

BABY MAFIA 911

Chapter 911: "A Green Tea B*tch"

Leroy took a deep breath and spoke with a voice full of grievances.

"But you should have thought of why the people at the family wanted to kick me from my former position."

Ainsley knew that Leroy was shifting the conversation on purpose, but Ainsley didn't mind it.

Today would be the day she cut her relationship with Leroy, and so, she would accompany the young man with his acting.

Let's see what he wanted to say, and let's counter it all.

"Oh? Why do the people in my family want to stop you from becoming their boss? Is it because you're too incompetent, or..."

Ainsley didn't forget to mock Leroy but her tone of voice was really innocent as if she was just curious.

The smell of tea is thick here! What a green tea b*tch!

And Ainsley was proud of her tea art. Becoming a green tea b*tch was essential if she wanted to stay as a mafia boss when she's so young!

Leroy's face darkened at Ainsley's words, but he really couldn't say anything to rebuke the baby or anything...

After all, her tone of voice was innocent and full of curiosity.

Her eyes were also sincere and didn't look as if she had just scolded someone and called him incompetent...

Leroy could only swallow this grievance and continued to look like a pitiful white lotus.

"You should know that once I'm not the boss anymore, they can kick me out of the family. After all, their way of kicking me out is by framing me for treason."

The treason thing was, of course, the kidnapping case.

"Then, after I'm kicked out of the family because of this 'treason', I can't come back and grab my position anymore. Naturally, you will replace me."

"Hum. Then?"

"Well. I don't mind my daughter replacing my position because you're still my daughter in the end. But...you are too young."

Leroy tapped the podium and his back hunched a bit, looking miserable and pitiful.

"Because you're young, you will need a guardian. These people all fought to be your guardian, right?"

"Yeah, it's true," Ainsley admitted generously, and Leroy became even more enthusiastic.

"And because you're young, they thought they could manipulate you and become the shadow boss!"

"True. But unfortunately, I'm not as weak, innocent or dumb as they think." Ainsley giggled and her words actually stabbed Leroy's heart too.

After all, he did think that his daughter was useless and had a gloomy personality. It would be easy to manipulate her.

That's why he left her and didn't bring her when he reunited with his family.

After all, if he left such a kid at the mafia family, the new guardian would be the true mafia boss, but in the end, if he wanted to be Ainsley's guardian, no one could object.

He couldn't be the mafia boss anymore because he had betrayed the family by leaving, but he could still become the baby's guardian and be the shadow boss.

Leroy left the mafia family for his lover and the twins, but he's also ambitious and still wants to step back into the mafia society.

Ainsley is the key to his return to the mafia family.

If everything went smoothly, Leroy could still be the Sloan Family's true mafia boss despite only being a guardian, and he could also live with his family openly.

As for Ain? Well, he wouldn't mistreat her because she's the puppet family head.

But once she wanted to rule the family on her own, he would stop her at all costs.

A pity...Ainsley didn't become a puppet family head and she even subdued the family members, uniting the whole members to support her.

Even the 7 elders and other stubborn higher-ups were all persuaded to stand by Ainsley's side.

Even up to now, they still unconditionally believed in Ainsley.

To be a member with a high position, these people can't be idiots.

They have witnessed how Ainsley dealt with those who opposed her in the family.

They had also seen how Ainsley single-handedly brought the family to a higher level.

They even had their own guild now!

It would be stupid if they abandoned this kind of leader just because she's young. Precisely because she's young, her potential was limitless.

Maybe the Sloan Family could be as strong as the Billios Family, stronger than the Walter and the Aretha Family, who were only influential inside the Godlif country.

Their goal might be higher than before...they might go international and might even reach the non-human continents!

Everyone was charmed by Ainsley, not because of her charm ability but because of her quality as a mafia boss.

Leroy's initial plan failed just like that and now, the man struggled to bring the plan back to the right track.

"You should know that these people kick me out of the family just to take control of the family using you! And that's why I propose to be your guardian."

Leroy finally mentioned his true desire but it really sounded logical.

Even if Leroy's reason for leaving the family was still not clear up to now, and even if the audience didn't like Leroy that much, becoming Ainsley's guardian wasn't that strange.

First of all, he is still the baby's original father.

Secondly, after Ainsley became such a good mafia boss, even a guardian couldn't stop her if she wanted to do something.

The guardian did have full authority over Ainsley's life decisions or regarding the family, but if Ainsley wanted to, she could make the guardian useless.

The people in her family listened to her, not to her guardian. Even her current guardian, Elliana, also listened to her.

Leroy can't mess around so easily!

Chapter 912: "Cutting Off Relationship"

Now...if Leroy used his guardian authority as he wished, he might be blocked here and there because his authority was just an empty authority.

Since Leroy wanted to be Ainsley's guardian because he's her biological father, why not?

Leroy was really cunning, and he used a tactic to make the audience feel that his current wish wasn't that bad compared to wanting to go back to the family as an official member.

Or wanting to join the guild and get a high position there.

This kind of request...to be a guardian with an empty authority....this is way too selfless, right?

Ainsley faintly realized that Leroy had been persuading the audience slowly, and he succeeded.

But Ainsley didn't want Leroy to be her guardian.

"Well, there are no rules that a traitor can't be the family head's guardian if the guardian is the family head's blood relative, especially a biological father."

Ainsley patted the small podium, but her eyes were cold, not as cheerful as her movement.

"But...there are also no rules saying that the guardian had to be the biological parent?"

"There isn't. But in terms of law and anything else, biological parents always have a higher privilege than non-blood related people, " Leroy replied calmly.

"I know that you still can't accept me and think that I abandoned you and the family."

"But I really want to be your guardian. This might be a chance to redeem myself and repair our relationship."

Leroy smiled bitterly, just like a father who was wronged by his children.

"You also know that with your current strength, a guardian can't influence you at all. It's just a vacant position."

"Then why do you want this kind of empty position?"

Ainsley raised an eyebrow as if not believing that Leroy could be so selfless.

"Well. If I become your guardian, I can repair our father-daughter relationship, and I can also protect you if someone in the family wronged you..."

Leroy paused before continuing. His voice became even softer than before, and there was a gentle smile on his face.

That's a fatherly smile.

"I also want you to get close to my current family. I don't think you should be excluded."

"After all, Ren is my lover and the twins are my children. You're also my own blood and flesh..."

Leroy's voice was as sweet as honey as he described the picture of a perfect family of five.

"Ren can be your other parent, and the twins can be your older brother and older sister. In the future, you won't be alone anymore."

Ainsley was so speechless at Leroy's words that she wanted to puke, but Leroy didn't stop speaking.

"Ain, I only want to give you a warm family."

"I know that you consider the Sloan Family as your family, but it's not a close family at all...it is a big organization."

It can't be called a real family at all.

Ainsley was slightly offended when she heard this statement.

The Sloan Family might be a mafia family, an organization and not an actual warm family.

But after she changed the family structure, the people in the Sloan Family slowly became her family members.

She had a bunch of grandpa and grandma, which were the 7 elders and the supreme elder, Grandpa Yofan.

She also had a bunch of uncles and aunties which were the 9 generals.

She had a bunch of cool older brothers and sisters...which were the 5 buds and Elliana.

She didn't have a parent, but the Godfather could be her father, right? And Zev could be her mom.

Her life in this cold mafia family was actually full of warmth because she kicked out all the disloyal people and retained all the loyal people.

She had so many people who loved her unconditionally...why would she need Leroy's family?

Ainsley let out a long sigh and didn't want to debate about family matters anymore.

She quickly shifted the conversation back to the issue of being her guardian.

"Okay, let's say that a biological father has more privileges than other people to be my guardian."

"Yes."

"Good. Then, what if I cut off my relationship with you? From now on, you won't be my father. How is it?"

Ainsley's words instantly caused an uproar among the on-site audience and the live broadcast audience.

Cutting off a relationship with one's biological father was still something uncommon in this world.

After all, filial piety was still super important, and it's strange for a child to declare that she didn't want this father!

The live broadcast audience instantly sent out a barrage of comments.

[I know that Ain is wronged. But cutting off relationships...this is a bit too much, isn't it? It's not as if Leroy harmed Ain before...]

[And Leroy also said that he would make up for his mistake by becoming Ainsley's guardian. He's already trying to mend their relationship.]

[Don't blame Ain. In the end, she's still a child, and maybe after not being close to her father for four years...she can't accept Leroy as her father.]

[Yes, yes. Or maybe a lot of people around her provoke her to stay away from Leroy? It can be, right?]

[Maybe they persuade Ain or brainwash her to hate her own father...]

[It's not as if Leroy abused Ainsley, so why is Ain so disgusted with Leroy?]

[Either the child has been brainwashed or the father is the problem.]

[Maybe both. Hahahah.]

[But, really. If Leroy becomes Ain's guardian, they can be a full family once more, and it doesn't mean Leroy will go back to being a mafia too...]

[Yeah. If Ain doesn't like her new family living with her in the same mansion, Leroy and his lover plus the twins can live somewhere else.]

The public opinion had changed so quickly!

Chapter 913: "Adopting A Daddy"

[Yezzz. The most important thing is the connection. If Leroy becomes Ain's guardian, he can get close to her without getting blocked by the Sloan Family.]

[It's quite sad for a father to go to such a length just to meet his daughter...]

However, there were also a lot of voices siding with Ainsley.

All of them were people with broken homes and had some experiences in this field.

[But hey. If Leroy wanted to find Ain sooner, why didn't he do that months ago? Is he busy with his family and then forget Ain just like that?]

[True. 'Coincidentally', he finds Ain only after the Sloan Family becomes a high-ranking mafia family. What a coincidence!]

[Hey, don't say that! Leroy said he was afraid of the Sloan Family hurting his lover and the twins, so he left the mafia society and became a celebrity instead...]

[Yes, yes. He also said that Ren had some problem in the mercenary society, and that's why he couldn't find Ain sooner.]

[Meh. He can't even visit the mansion even once? Or maybe waited outside just to take a look at his beloved youngest daughter?]

[If it was me, even if I can't meet my child, if I really love them, I would do anything to see them. Even if I can only see them from afar.]

[Maybe Leroy also did that, but no one knows.]

[But he didn't even visit Ain after the Aretha War. It can't be that he doesn't know? The news was so popular in the mafia society.]

Quite a lot of mafia and ability users joined the comment section.

That's how a lot of people who were familiar with the Sloan Family's affairs came to debate.

[Even if Leroy can't come, he should have sent help to Ain or something. Or send her a letter or flowers or anything.]

[Yeah. From what I know from the Sloan Family's old mafia members, Leroy never did that.]

[Maybe he did but he disguised himself or sent anonymous help?]

[Nah. There's no anonymous help or foreign people visiting Ain aside from people who know her quite well.]

[Look. Even the big guilds' guild leaders come to visit Ain. The Walter Family head and the Billios Family head even gave so much help...]

[I think Jake Billios, the current Billios Family head, is more attentive to Ain than Leroy.]

[Yeah. I heard that Ain is also very close to Jake and when Ain is in her Godtoddler disguise, the two look like a real father and daughter!]

[Leroy also has a similar appearance with Ain but the chemistry is zero. On the other hand, Jake and Ain's chemistry is very good.]

[Yes, yes. Now how can these people say that Leroy is trying to be good to Ain? He's still trying while others already give everything to Ain!]

The topic slowly turned to Jake without any warning.

However, if people were more attentive, they would realize that the people talking about Jake were all hired to guide the comment rhythm.

Yes, Jake hired a water army to guide the topic to him!

Right now, Ainsley still didn't know about this, but she had already contacted Jake before, and once her phone inside her pocket vibrated, that's the signal.

Ainsley's phone did vibrate five times, and Ainsley quietly turned off the phone before looking at Leroy with a solemn face.

"I want to cut off our relationship, " Ainsley repeated, and Leroy's face instantly darkened.

What is this baby saying? Cutting off the relationship?

It is embarrassing for the father, but the daughter will also be embarrassed in the future.

"Are you sure? Once you cut off your relationship with me, people will say that you're not filial. And..."

Leroy quietly looked at Ainsley and snorted lightly.

"You won't have any father. Is this what you want?"

He knew that kids were generally fond of their parents.

Even if the parents were a bit bad, as long as the parents coaxed the kid, the kid would forgive the parents.

Ainsley was still young. Even if she's a genius, she is also a human being. How could it be that she doesn't feel anything about family relationships?

Those people at the Sloan Family can give her family warmth, but they can't give her a father's love...

Leroy was confident that no kids would be so ruthless.

Maybe Ainsley said this because she hadn't felt a father's love, but once she did, she might cling to it and never let go.

Alas...Ainsley didn't have a good relationship with her father in her original world either. She had long been numb to fatherly love b*llsh*t.

Now that Leroy used this b*llsh*t as a last resort...so pathetic.

"Who said that I won't have a father anymore after I cut off my relationship with you?"

Ainsley laughed quietly, but her words made Leroy stiffen.

"What do you mean? Don't tell me there's anyone who wants to adopt a mafia boss?"

Leroy didn't look down on Ainsley,, but he doubted any single parent or a parent with no kids would want a mafia boss of a huge mafia family...

Not only would their life be in danger, but they would also have such a 'monster' as their adopted kid!

Ainsley laughed softly at Leroy. Her eyes were full of ridicule as she shrugged.

"Can't I adopt a father myself? Who said that I have to be adopted? Well, you're really narrow-minded."

Leroy was finally stunned for the second time.

He recalled what Ainsley said just now and felt that it was ridiculous!

"Adopting a father?? Is that even possible— "

It's impossible, okay? How ridiculous it is for a kid to adopt a father and not the other way around!

Chapter 914: "Introduce You To My Adoptive Dad"

Unfortunately, this time, the two hosts who had been silent all this time suddenly held their hammers and slammed the table.

"Helping little Ain to answer your question." John cleared his throat and looked at Leroy with a serious face.

"It's indeed possible to adopt a father instead of being adopted if the kid is proven to be mature and independent."

Ainsley is mature.

She's also independent because she could make money on her own, she could do many things by herself or rely on her subordinates...

She's qualified to adopt a daddy!

At this time, Ainsley nodded at the judges and smiled sweetly at Leroy.

"You hear that, right? Then, let me introduce you to my new dad."

She immediately lifted her hand and snapped her fingers.

At Ainsley's signal, a tall and majestic figure in a burgundy suit suddenly walked from backstage.

The staff didn't know that the man was waiting backstage, and even the hosts didn't hear that Ainsley would invite another person.

The camera instantly captured the man's movement, and in just a few seconds, the whole studio was boiling.

"This...is this really what I think it is??"

"Impossible. How could it be? Maybe it's just an impostor..."

"But he has a family crest on his chest! If someone is not related to the family, but they wear the crest, it is a crime, and the family will hunt them down."

The on-site and live broadcast audiences were in a frenzy. The staff were dumbfounded.

Even if they're not ability users, they also knew the man who had just entered the studio.

After all, the man was also popular among the ordinary people as a rich, international-level businessman.

However, who would have thought that the person Ainsley invited would be this man...

When Leroy saw the man approaching Ainsley and even casually sat on the sofa at the baby's podium, he was shocked to death.

"Y-you...you..."

Leroy's face was pale. It was as if his soul escaped from his body and he's eager to reincarnate, leaving this world behind.

Leroy was in disbelief. Even if he was beaten to death, he would never think that the 'father' Ainsley adopted was actually this man...

That familiar fluffy ebony black hair, that pair of crimson eyes, staring mischievously at you. It's as if he's a devil himself.

There's a smile on his face, but the smile never reached his eyes.

However, his peach-blossom eyes always made his smile look enchanting.

Obviously, this man was not a charm ability user, but he's more charming than male charm ability users.

Usually, the guy would wear a golden bunny mask and had this mysterious yet mischievous vibe.

But now, he didn't wear any bunny mask and freely revealed his handsome and seductive face.

If one could describe the man, he's as mysterious as fog, as mischievous as a fairy but as seductive as a fox.

The whole man seemed to be sitting on the sofa lazily, wagging his invisible fox tail while his devil horns quietly sat on his head.

But his seemingly casual posture was full of a mysterious aura and a lot of arrogance. The pressure was real, especially for Leroy.

This was the first time he met the legendary Godlif's biggest casino owner, but Leroy almost kneeled in just a few seconds.

The pressure is too strong! This man isn't only handsome, but his temperament is also a notch better than him.

Not to mention his confidence and his strength...

Many people had heard that this man owned a mysterious yet super powerful ability related to money.

Compared to a nobody like Leroy, this man is far better than him.

And the moment the man sat down while crossing his legs, Ainsley looked back and smiled brightly while running toward the young man.

"Jake! You're here!"

The way the baby called the young man was so familiar. It was even more familiar than when she called Leroy.

No, she never called his name and only addressed him as 'you'.

Jake, the one who had just arrived and shocked the whole studio, immediately spread his arms and hugged Ainsley.

His movement was so smooth that people could see he's already used to welcoming Ainsley to his embrace.

"Hey, hey, little Godtoddler. Long time no see~ " Jake laughed heartily, and his voice was really low yet magnetic.

It's like the sound of the waves crashing the shore, peaceful but deep and mysterious.

"You didn't see me for so long, and then you suddenly 'kidnap' me to this show, huh~ "

Jake helped Ainsley to sit on his lap while he pinched Ainsley's cheek, teasing the little baby.

Since he came here, of course, Ainsley had told him what happened, and the two had planned this a few weeks before the talk show started.

Not to mention that the adoption procedure had been completed, and they only needed Leroy's signature, admitting that he cut off all relationships with Ainsley.

Ainsley grinned at Jake's words and playfully pinched his cheek too.

"You like to be kidnapped, anyway, right? As long as you can play, it's all good!"

With Jake's personality, how could he be reluctant to visit the studio? In fact, he had been waiting for this day!

Jake laughed and just nodded helplessly.

However, after that, Ainsley didn't immediately talk to Jake again but signaled Jevon to take a paper bag she had prepared to the stage.

Jevon immediately took the paper bag from backstage and brought it to the front stage.

After handing it to Ainsley, Jevon immediately left.

Under everyone's gaze, Ainsley calmly took out a black wig with the same hairstyle as her current hairstyle and suddenly put on the wig!

What is she doing?

Chapter 915: "Daddy Showdown"

Even more unbelievable was that...the baby took out crimson contact lenses, and she could put on the contact lenses without using a mirror at all...

After all, Ainsley had Zev bringing a mirror for her, but no one could see him or the mirror.

In just a few minutes, Ainsley transformed herself from looking similar to Leroy to looking like Jake's daughter.

After everything was done, the baby looked at the camera and smiled sweetly, but her smile slowly looked similar to how Jake smiled before.

"Hello, hello~ Let me introduce my new dad to you. It is Jake Billios!" Ainsley tugged on Jake's sleeve.

Only then did the young man reluctantly wave at the camera.

"Hello, I am Ain's new adopted dad. Nice to meet you."

Everything happened so fast that the hosts couldn't react in time. Even Leroy was also dumbfounded to the point of doubting his life.

What is this? Weren't they debating about whether he left the family voluntarily or got kidnapped before?

How did it suddenly change to talking about cutting off relationships, adopting a new father...and then the new adopted father suddenly came to the studio?

It is so...absurd!

Leroy wasn't the only one who was dumbfounded.

Even the on-site audience and the live broadcast audience felt that this 'melon' was too big to be eaten.

Ainsley suddenly announced that she had already adopted a father, and her adopted father turned out to be the famous Jake Billios?

Is this a joke? Maybe the baby and the young man are joking around or something?

But when they looked at Ainsley's black hair and crimson eyes, they suddenly felt speechless.

How come Ain really did look like Jake...even if the similarity only depended on the hair and eye color, it was still 7 points similar.

Ainsley was previously 9 points similar to Leroy, but now she suddenly didn't look too similar with Leroy anymore.

Just changing your hair color and your eye color will bring such an impact?!

Or maybe it was just the chemistry between Jake and Ainsley that made them look similar despite not being similar in terms of appearance at all?

It can be.

Just watching the two interacting with each other for a few minutes already gave off a harmonious father-daughter pair compared to Leroy.

If someone didn't know the whole truth, they would think that Jake is the real father instead....

For a moment, the live broadcast's comment section froze.

Even the live broadcast itself crashed, and it wasted a few minutes for the live broadcast to be normal again.

Countless comments and discussions instantly flooded the live broadcast screen.

[Fck. Fck. Fck! Is this for real?]

[I thought such a thing would only happen in a drama or something. Who would have known that this can also happen in reality!]

[Ain is hiding too deep. She actually knows the billionaire Jake and even adopts him as her new father...]

[I approve of this adoption. Leroy is really inferior to Jake in all aspects!]

[Agree. Even the father-daughter chemistry between Jake and Ain is better than Leroy and Ainsley.]

[I didn't expect the legendary rich man would actually come to the studio, though...this is the first time I've seen him without his bunny mask!]

After all, Jake was usually mysterious to ordinary people, and even a lot of people hadn't seen his face for their whole life.

Not a lot of people knew who owned the Billios Casino, but they all guessed that it should belong to Jake, the head of the Billios Family.

It's a pity that the man always wore his bunny mask. Too mysterious.

People thought that the man must be too ugly and that's why he hid his face.

But when the audience saw Jake's real face just now, they all couldn't say that he was ugly.

If such a handsome man is ugly, everyone is ugly too!

[Wow, wow. Mr Billios is really young and handsome. After this, there must be a trending topic about his face...]

[Countless women and men will flock to lick the screen just to appreciate the beauty!]

[He's also rich, and his family background is incredible. Not to mention he's also a dual ability user with a strong power...]

[How come I'm suddenly tempted to be Ain's stepmom?!]

[Upstairs, stop dreaming!]

[Hey, hey. Will Ain find an adopted mother next, or will she find someone to marry Jake to be her stepmom?]

[I think neither. What if the stepmom bullied Ain?]

[Ugh. Are you kidding me? Ain is so strong. I think it might be the opposite. We should worry that Ain will bully her stepmom!]

[Hey, hey, why are you guys so old-fashioned? It doesn't need to be a stepmom. What about stepdad?]

[You mean...Jake with a man?]

[Yeah, why not? He looks like a switch. He can be an excellent top but can also be a precious bottom.]

[Oh, my, CP fans here! Let's start finding partners for this young master!]

[Ah, unfortunately, Jake has almost zero scandal so far despite looking mischievous and unruly...]

[How did you know? Did you check his information in just a few minutes?]

[Yeah. I am an ability user with internet information gathering ability. It's easy to find information on the internet in just a few minutes or even seconds.]

[Wow, bro, you're so OP!]

[Nah. I'm a woman. Call me sistah.]

[Okay, sistah!]

[Hush, hush, let's go back to the topic.]

[Okay, okay, what's the topic again?]

[Jake as Ain's adopted father. That's the topic. Don't thank me.]

However, among the various comments, one comment seemed to stand out from the others.

[Look, look, what do you think will happen next? Will there be a showdown between the biological father and the adopted father?]

A showdown!

Chapter 916: "Jake The Great Actor"

[I think there will be a showdown. But once Leroy signed the agreement to cut all relationships with Ain, Jake will automatically win...]

[Ah. I don't know how we go from trying to prove Leroy's statement to a showdown between two dads...]

[C'mon. We don't need to prove Leroy's previous statement anymore. Ain's arguments had already refuted all his statements.]

[In other words, Leroy really did abandon Ain and run away alone?]

[Exactly!]

This time, even the Starfield couldn't do much to help Leroy because a lot of Starfield was still smart and had brains.

After watching the debate, they knew that since Leroy couldn't prove his kidnapping incident, there was a 99% chance that he really did leave the family on his own...

Now that Jake's fans, the passersby, Ain's fans, the Irregular Tamer guild members, and the Sloan Family members join hands to control the live broadcast comment section...

Almost no one would stand up for Leroy.

Even the previous comments about how cruel Ainsley was just because she wanted to cut off relationship with Leroy disappeared just like that.

Everyone moved to another discussion, and this time, they're discussing the two dads.

Unfortunately, Leroy still didn't know about this because those at the studio were all neutral audiences and didn't show any favoritism at all.

Just like what the live broadcast audience had predicted before after Leroy came back to his senses, he immediately pointed his trembling finger at Jake.

He's about to start a bitter showdown.

"Y-you! How could you be so shameless as to steal my daughter from me?"

Leroy put his hand on his chest and he breathed heavily as if he was about to faint.

His voice started to tremble as he accused Jake.

"J-just because you're richer, more influential and stronger, it doesn't mean you can be so cruel!"

Well, Leroy couldn't arouse anyone's sympathy anymore, but his move was really a wise choice.

By blaming Jake for coaxing his daughter and taking her away, Jake became the villain, and Leroy became the victim.

If this were the usual, others would be speechless, or they would be ruthless enough to tear Leroy's acting face but would still fail in the end.

After all, Ainsley inherited her superb acting skill from Leroy...

But Leroy's opponent was Jake.

As someone who had seen all sorts of people throughout his life, how could this kind of trick trap him?

If others could be a green tea b*tch and pretended to be the victim, he could also do the same.

Jake immediately changed his face, and he showed a face full of sorrow as if someone had just murdered his family.

"This...I didn't even know Ain had a father before...I thought she was abandoned and had to lead a mafia family all on her own."

Jake let out a weak sigh, but his image was still the same. Mysterious yet mischievous.

He didn't let Leroy cut his speech and immediately continued his drama play.

"I agreed to be Ain's adoptive father simply because she hasn't had a father figure by her side ever since she's a kid. And..."

"Ain also said that her biological father doesn't want her. He chooses her siblings from another partner than herself."

"That's why Lil Ain said she wanted to have a father...which is me. I've never thought that the father she mentioned would be you..."

Jake's voice was full of surprise but also a hint of grievance as if accusing Leroy of abandoning the cute daughter and making her suffer.

Leroy was dumbfounded. Such an acting skill was too great, okay?

He thought that a man like Jake wouldn't bother to debate with him and would use his influence to force him

Then, using public sympathy, he could sue Jake for stealing his daughter and naturally, Jake couldn't be Ain's adoptive father anymore.

Who would have known that with just a few sentences, Jake slandered him as a scum father!

Leroy was shaking in anger as his fair face flushed red.

He had never thought that a tall figure like Jake would be so cheap and acted as a green tea b*tch too...

Hateful!

Seeing Leroy so stunned that he almost lost his soul, Jake put on a sad smile as he looked at Leroy.

"I am indeed better than you in all aspects, and I believe I can be a good father to Ain."

"But since the biological father like you suddenly came back to repent..." Jake let out a long, frustrated sigh.

"What can I do? I'm not Ain's biological father, and even if I use my influence or money to pressure you...it seems unethical.

"I can't do that. It will also make Ain sad."

With this, Jake washed himself clean from future accusations of him abusing his authority to steal someone else's daughter.

After all these years, Jake often donated to charity and orphanages.

He also helped many poor people get a new job or allowed them to earn money without donating money blindly.

This way, the people he helped didn't need to rely on other people's donations.

Of course, for the orphanage and such, Jake donated money instead of teaching the kids to earn money. However, he did send a teacher to teach the orphans and prepare them to be good seedlings in the future.

Just because they're orphans doesn't mean they can't achieve great things!

Because of this, Jake's image in ordinary people's eyes was so good. People believed that he had never abused his power even though he could.

After all, even the government had to be polite to the Billios Family if they still wanted the non-human races to do business with them through Jake.

They can't offend Jake at all!

Chapter 917: "Using Your Enemy"

Thus, when Jake played the role of a helpless but doting father who really wanted to adopt a cute daughter....

The audience immediately supported Jake instead of Leroy.

[Ah, ah. Jake is really nice. His image has always been mysterious and mischievous, like a fairy. But I didn't expect him to be so down-to-earth.]

[Hey, you don't know that Jake donated a lot of money each year?]

[Yes, yes. He helped almost all people in the slums, and he transformed slum cities into tourism cities!]

[Jake is even more helpful than the government, really. Everyone just loves this super-rich but kind-hearted and humble man.]

Even when Jake's image had always been lofty and mysterious, many people still believed that he was kind because of the donations he made.

Jake had never announced what kind of donation he did or the sum, but there would always be institutions insisting on thanking Jake through the internet.

Because of this, Jake even had a forum thread dedicated to him.

The thread was a place for people who Jake had helped before to express their thanks to the young man and share their experiences with others.

Therefore, Jake had always been a good man in other people's eyes whereas Leroy's reputation had only been built for a few months.

And it's only based on his cute and warm family of four.

Compared to Jake...Leroy's reputation wasn't worth mentioning.

After Jake played as a white lotus and a green tea b*tch, he looked at Leroy with a smile in his crimson eyes, but his face was still as miserable as before.

"I am really sincere about Ain because I don't think I'll get married anytime soon."

"I really won't let Ain suffer, and if I marry someone one day, if I have a child on my own, I'm willing to let Ain terminate the adoption contract."

In this way, Ain can be free anytime and anywhere, but Jake would always follow Ain as her appointed dad.

"Leroy, I'm not blaming you or anything. But you also know being Ain's guardian might not be the best choice for the both of you..."

Jake started to list the disadvantages of Ainsley after Leroy became her guardian.

"As for cutting off relationships...this might sound cruel, but it's also for your own good."

Jake shook his head as he stroked Ainsley's fluffy hair—although it was a wig.

"I think if you continue to be Ain's father, sooner or later, Ain's enemy will find you and threaten you along with your whole family."

"Ain will soar even further in the future, and her enemies will be more dangerous than before. The enemy will surely try to find Ain's weakness..."

Jake didn't continue his words, but it's clear what he meant.

It means that Leroy is so weak that he will become Ain's weakness.

Of course, it's not because Ain regarded Leroy as her father.

"Besides, the two of you don't have too many emotional links. Ain is still young and will forget people who rarely contact her..."

Such as you, Leroy.

Jake was speaking neither slowly nor hurriedly. His voice was so charming and soothing that those who heard his speech were almost enchanted.

Really. No wonder Jake can befriend Yeon, that sultry fox from the beastmen continent.

Maybe because Jake himself is a reincarnation of a fox!

He's so charming and enchanting that the audience slowly believes in his speech and logic.

Oh, well, what Jake said was really logical, and for a moment, it was hard for Leroy to refute anything.

Even worse, Jake started to bring another emotional card to the table.

"Look. If you care about Ain and don't want her to be threatened by her enemy, you should just sign the cutting off relationship agreement..."

"It's not as if you can't visit Ain anytime after you sign this contract."

"This contract will only be used to fool the enemy into thinking that the two of you have bad relationships."

"It means it's not worth it to kidnap you to threaten Ain."

Every single sentence seemed to stab Leroy's weak points accurately. If Leroy refused Jake's suggestion, wouldn't he be selfish?

He might also drag his innocent family at home into a dangerous situation...

But if he signed the contract, he would be free from such dangers, but he could still visit Ain from time to time.

It's just a matter of time before Ain accepts him into the guild, okay?

In fact, while Ain and other Sloan Family members didn't want Leroy to join the guild, Jake actually proposed the opposite idea.

Ainsley seemed to recall what Jake said at that moment through the phone call.

"Look. Once Leroy joins your guild, he will be bound with the soul oath, and for such a greedy man, he won't be able to afford the price of betraying the soul oath."

"With the soul oath as a guarantee, you can make Leroy work for your guild, which means also working for you."

"Then, you can give him rewards to keep him motivated...."

"You can also give him a high position in the guild but with zero actual power."

"Repeat the cycle, and you will get a loyal dog working hard for your guild!"

"Listen, Ain. You don't need to repel your enemy like this. You should employ them instead and make them work hard to build your own empire."

Isn't that much better than blacklisting someone?

Jake really has a good business sense, and he is also a black belly man!

Ainsley was already persuaded to let Leroy join the guild, but she would put him under a tight monitoring and would urge him to work for the guild.

Well, she could also pressure Leroy by sending some members to bully him...

Exciting!

Chapter 918: "Final Blow"

Back to Leroy.

The young man weighed the pros and cons of signing this relationship termination contract.

In the end, Leroy believed that it was indeed better for him to sign the agreement and back off.

Now that Ainsley wanted Jake instead of him...why should he force the baby?

After Jake explained that his existence as Ainsley's biological father could bring danger to both Ain and his family...Leroy also thought things twice.

At the end of the day, it was better to be low-key and receive the Billios Family protection while handing over the guardianship to Jake.

Jake did say he would protect Leroy so that no one would use Leroy to threaten Ain.

Well, in fact...Ain wouldn't be threatened using Leroy at all.

It was more effective to use Elliana to endanger the baby than using Leroy.

But Leroy still thought he was somewhat important for Ainsley, and his existence might endanger Ain.

Thus, he reluctantly smiled at Jake and sighed.

"I understand. I'm not strong at all, and I'm already a part of the entertainment industry. I'm not someone from the mafia society anymore."

"I...can't protect Ain, and if I insist on becoming her guardian, I might endanger Ain. I...can't even say that I'm Ain's biological father now."

Leroy acted as if he was really reluctant to let go of Ain.

As if he was a poor father who was forced to leave his own daughter because he didn't want to bring danger to his daughter.

However, if others were smart, they would instantly realize something was wrong here.

Even if Leroy was weak, if Ainsley really wanted to protect Leroy, how could she not be able to do that?

It's just that Ain didn't want to protect Leroy or Leroy's family at all.

She also didn't want to bring trouble to the twins and then became a scapegoat when something happened to the twins.

Thus, she told Jake about this, and Jake naturally used it to persuade Leroy to give up on Ainsley's custody.

Everything seemed to be going the peaceful route that even the audience was dumbfounded.

That's the showdown? That's it?

Watching Leroy tearfully sign the agreement paper, the audience suddenly felt that all the excitement before was for nothing.

If Ain wants Leroy to give up on her custody, why should she bring the man to this show??

This show only provided a place for guests to fight each other verbally! It's not a place to have a peaceful discussion!

The show was intense at first, but it suddenly changed like this...

The audience was disappointed, but just a minute after Leroy signed the agreement, Ainsley smiled like a wicked witch.

"Now that you're not my father anymore, I can finally reveal all your good deeds in the past towards me."

Ainsley signaled Jevon to put another batch of evidence and projected it to the big screen behind them.

In an instant, various evidence related to how Leroy treated Ainsley in the past four years was revealed.

[Loyal maids in the mansion]:

"The previous family head had always neglected the young lady...her meal was bad, and even her room was so small."

Ainsley showed an interview video with the people who once cared for her in the past.

She even showed the evidence that these people were really her babysitter in the past.

"The previous family head has rarely visited the young lady."

"Some bad maids also bullied the young lady, and the previous family head never cared..."

"Young lady was so malnourished before. Here's the doctor's diagnosis report in the past three years."

The diagnosis report showed how pitiful Ainsley was.

In the past three years before Ainsworth crossed to be Ainsley, the real Ainsley lived a life worse than the other children in the family.

It was as if she was just a living doll.

"Here's the young lady's bedroom. You can see the room...it is so small for the heir of a mafia family."

The person in the video had a blurry face for safety, but she still showed Ainsley's past bedroom that had never been changed even up to now.

The bedroom was really small for a prestigious heir. Not to mention that the bed was still a baby crib.

For a three-year-old toddler, such a baby crib was worse than normal beds.

The person in the video was one of Ainsley's maids before, and it was actually the kind lady who cared for Ainsley the most.

After the maid disappeared, Ainsley asked some people to find her, and in the end, they found her.

Then, Ainsley asked her to record this video while also re-employing her as the head maid of the Sloan Family.

In the past, the maid ran away from the mansion because she couldn't stay any longer.

She knew that the family was in bad shape, and she also couldn't watch Ainsley suffer from her own eyes.

Thus, after arranging things for Ain, she left the mansion and was only found recently.

The maid, who now became the Sloan Family's head maid because she was the only kind maid among the old maids who had been fired, revealed all sorts of things that Leroy did to Ain.

"The previous family head never abused the young lady, but he acted as if she never existed."

"Because of this, the young lady suffered from various bullying from both adults and kids."

The mafia family was never a safe and warm place.

Once the people knew that the Sloan Family's young heir was abandoned by her father, a lot of people in the Sloan Family took turns to bully the kid.

That's how the original owner developed such a timid and gloomy character!

Chapter 919: "Childhood Trauma"

She was traumatized from a young age and became a silent introvert who obeyed everyone, afraid that these people would harm her if she didn't obey them.

Of course, Ainsley investigated this case a long time ago, and all the bad guys had been kicked out of the family or punished severely.

However, this didn't mean the original Ainsley could heal.

After all, her soul was nowhere to be seen, and someone else replaced her.

Ainsley really hated Leroy because of this.

Almost no one in the Sloan Family realized that the original Ainsley was gone and replaced by Ainsworth.

When Ainsworth realized this, she's sad for the original Ainsley.

Her presence was so faint in the family that no one cared about her character change.

And it's all because of Leroy.

Ainsley didn't stop revealing all sorts of things Leroy did to her and also provided evidence that he ran away from the mansion because he knew that the family was done for.

There was a phone call recording between him and Ren, mentioning this matter.

"Ren, I'll leave the family tomorrow. This family is already done for. There's no use even if I lead this kind of family..."

"I rather abandon this group of idiots than die with them."

"What about your daughter? Will you also bring her?" Ren's voice sounded from the phone call recording prepared by Ainsley.

Ren really sounded worried about the Sloan Family's condition, but his focus was on Leroy and his daughter.

He wasn't a hypocrite. When he asked about Ainsley, he really wanted to take the baby out of the Sloan Family too.

But he's just an outsider.

People could sense Ren's mood through his tone of voice, and it was clear that he was worried about Ainsley.

But Leroy was merciless.

"No. I won't bring that brat. If I did, the elders would hunt us to take back the baby. She's the family's only direct heir."

"Then— "

"Yes, Ren. We should leave her so that we can run away safely."

At that time, Ren exploded in anger.

"Leroy! How could you do that? You want her to sacrifice for you? What if she died when the family met with huge trouble or something??"

Ren's heavy breathing traveled through the phone.

"She's only three!"

Even younger than his children!

But Leroy was anxious and quickly calmed Ren with his soothing voice.

"Ren, calm down. I don't want to sacrifice her. But she should stay with the family."

"The family will still stay firm for a few more years, enough for her to grow up safely."

But Leroy didn't say that Ainsley would be a puppet head.

He also didn't say that even when Ainsley was raised at the family mansion...

There's no guarantee that a fellow family member wouldn't harm Ainsley to snatch her position...

After pacifying Ren, Leroy cut off the call, and the recording played in the studio also stopped.

At that moment, the whole studio was silent. Even the live broadcast comment section was quiet for a few minutes.

They had seen all the evidence for about fifteen minutes, and this fifteen-minute was the most shocking moment in the audience's life.

So much information poured into their brain, and it was related to Leroy.

But it's not good news. It's terrible news.

This Leroy...he really did abandon Ainsley and even neglected her from the moment she was born...

Ironically, someone who didn't have any blood connection with Ainsley looked more concerned about the baby than Leroy himself.

What kind of father is this?

And Ainsley also explained how she got the phone call recording.

"I hired a special ability user that can track sound in the past."

"Then, the ability user recorded the sound using his special ability, and that's how we got this recording."

This kind of ability user was scarce because their ability was super helpful in investigating something to obtain evidence.

Ainsley hired this guy from the black market and successfully got too much evidence against Leroy.

Without waiting for Leroy to react, Ainsley played one recording after another.

All of them were proof that Leroy left the family on his own, and he did neglect Ainsley.

One of the recordings was even particularly disgusting, so bad that the audience got goosebumps listening to it.

"Family head, someone reported that the young lady was injured. The branch family's kids bullied her—"

"Don't bother reporting such a trivial matter. She's a mafia boss' child, and she will be a future mafia boss."

Leroy's voice sounded over the speaker, and his cold voice continued to echo throughout the studio.

"Just kids bullying...can't she stand up for herself? If she can't, she's really useless. Starve her for a day. Maybe she will learn to be strong."

At that time, Ainsley was only two years old. Even mafia kids only received formal education at the age of three.

Then, they started to learn to be a strong mafia when they were five. They would then learn how to use their abilities only after they awakened one.

But Ainsley was already 'educated' ever since she was two. And the method was really cruel.

Starving a kid for a day?! That's already indirect abuse, okay??

The audience was shocked at this recording. Even Jevon and Elliana didn't know that such a thing had happened in the past.

Ainsley herself couldn't retrieve the original body's memory and only knew about this after she deliberately tried to find Leroy's faults.

Who would have known that she would stumble on such evidence?

More and more recordings about Leroy and the past Ainsley sounded through the studio's speaker.

The content was enough for the audience to drag Leroy to court and sue him for abusing a child.

Chapter 920: "A Generous Backer"

Unfortunately, the government didn't accept the mafia society's internal struggles.

They only accepted trials related to the mafia when the non-mafia was the victim.

Then, they would involve the mafia council in such a case but there was really almost nothing that could be done.

As for a child abuse case in the mafia society...only the mafia council could handle this.

But the mafia council was busy with bigger cases, and basically, no one cared about one or two kids being abused, as long as they're not beaten or wounded.

So, many children from the mafia family didn't suffer physically but suffered mentally and became mentally ill.

Some of them became super crazy and paranoid. Others became psycho but this is really good to be a mafia.

Thus, the parents and the other mafia members didn't care about this and even purposely stimulated the kids to have such a ruthless character...

This is also why the mafia only thrived in the Godlif country. Other countries had basically eradicated such an evil society.

Of course, many of the top-level mafia families in the Godlif country weren't like this, but 90% of the mafia families are problematic.

Unfortunately Ainsley's family was a mafia family and she couldn't change it no matter what.

After all, this is a family with history, and she could only strive to make her mafia family never cross the bottom line.

Leroy's recording was obviously proof that so many mafias were troublemakers and dangerous.

They could even be so cruel to their little daughter...

The audience was stunned beyond relief. They never knew that Leroy could be so mean to his daughter, but he loved his twins dearly.

Such a partial treatment...how could Ain not hate Leroy to death? How could she not want to cut off the father-daughter relationship with him?

If they were Ain, they would also cut off all relationships with Leroy.

He's not a human. He's a beast!

And sadly, among other mafias, Leroy was already counted as the most benevolent...

How many children from branch families or illegitimate children died in a mafia family because of inhuman training and internal dispute?

There were so many that one couldn't easily count the number...

But for the ordinary people, Leroy's level alone was already shocking.

In just a few seconds after seeing and hearing the evidence, the audience's faces turned black.

All of them looked at Leroy with a glare or eyes full of disgust, while those on the live broadcast poured out tons of abusive comments aimed at Leroy.

[How can someone have such a thick face?! After abandoning their daughter, they still come back when they hear of their daughter's successful career.]

[This is a shameless man!]

[He is not only shameless but he simply doesn't know how to take care of children.]

[Hey, hey, the twins were born two years earlier than Ain. Don't say Leroy is clueless about taking care of children.]

[He is just biased! He loves the twins because they have his lover's genes. But Ainsley has his genes and a random woman's genes.]

[Bah. Bah. It can be said that Ain is 'artificially' made?]

[Yeah. But it's still his child, okay? Even the twins can be said as artificially-created children in a sense...]

[I don't understand why Leroy neglects Ain like that. Don't tell me while he's neglecting Ain...he's busy taking care of the twins in secret.]

[Yeah. I have screenshots of Leroy's activity logs, and he did go out often, but his plan is ambiguous.]

[Oh, he must be sneaking out to see his lover and children raised outside.]

[Say, will he also use the Sloan Family's money to raise his lover and children?]

[Years ago, The Glazier mercenary team was just a small team of three mercenaries, including Ren.]

[In just a few years, they become the number one mercenary in this country...]

It took five years, but it wasn't exactly that long. In fact, it was a bit too fast.

After all, the mercenary team wasn't like a mafia family that could rely on one person to command others and grow up rapidly.

As long as the family head was competent, it wasn't hard to grow a small mafia family to a large family in just a few years.

Of course, the leader had to be strong and obtain their subordinates' trust but usually, the loyal and trusted aides would all make a soul oath.

Because of this, they wouldn't leave the family at all, no matter what happened.

The mafia family was such a strict family, unlike the mercenary team.

It was so loose because the members gathered for their own interest and no one had to obey the team leader or sacrifice their lives for the team leader.

And so, if the mercenary team leader wasn't competent and didn't have enough 'bait' to hook members to join, it was impossible to grow so rapidly.

Not to mention that there were so many small mercenary teams around and the members were usually not fixed.

There were a lot of free mercenaries that would jump from one team to another.

They usually only chose a suitable team to do the mission they wanted to take.

For The Glazier to become the biggest and strongest mercenary team in the Godlif country's mercenary guild, it needed a lot of money, hard work, and time.

In the beginning, Ren was just a lowly mercenary with so little income.

How could he grow his team to this extent when his ability wasn't too exaggerated, rare, or super strong?

Usually, big mercenary teams had backers, or the leader had rare and super powerful abilities.

Ren's abilities weren't that rare. So...it should be that he had a backer—also a generous one.

It must be Leroy!