I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 821 - 'A Male Elf'

After Ainsley received the gift, the tea party officially started.

Of course, before that, Jake introduced a few uninvited guests that came along with him.

"Right, little Godtoddler. These are my friends...come, come, let's talk to them."

Jake brought Ainsley to the people who were currently surrounded by the other tea party's guests.

When the guests saw Jake approaching them, they tacitly moved away to open a path for the little baby and Jake.

Evan, Finley, and the other five children also tagged along behind the duo.

The group immediately met the people who were surrounded by so many guests before.

When Ainsley saw the small group of people dressed in their own cultural clothes, the baby's eyes lit up.

The first person she noticed was a very handsome man.

The young man had fair skin similar to crystal. His long, waist-length hair was straight, but it didn't look stiff at all.

If anything, it looked so smooth and glistening under the sunlight. It was as if his hair was made of silk!

But the emerald color really made it difficult for people to think that his hair was made of silk.

That's right, the young man's hair was green, but it was emerald.

Because of that, his hair looked as if so many tiny emeralds formed it...

But the thing that Ainsley noticed the most wasn't his fair skin, emerald straight hair or a pair of golden pupils.

It was...his ears! His ears were longer than human ears, and it was also pointed.

Whenever the young man felt something, his ears would tremble as if to reflect his emotion.

Although his face was cold and devoid of any warmth, one could see his mood from his ears movement.

The young man who was way taller than Jake, maybe around 2 meter high, was none other than the legendary elf.

It's a male elf!

He's slender, tall, and cold, but his beauty was really way over the roof. Ainsley had never seen someone as beautiful as this elf.

His beauty seemed to be androgynous, and people couldn't guess his gender with just a glance if not for his clothes.

The young man wore a typical sleeveless brown leather vest with dark brown trousers.

There was a wooden tube full of arrows on his back and a small bow hanging on his waist.

The bow looked like a miniature bow, but it could actually expand in size!

Ainsley looked up at the first male elf she saw as she almost drooled over the elf's face.

So handsome! So good! Ahhhhh! The legendary elf!!

The first elf Ainsley saw was Axelle, who didn't look like an elf at all.

Axelle was handsome, but he inherited more of his demonic bloodline in terms of appearance than his elf bloodline.

He had pointed ears and also looked like an elf, but his beauty wasn't something that could make people think of one word— elf.

That's why, when Ainsley saw this pure-blood male elf for the first time, her legs almost turned into jelly.

Her eyes were already about to spill out 'love' all over, and the whole baby felt like she was in love.

As a face-con, how could she not become this elf's fanatic fans?

Even Finnie's beauty couldn't be compared to this mature young man!

"N-n-nice to meet you..." Ainsley stuttered in Godlif country's language as her cheeks flushed red.

The baby suddenly acted like a shy maiden, and the others around her were taken aback at first.

But when they looked at that young man's face, which looked as if it was carved by God's own two hands...

They understood Ainsley's feelings.

Even the five children behind Ainsley were dumbfounded when they saw the male elf's appearance.

Both girls and boys instantly fell in love with the young elf.

This big brother is like a deity, ah! Want to faint! Quick, help!

Even the quiet Zenan couldn't help but blush, and the boy immediately questioned his sexual orientation.

Just look at those sharp phoenix-like eyes! His high nose bridge! His thin reddish lips!

When the male God pursed his lips, his jaw tightened, and his Adam apple moved.

The children were seduced and felt that they would soon grow some filthy thoughts toward the male elf.

Yet, at the same time, they felt that it was a blasphemy to think like that toward the male elf!

Ainsley and the children didn't have any immunity toward this fantasy creature, but the adults more or less could control their expressions.

Although they were also shocked by the elf's handsome appearance, they quickly got over it and interacted normally.

Only the kids were in danger of falling in love with a non-human race...

When Finley saw the male elf, he was also shocked, but since he had seen so many fairies before, he was somewhat immune to this kind of ethereal beauty.

But when he saw Ainsley's lovestruck appearance...the kid's face suddenly turned black and he secretly clenched his fists.

Just wait until he grows up! He would also be as handsome as this elf!

Not noticing anything strange with the children, Jake happily introduced Ainsley to his elf friend.

"Little Godtoddler, this is Ethlando. You can call him Eth." Jake smiled widely, showing off his teeth before looking at Ethlando with a nod.

"Eth, this is Ainsley. You can call her Ain. She's the one I told you about, " Jake switched to elf language.

This time, Ethlando immediately nodded at Ainsley and opened his mouth to speak.

"Nice to meet you, " The elf also spoke in elf language.

His voice was cold yet melodious and deep at the same time. It was magical.

This voice really could make people faint in just seconds!

Chapter 822 - 'Elf And Dwarf Language'

The elf's voice really sounded like a dream! So unreal, ah...

It was so good to the ear that even Ainsley's face flushed red once more.

Heard that elves were all natural charmers...she's also a charmer in a sense, but she's so defeated!

Ainsley nodded at Eth but didn't speak anymore. After all, she had greeted him before.

The other guests didn't understand elf language, but she had Zev's buff with her.

Although Zev wasn't here, he automatically translated the language into her mind.

Zev really could activate the universal language skill without him being the translator. Back then, he just wanted to show off...

Ainsley understood the elf language because in her ear, it sounded like the human race's universal language.

As a mafia family head, she learned a lot of languages and one of them was the human's universal language.

That's why Ainsley didn't realize that the elf was talking in elf language!

Jake was about to translate the language to Ainsley when he saw her nod.

The young man widened his eyes in surprise.

"Ain, you can understand elf language?"

Ainsley subconsciously nodded, not knowing that Jake had just spoken to her using the elf language.

"Yes, I can understand."

Her passive universal language skill was triggered, and what came out of her mouth wasn't the Godlif country's language but a fcking elf language!

This time, Ainsley clearly heard her own voice speaking an alien language and was also taken aback.

Did the lingua franca skill just automatically get activated? But Zev isn't here!

While Ainsley was shocked at her own skill, the guests were staring at Ainsley as if she's a ghost.

The baby...could understand and speak elf language! Even they couldn't do that!

Just how talented is she??

Learning an elf language was so difficult that even Jake, who came in contact with elves more often than other humans, needed years to master the language!

The elf was also pleasantly surprised and couldn't help but soften his expression.

Eth immediately took the initiative to speak.

"I have long heard of you from Jake. You're truly talented. I have never thought that there would be such a good seedling among you humans."

Eth's face was still a bit cold and detached as if he's an immortal that disdained this world, but his voice held a rare trace of admiration.

Elves are arrogant in nature, and it would be hard to get their approval, not to mention admiration.

Even Jake didn't have this privilege at all, despite being Eth's close friend.

Only the Godfather and other world-class figures got the elves' admiration. Now, Ainsley also got this honor.

Ainsley was so overwhelmed and excited at Eth's compliment that her voice trembled as she replied to Eth.

"H-hahahahaha. You flatter me. Jake must have exaggerated things about me or something...."

But Eth looked at Ainsley with a deep gaze before choosing to drop the matter.

Anyway, the baby wouldn't believe that he really admired her.

A lot of elves who got along with Jake also knew about Ainsley, and all of them were curious about her.

After meeting Ainsley in person, he could feel the baby's aura was special.

Maybe because Ainsley had the charm ability...but the elf found out that even nature liked the baby.

And he couldn't help but to have a good impression on the baby, even when he's usually not fond of humans.

Even his first impression of Jake wasn't as good as Ainsley.

Maybe because the baby surprisingly knew how to speak elf language, but Eth really felt comfortable around the baby.

Ainsley didn't know that her charm ability already grew to be so strong that she could subconsciously charm non-human beings.

Although the charm effect was only limited to giving the other party a good impression on herself, that's already an improvement!

After the brief introduction with the elf and the grand reveal that Ainsley could speak elf language, Jake fetched another non-human race friend.

This time, Jake brought a super short woman, who was only as tall as Ainsley despite her old-looking face.

With one glance, Ainsley immediately guessed the grumpy-looking short woman's race.

She's a dwarf!

Ainsley thought she would be seeing a male dwarf, but who would have thought it was a female dwarf instead.

The female dwarf had dull and coarse maroon hair tied into two huge braids behind her head.

She also had these Google glasses on her forehead, and her attire was really masculine.

The old-looking white t-shirt coupled with overall pants made of jeans really gave the image of a busy engineer.

The dwarf looked at Ainsley and nodded. At the same time, Jake introduced the dwarf to Ainsley.

"Look, Ain, this is Tyra, a female dwarf. She's talented!"

"Nice to meet you." The dwarf greeted Ainsley in dwarf language.

Unlike the elf's soothing and mysterious voice, the woman's voice was hoarse and sounded full of vigor.

It also sounded a bit aggressive and intimidating...

Especially when she's speaking in dwarf language that really sounded crude compared to the elegant elf language.

But the other guests couldn't understand her anyway, so they also didn't mind her intimidating tone of voice.

Like usual, the dwarf was waiting for Jake to translate the language for her when Ainsley already smiled brightly at Tyra and nodded.

"Nice to meet you, Tyra!"

Ainsley spoke in universal human language, but what came out of her mouth automatically became the dwarf language.

One could imagine the shock everyone got when they heard Ainsley speaking the dwarf language—

It was another non-human language that was hard to learn!

Ainsley's pronunciation and dialect were also perfect to the point that people might think she's a real dwarf!

Kid, why are you so talented??

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 823 - 'A Beastman'

Tyra was taken aback by Ainsley's fluent dwarf language speaking skill, and so did the other guests.

All of them immediately looked at Ainsley as if she were a deity.

Jake was the first one to react and asked the baby.

"Ain, how did you know the dwarf language too? I thought there are too little elf and dwarf language tutors around us..."

So far, humans couldn't learn the elf or dwarf language without direct contact with the designated race.

Only the Elton academy, with so many teachers and instructors from races worldwide, could teach the students various non-human race languages.

This was also why many people wanted their children to enrol to the Elton Academy.

Basically, all mafia children's goal was to enrol at Elton Academy, while the noble children's goal was to enrol at the military academy or the human international abroad.

But there were still a lot of elites who picked Elton Academy over other academies.

If their children couldn't enter the Elton Academy, only then they would choose other academies.

Almost all of Ainsley's five besties were the Elton Academy's students, and Finley too.

But they still couldn't communicate in an elf or dwarf language as fluent as Ainsley!

Ainsley looked at everyone's curious gazes and smiled mysteriously.

"I have my way, of course. But I can't tell you, hehehe. It's a secret!"

"Well, can you also speak the beastman language?" Jake threw another question out of curiosity.

One should know that unlike the dwarf and elf, who only had one universal language, the beastman had tons.

All different animal tribes had different language too, and that's why the race made a universal beastman language.

They're just like the humans who had different languages because different countries had different languages.

Ainsley looked up at Jake and nodded with a confident smile.

"Yes. I can also speak and understand the beastman universal language...but maybe not their local languages."

Of course, she actually could because Zev was omnipotent. But she didn't want to expose that, afraid of scaring these people.

"I can only speak a few large tribes' languages in beastman race," Ainsley added.

Coincidentally, Jake's third friend was a beastman, and when Ainsley said that, he immediately walked out from the crowd.

"I wonder which tribes' languages you can speak?"

The beastman spoke in his local language, and Ainsley's ears subconsciously twitched.

She looked up at the young man who just came to approach her, and her jaw suddenly dropped like that.

This...this...this is a real beastman?

Someone who can change into animals and have animal characteristics when they're in their humanoid form?!

Ainsley believed that this young man was the real beastman.

After all, Ainsley's eyes were already darting to the young man's fluffy white fox ears and the puffy white tail wagging behind his back.

It's a foxman!

The fox was tall, but not as tall as the elf. Still, he's way taller than the humans. Maybe he's 190 cm tall.

But unlike the elf's graceful and slender body, this foxman had a different body type.

It's not burly, not slender or thin, but a bit...sexy?

Long legs and long arms, perky buttocks, face as beautiful as a goddess but with a hint of seduction...

His light blue almond-shaped eyes were so alluring when he squinted.

Plus, when he smiled, the atmosphere suddenly turned a bit dangerous.

This foxman is exuding hormones all over his body!

The male elf stiffened when he saw the male fox, and even Jake had to maintain a stiff smile on his face.

This fox's charm is effective on both women and men. His charm is really....too seductive!

The fox only wagged his tail and licked his red lips, but the men and women around him almost got a nosebleed.

The fox had a different charm compared to the elf, but he's undoubtedly as handsome as the elf.

His fair, milk-like skin looked similar to the male elf's, but the fox's skin was a shade paler than the elf.

When he spoke, even his hoarse and sultry voice sounded good, but it was really too seductive!

It made people unable to focus on whatever he was saying...

Somehow, Ainsley could see the image of Zev in this foxman.

Both of them looked playful but Zev was more graceful than this fox.

The foxman wore an off-shoulder top with wide sleeves and Aladdin pants; all of them were pure white.

With his shoulders exposed like that, the fox's charm was even more lethal.

But maybe because Ainsley also had a charm ability, although a different one from the fox's natural charm skill...

Ainsley was not too affected by the fox's subconscious seduction!

The baby didn't flush and only looked at the fox's ears and tail with twinkling eyes.

Actually...she preferred the fox's fluffy ears and tail!

Ainsley subconsciously replied to the fox.

"I definitely can speak the fox tribe language."

Yeon's fluffy fox ears twitched, and his almond-shaped eyes squinted, forming a seductive smile on his face.

"You're really talented, little girl. Yeon is tempted to kidnap you!" The fox grinned as he teased Ainsley.

"Hahaha, uncle, you can't kidnap an underage kid. You will be arrested!" Ainsley didn't think too much of Yeon's words.

But little did she know that Yeon was actually half-serious.

He had heard from Jake about Ainsley's unique charm ability that could even charm monsters and beasts.

As a beastman, his continent was close to the beast continent.

As a beastman, they're all quite close to the beasts although essentially, the beastmen weren't half-beasts but half-animals instead.

For beastmen, contracting a beast was super easy and they didn't need to be a beast tamer to do that.

But they still couldn't contract monsters without being a monster tamer.

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 824 - 'Gifts From The Three Non human Guests'

As for Yeon himself....

Seducing beasts and alike was really easy, but even a genius like him, with one of the most lethal innate charms couldn't charm monsters.

The only way to contract a monster was to be a monster tamer and they had to awaken their monster tamer ability for that.

That's why monster tamer was rarer and more precious than beast tamers in some places.

Of course, in the human continent, many people liked beast teamers more since they could help non-tamers to contract beasts.

Yeon couldn't charm monsters and couldn't make the monsters willingly get into a contract with him or others around him

But Ainsley can! And she's not a monster tamer!

That alone immediately aroused Yeon's curiosity, and even the fox tribe was curious about the kid who could charm what they couldn't charm.

Not to mention...her charm was apparently not the seductive and sexy type, but a pure, innocent kid type of charm!

Such a unique specimen...Yeon would have kidnapped Ainsley if not for his friendship with Jake.

Ainsley didn't believe Yeon's words and only thought that he's joking, but Jake knew that Yeon wasn't 100% joking.

He immediately glared at his slurty and warned him with his gaze.

'Do not think of kidnapping Ain. You can't! Get it?!'

Yeon sensed Jake's gaze on him, and it wasn't a kind one. He immediately stuck out his tongue at Jake and wisely chose to retreat.

Otherwise, if he didn't retreat, he wouldn't be able to stop his naughty claws from kidnapping Ainsley...

Ainsley looked at the retreating Yeon and couldn't help but be disappointed.

She also wanted to touch Yeon's ears and tail...although she had Cellino as her fur therapy, she's still curious about the beastman.

Today, Jake only brought three non-human races friends out of the 8 big non-human races.

They were the elves, the dwarves, the beastmen, merfolk, the giants, the winged people, fairies, and finally– the demons.

The demons were sealed inside the abyss, so Jake only had connections with the other 7 big non-human races.

"I actually have more friends from the giant race, merfolk and the winged people, but it's inconvenient for them to come, "

Jake explained patiently to Ainsley.

It's not that they didn't want to come, but the giants were too big and could easily scare the humans.

The merfolk; merman and mermaids couldn't go to the shore and had to stay underwater.

The winged people lived above the clouds and could easily come down, but...

Their appearance would also scare others around the Sloan Family Mansion.

After all, they had huge wings that could easily reach one meter wide or two meters.

It was really inconvenient for them to come.

As for the fairies...they were known to be mysterious and secretive, but also the race that had the most frequent contact with human beings.

Unfortunately, because of that, the fairies didn't really need Jake to connect their business to the human race.

They usually asked their human contractors for anything that the fairies needed, and the human contractors would be the middleman instead of Jake.

Anyway...Ainsley already knew a lot about fairies, thanks to the Walter Family. So...he didn't need to introduce her to one.

Jake believed that Finley's fake identity– the library fairy was already enough for Ainsley to come in contact with fairies.

Ainsley understood Jake's concern and immediately nodded obediently.

"It's okay, Jake. I won't blame them. I know it will be inconvenient for them to come...don't worry. I'll come to visit them sometimes when I can."

Jake was afraid that Ainsley would think badly of his friends when they couldn't come.

But Ainsley really didn't mind. In the end, she would still distribute and sell the inheritance stones to these non-human races.

After making sure that Ainsley wouldn't be offended, Jake sighed in relief before letting the other guests present their gifts in front of Ainsley.

One by one, everyone came forward and gave various precious gifts.

But strangely, Finley didn't give anything when the other non-human races gave Ainsley some unique things.

The dwarf gave Ainsley a flying shoe that would allow her to fly in the air.

This item couldn't be found in the human continent yet.

The elf gave Ainsley a potted purple-green plant.

The plant could act as Ainsley's watchdog because it could eat people who had malicious intentions toward their master!

Such a unique plant...

And the beastman gave Ainsley a bag of special food for Phoenix cubs.

"I heard that you have a mutated phoenix cub. I hope this gift can help your cub grow up fast and healthy," Yeon explained.

Seeing the brown, coarse bag, Ainsley was immediately excited and hurriedly thanked Yeon while storing the bag of food.

"Hum, thank you, big brother! I will use this well!"

The bag of food looked small, only as big as Ainsley's palm, but the inside was a spatial storage as big as a huge car.

The food was stacked neatly inside, and all of them were really precious for the phoenix family.

The three non-human race guests gave Ainsley a gift, but when it was Finley's turn, he shook his head and smiled politely.

"I'm sorry. I don't bring any gifts...but my friend will send you one tonight. Just wait for it."

Finley had a mysterious smile and Ainsley immediately became curious.

Finley's friend? Tonight? Don't tell me he will send his contracted royal fairy to do errands...

Wait. Finley's royal fairy might be friends with Finnie because they're both royal family members.

Don't tell me...

Ainsley's eyes widened. She suddenly thought that maybe...maybe Finley would ask Finnie to come?

Ainsley didn't know Finley's relationship with Finnie, or Chronos's friendship with the library fairy, but there's still a chance, right?!

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 825 - 'Planting The Young World Tree'

Ainsley immediately speculated things in her mind.

Maybe somehow, Finley knew that she was friends with Finnie? Maybe Finnie told him about that?

And that's why Finley's gift would be....Finnie coming to find her ahead of time?

After all, Finnie was grounded for two months at the fairy continent but the time there flew differently from the human continent.

Two months there were equal to two years in the human continent!

And it hadn't been half a year yet, not to mention two years.

The fairy continent was indeed the only continent with a different sense of time, aside from the abyss.

Maybe because the only creature that could manipulate time was the fairy.

No wonder the fairy had always been one of the strongest races despite their cute-looking appearances.

Anyway, if Finley's gift would be Finnie...maybe somehow he could help Finnie to sneak out of the fairy continent with his contracted royal fairy's help...

Ainsley was immediately excited until her face flushed red.

Finley didn't know what's in Ainsley's mind, but he also didn't try to ask.

Seeing Ainsley's excited face, the boy who kept wearing his mask only nodded at the baby and went back to his dad's place.

When Jake and Evan saw Finley didn't give any gifts to Ainsley, both of them immediately thought of a possibility.

Don't tell me...

This kid will sneak to the Sloan Family Mansion at night, right?

Heheh.

Jake had an 'I know it' smile on his face while Evan touched his forehead, feeling a bit ashamed of his son.

His son is not a gentleman at all!

How could he sneak into the little girl's mansion at night?!

Despite the two adults and one boy with an adult soul's silent confrontation, Ainsley's tea party still continued smoothly.

At the end of the tea party, Jake even motioned Eth to approach Ainsley and gave her a surprise.

"Eth came here to befriend you and also send the young World Tree in person."

Jake looked at Eth and nodded while Eth took out a potted plant.

The pot itself was made of gold, so luxurious but still had the elves' characteristic of nature.

The green vines decorating the pot, the small flower petals swirling around the golden pot...

The pot itself looked divine!

But Ainsley's attention was on a small tree that looked like a mini version of Yggdrasil.

Well, in Ainsley's eyes, the plant, which was a chibi version of the majestic Yggdrasil with lush leaves and thick trunk...actually looked like a bonsai!

Ainsley's lips twitched, holding back her urge to laugh.

She solemnly accepted the potted plant before inviting Eth to the magic prairie.

"Eth will help you plant the tree so that there won't be any mishaps." –that was what Jake told Ainsley, which was why Ainsley brought Eth to the golden door.

But on the way to the golden door, Ainsley was actually restless.

She let Eth hold the potted young World Tree while she hugged Cellino and talked to the beast.

[Say, will your siblings open the door? I don't want to meet them now, only want to plant the tree...they should agree, right?]

Ainsley still remembered how the golden door closed itself tightly in front of her, not wanting her to come in.

If the door wouldn't open up to now...the young World Tree couldn't be planted, and it might be dangerous for the tree's survival.

After all, only the magic prairie, a mysterious place in the Sloan Mansion that could safely nurture the young World Tree.

Cellino himself was also a bit uncertain about his siblings' weird attitude, but he still answered Ainsley's question.

[Awoooo, they should let you in, awoooo. Even if they don't want to see you, they shouldn't ignore the World Tree.]

After all, even the sacred beasts also cherished the World Tree.

This one is only a sampling, a young world tree with one-tenth the adult world tree's magical effect, but every creature close to nature will still appreciate it.

The sacred beasts weren't an exception.

It was said that a lot of sacred beasts, especially the western type, volunteered to become the World Tree's guardians, only to get close to the tree.

The World Tree could make the beasts grow stronger and could grant them a longer lifespan.

Cellino, Code-B and Code-L predecessors had also guarded the World Tree once in their life.

Because of the world tree's popularity within the sacred beasts and even the legendary beast's community, the guardians could only guard the tree for a few years at most.

Then, other beasts would replace them.

Back then, when the three predecessors were still sacred beasts and not legendary beasts yet, they also fought with others to guard the world tree.

And that's how they managed to become legendary beasts in less than a decade!

Usually, sacred beasts with the thickest legendary beasts' bloodline or direct heirs still needed more than fifty years up to a hundred years to evolve from a sacred beast to the new legendary beast.

When they evolved, that previous legendary beast would have long been deteriorating, becoming weaker each day, and then died.

The reason why sacred beasts existed were all to inherit some legendary beasts' positions and replace the old legendary beasts.

Unlike Phoenix or dragon, legendary beasts like unicorns, pegasus, and the rest had to find an heir to replace them as the sole legendary beast.

There were many heirs chosen, but only one would be the final legendary beast, replacing the old.

There were many unicorns, pegasus, Fenrir, and the such, but only one could be called as legendary.

The others were only sacred beasts at most, with a legendary beast' bloodline.

It was a race to be the sole legendary beast!

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 826 - 'The Sloan Family Head Qualification'

Indeed, there were only two legendary creatures in this world that didn't need to find an heir to replace them— it was the phoenix and the dragon.

Unlike other legendary beings that had to cultivate an heir from the start...

Phoenix and dragon usually had cubs and one of their cubs would be the one becoming the new legendary beast in the future.

Strangely, there wouldn't be only one legendary phoenix or dragon in this world, because there could be a variety of them.

For example, a legendary ice phoenix, an ice dragon, golden dragon, golden Phoenix, white dragon, white phoenix, and so on.

The dragons had more legendary dragon varieties compared to phoenix who usually only had one or two variations.

Other legendary beasts such as unicorns, griffins, pegasus, and so on, could have cubs or children, but their children would never become a legendary beast.

It was said that because there could only be one legendary beast in each race, when they had cubs, they had to mate with a non-legendary beast of the same race.

That undoubtedly weakened the bloodline passed down to their cubs.

The phoenix and dragon race could have more than one legendary beasts, and it means they could mate with another legendary beast of the same race, despite their different variety.

The other legendary beasts couldn't do that. If they mated with other legendary beasts of a different race, they couldn't have children!

So, it was more efficient to pass down their bloodline to a brand new beast of their race.

And they also had to start from the root, and couldn't pass down the bloodline to the existing sacred beasts of their race.

For example, the unicorns found ordinary goats to be their heir, pegasus found ordinary horses...

Fenrir found ordinary dogs or wolves, and the white tiger found ordinary cats to be their heir.

Oh, well, Cellino's case was an anomaly, since he's a cat.

Cellino himself always thought that becoming Fenrir's heir was a tragedy, but he was actually lucky.

The old Fenrir only chose Cellino to be his heir and if Cellino died before becoming a legendary beast, only then would other candidates inherit the legendary Fenrir' bloodline.

Other beast races chose as many as a hundred heirs and all the heirs would compete to be the first one to become a legendary beast.

Then, the rest would never be able to advance and could only stay as a sacred beast.

However, despite Cellino being lucky, he had been unable to awaken his bloodline for so many years, because he found no suitable humans to assist him—

Until he found Ainsley.

Still, he was lagging behind a lot compared to his siblings.

His two siblings had long awakened their bloodlines, and were already on the verge of becoming a legendary creature.

They only needed one small push...and this young World Tree could be the key!

Actually, thanks to Ainsley's care, Cellino himself had grown stronger at an astonishing rate, much faster than his two siblings.

In less than a year, he would soon be able to speak human language in his beast form, and then the next step would be human transformation.

That would be the last step before becoming a legendary beast.

[My siblings will like the young World Tree and will want to take care of it, awoooo,] Cellino added.

It means that they would surely open the door!

And Cellino was right.

Ainsley had just about to knock on the golden door when the golden door silently opened itself, without waiting for Ainsley to knock!

The baby exclaimed in surprise while Eth silently raised an eyebrow.

'So this is the prairie that usually showed up in human territories following the sacred beasts...'

He had heard about the sacred beasts' weird tradition of becoming some humans' guardians in order to awaken their bloodline and strive to be a legendary beast.

But this was the first time he saw the prairie that was said to be a mysterious power.

Only sacred beasts on the verge of becoming legendary beasts could create this separate dimension, and they needed more than one sacred beast to make this kind of place.

Eth peeked at Ainsley's surprised face and was also surprised in his heart.

It seemed that the Sloan Family had a deep root in the human continent, huh...

Not noticing Eth's gaze on her, Ainsley was silently looking at the wide prairie in front of her eyes.

The baby couldn't help but mutter as she held Cellino tightly.

"I'm sorry for disturbing you. I'll come in now and plant the young World Tree."

After saying that, Ainsley stepped into the prairie, followed by Eth. The door didn't close yet, as if waiting for them to come out before sealing itself.

This time, Ainsley relied on Eth to find a suitable location to plant the tree and while planting the tree, she didn't meet the two sacred beasts living in the prairie.

The baby's eyes dimmed slightly as she casted her gaze to the grass below her feet.

[As expected...they still don't want to see me. Did I do something wrong? Or maybe they don't want to make a contract with me?]

Ainsley bit her lips as she asked Cellino.

She had heard that if the family head wasn't too strong or competent, not all sacred beasts in the Sloan Family would choose to make a contract.

They might choose others to be their master, not necessarily the family head.

Thus, it had been a tradition in the Sloan Family to measure the family head's strength and prestige by the number of sacred beasts they could contract.

The number of sacred beasts that the new family head could contract showed the family head's qualification!

Chapter 827 - 'Eager To Make A Contract'

Unlike other families who only had one or two sacred beasts as their guardian, the Sloan Family, which used to be the number one family, had three guardians.

The past family heads all received the three beasts' recognition, and the family always thrived.

But later on, the family heads only contracted two beasts, and then one, and then...no one got the sacred beasts' recognition.

Back then, when Cellino made contracts with other family heads, it wasn't a real contract because he was still unable to awaken his true bloodline to become a genuine sacred beast.

At most, he was only a decoration tagging behind his two siblings.

And so, the family heads actually needed the two beasts' recognition and Cellino would always be the last choice.

Now, Cellino was Ainsley's first choice, but Cellino also knew that if his siblings didn't accept Ainsley...

Maybe, Ainsley's prestige would be questioned.

Other Mafia families also knew about the Sloan Family's tradition, and that's why they're waiting for the day Ainsley contracted the other two beasts.

So far, no one questioned Ainsley's prestige because she already contracted Cellino when she's only three years old.

Maybe when she's older, the other two beasts would make contracts with her, one by one.

But no one knew that two beasts refused to see Ainsley!

Ainsley's heart was heavy, not knowing why the two beasts despised her. Even Cellino was also slightly anxious.

Yet the cat still tried to console Ainsley.

[It's okay, awoooo. Maybe you're still too young for them...o-or maybe they are just lazy...]

After all, they had been ignoring many family heads for the past decades.

Many generations couldn't even attract Cellino, not to mention the other two beasts.

Ainsley was already great because she could attract Cellino and actually made a real contract with him.

She even awakened his bloodline and made him a true sacred beast!

Cellino looked at this human and silently thanked Ainsley.

'Thank you for changing me...and making me your first priority.'

And so, even if his siblings might dislike Ainsley, Cellino would try his best to keep Ainsley's prestige unquestionable!

[Calm down, Awooo. Don't be too anxious. Right now, let's focus on planting the world tree and maybe they will like you, awoooo.]

At Cellino's comforting words, Ainsley smiled lightly and focused on helping the male elf to plant the world tree.

Little did she know that the two other sacred beasts were actually peeping, watching Ainsley from afar.

"Hey, hey, is that little cutie planting a young world tree?" The dark-colored fluffy cat leaned to the slim, pure white cat with four dark paws.

The cat's sapphire eyes were bright as he looked at the young world tree planted on the ground.

The pure white cat with a smaller body compared to the dark brown-colored cat slowly lifted her right paw, licked her pink meat pad and meowed.

"It seems so. I can already feel the world tree's magical attributes. Although it's very faint and weak."

Code-B ears immediately stood up and his fluffy dark tail rose to the sky, as if about to pierce heaven.

"This is good, nyaa! The little cutie is so capable. She can get a world tree, nyaaa! We have to quickly meet her and give her our birthday gifts!"

The duo had been waiting for Ainsley's birthday to surprise her. They had two gifts each...and they couldn't seem to wait any longer.

But Code-L shook her head and patted Code-B's head with her paw.

"Don't be impatient. We will surprise her at night. I've sent a telepathy to that old fogey to bring the little kid to the prairie."

The so-called old fogey was none other than Grandpa Yofan.

Knowing that he couldn't ruin the surprise for Ainsley, Code-B dropped his ears low and tried to restrain his excitement.

"Okay, nya...we will wait..."

Unlike Code-L who wasn't that interested to make a contract with Ainsley at the moment, Code-B was actually very eager.

Not only because he could meet his twin brother, but he could also share the same master!

Code-B knew that back then, Cellino had never made a real contract with the other family heads.

Cellino seemed to act like a decoration, tagging behind him or Code-L.

If both of them contracted the same master, Cellino would also tag along.

But one should know that most often, the family heads only contracted the twins and not Code-L.

Getting Code-L' recognition was really hard, especially when she's the closest to becoming a legendary beast among the three enlightened cats.

As for Code-B...he actually chose to contract a person when they showed kindness and no bad feelings at Cellino, his 'useless' brother.

Code-B licked his paw as he looked at Cellino's butt facing him. The cat had grown fatter each day, but also became more lively and fresh.

Code-B often bullied Cellino, but it didn't mean he wanted others to bully his twin brother.

And so, he never made a contract with those who look down on Cellino.

Cellino himself never made a contract with anyone who didn't get his twin brother or Code-L recognition.

He always became a little tail for the two beasts, just like buy one get one free.

In most cases where the family heads only contracted one beast, it would always be Code-B alone and not Cellino.

This was the first time Cellino came out of the prairie on his own, and followed a human, even going as far as making a contract with the human.

And even more amazing, the human resonated with Cellino, giving him enough love, care, trust, and confidence to awaken his suppressed bloodline.

Such a human...Code-B was eager to make a contract with her!

Chapter 828 - 'Naming The Young World Tree'

Ainsley didn't know about the two cats' conversation and was currently watching Eth planting the world tree to the prairie's ground.

After the world tree left the golden pot, Eth didn't throw the golden pot away but handed it to Ainsley.

"You can still use this when you want to move the world tree from this place, " Eth spoke in an elf language and Ainsley immediately understood.

She also replied in the same language.

"Okay, thank you, big brother Eth. I'll make sure the world tree grows well!"

The world tree actually didn't need intensive care. It only needed the right environment.

Coincidentally, the prairie was a good environment for a young world tree, and it could also sustain an adult world tree!

That's why, the adult world tree with a consciousness would let sacred beasts guard them even when they didn't need any guardians with the elves protecting the tree.

The world tree knew that these sacred beasts could make a prairie when they're about to become a legendary beast.

When the sacred beasts did become one, the energy they emitted would nourish the world tree, sustaining its lifespan!

The world tree's inheritance method was also like the phoenix and dragons, but there could only be one world tree in the whole world.

When the tree was already at a fixed age, they would spread sprouts and many young world trees would grow up.

These world trees would either grow inside the elves continent or were sent to other continents.

In the process to become the new adult world tree with a consciousness, the young world trees would need a lot of nourishment.

The Elven continent was undoubtedly the best place for them to grow safely, but to awaken their consciousness, they had to interact with legendary beasts, a lot of them.

But how could they move away when they hadn't awakened their consciousness?

They couldn't communicate and couldn't leave their fixed soil.

Thus, they could only wait for legendary beasts to visit their place, and maybe kindly give them some of their legendary energy...

But legendary beasts usually only visited the adult world tree, and the adult world tree wouldn't ask the legendary beasts to assist their children.

For the world tree, this kind of interaction should be fate, and not deliberate arrangement.

When one young world tree successfully became an adult world tree and awakened their consciousness...

The other world tree would assimilate with the winner, becoming one.

Since then, there wouldn't be a second adult world tree, the all-knowing, wise, and powerful world tree— the guardian of the elves.

When the elves knew about the world tree inheritance method knowledge...

The elves who were afraid of suddenly losing the world tree without seeing a new one immediately made a grand move—

They spread the young world tree all over the world.

There were only a hundred young world trees produced in the adult world tree's entire life, and so, the place to plant the young world tree was extremely important.

For Jake to get one of the hundred young world trees showed the elves' trust in him, and in the end, the tree fell into Ainsley's hands.

Eth looked at the young world tree that was so small it couldn't compare with the gigantic adult world tree.

He couldn't help but feel a bit emotional.

'Maybe ending up in this prairie is a kind of fate for the young world tree. Maybe this one will be the new adult world tree...'

If that's so, Eth would be one of the luckiest elves ever to witness the future adult world tree's juvenile form.

Eth took a deep breath and solemnly bowed to the tree not as tall as his knees before looking at Ainsley with a solemn face.

"I'll leave the world tree to you. And if you want, you can also give it a name. It will help to awaken consciousness in the future."

Every adult world tree had a specific name beside their title 'Yggdrasil' or 'World Tree'.

Whoever named the world tree that successfully became an adult world tree would always become the elves' VVIP guests.

Even their descendants would get preferential treatment from the elves.

After all, the adult world tree always had a deep bond with the one who named them in the first place.

One of Jake's predecessors was one of the lucky people, and that's also why the Billios Family could befriend the elves.

There were actually more than one person in the Billios Family who named a young world tree which later on became the new adult world tree.

That's how the Billios Family had a deeper bond with the elves compared to other families.

After all, there were many people in the Billios Family who named the adult world tree, and this made the elves wonder...

Maybe the Billios Family had a special innate ability...and it was in naming a world tree.

The chance of awakening a consciousness was much greater when the Billios Family's descendant named the young world tree.

This was why the elves always sent one young world to the Billios Family, although the adult world tree usually only produced seeds once every a hundred year.

The average lifespan of a world tree was only two hundred years, while the elves could live past five hundred years.

But the world tree that receives nourishment from the opening of a new prairie would gain another one hundred years of lifespan, greatly extending their life.

Unfortunately, the number of sacred beasts that could 'open' a prairie could be counted with fingers.

In a hundred year, maybe only one sacred beast could do that, or maybe there were none.

This was why– the number of legendary beasts currently alive didn't match the initial legendary beasts recorded in history.

I BECOME BABY MAFIA BOSS

Chapter 829 - 'Welcome To The World, Elpizo'

When the legendary beasts' spot was empty, there would be no one to replace the dead legendary beast until one of the heirs successfully became a legendary beast.

Most legendary beasts live past a thousand years, and could even live longer than that. Naturally, it was harder to become one.

In this era, the number of living legendary beasts had dwindled to the point of almost extinction.

Many sacred beasts with a chance to become a legendary beast still couldn't advance.

And when they exhausted their lifespan, they automatically passed down their bloodline to a new heir.

Then, the cycle started again from zero.

No wonder the phoenix mother disliked Blaze for being a mutant, because the chance to become a legendary beast was way lower for a mutant variant.

Especially when Blaze was a water phoenix who should be affiliated with blazing fire.

The mother phoenix, although a legendary phoenix, chose to abandon her child.

Yes, Blaze was actually a descendant of a legendary red fire phoenix!

But as for whether Blaze could become a legendary water phoenix or not...it depended on fate.

When Ainsley heard that she could name the world tree, the baby was bewildered for a moment before exclaiming softly.

"R-really? I can do that? Isn't that a special honor that not many can have? N-naming the young world tree..."

Ainsley subconsciously thought that it was better for Jake to name the world tree.

After all, she also just knew from Eth how the Billios Family became close to the elves.

If Jake was the one naming the young world tree, this world tree might be able to become an adult world tree with a consciousness.

But if it's her...

Ainsley hesitated, but Eth shook his head and encouraged Ainsley with his cold, unsmiling face.

"Don't mind it. Once the tree falls into your hands, it means its fate is tied to you and the Sloan Family. As for whether this fate is good or not..."

Eth shook his head once more.

"Even I can't predict it."

The elves aren't omnipotent, after all.

Ainsley was finally persuaded to name the world tree and she struggled to choose a few good names with good meanings.

In the end, she chose one name—

"Elpízo," Ainsley murmured softly.

Elpízo means hope in Greek.

Of course, Greek didn't exist in this world, and the name became a whole new language for Eth.

But Eth subconsciously liked this name.

"Elpízo....good name."

It started with the word E, just like his name.

Eth was subconsciously excited because of this. If the world tree became a new adult world tree in the future...just how happy would he be?

An adult world tree that he planted with his own two hands, and had the same initial as him...

How good!

Ainsley actually wanted to name the world tree starting with A, to match it with Axelle. But thinking about the meaning of Axelle's name itself...

One is peace, and the other is hope.

That's also a match.

And so, the young world tree's name was decided.

"Welcome to the world, Elpízo."

As if knowing that a certain baby with an adult soul just granted it a name, the young world tree shook its lush leaves and it silently glowed in a pale golden light.

Eth immediately explained the phenomenon to Ainsley.

"This phenomenon will happen whenever a young world tree receives a name. It will trigger a chance to awaken its consciousness."

And the meaning of the name received would also have a subtle impact on the world tree's magical attribute when it became an adult world tree with a consciousness.

The current world tree had a great healing effect on both spirits, souls, body, and so on. It's because of the name it received—

Jayr.

Ainsley didn't know a lot about Greek and only knew one or two words with subtle meanings, so she didn't know that this name also originated from Greek, from Earth.

And it means 'healer'.

"Jayr...good name. Let's hope Elpízo can also become like Jayr and become the hope of your race...and the entire world."

Ainsley smiled sweetly and Eth also showed a rare smile. He really appreciated Ainsley's little wish and soon, the duo left the prairie walking side-by-side.

When they went back to the tea party's venue, they passed through the mansion's corridor, and didn't notice someone peeping at them from behind a huge pillar.

The person's medium-length blue ears twitched as the owner's black eyes looked at the male elf's back with a burning gaze.

"Eth..." Axelle murmured the name of a noble elf he once knew and bit his lips.

He didn't expect Eth to come here and even seemed to get along with Ain?

A subtle hint of jealousy appeared in Axelle's heart.

He clutched the hem of his lab coat and silently watched the two short and tall living creatures slowly leaving the corridor.

Seeing Ainsley talking cheerfully with the male elf, a certain thought suddenly appeared in Axelle's mind.

Now that Ainsley had seen the real pure-blooded male elf...would she disdain his impure bloodline?

A mixed breed between the king of the demon race and the elf princess...

A disgrace to both races, born with blue skin and shorter pointed ears compared to other elves...

Unable to have elemental special abilities, had black eyes, navy hair and a shorter body...

Axelle clenched his fists tightly as he slowly went back to his lab, his 'home' and safe heaven.

'Maybe after this, the little master won't like me anymore. Eth is also an alchemist, anyway...and a royal alchemist on top of that...plus a combat alchemist...'

On this supposedly happy day, Axelle strangely fell into a gloomy mood, slowly triggering a hidden danger in his other bloodline.

Chapter 830 - 'Ainsleys Night Banquet Costume'

The tea party ended at six o'clock, and everyone went back to their house or hotels to prepare for the night banquet.

The same went for Ainsley. The baby immediately prepared her dress, make up and hairstyle.

Coincidentally, Jake asked her to be another brand ambassador of the same brand series, and Ainsley had no choice but to use the clothes Jake prepared.

However, Jake's chosen clothes were really good and comfortable to the skin.

This time, the design was a cute asymmetrical dress with a knee-length front skirt and long back skirt, scattered on the floor.

However, to ensure no one would accidentally step on the long skirt, there were small butterfly robots picking up the hem of the skirt, making the back skirt slightly suspended in the air.

Such a magical dress, who wouldn't love it? The sky blue color was in contrast with the dark night and the usually dark-themed night banquet...

But it made Ainsley stand out from the rest of the upcoming guests.

The dress had wide yet light sleeves, copying the ancient china dress style.

There were almost no decorations on the dress, only white pearls and small diamonds.

But the pearls and diamonds made such a good combination that Ainsley looked like the daughter of the sea or the sky kingdom's princess!

Not to mention that there were really small decorative white wings on the back, but it slumped to the waist, looking like an angel's wings that hadn't been unfolded yet.

The design was really creative. It combined the taste of the underwater theme and the sky kingdom theme.

Ainsley definitely liked the dress a lot, especially when she also got a pair of ankle-high boots made of crystals!

The boots complimented the western style clothes, not looking awkward at all.

The golden brocades on the wide sleeves also enhanced the dress' overall image, making it cute, fresh, yet also solemn and dignified.

For this type of dress, the hairstylist tied Ainsley's hair into a pretty updo and complemented the hairstyle with a cute little braid to hold the updo hairstyle.

Jake also sent a cute hairpin the shape of a shell made of pearls and crystal, definitely perfect for Ainsley's purple hair.

The combination of purple, sky blue dress and sapphire eyes was really hard to ignore, especially when Ainsley also wore hair extensions.

Her pure purple hair became ombre between purple and silver, and under the chandelier light, it looked like the hair of a mermaid princess.

Such a cute look...even the servants and others who helped Ainsley to transform were also swooned.

"Ahhhh, boss, you're so cute!"

"The dress is really good, but I'm surprised how it really matches your look..."

"Yes, yes! This new image is not that bad compared to the previous images."

"Yup. And the first half of the night banquet will be held at the yacht on the lake, right? This image is really suitable!"

The yacht the family prepared wasn't a modern one at all. It was a combination of ancient china design and the mysterious western design.

Overall, the boat itself was white with many ancient china patterns, and the shape was surprisingly a giant lotus.

But the interior design was full of western underwater style, such as pearls, corals, mermaids, and so on.

Not to mention the family also let out a lot of fairy-like robots to surround the boat, and even sent light-attribute flying-type beasts.

The lake and the yacht instantly became immortal-like, heavenly and beautiful.

It was really like a border between the sky kingdom, the underwater world, and the ancient land.

The three elements mixed up perfectly, forming this huge water venue.

Ainsley herself was shocked when she first saw the lotus-shaped yacht.

She thought that the yacht they're going to use was a modern yacht she saw at the tea party.

It turned out to be a bait to mislead people who came to the tea party...

The actual boat was custom-made and since the shape was weird, it could only be used at the lake and not to be taken out to the real sea.

Still, such a unique venue...who could resist its beauty?

There was still a glass bridge near the lake that connected to the lotus-shaped boat, but it was quite a long bridge.

Because of that, the guests would be able to enjoy the lake night view along with the huge lotus-shaped boat in front of them.

The lake wasn't dark at all, and many shiny things floated in the air or on the water surface.

The water plants were pretty, and flying robots or beasts were all marvelous.

When Ainsley was waiting at the main mansion, the guests had already started to arrive at the Sloan Family's front yard.

However, they were all directed to the lake, and the moment they saw this dream-like lake, all of them couldn't help but gasp.

"So beautiful! The first half of the party would be on the lake? So creative!"

The women and girls screamed in excitement while the men and the boys quietly praised whoever designed the party venue.

Well, let's give the point to Zev, who designed the whole venue!

Yes, it was Zev who designed the whole thing and then let the Godfather relay the words to Martin.

The three of them struggled to create the correct blueprint that Zev wanted for a few weeks and the venue preparation took an entire month.

It was even harder because they had to hide it from Ainsley.

The guests came one by one, and they soon filled up the three-story lotus-shaped yacht.

The moment the guests entered the yacht, most of them gasped in surprise.

The interior was like an underwater kingdom yet the transparent windows allowed them to see the outstanding night view outside.

So pretty!
