

BABY MAFIA 921

Chapter 921: "Inferiority Complex"

The netizens were really good detectives, and in just ten minutes or so, they connected the dot.

[Oh, oh! If Leroy said that he never used the Sloan Family's money to support Ren, I wouldn't believe it.]

[I think Ren must have known about this too...is that why he approached Leroy in the first place? And then he truly fell for Leroy?]

[Can be.]

[But thinking about how Leroy used the Sloan Family's money to raise his twins outside of the family, even supporting his lover's career but neglecting Ain...]

[Wow. I feel so uncomfortable.]

[Hey, hey, maybe Leroy only used his own money. He was the Sloan Family head back then, right? So the Sloan Family's money is his money!]

The person was clearly sarcastic but many people also believed that it was quite logical.

Still, even if it was Leroy's money, it should be used for Leroy himself and the Sloan Family, right?

He could use the money to support his children outside. He could also support Ren's career. It's all ok.

But why couldn't he treat Ain as good as his twins and his lover?

[I think Leroy really hated Ain for no reason...why is it? Is he jealous of his daughter ever since she's born? Or what??]

Indeed. So far, Leroy's actions were truly illogical, as if he's just an idiot when, in fact, it's impossible to be that stupid.

If he's so stupid, the family would have long been destroyed before Ainsley took over the mantle.

No one knew why Leroy treated Ainsley so badly when the kid didn't do anything wrong but Leroy clearly knew the reason.

It's simple, actually.

First, he was actually shocked that Ainsley inherited most of his genes instead of her surrogate mother's genes.

Then, when Leroy checked the baby's potential to a special ability user with an ability to see someone's potential, he was even more shocked.

He had been to this 'potential appraiser' before, and he knew his potential was so-so.

He didn't inherit the Sloan Family founder's special charm ability bloodline.

But Ainsley did.

She did!

When Leroy checked the twins' potential, none of them were actually as talented as Ainsley.

How could he not be shocked and a bit jealous?

The children he loved were inferior to the ones he didn't want. And the baby was even more talented than him...

Leroy had always had an inferiority complex ever since he was a child.

Being compared to other more talented children in the Sloan Family made him deeply feel inferior.

But he still became the family head because of the family rules and tradition.

He had survived countless assassinations from fellow Sloan Family members, and he had long lost any bit of affection toward this family.

Then, he found his happiness somehow...which were Ren and the twins.

But the Sloan Family refused them and even threatened to kill the trio.

Then, using the trio as a hostage, the family forced him to leave a legitimate heir even if he had to use a surrogate mother.

As long as the genes weren't inherited from a pair of gay.

This was another blow to Leroy, and he took all his anger and disappointment to Ainsley.

At first, when Ainsley was born, and he saw the baby was so similar to him, he fell in love with the baby.

But when he knew that her potential was far greater than him, it was as if he was mocked and slapped in the face.

Someone not born with the genes of his lover and him. Someone born out of coercion and not even a single bit of love.

This kind of someone with 90% similar appearance to him...

But she's far more talented than him.

Leroy's inferiority complex struck again, and that's when he was determined never to let Ainsley's talent develop smoothly.

He hated the Sloan Family, and he hated Ainsley.

And so, if Ainsley never triggered her potential, it was fine to nurture another incompetent leader and let her bury the Sloan Family with her own hands, right?

She would only be a puppet leader, but history would record her as the one who ended the Sloan Family's lifeline.

Leroy's plan was obviously very successful.

In the previous life, in the life that Finley had gone through once, Ainsley really didn't trigger any good abilities.

Her childhood trauma and the oppression from people around her made her unable to trigger her potential at all.

And Ainsley died while bearing the sin of collapsing the Sloan Family with her own hands.

But it was clearly not her fault at all.

Leroy in the previous life never thought that his plan that he had on a whim really destroyed the Sloan Family and destroyed his daughter's future.

It even took her life when she was still young and full of potential.

It was too late to regret it.

But in this life, Ainsley wasn't the previous Ainsley and was switched with someone far more mature.

Someone with an adult mind and adult mentality.

Thus, the various childhood problems didn't give her any traumatic experience.

But the real Ainsley was gone and Leroy had done all the harm to the real Ainsley.

Ainsworth, who had taken Ainsley's body, couldn't forgive Leroy at all.

This man destroyed his daughter's future just because of his own inferiority complex.

It's true that the old Sloan Family, with its rigid mindset and toxic environment, also suppressed Leroy.

Leroy was indeed a victim.

But it didn't mean he could use his status as a victim to create another victim...

The online discussion was in full swing, and Leroy's whole small family was finally dragged into the case.

Ren and even the twins were all mentioned!

Chapter 922: "Large-scale Harassment"

Of course, the netizen was principled enough not to talk about the twins or say anything that might harm them, but Ren was still not spared from the hate comments.

Ren was also watching the show through the live broadcast and could see the abusive comments directed toward him.

But the man wasn't affected at all.

He was more affected after knowing what Leroy had done to Ain in the past three years or so.

He...never knew that his team's glory was built above a child's sufferings.

He didn't even know that his children's happy childhood was made above someone else's traumatic childhood.

Leroy....well, he knew Leroy's dark side and knew why Leroy was like this.

All of them were victims. Both Ain and Leroy.

But...but he was still shocked.

How could Leroy have the heart to do that to a child? It's still his own daughter!

Ren was so heartbroken that he simply left the live broadcast platform.

Thankfully, he didn't let his children watch the show after noticing that things were going wrong for Leroy.

Otherwise, would they feel guilty for their whole life that someone else was sacrificed for their happy life?

Ren was deeply disappointed in Leroy, but he still couldn't let him go.

He had accepted all of Leroy's dark side, and the only thing he could do now was help Leroy repent.

Maybe Leroy still didn't want to admit that what he did back then was wrong.

Indeed, Leroy didn't think that he did a bad thing to Ainsley. He never abused her, so why was he a bad person?

The baby was an unwanted baby in the first place, so not killing or abusing her was already good, right?

Leroy might have a distorted moral sense but as a mafia, it was pretty usual. Many mafia had more distorted moral sense than Leroy.

That's why they didn't think it was wrong to kill civilians, unlike other ability users who still abide by the rules.

Back to the studio. Currently, the situation was a bit chaotic.

The staff was busy calming down the on-site audience who wanted to throw things to Leroy.

"Calm down! Please don't throw anything around! It's dangerous!"

A lot of audiences already shouted and yelled at Leroy.

"You scum father!"

"Get off the stage!"

Others cursed out loud, and bold ones started to throw small things to the stage.

"Die, scum man!"

'Disgusting gay!"

"Hypocrite!"

Countless small daily life items such as hairpin, pens, bracelet, wristwatch, even shoes, necklaces, hand mirrors, bags and such flew sharply to the stage.

Fortunately, the distance between the fake stage and the audience seat was quite far.

The audience couldn't throw things and injure those on the stage so easily.

The things never reached the stage and only scattered a few meters away from the fake stage.

Because of this, Leroy was still fine.

However, because the show was no longer conductive after the audience got mad at Leroy, the hosts were forced to stop the show.

The two hosts quickly approached Leroy with an apologetic smile on their face.

"This...the situation is quite dangerous now. How about you leave the studio first?"

The hosts were actually also very disgusted with Leroy's past offence but they were professionals.

They didn't mix their job with their own opinion.

Leroy also sensed the hostility from the audience behind him, and even the staff didn't treat him kindly.

Some of the staff looked at Leroy blatantly and scoffed, as if they were looking at a living trash.

Well...if Leroy continued to stay here and try to reverse the situation, the situation would only get worse.

Thus, Leroy smiled bitterly and nodded at the two hosts.

"Alright, thank you. I'll leave now..."

But one of the hosts blocked Leroy's path and hurriedly stopped him.

"Sir, wait. Do you have your manager with you here? Is there any bodyguard around?"

Julia asked Leroy with a hint of concern because she knew very well how blackened fans would act when they were disappointed with their former idol.

Leroy might face a fans attack when he left the building, and there might be some people finding his house address and harassing him.

Without bodyguards and such, Leroy might not be able to come back safely.

Leroy also knew that these things might happen so he actually had already prepared a group of bodyguards.

His manager was also outside, waiting for him to leave the building together.

"Don't worry. I've already prepared everything."

Leroy seemed calm as if he wasn't the one condemned by the whole studio and the whole live broadcast audience.

It was really unexpected, but Leroy was also once a mafia boss. He had been in a more dangerous environment than now.

Even if his lies were all revealed and he couldn't continue to be a celebrity anymore, he believed that he could still survive this ordeal.

"I'll leave now. I'm afraid some radical fans will stop me before leaving the building." Leroy nodded at the hosts before trotting out of the studio.

He was really well-prepared when he came to record the talk show.

Knowing that things were bad, he decided to be more low-key in the future.

The man left the building and got into the car with his manager plus a dozen or so bodyguards.

Just as he expected. There were a lot of fans waiting outside of the building, wanting to see their idols.

While waiting, they also watched the live broadcast and couldn't help but curse at Leroy.

Once Leroy's car passed by, some fans with sharp eyes noticed the car and instantly shouted at other fans.

"Hey! That's Leroy's car!"

"Where? Where?"

"Over there!"

"Quick! Throw your water bottles!"

Chapter 923: "Leroy's Demise"

The fans weren't one big group and didn't come for the same idol, but in terms of harassing idols, they seemed to be experienced.

In just a few minutes, the fans ran after the car and threw bottles.

Some even threw rocks, pebbles, and a few even got rotten eggs from nowhere.

TAK! TAK!

TUK! BANG!

SPLASH!

Leroy's black car was instantly tainted with water, rotten eggs, and some scratches were inevitable.

Some parts even got dented because the rocks hitting the car body were quite heavy!

At the same time, Ainsley and Jake, who were still left at the studio, also expressed their wishes to leave the studio.

"Since the recording stopped here, I think I should go home now..."

Ainsley looked at the hosts with a sweet smile on her face, as if she hadn't just revealed her scum father's bad deeds a few minutes ago.

The recording session ended abruptly, and the guests also didn't need to stay any longer.

Jake also stood up and nodded at the hosts.

"I also need to go back. I still have some businesses related to Ain's official adoption. I'm also in a hurry."

Hearing their wishes, the hosts let them go.

That day, everything seemed to end so abruptly and a bit unbelievable, but in just one night, everything changed.

The live broadcast recording link was being forwarded everywhere around the internet, and it quickly became a trending topic.

Leroy's image was completely crushed, and that's not the worst.

Some people really did find Leroy's home address and dump trash in front of the door.

Others painted the house door with red paint. The painted messages on the wall were all death threats and such.

'Die, Leroy!'

'Child abuser!'

'Get out of the entertainment circle!'

'S!*t!'

Leroy was finally terrified. He had to move out of his current house, and he's afraid that his sudden rotten reputation would affect Ren and his children too.

Indeed. In just a few days, a lot of people who wanted to curry favor with Ainsley terminated all contracts with Ren's mercenary team.

A lot of powerful people suppressed the Glazier team and didn't give them any missions to do.

The team members started to waver and left the group one by one.

In less than a week, even the twins were also affected.

A lot of children nowadays already knew the internet, and it wasn't strange they knew about Leroy's scandal.

Because the twins were quite famous as Leroy's kids, usually, they had many friends who wanted to curry favor with them.

But now that Leroy was in trouble, the twins were excluded from the kid's circle, and some bold ones even bullied the twins verbally.

"Hey, hey, illegitimate children!"

"Your father is a scum. You are also a scum!"

"You live on top of other people's suffering! Bad child!"

The kids didn't really know a lot about what they said, but they just copied what they heard from the internet and told it to the twins.

Because of this, the twins had to change kindergarten and they were even somewhat traumatized.

Leroy lost his job as a celebrity. The manager also turned his back on Leroy after knowing that he's really a scum.

In just a week, Leroy had to move out of his house, change his children's school and also help Ren with the Glazier team that deteriorated day by day.

Only then did Leroy realize just how much influence Ainsley had in her hands.

She still had the Pandora Island that a lot of people wanted, and she also had the unique Irregular Tamer guild.

Many influential powerhouses had one or two family members with charm ability users, especially girls.

Those who loved their daughters, nephews or granddaughters so much would be extremely happy after the guild was built.

With this, they didn't need to let their beloved ones sell their bodies just because they're a charm ability user!

Thus, the connection that Ainsley had expanded in one go.

What was unexpected was that the mafia society and the ability user society weren't the only ones crazy about Ainsley and her Sloan Family.

The rich ordinary people had also heard about Xocolet Lake, the lake where the guild branch was built.

That lake could change ordinary people to become ability users!

Ainsley's influence slowly penetrated the ordinary people too, and with the fame brought by the talk show, the ordinary people who weren't rich or anything also came to know her.

[So this is a real baby mafia boss. I thought that it must be fake. But it's real!]

[Ahhhh, I don't care about that. She's cute! Super cute! From now on, I'll be her momma fans!]

[Look, she is actually more suitable to be in the entertainment industry. The mafia society is too dangerous for her...]

[Hey, you won't say that after watching her battle videos. Despite looking cute and weak, Ain isn't weak at all.]

[Yes, yes. All we can do to help her is to keep her reputation clean even if she's a mafia boss!]

After all, many ordinary people saw the mafia as something negative and dangerous, especially the mafia boss.

But upon knowing that such a cute and young kid was also an extremely influential mafia boss, the ordinary people's impression of the mafia got better bit by bit.

A week after the live broadcast, Ainsley was still busy picking up members to train and form a small elite team to go to the annual beast and monster tide event.

She also formed an elite shadow guard team to protect her all the time and to be her intelligent network.

And there's one more good news—

After the government became the Sloan Family's ally in the Pandora Island project, they naturally let go of the real Martin they kidnapped before!

Chapter 924: "Leroy Wants To Apologize"

The government's special team didn't target the Sloan Family anymore and even compensated for all the damages they had done to the real Martin.

The real Martin still became a part of the Sloan Family, but Ainsley didn't let him go to work at all and only gave him a high position with no tasks to do.

This is one of her ways to compensate the real Martin.

As for the fake Martin, he changed his name to Mark and became the leader of the intelligent team that Ainsley included in her small elite guards.

The elite guards had around twenty people. Ten for Ain's safety, the other ten became her hands and feet.

Then, there was also another batch of the intelligence team in charge of anything related to intelligence.

Surprisingly, the captain of the elite guard team that Ainsley named as 'Shadowy' was someone recommended by Grandpa Yofan and the others.

His name was August and his ability was still a mystery for now but Ainsley knew that his abilities were really suitable for shadow guards.

August and the rest of the team had been trained together with the guild's core members, who would attend the annual beast and monster tide.

In such a short time, they were all ready to serve Ainsley as well as they could!

Ainsley, who was busy preparing for the annual beast and monster tide, completely forgot about Leroy and his family.

However, Leroy and his family could never forget Ainsley.

To this day, after they moved out of the Roane Region and chose a super far away region near the border, Leroy and Ren still tried to find a way to contact Ainsley.

"Leroy, we have to apologize to Ain. Those people are still trying to find us...we will be done if we still offend Ain too!"

Ren was finally anxious to death.

The group of powerful people his team offended almost months ago was now trying to destroy the Glazier.

After all, Leroy offended Ainsley and offended a lot of people behind her.

With such heavy suppression, the group of people was also happy to add more pressure and destroy the Glazier!

In fact, Ren offered to move abroad immediately, but they still hadn't finished preparing the official documents needed to live overseas and start a new life.

Thus, they could only live in the Godlif country for the time being.

But if Leroy didn't apologize to Ain, maybe they all would die even before they could run abroad!

These days, even the twins didn't go to their new kindergarten, afraid that some people would kidnap them or something.

Leroy listened to Ren, and his belief was also swayed.

If before, he didn't think he should apologize, now, he was eager to kneel and apologize to Ain.

He didn't think that the consequence of offending Ainsley would be so great!

"W-what do I do, Ren? I can't contact Ain. She blocked my number and all of my social media..."

Ainsley even made the Sloan Family block Leroy's official and personal social media too!

"Let's go to her mansion and wait for her there. Or maybe go to the Crimson Lily Guild Branch. I heard that she's staying there lately."

Ren also wanted to accompany Leroy to find Ainsley, but he had to stay at home to protect the twins.

Thus, he could only send Leroy out alone.

"Okay, I'll go and find Ain. After all of this is over, let's go abroad and start a new life, okay?"

Leroy was already eager to run away from this country, afraid that Ren and the twins would be in great danger anytime soon.

"Yes. We can depart next week if everything goes smoothly. Don't worry. Just protect yourself."

Ren hugged Leroy before he sent the man away back to the Roane Region.

That day, Leroy wasted several hours on the way just to visit the Sloan Family's main mansion.

It was already tea time when he arrived in front of the gate, but before he could do anything, the guards at the gate stopped him from entering.

"Do you have an appointment with our boss?" One of the guards asked Leroy with a cold face.

He also knew about Leroy despite being a new member less than 6 months old.

For him, Ain was the boss in his heart, and Leroy was the scum who hurt Ainsley.

The two guards didn't have any good opinion on Leroy.

Leroy's face turned pale as he tried to use his charm ability to influence the guards.

"This...I don't have any appointment, but I really need to see your boss. Is she at home? Can I see her? I promise I won't do anything bad!"

Unfortunately, now that the Sloan Family was rich, every guards who stayed in front of the main gate would consume an anti-charm potion before they went to work.

Thus, Leroy's charm ability didn't work on the guards!

The guards still had cold faces as they pushed Leroy away.

"I'm sorry, we can't accept anyone who comes here without an appointment. The boss is busy, and many people want to see her."

"Yes. If we let all people come to see her, she will be too tired to face unimportant people."

Such as you.

The guards didn't say the last sentence, but Leroy could guess it somehow.

His handsome face flushed red in shame, but he still insisted on standing in front of the gate to meet Ainsley.

Since the man wanted to wait, the guards naturally didn't make things hard for him.

Just wait as long as you want!

While Leroy was waiting for Ainsley to either come out of the mansion or come back to the mansion, Ainsley herself was at the Crimson Lily training ground.

She's training people!

Chapter 925: "The Guild's Progress In Less Than A month"

The Crimson Lily forest was huge, and after conquering it, Ainsley could use the land for many purposes.

One of them was to make a training ground for the Crimson Lily branch members.

Currently, Ainsley wasn't only training her elite shadow guard but also training the guild's core members, the elite guild team.

"Everyone, we will depart to the capital in a week."

"By then, I hope each of you can charm a low-level monster in five minutes, a mid-level monster in ten minutes and a high-rank monster in thirty minutes!"

The requirement was high, and the training was harsh, but these thirty elite guild members could keep up with the harsh training.

They had been trained ever since weeks ago, and Ainsley really only picked the highly talented ones to be trained in less than a month.

As for other talented members, they could still become a part of the guild's core members, but they might have to train hard for months first.

"Yes, guild founder!"

The thirty guild core members replied to Ainsley in unison and started to train the use of their charm ability for the n-th time.

These thirty people would all become the first few members of the guild's headquarter that would be open to the public after the annual beast & monster tide was gone.

They're at the top of the guild power system and were all hand-picked by Ainsley herself to be her trump card.

One of the thirty people, a woman with a kid, was even so talented that Ainsley already considered her to be the new guild leader.

There were a few more people that Ainsley had chosen to be the guild branch leaders, but for now, Ainsley didn't say anything.

She only assigned the future guild leader to be the captain of the guild's elite team for the upcoming annual tide cleaning up event.

"Nalisha. Make sure your team members can do their best this week."

Ainsley looked up at the mature, sexy woman in front of her and nodded with eyes full of satisfaction.

"If they can reach my requirement, I'll make you the guild leader after the annual beast & monster tide is gone."

Nalisha didn't expect that Ainsley would like her to this extent.

Becoming the guild leader... sounds like a dream.

Before joining the guild, she was just a single mom who was forced to be a prostitute to feed her only daughter, who was also a charm ability user.

Afraid that her daughter would also have to sell her body at such a young age, Nalisha sold herself as a prostitute so that her daughter would have a better future.

Who would have known that after the Irregular Tamer Guild was built, she could be fortunate enough to join the guild.

She was even selected to be a part of the core members and became the team's temporary captain!

Then, Ainsley even promised her to be a guild leader...

The other members who heard what Ainsley said to Nalisha didn't feel jealous of the beauty at all.

On the other hand, both male members and female members immediately gathered around Nalisha and encouraged her.

"Nali, we will work hard so that you can become the guild leader!"

"Congrats, Nali, you really deserve it! We are proud of you!"

"Ahhh, Nali, your daughter will be so proud of you too!"

Nalisha wasn't only a talented charm ability user but she's also a smart and shrewd person.

From her experience as a prostitute, she could handle a lot of people and form tons of connection.

If she became the guild leader, the guild would only develop faster.

Ainsley also didn't look down on Nalisha's previous job as a prostitute.

She even made Nalisha as the guild's promotional poster, striving to pick up charm ability users who became a prostitute and invite them to join the guild instead.

Ainsley wanted to save these women and men who had no choice but to be a prostitute just because they're charm ability users who could do nothing but seduce others.

In the guild, Ainsley not only taught others to be good beasts and monster tamer but also taught them how to use their charm ability in various ways.

"Charm ability is a type of brainwashing ability. Don't focus only on seducing others. Charm ability users can do much more than just be a honey trap!"

Ainsley broadened these people's mindsets and taught them how to improve their ability every single day.

Because of this, in just a few weeks, the guild members of more than 100.000 people grew rapidly to the point of being as strong as the old monster tamer and beast tamer guild!

Of course, not THAT strong in terms of overall strength, but in terms of individual strength, the irregular tamers were better.

They were taught to charm monsters or beasts in a short time, as quickly as possible.

Thus, ordinary tamers couldn't tame monsters or beasts as fast as the irregular tamers.

Even the worst irregular tamers could tame monsters and beasts faster than the average monster or beast tamer.

The Irregular Tamer guild wasn't even a month old yet, but it had already become a pretty well-known and prominent powerhouse that no one could look down upon.

Plus, the guild had finally opened the taming service business, and the guild sucked in tons of money!

Even the members, especially the elite ones who had successfully gotten their irregular tamer business license, also got tons of money from each transaction.

Although the guild took quite a lot of fee from each time a member made a transaction with a customer, the guild member was still rich.

Joining the guild made their lives better in less than a month!

Chapter 926: "Spider Web-like Connection"

The members who had families to support or children were all excited when they finally got their irregular tamer business license.

With the money they got, they could easily support their children and family, unlike when they had to struggle hard in the past.

The guild didn't need to worry about the stream of customers either.

The beast tamer could indeed help others to contract beasts, but only the irregular tamer guild could help someone contract monsters.

Plus, the irregular tamer could make the beasts work for them without using any contracts.

With this, the irregular guild also opened vehicle service using beasts and monsters.

Of course, all the beasts and monsters they captured were those who were hostile to humans and weren't liked by their peers either

In other words, they're criminals.

As for the kind beasts and such, because they had high intelligence and feelings, the irregular tamers respected them a lot.

The irregular tamers even protected these beasts from other wild hunters or tamers.

Aside from the guild's service business, the guild also opened up business related to Xocolet Lake.

They sold the Xocolet lake water in small bottles, around a thumb size.

These bottles were sold to rich ordinary people who wanted to be ability users.

The guild also donated these water bottles to poor or average ordinary people who also wanted to be ability users.

The Xocolet lake water didn't give you a 100% guarantee of awakening an ability, but the possibility was high.

Plus, after someone drank the lake water and awakened their abilities, the guild would always keep an eye on their progress.

If they awakened unique and useful abilities, the Sloan Family would immediately scout them.

90% of people who awakened their abilities thanks to Xocolet lake water chose to join the Sloan Family, especially those who got the water for free.

With this, the Sloan Family expanded their power once more.

Surprisingly, it was already on par with lower level families in the 7 great and 7 sacred families!

The Sloan Family grew so fast that it felt like a miracle.

The irregular tamer guild also grew rapidly to the point of shocking many other guilds.

Other guilds aside from the big guilds usually had slow growth because they either needed members with rare abilities such as hackers or because the guild didn't have enough funds to develop.

But, the irregular tamer didn't need members with rare abilities.

On the contrary, the charm ability users were one of the most abundant ability users in this magical society.

Thanks to that, the guild didn't lack members.

The guild itself was sought after, and the number of members in the future would be more than the number of people joining the alchemist guild, the monster tamer, beast tamer or the shaman guild!

Ainsley had been the new Sloan Family head in just a year plus a few months but the Sloan Family had become such a gigantic family that many forces couldn't ignore it.

In the process of growing rapidly, Ainsley's main backers, such as the Billios Family, the Walter Family and even the mafia council, all played a role.

Whenever there were other hostile forces who wanted to obstruct the Sloan Family's businesses, these three backers would help.

But the three backers also gained a lot from the Sloan Family.

The three forces were the first few backers who grew rapidly along with the Sloan Family's growth.

Now, the three backers didn't become a 'backer' anymore but became an equal ally with the Sloan Family.

One could say that the Sloan Family was already strong enough to back other smaller forces.

The Sloan Family's signature business and connection was really complicated.

Many high-level ability users couldn't shy away from the Sloan Family's monthly potion auction.

The alchemist guild was also tightly tied to the Sloan Family thanks to batch after batch of new and unique potions.

Then, large ability user families also couldn't help but visit the Irregular Tamer guild to buy monsters to contract.

As for other guilds...

The Shaman Guild depended on the Godfather Mausoleum to train their shamans.

In just less than a year, they had grown even stronger than before.

The monster and beast tamer guild became the Irregular Tamer guild's rival at one point, but they quickly changed jobs and chose to rent tamers to fight.

Thanks to this, the two guilds also had a close relationship with the mercenary guild, opening up a new connection path.

Many guilds were closely tied to the Sloan Family, and even some small guilds weren't an exception.

There was this Miners Guild full of ability users with mining ability, and now, they're all working to develop Pandora Island.

The first batch of Inheritance Stone had been mined.

The Téserra Alliance members jointly held an Inheritance Stone auction in various regions all at once.

The joint auction in various regions was successful, and the alliance earned their first fortune from the Inheritance Stone alone.

They would still have more fortune to earn when Pandora Island became an area many could visit or even live in.

The Sloan Family's business and connection were like a spider web.

It looked thin and fragile outside, but it was extremely sticky and complicated.

Because of this, the Sloan Family has already joined the top 100 most influential powerhouses in the Godlif country.

And their influence would soon spread throughout the human continent and even reached the non-human continent.

Currently, after training the guild's core members and the shadow guards team, Ainsley started to prepare for the upcoming annual meeting in the capital.

She visited Grandpa Yofan and spoke her thoughts.

"Grandpa. I don't know when the meeting will end and whether we can go back home before joining the annual beast & monster tide cleaning up event...."

Chapter 927: "Departing To The Capital"

Ainsley looked up at Grandpa Yofan, who looked younger than a year ago thanks to various herbs and items to prolong one's lifespan that Ainsley acquired so far.

The baby smiled sweetly and spoke with a coy tone.

"So...if I don't go back for a week or so, don't panic, okay? I'll always call you and send you a message."

Ainsley hugged Grandpa Yofan, who was sitting on the couch in the guest room and couldn't help but nuzzle affectionately.

Grandpa Yofan's heart was a bit heavy after knowing that Ainsley would be gone for a week or more, but he quickly accepted it.

"Okay, grandpa won't be worried. As long as you are safe...just pay attention to your health and safety, okay?"

After all, the capital was full of pollution, and Grandpa Yofan was afraid that Ainsley would fall sick because her body was too weak.

Alas, for the past few months, Ainsley had also made considerable progress.

Code-L even said that Bello could help Ain to heal her soul after her agenda in the capital ended.

Ainsley was now way stronger than before, and her realm had advanced too.

She didn't wait to acquire the fifth ability because she was in a hurry to heal her wounded soul.

The longer she left it untreated, the more dangerous it would be.

Hearing what Grandpa Yofan said, Ainsley felt warm in her heart and didn't hesitate to kiss Grandpa Yofan's cheek.

"Muah! Thank you, grandpa. I'll take care of myself. You also have to take care of yourself, and if there's an emergency, don't hide it from me!"

Ainsley could still remember the Aretha War a year ago, and she always felt regret.

If Grandpa Yofan had informed her sooner, she could have prevented more victims on her side.

"Okay, okay, grandpa won't hide anything from Ain anymore." Grandpa Yofan laughed at Ainsley's small grumble and immediately ruffled the baby's hair.

"Ain is now strong and doesn't need grandpa's protection anymore. Grandpa believes that Ain can protect us instead."

Grandpa Yofan had long let go of his previous mentality to protect Ainsley.

After seeing the baby's growth, he knew that being overly protective wasn't beneficial for Ainsley.

What she needed was constant stimulants to grow stronger to protect herself and the Sloan Family better.

"Yes. I'm now so strong that no other families will offend us like the Aretha Family in the past!"

Ainsley lifted her chin haughtily and laughed like an evil queen.

The Sloan Family was already so strong that even the Aretha Family had to think ten times if they wanted to mess with the Sloan Family.

Even the government wouldn't dare to offend the Sloan Family because of the Inheritance Stone's business partnership...

So far, Ainsley and the Sloan Family finally had no more enemies other than the mysterious hunter group that targeted transmigrators like Ainsley.

Ainsley squinted her eyes as she recalled the group of hunters who wounded her soul badly and even made the Godfather fall into a coma.

For the past few months, she had also tried to find their traces, but they all led to other human countries and even to non-human continents.

This group is undoubtedly a large undercover group with a lot of backings that Ainsley didn't know yet.

Maybe she would find clues when she went out of the Godlif country to build more guild branches all over the human continent.

But thankfully, ever since the Sloan Family grew stronger rapidly, that group of hunters didn't approach Ainsley anymore.

Maybe they also realized that the baby was not so easy to offend, and it would be even harder to harm her or steal her soul.

Thus, they might have switched their targets to other transmigrators that Ainsley didn't know might exist in this world at the same time as her existence.

Ainsley shook her head and decided to forget the group of hunters for now and focused on the upcoming annual meeting and the cleaning up.

"Okay, grandpa. I'll depart for the capital tomorrow morning. Let's sleep first, yes?"

"Good, let's go."

The duo went to their own bedrooms, forgetting that a certain someone was still waiting for them outside.

Yes, Leroy was still waiting even when it was already nighttime!

When Ainsley first came back from the guild, she used her flying carriage and didn't even stop at the gate.

That's why Leroy couldn't call her or meet her at all!

Leroy gritted his teeth as he inquired about the Sloan Family's next move and found out that Ainsley would depart to the capital tomorrow morning.

For such an important agenda, she would definitely gather her people near the front gate as per tradition before setting off.

Then, there would be a chance to meet her!

Thinking like that, Leroy went to a nearby village and paid the local villagers to provide him with lodging and food for one night.

He would wake up early in the morning and catch Ainsley before she departed to the capital!

The next day, Ainsley woke up and had breakfast with Grandpa Yofan.

For this expedition, she wouldn't bring the usual members and would only bring her shadow guards team and the guild's core members with her.

Because of this, Ainsley had to have breakfast with Elliana, the five buds, and even the 9 generals as well.

"Everyone, I might be gone for more than a week. I will leave all the family matters to all of you, okay?"

Ainsley spoke softly as she put down her eating utensils.

"I also need some of you to monitor the Pandora Island project."

"Although we have Candea there and even Jake personality monitoring the progress, we still have to be extra careful," Ainsley added.

After all, there had been many corruption cases involving Pandora Island's miners and builders, but all of them were detected early, thanks to Jake and Candea.

Jake put this island project as the number one project for the Billios Family, and that's how he could put down other businesses and focus on Pandora Island.

If not for this, Ainsley wouldn't dare to leave the Pandora Island progress alone without personality monitoring it.

Thanks to Jake's help, she could focus on the guild development instead.

The people around the dining table nodded at Ainsley's words and Jevon was the first one to react.

"I think we can send some generals to Pandora Island while the rest of us help with the guild development and other businesses."

The Sloan Family had expanded so rapidly that the family needed more supervisors and managers to manage their business.

Thankfully, Grandpa Yofan also had a lot of connections, and he was in charge of the family business.

The family also created a supervisor department to monitor the Sloan Family members so they wouldn't be corrupt or do anything against the rule.

The other family branches' development had also been smooth, and now, they had become as big as a middle-rank mafia family.

They spread all around the Roane Region and had helped the Sloan Family to become the ruler of the Roane Region officially.

Even when the Walter Family's main mansion was also in the Roane region, the true ruler of this region was undoubtedly the Sloan Family.

They had too many 'roots' here, and the Walter Family was helpless against the Sloan Family's roots.

Of course, the Walter Family's roots were somewhere else, and thanks to this, the two families didn't have any clashes.

On the contrary, the Walter Family could safely leave their back to the Sloan Family because the Sloan Family had officially become the Roane region's unnamed ruler.

Ainsley listened to Jevon's suggestion and immediately agreed.

"Let's do as you say, Jevon. While I'm not here, please assist Grandpa Yofan and the others."

"After everything has stabilized, all five of you may go out of the mansion to travel around or something."

The five buds used to be wandering outside to gain experience, but after they swore allegiance to Ainsley, they had never traveled outside anymore.

They only went to other places if it had something to do with the family's development.

Because of this, as the five buds, the pillars of the family, their personal growth had stagnated.

But Ainsley believed that after she went out of the country to travel around the world, the five buds should also go on their own to strengthen themselves.

Ainsley's words undoubtedly made the five buds quite excited. They had been serving the family for a year and had no time to focus on their personal growth.

Now, maybe in just a few more months, they could finally focus on improving their strength!

"Thank you, boss. We will work hard!" The five buds answered in unison, and Ainsley was pleased.

After the hearty breakfast, Ainsley gathered the expedition team at the front yard and just like what Leroy predicted, it wasn't far from the front gate.

Leroy, who had been waiting for Ainsley since the sun shone over the horizon, immediately spotted Ainsley's figure among a number of people and so many carriages.

When Leroy saw Ainsley, he instantly shouted as hard as he could.

"Ain! Ain! I want to meet you! I have something to talk about!"

Ainsley heard Leroy's voice and her people also heard him.

The shadow guards, those who came from the guild...all of them subconsciously turned their heads and looked at the front gate.

Behind the front gate, a young, handsome man with a similar face to Ainsley was trying to enter the front yard but to no avail.

Thus, he's shouting to attract Ainsley's attention.

Everyone had watched the talk show that aired a week ago, and they still remembered this young man's face.

Isn't that Ain's scum dad?

The shadow guards tried hard not to show any emotion on their faces, although Ainsley didn't tell them to act like emotionless puppets.

On the other hand, the guild core members already wrinkled their faces and looked at Leroy with eyes full of disgust.

Especially when 80% of the guild's core members were women and sympathized with kids like Ainsley more than others.

Nalisha, the team leader and the future guild leader, also had a daughter and she could relate to those who had kids.

But she hated people like Leroy the most who abandoned his own kid for another kid.

He didn't only abandon Ainsley but also showed his impartial behavior!

If Ainsley weren't a genius and had a mature mind, she would have long been heartbroken by her dad's behavior.

But who said that Ainsley wasn't hurting? Maybe she's crying behind their backs, lamenting why her father chose her siblings and abandoned her instead.

The guild core members instantly made a barricade with their own bodies, blocking Ainsley so Leroy couldn't see her.

Before Ainsley could even respond to Leroy, Nalisha had already crossed her arms in front of her chest and frowned.

"Excuse me, who are you? Trespassing is illegal, and our people can catch you or kill you on the spot."

Nalisha's voice was usually warm and full of motherly love, just like Marietta.

But this mom was a tough mom, and her aura and vibe were completely different from the soft, gentle-looking Marietta.

With voluptuous wavy dark red hair tied in a ponytail down to her waist, Nalisha somehow looked like a wild version of the black widow.

Facing Leroy, she didn't lose in terms of aura or charisma. She was even better than Leroy in these aspects!

Chapter 929: "Goodbye Leroy"

Nalisha's height was also one of the woman's advantages in facing 'enemies'.

She was considered taller than other women around her age. She's as tall as other men, around 180 cm.

She was one of the few black women in the guild, not tanned or exotic skin but beautiful black.

Her eyes were surprisingly not black but golden. Maybe she wore eye contacts but this look is really suitable for her.

Nalisha had a compelling vibe as the future guild leader, and even Leroy suddenly felt suppressed when talking face-to-face with her.

Leroy squinted and tried to look gentle, but his eyes were full of confusion about Nalisha's identity and her words.

"Excuse me...I'm not just anyone. I didn't come here to do something bad. And...may I know who you are? Are you the gatekeeper?"

Nalisha snorted at Leroy's words and sneered.

"I'm the team leader of the Irregular Tamer's core members. Our team will soon depart with the guild founder."

"So, why are you looking for our guild founder?" Nalisha really acted like a hen protecting its chicks.

After all, Ainsley was really just a child in her mind, no matter how strong she was.

It wasn't logical that just because Ainsley was strong, people could ignore the fact that she's still a child and didn't deserve to be treated like this.

Ainsley could feel Nalisha trying to protect her, afraid that she would feel trauma after meeting Leroy or feel heartbroken.

Ainsley's heart instantly felt warm.

Nalisha joined her circle in just a month or less, but the woman had already taken her as her own people.

How could Ainsley not be moved?

She tugged at Nalisha's clothes and shook her head.

"It's okay, Nal. Let me talk to him for a few minutes, and then we go, okay?"

Nalisha instantly retracted her lioness-like aura and showed a gentle look at Ainsley.

"Okay, take care, guild master. If he says anything inappropriate, just don't listen to him."

"Hum. I will."

Ainsley pushed the other members and calmed them before she left the front gate and stood in front of Leroy.

She didn't invite Leroy to enter the gate or lead him to the mansion to sit down and talk.

No. Nothing like that.

Ainsley just stood there as if she would only chat for about a minute with a stranger or something.

Seeing Ainsley's attitude toward him, Leroy fully understood why she acted like that, and he also didn't bother to be a hypocrite.

The young man gritted his teeth and slowly lowered his head as he mumbled in a voice that only Ainsley could hear.

"I come here to apologize. I know I've been a bad father, and I might never admit that, but...but I owe you an apology."

Leroy sincerely apologized to Ainsley but he also knew that his apology didn't mean anything.

Everything he had done to Ainsley would always leave a scar on the baby's heart, and there's no way he could fix it.

"I am not asking for your forgiveness. I'm just trying to apologize even though I know it means nothing."

Leroy pursed his lips and looked down at Ainsley's small body with a complicated gaze.

"I...I know I'm selfish and cowardly. So, I think it's good that we are no longer a family, and you already have a new father."

It was only then Leroy realized that he really shouldn't become Ainsley's guardian or even acknowledge her as his daughter.

He's not worthy of that.

Ainsley was already so strong that she could choose who would be her father.

On the other hand, he didn't have the right to call Ainsley his daughter.

"I'm already thankful that you didn't take revenge on me. So...after this, I'll leave the country and I'll never appear in front of you anymore."

Leroy didn't feel sad to leave the country, but he did think that Ainsley should know.

This way, she wouldn't focus on getting revenge or something.

Ainsley could also understand Leroy's meanings behind those words, and she generously nodded.

"Okay, I accept your apology, but I'll never forgive you."

Because the real Ain wasn't here anymore and Leroy should apologize to the real Ain, not Ainsworth the transmigrator.

"I won't take revenge on you, and you can go anywhere you want as long as you don't disturb my family," Ainsley added.

"But if one day someone harms you or something, don't try to blame me for that."

Ainsley squinted, and her tone of voice became a bit suppressed.

"I don't know how many people you have offended, so please be responsible."

Indeed, Leroy also had the same thoughts. He would no longer blame others and shift the blame to someone else.

If he was harmed or plotted against, it was his own fault.

"I see. I'll be careful. With this...let's never meet anymore."

Leroy nodded at Ainsley and slowly turned around, leaving the place he had lived in for more than a decade.

Only at this time he realized that he actually missed the Sloan Family too and wished that the Sloan Family in the past could be as good as now.

There would be no toxic members, no toxic systems or rules, and so on.

A pity, the one who changed all of this wasn't him but Ainsley.

He chose to run away while Ainsley chose to stay still and strive to change the family.

And she did it.

Then, after this short encounter, Leroy went back.

The family of four went abroad but on the way, Leroy was injured.

It turned out that a lot of people really did hate Leroy while he was a mafia boss, and now that Leroy was weak, he was plotted against!

Chapter 930: "Two Sneaky Sacred Beasts"

Ren couldn't protect Leroy because he had to protect his powerless children, and that led to Leroy losing his ability once and for all.

The one who attacked him could destroy someone's ability and make them an ordinary human being.

They could only do this to a solo ability user and after that they had to rest for months to be able to use their special ability to destroy someone else's ability again.

This time, the target was Leroy...

One could see how much the other party hated Leroy until they hired this special assassin to make Leroy suffer.

The assassin was supposed to make Leroy an ordinary human being and then killed him.

Unfortunately, Ren's ice dragon still protected Leroy just before Leroy was killed.

That's how Leroy survived.

If this was the old Leroy, he would be so depressed that he would commit a suicide.

But the 'Leroy' after realizing his bad deeds and apologizing to Ainsley could accept all of this with an open heart.

He accepted the fact that he's really not suitable to be among the dangerous ability users.

Thus, after he lost his ability, he focused on taking care of his children while Ren worked for the family.

Ren never left Leroy even when he no longer had everything and even had nothing left.

Maybe Leroy's greatest gift was the fact that someone could love him despite all his weaknesses and his useless self.

Since that moment, Leroy shifted to be a businessman and he was indeed on a good track.

The family of four would start their life in a new country, and despite Leroy's injury, they would still have a long, promising future.

The four people got a new citizenship, and Ren worked as a mercenary connected to the new country's government.

Their life ended after they left the Godlif country, and Leroy even paid a heavy price for it.

But they could restart their life and maybe go to a rightful path this time.

Ainsley didn't know yet about Leroy losing his charm ability and was busy with the activity at the capital.

Once the group arrived at the capital, they shamelessly chose to stay at Jake's mansion and then went to the annual meeting.

Ainsley only brought five shadow guards with her and Nalisha as the team leader. The rest of the team stayed at Jake's mansion.

It was already close to tea time when the meeting started.

The government chose a large meeting room that could fit more than a hundred people, and the room looked like your usual college classroom.

The person who would lead the meeting stood behind the podium while the others sat down on seats surrounding the podium in a half-circle shape.

When Ainsley arrived, it was still early and not many people had arrived.

Thus, Ainsley let her five shadow guards wait outside while she brought Nalisha with her.

Oh, and of course, the three sacred beasts who insisted on following her.

Yes, Bello and even Code-L rushed to follow Ainsley when they heard that the baby would visit the capital and stay there for weeks.

Of course, Ainsley never let them follow her because she thought it was better for the two sacred beasts to stay at the mansion and protect the family.

But the two beasts had been bored living inside the prairie all day. When they had a chance to go out, why should they stay?

Thus, they hid deeply and quietly followed Ainsley until the baby arrived at the meeting place.

When Ainsley first saw the two cats, the baby almost tripped and fell.

She looked at Code-L, who was following Nalisha and Bello, who followed behind her with a smile that didn't look like a smile.

[Ugh, little ancestor...why are you guys here?]

Ainsley squatted and first took Bello into her arms while Cellino stayed around the baby's neck, pretending to be her scarf.

Then, she looked at Code-L who also pretended to be a scarf around Nalisha's neck and didn't know whether to laugh or get angry.

Even Nalisha was sweating bullets because an unknown sacred beast just suddenly used her neck as a resting place!

Hearing Ainsley's words, Bello meowed softly and snuggled into Ainsley's arm with his body full of fluff.

[We are bored, nyaaa~ We want to follow you! It's okay, right? Cellino also follows you to play...]

[But we are not here to play, ah. We might need to fight.] Ainsley shook her head, but Bello insisted on staying.

[Fighting is also good! It's okay, I'll stay with you, and the three of us can protect you.]

Code-L also directly used her power to communicate with Ainsley without being her contracted beast.

The cat's loli voice sounded in Ainsley's mind loud and clear.

[Hmph. You dare leave us behind to guard that mansion. Are we your gatekeeper or something?]

As usual, Code-L always spoke as if someone owed her a billion dollars.

Ainsley could only sigh and give up on these two wilful sacred beasts.

[Okay, you guys can accompany me. But don't attack anyone easily, okay?]

Especially Code-L.

[It's better to act like a normal cat. If others know that you're a sacred beast, they might feel a bit threatened.]

Because of this, Code-L used her mysterious power to change Bello and her appearance into that of a real furry cat.

Even their aura didn't look like a sacred beast who took on their small body size.

Even if someone who had seen Bello and Code-L saw them, they wouldn't be able to recognize the two people at all!

Ainsley was still impressed and became even more curious about Code-L's real ability.

How come it seemed like she could do anything?

What kind of ability is this?
