okay, I'll do it after we settle the sudden invasion. Right, are there any new updates on the enemy troops? Maybe their number jumps up or something..."

Ainsley and the others had arrived at the residential tents built in front of the unfinished base, but Ainsley couldn't feel at ease yet.

She asked Jake about her concern and Jake had to contact his people for a few minutes and waited for 15 minutes before getting a reply.

When Jake saw the latest news from his subordinate, he planted in many powerhouse...he couldn't help but furrow his eyebrows.

"You're right, Ain. The enemy's size just grows bigger. Now, around 5000 people are coming to Pandora Island."

!

5000? That's....that's too much! If there's a war between two cities inside the same region, the number of troops deployed would be around that size.

It means that their enemy created a huge alliance to pressure them or they simply sent many troops despite their alliance being limited.

"From what my subordinate knew, there are around 20 powerhouses involved. 15 of them are all from the government sides a.k.a the nobles. The other five..."

Jake knitted his eyebrows as he looked at his phone.

"One of them is the Aretha Family. The other four are the Holy Temple, one of the mercenary teams from the Mercenary Guild, Blacksmith Guild, and an unknown powerhouse."

It should be neither a mafia family, a guild, nor a part of the government. An independent powerhouse just like the Billios Family.

The danger level just rose to an unknown degree.

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 769 - "800 Vs 5000"

But that 5000 enemies wasn't the worst news yet. Jake continued to read the delayed report due to the island's signal and his face darkened even more.

"The 5000 enemies are split into? 10 troops. They're trying to surround the island and take over the island in one huge scoop."

Jake didn't like this kind of tactic, especially when it was used to conquer such a huge land like Pandora Island.

After all, if they were really besieged from all sides, even if they could win, the battle would damage a lot of areas on the island.

Really...those people must have thought that if they couldn't have anything from Pandora Island, the Téssera Alliance also better not have anything.

They're aiming for mutual destruction, huh? No, maybe they're trying to destroy the island if they couldn't rob it!

Ainsley and the other bosses went silent. Their faces didn't look good at all as they calculated the number of temporary troops they had.

500 people from Ainsley's side, 200 people from all the alliance members, and then another 100 from Port Island. Jake deployed his people too just to make up for the insufficient number of troops.

But the total couldn't even exceed 1000 people, ah.

Their reinforcement huddled up together could easily pass through the 5000 benchmarks, but they would only arrive two days later.

It means that they had to fight 5000 enemies for a whole day with only 15 bosses and 800 people! On which the majority weren't elites.

The bosses gathered at the main tent, and all of them were serious about the upcoming invasion.

It should be said that if Jake didn't have a vast networking connection, they would have been caught off guard, and the island might suffer more damage than ever.

Still, knowing that they had to face 5000 troops with only 800 people, even the big bosses weren't confident. They knew that among the 5000 people, there must be some elites too...

And those elites might be on par with the big bosses. That means the bosses couldn't fight so many people at once because of this factor.

Usually, the bosses never fought a war where they only had so little troops and had to fight on their own.

However, Ainsley was already used to such disadvantages. Her experience at the Aretha War was way worse than tomorrow's invasion.

At that time, their mansion was like a group of ants facing elephants, while now, they weren't in such a dire situation.

So, Ainsley calmly analysed the situation and knocked the table before speaking with her melodious and slightly childish voice.

"I think we should separate into 10 teams as well. One team for each enemy's team. We have 15 leaders here...but not all of us are fighters, right?"

Ainsley cast a glance at the Alchemist Guild Leader and the representative from Meidian Family. Those two were obviously non-combat ability users.

"So...I want uncles and aunties to be honest and tell me whether you're a combat ability user or not. This is important to make the teams later."

The bosses didn't feel that Ainsley was overstepping her lines by saying that. She's the alliance's leader, anyway, and they're more than happy to see whether she's capable or not.

Soon, Cain, Geraldine, and the one from Meidian Family raised their hands.

"I'm...not a...full-fledged combat ability user. So...I'll say I'm not, " Cain spoke slowly and then didn't say anything anymore.

After all, he could summon a lot of strong creatures to help in a fight, but he's way better as support than direct fighters.

Geraldine also immediately spoke after Cain.

"I'm a multi-ability user, but all my abilities are related to the alchemist profession. One of my abilities makes me a combat alchemist, but I think I'm way more useful to make potions."

The base might have many ingredients for him to make potions, and that should be more helpful in this war where they lacked food, weapons, potions, and even medicine.

Thankfully, Jake had already asked his people at Port Island to send a huge batch of food, medicines, weapons, armour, potions, potion ingredients, and so on.

Meridian family's representative, one of the elders from that family, also smiled bitterly at Ainsley.

"I'm a healer and a super doctor. My healing ability can cover a large area. I'm definitely helpful to remain at the rear and heal our people."

"Okay, thank you. So...only twelve of us can directly go against the enemies. The other three will stay at the rear. Right, each of us will face one team, and the other two fighters..."

Ainsley excluded herself from the team formation because she needed to be free to help other areas that needed help. She would be their team's trump card.

As for the other one...

"Jake will not join any team. He should focus on logistics and such."

Although Jake didn't say that he's a non-fighter, Ainsley thought that Jake only had one ability, which was the probability.

It's not useful at all in a war unless he became a leader and used that ability to be a strategist.

Jake's lips twitched at Ainsley's misunderstanding, but he didn't correct her. He knew that he could also be a hidden trump card of their temporary army as well as managing the logistics.

"Okay. Thanks, Ain." Jake thanked Ainsley while Ain distributed the 800 troops under the ten bosses' leadership.

Each boss received 100 troops each, but the Monster Tamer and Beast Tamer's guild leader weren't given any troops.

"I and this oldie are a one-person army. We have many tamed monsters and beasts. They're all high-level, and there's also one monster on par with the sacred beast."

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 770 - "The Old Marshal"

Bern, the Beast Tamer Guild master, reassured Ainsley as he looked at Benjamin, the monster tamer guild leader.

Well, he didn't have such a strong monster just like Benjamin's as his pet, but his beast was also not worse than a sacred beast.

Other than not having a legendary beast's bloodline, his best beast is still as strong as the current Cellino.

With that, the group finished distributing the troops and spent a day preparing for war.

What they feared the most was the air troops and the marines, but Ainsley caught tons of flying-type monsters at night and made them into temporary troops to help their team.

Just like that, a day passed by, and early in the morning, the troops who patrolled the island suddenly blew their warming trumpet throughout the huge island.

TOOOOT. TOOOOT. TOOOOT.

Three trumpet noises. It means that the enemy is already here!

Ainsley and the others immediately woke up and prepared in a rush before running to the source of the trumpet.

The one blowing the trumpet was one of the night guards, and he's one of Ainsley's air troops.

After he blew the trumpet, he immediately contacted Ainsley and the others through the special Airpods.

"Boss, I saw the enemy behind the fog surrounding the island. There are so many of them...mostly air troops and navy."

The guard told Ainsley that the enemies not only sent flying-type monsters with their riders but also sent bombers. They used both technologies and special ability users.

The navy was also tough. They were all armed with cannons, and they could absolutely destroy the island's barrier if they kept on shooting.

Right now, the enemy was still far away, and that's why they didn't attack. But they would attack in fifteen minutes at most!

Ainsley's face was dark as she asked the guard about the enemy position.

"Uh, so far, there are only around 8 troops. Two coming from the North, two from the South, two from east and another two from west."

Of course, one troop was an air troop and the other troop was the navy. It was a pincer attack from the sky and the ocean!

Ainsley tried to stay calm as she directed the teams to go in those directions.

"8 of us should go to those directions along with the troops. Grandpa Ben and Grandpa Bern should wait for a hidden attack or something."

With this arrangement, they would face around 1000 enemies with only 200 people.

The enemies' number was five times their own troops, but with two big bosses leading the attack, it should be fine.

"Our goal is to minimize the damage on the island and survive until our reinforcements arrive! Leave the mine to Cellino. He will guard the mine and won't let anyone destroy or steal it."

Since Ainsley had said so, the big bosses nodded and immediately teamed up before riding their flying-type beasts or monsters to wait for the enemies.

They brought 200 troops with them and although most of them weren't the air troops, a majority were long-range attack ability users.

With this, they didn't need to wait until the enemy landed on the island to attack.

At the same time, the enemies had already approached the island and when they're close enough, the black beauty hidden behind the morning's thick fog slowly revealed itself.

The grand commander of the whole army, one of the Godlif Country's marshals, immediately spoke to all his 5000 people.

"The island is already right ahead. Air bombers, go! The navy can start attacking after you are closer to the island."

The marshal was sent by the government to take over the island and rob the Inheritance Stone mine for the sake of the Godlif Country.

There's no way they could leave such a precious mine to the mafias!

Right after the marshal spoke, the air bombers immediately circled the island and dropped the bombs.

Several missiles and bombs instantly went out of the air bombers' lower body and rushed to the island's transparent barrier.

Swooooshhhh.

The moment the bombs and missiles touched the barrier, all of them exploded.

BOOM! BOOM! BOOM!

One explosion after another continued to bombard the barrier, so much so that half of the island trembled slightly.

Even the barrier had signs of cracking, and yet the air bombers didn't stop. They continued to hit the same weak spot over and over again!

Ainsley and the others who heard the explosion immediately reacted.

The barrier ability users fixed the cracked barrier while Jake, as the logistic team leader, sent the members to put more energy crystals to the barrier-producing machine.

An island as big as Pandora Island had more than fifty barrier-producing machines, and yet Ainsley only put some tamed monsters to guard those machines.

Of course, the monsters were all high-level or at least middle-level monsters...

And so, although the enemy kept bombarding the barrier, thanks to the energy crystal supplies from Jake's Port Island that arrived last night, the enemies didn't manage to create a hole in the barrier.

The barrier regenerated too fast!

After almost exhausting all of their bombs and missiles, the pilots reported to marshal with their backs drenched in sweat.

"Reporting, marshal. The barrier is still intact. The Sloan Family used up tons of energy crystals to continue fixing the barrier!"

The marshal knitted his eyebrows at such reports, but he kept his calm.

"Bomb more areas. Don't focus on just one area. Let's see if they can keep up with our destruction speed."

The marshal's low voice sounded throughout everyone's AirPods.

The marshal was already fifty this year but still looked as imposing as when he was young.

The government is really serious about taking over the island, ah!