

BABY MAFIA 931

Chapter 931: "Meeting A Lot of Big Bosses"

Ainsley was curious to death but for now, she could only hug Bello while letting Cellino sit on her shoulder.

At the same time, Code-L chose Nalisha as her vehicle.

[Done. No one will suspect us now. Let's go.]

Code-L naturally took the lead to bring the other two cats and two humans to enter the large meeting room.

Seeing her like this even when she's still in her cat form, Ainsley suddenly doubted her identity as a mafia boss.

How come Code-L looked more like a mafia than her?!

But Ainsley didn't have time to ponder more about Code-L being more like a mafia boss than her because some people in the meeting room had already noticed her.

Those who had chatted with Ainsley before, especially those who attended her birthday party or attended the new year banquet, immediately approached Ainsley.

"Hey, you're here, little boss!"

"There are still not many mafias other than the little boss and a few of us. But there will be more in a minute."

"Yes, yes. Currently, only the neutral and the government faction is here. Oh, those from the guilds and the ability user society is also here."

The room was truly huge, and it could keep so many powerhouses representatives.

It might be able to house up to a thousand people or more.

This is the first time Ainsley would see so many powerhouses other than those in the mafia society, the ability users society or the guilds.

In the past, she had also attended many banquets and met many people from the government faction or the neutral faction belonging to the nobles.

But it was rare to meet all influential powerhouses in one place.

The powerhouses invited here were all as strong as a high-ranking mafia family, and it means that they're all big shots.

No matter if it was the people from the guilds, those from the ability users society or the neutral and government faction, they were all top-notch powerhouses.

It was estimated that even non-combat powerhouses would also attend the meeting because they still needed many supplies and logistics.

These non-combat powerhouses such as the Billios Family would help the group so much by providing rations, medicines, vehicles, and so on.

Today's meeting was a rare breaking point where people from all sorts of factions would put down all their grievances and hatred toward each other to work together.

This is a big scale meeting and it was really different from other meetings.

Ainsley arrived thirty minutes before the meeting started and had started to talk to the people she knew.

Then, more and more people representing their powerhouses entered the meeting room.

Those who attended the meeting would always be the ones with the highest authority in their family/organization.

Even though these people wouldn't personally participate in the cleaning up session, they still had to attend the meeting in person to show respect to other people.

After all, the annual beast and monster tide outside of the capital was not a trivial matter.

It was always risky and involved the whole country's safety.

Unfortunately, the Godlif country's government never considered moving the capital city to somewhere else, so this annual event was held.

When the other family heads or bosses arrived, they also approached people they had partnerships with and would avoid their enemies.

There were already factions formed inside the meeting room.

Even though the meeting was supposed to be a breakthrough point for everyone, it really wasn't like that.

Only Ainsley was different because her family didn't have too many beefs with other families outside of the mafia society.

So, when she saw many influential people, the baby cheekily approached the big bosses who were generally much older than them.

They could bring one person to attend the meeting with them, and they usually either came with their right-hand person or their successor.

But no successor would be as young as Ainsley.

Thus, a familiar phenomenon happened all over again.

Everyone would subconsciously peek at the only toddler in the meeting room with inquiring eyes.

Those who had talked to Ainsley before or met her in person would immediately approach her to say hello.

Even when they only greeted each other before this meeting, the other party would be thick-skinned enough to look close to Ainsley.

After all, her inheritance stone mine was really alluring for a lot of powerhouses!

Ainsley was also brave enough to run around with two cats in her hands and talked to these elders.

With the invisible Godfather following her and Zev plus Nalisha and Code-L behind, Ainsley was fearless.

She stood proudly in front of these old people and her pink uniform was really eye-catching.

The elderly usually liked cheerful and energetic children. Not to mention someone as talented, smart and strong as Ainsley.

The moment Ainsley started to socialize, a lot of elders couldn't help but fall for her baby charm.

"Oh, this is the rumored youngest mafia boss! Hey, hey, you're adorable."

"Thank you, grandpa. You're also handsome and cool!"

"Ah, ah, what about me?" Another big boss asked Ainsley while squatting in front of the baby.

"Of course, grandma is also beautiful and powerful!"

"Hahaha. Do you even know what business we have or what we do?"

"I know! This grandpa has several businesses such as ??? and then this grandma..."

Ainsley chattered non-stop and quickly made friends with so many powerful people.

Generally, since Ainsley was a mafia boss, those who disliked the mafia should also dislike her.

But Ainsley was just a genius child, and she's also interesting.

She's polite and doesn't discriminate against people at all.

Who could hate such a child?

Some heartless people.

Yes. There were still people who could hate such a child!

Chapter 932: "Punishing Ignorant Teens"

Some of the extremist government faction's members disliked Ainsley and openly showed their dislike.

When Ainsley passed by their place, they would sneer and speak loudly.

"Oh, this is the so-called little genius? Looks ordinary to me."

"Yeah. My little sister looks more beautiful and talented than her."

"Hush. She's only lucky to be a mafia boss because her father abandoned her."

"Oh wow. Even her father doesn't want her...is she troublesome?"

Those who openly disliked Ainsley were usually the young successors brought by their grandpa, grandma, uncle, Auntie, mother or father.

Well, whoever became the family head or the boss anyway.

The successors were usually young, around 18 years old up to thirty five years old.

Those who openly mocked Ainsley would always be the impulse teens around 18 up to twenty-five years old.

They're all hot-blooded, both the men and the women.

Facing their family's so-called enemy, they couldn't hide their disgust at all.

They had also quarreled with successors from other powerhouses but they were never as brazen as when they saw Ainsley.

Maybe because they thought that Ainsley was just a kid?

The Godfather, Zev, Nalisha and the three sacred beasts heard these people's mockery, and all of them suddenly felt their blood boiling for Ainsley.

Can these bastards shut up and not tear open Ain's old wounds?!

The Godfather and Zev, plus the three cats, knew that Ainsley was a transmigrator and might not be affected by Leroy's past deeds as much as the original Ainsley.

But they knew that Ainsley cared about the original soul and would always feel upset whenever people tried to harm the original soul.

This made the Godfather and the others feel distressed for Ainsley.

On the other hand, Nalisha thought that Ainsley was the real Ainsley and would feel so sad when others openly said that Leroy abandoned her.

The woman immediately glared at the bunch of idiots.

"Are you guys really a successor to your huge family?" Nalisha sneered as she looked at the group of heirs with eyes full of disdain.

"How come all of you are so stupid and rude? If I were your parents, I'd cry tears and blood!"

Being scolded by someone so suddenly like this, the group heirs instantly reacted.

Their faces flushed red from anger, and some of the courageous ones immediately stepped up, about to approach Nalisha.

"Stinky woman, know your place! How dare you offend us—"

Before they could continue, Ainsley, who was sitting on Nalisha's arm already glanced at them and smiled sweetly.

The smile contained a really poisonous charm ability, and in an instant, the group of successors succumbed to the cute baby.

So cute! What a cute baby! How can anyone bully this baby?

The teens' minds were instantly foggy, and all they could think of was how cute the baby was.

Even when Ainsley opened her mouth and spoke, this group of people only nodded obediently, just like a chicken pecking its food.

"Big brothers and big sisters, why don't you run around the meeting room naked?"

"Ah, only the big brothers should be naked. The big sisters don't. Just crawl around, okay?"

Ainsley smiled while showing her row of white teeth, looking harmless and obedient.

But her words really weren't obedient.

The moment Ainsley said that the group of teens immediately obeyed Ainsley's words.

The men stripped on the spot, not even sparing their underwear.

They stripped so fast that in just a few seconds, none of the men wore anything to cover their bodies.

Their pp were all dangling freely for people to watch!

Fortunately, Ainsley already buried her head into Nalisha's arm, afraid that seeing these teens' naked bodies would sully her eyes.

Then, the women in the group started to lay on the floor before crawling like a beast with four legs.

Along with them were the naked men running around the meeting room with their pp swaying freely.

Such a commotion immediately attracted everyone's attention.

When the people in the meeting hall saw this group of lunatics, those who knew them almost fainted on the spot.

Those who came with this group of lunatics already had a heart attack and had to be supported by those around them.

"Imbecile! Stop for me!"

"Brat! Stop running! Wear your clothes!"

"Fck this brat— come here!!"

The mother and father of the teens shouted on top of their lungs, and some of them even chased after their children, wanting to stop their behavior.

But the teens didn't seem to listen to their parents and kept circling the meeting hall with either naked bodies or crawling like a beast.

They seemed to be under someone's control, and this someone had such a strong ability to control so many teens, around ten people at the same time.

Those who saw the teens stopping Ainsley before immediately associated this with the baby and understood in an instant.

The teens offended the little baby boss and were taught a lesson.

The parents of those teens were all people who had seen the world and wouldn't be as brainless as their children.

When they knew that Ainsley punished their children because the children offered her, these big bosses spurt out blood.

"Stupid son! Why do you need to offend the little boss?! Blind! Blind! Idiot!"

"Daughter, can you stop being so brainless and arrogant? Is that little boss someone you can offend casually?"

Even if some of the people here had families and organizations bigger than the Sloan Family or the Irregular Tamer guild, they still didn't want to offend Ainsley so casually.

First of all, they also wanted to invest in the Pandora Island project.

The inheritance stone there was really precious, and the first joint auction was so successful that many of them were envious.

They also want this opportunity!

Chapter 933: "Vallan Is Traumatized"

The Tésseera Alliance members, especially the core members, expanded their influence just by relying on the Inheritance Stone and Pandora Island development.

Looking at this example, why should they make enemies with Ainsley rather than befriend her?

Even the government also joined her alliance and didn't make enemies out of the Sloan Family anymore.

People had heard about the government's failure to snatch Pandora Island and were forced to sign a bad deal related to the Pandora Island project.

Such a person who could lead an alliance that pushed the government to the point of no return...

Why should they offend this person?!

And these bosses had heard that the little boss only used a small amount of people to fight the government's overwhelming force.

She's simply terrifying, okay?!

The bosses immediately caught their children and either kicked them out of the meeting hall or forced the children to kneel in front of Ainsley, begging for her forgiveness.

"I'm sorry, little boss. My child is too ignorant. Please take back your ability and let him go! I'll educate him on your behalf."

"Little boss, please forgive my reckless child. She's arrogant and pampered. I'll keep an eye on her in the future."

The ten successors who didn't have eyes and were blind to offend Ainsley had seriously damaged their own future.

Their parents started to wonder whether they should find another heir instead of these children with no vision at all.

At the same time, the other young heirs in the meeting hall who had visions and weren't arrogant at all silently sighed in relief.

Actually, they're also prideful and arrogant, but they know how to socialize and not offend people so easily like those idiots.

Even if their families were enemies with the Sloan Family, they should keep a smile on their faces as they talked to the little boss!

Only a small number of brainless heirs got into trouble, and the rest were all sensible and talented.

The parents who brought them to this meeting hall instantly felt satisfied with the heir they had chosen.

On the other hand, they also thought that bringing their heir here could be a way to test whether they're chosen successor was worthy of being the next boss or not.

The commotion attracted quite a lot of people's attention, and after punishing the teens, Ainsley also didn't want to take things further.

Thus, facing the parents, she smiled slightly and nodded graciously.

"It's okay. I'll forgive them. I just want to pull some pranks on these big brothers and sisters."

Ainsley really looked harmless when she said that, but everyone couldn't help but feel a chill down their spines.

Don't forget that this child is the Sloan Family head and the Irregular Tamer guild founder.

It's not easy to be bullied!

The parents were all relieved that Ainsley didn't want to elevate the matter to another level.

After thanking Ainsley, they immediately dragged the teens out of the meeting hall, and the hall immediately resumed its lively atmosphere.

By this time, the hall was almost full, and most people invited here had already arrived.

Ainsley also saw Jake and Evan without bringing anyone with them.

She also saw the big guild leaders, including the silent and mysterious Cain, the summoner guild leader.

Then, enemies always met in narrow paths.

She met Michael, who dragged Raphael with him.

When Ainsley saw the father-son duo, the baby waved her hands innocently, as if their families never had feuds.

"Hello, Uncle Michael. Good afternoon, brother Raphael." Ainsley greeted the two while still using Nalisha as her cushion.

At the same time, Code-L around Nalisha's neck wriggled to change her position while the other two cats either huddled in Ainsley's arm or walked around Nalisha's leg.

Seeing the group of cats, a woman and a child, the father-son duo instantly changed their expressions.

"Oh, it's the little boss." Michael tried hard to maintain his smile, but his gloomy face couldn't fool anyone.

Raphael was also the same. He smiled at Ainsley, but his smile was full of daggers.

He didn't say anything and just nodded back at Ainsley.

Seeing this, Ainsley couldn't help but grin.

"I heard that we can bring the sacred beasts, fairies or our contracted companion with us."

Ainsley's voice was full of innocence as she looked at Raphael. Her eyes were clear, and pure, as if she really just wanted to know.

"How come I don't see Vallan with you, brother Raphael? Why didn't you bring him with you?"

All sacred beasts could transform into their cub's form.

For example the three sacred beasts here, they turned into cats.

Vallan could also become a cute pegasus the size of a cat, looking like a pretty pegasus doll.

It should be easy to bring Vallan here.

But Raphael didn't hold anything. His arms were empty.

"Where is Vallan? I miss him so much!" Ainsley smiled brightly and her eyes were full of longing.

She really missed Vallan...missed bullying him to death.

Raphael's face darkened in an instant, and he spoke with gritted teeth.

"Vallan is sick. He has to rest at home, that's why I didn't bring him here."

But the real reason why Vallan didn't come...only Raphael would know.

In fact, Vallan also wanted to follow Raphael. After all, he had been separated from his master for almost a year!

When he was still under Ainsley's charm, he didn't feel anything but after he broke free, he suddenly felt humiliated to the bone.

He had been played by a child for around a year!

Vallan wanted to follow Raphael to get rid of his trauma but when Raphael said that Ainsley would be there too, Vallan instantly backed down.

He's scared to death!

Chapter 934: "The Meeting Finally Started"

Vallan was too afraid of that little devil.

He already had the trauma of Ainsley, and if he saw her again, he might faint!

Seeing Vallan so traumatised like this, Raphael thought that Ainsley tortured Vallan badly for months.

Who would have known that he's just bullied but this bullying really trampled on his dignity?

He even willingly did all things Ainsley asked him to do, and it's all because of his charm ability!

So scary! Ahh!

That's how Raphael couldn't persuade Vallan to go with him and had to go empty-handed.

Those successors who had contracted monsters or beasts brought their contracted companions with them.

It's also a way to show off to others, especially when this meeting is held to discuss the annual beast and monster tide.

There will be many live monsters or beasts caught in the end, and many people would fight to own these monsters or beasts.

That's why the government invited all monster and beast tamers to join the cleanup event.

The guild leader of both professions became the representative to attend the meeting.

Those who had beasts or monsters would bring them to the meeting hall, but they would make their monsters or beasts smaller than its original size.

It's all for the safety issue.

But Raphael didn't bring any beast with him. He's clearly a successor of a huge family and people around his age knew that he owned Vallan.

Who would have known that the young master didn't bring Vallan with him?

Many people speculated that Vallan was wounded or something, and that's why Raphael didn't bring him.

This is undoubtedly a bad rumor that could tarnish their family's reputation!

And even more annoying, the rumor said that Vallan was greatly wounded in the famous Aretha vs Sloan war.

Yes, Vallan was defeated by the little boss, and now the little boss asked Raphael why Vallan wasn't here.

The people who eavesdropped on Ainsley and Raphael couldn't help but hold their breath.

Savage! This little boss rubs salt on Raphael's wound! She even grinds his wound and maybe tries to re-open the wound!

Such a move is really ruthless, ah. It's also humiliating...

The blue veins on Raphael's forehead already bulged and looked like it was about to jump out.

Sadly, he still had to remain polite in front of Ainsley!

The usually calm and capable Raphael suddenly couldn't be calm anymore.

In the end, he's still eighteen. He's also a young man with pride and hot-blooded ambition.

Getting humiliated like this was really too much!

Raphael almost couldn't endure it anymore, and to avoid offending Ainsley, he didn't say anything and just turned around to leave.

Michael also looked at Ainsley viciously before turning around to leave, following behind his son.

One would really wonder who is the real father and family head...Michael or Raphael?

It's amazing that the Aretha Family didn't deteriorate under Michael's hands.

Maybe Raphael had been involved in the family's decision making ever since he was a toddler, and that's why the Aretha Family didn't fall.

It could be!

While Ainsley was watching Michael and Raphael leaving, it turned out that others were also watching her in secret.

Oh, no, it wasn't everyone but just a certain person with a mission.

When the person saw Ainsley disciplining the teens before, her eyes lit up, and an eerie smile flashed across her face.

So that's the unique charm ability. No wonder her employer wanted her to do this, even paying a lot of money for this mission.

The woman with a short stature shook her head and continued to mingle with other guests in the meeting hall.

The woman was one of the people invited here that didn't belong to any powerhouses or the head of influential organizations.

The government also invited several individuals with unique abilities, and these people didn't need to be a part of any organization or family.

People usually called them the lone wolf.

The Godfather was actually categorized into this group of people who had unique abilities and identities but always moved alone.

Ainsley didn't notice the woman's strange gaze on her, but the sensitive Code-L felt a hint of malicious intent somewhere, and it was directed to the little brat.

The cat frowned and silently kept her guard up, worried that someone wanted to harm the little brat.

This episode passed by quickly, and in no time, all the guests had arrived.

Everyone took their seats freely, and a few minutes after the agreed time, three people from the government came wearing black suits and white shirts.

There were two women and one man in front of everyone, all looking solemn and professional.

They should be the researchers that the government hired to study the annual beast and monster tide.

These people were also hired to come up with a strategy to deal with the massive beast and monster tide.

The three researchers in front of everyone were the leader of the annual monster and beast tide's research, and they knew the most about this yearly phenomenon.

The moment the three people appeared, the projector in the huge hall lit up, and a series of data appeared on the screen behind the three people.

The three researchers didn't want to waste time, so they immediately cut the greetings and such and went straight to the main meeting.

The tallest woman, apparently the leader among the three people, was the first to speak.

"As all of you can see on the screen, this data set is this year's monster and beast tide's predicted mapping."

The data showed the location of the monster and beast tide circling the capital and also predicted how many monsters and beasts there would be!

Chapter 935: "The Battle Shifts Schedule"

Furthermore, the researchers had also analyzed the type of monsters and beasts in this annual tide plus their level.

But looking at so many red dots on the screen which represented the predicted monsters and beasts' positions...

There are so many.

"This year, we have some bad news," The leader started to speak and indeed, what she said wasn't pleasant at all.

"This time...the monsters and beasts that are going to attack us will be a lot more than last year. Around 50% more than last year."

The researcher group leader held her breath and continued her speech in a stiff tone of voice as if she were suppressing her chaotic mood.

"The level of the monsters and beasts are also a lot higher than before."

The leader's voice was a bit shaky as she delivered the bad news.

"This year, the number of mid-rank and high-rank beasts or monsters will be more abundant than the low-level monsters.

Not only the total number of the beasts and monsters in this annual tide increase, but the enemies that come for them are stronger too!

"Luckily, it is estimated that the tide won't last as long as last year. The tide lasted for a full month last year, but this year, it would only be a full week."

For a week, the capital city would enter a state of emergency and no one could come or leave the capital, even if through an underground passage.

After all, there were monsters and beasts that could dig underground or even live there.

The capital's soil and the ground had been protected tightly, but if people still used underground passages...

There are high risks that the monsters or beasts will attack the humans through the passage.

Then, they might also enter the capital city through the passage.

Once the monsters and the beasts breached into the capital city, it would be way more chaotic than usual.

In daily life, beasts and monsters were escaping the capital city's scanning device and protection shield, which was why there could be monsters everywhere.

But generally, only low-level ones could slip in by chance.

Those with a high-rank level or above could never enter the capital city. Otherwise, there would be a massacre!

To protect the capital city for one week straight, all the people in this meeting hall had to use their influence to bring various ability users and then ward off the beasts and monsters.

The people in this meeting hall were not many but each of them had a huge force behind them.

If they were willing to contribute, the capital city would survive.

Of course, everyone would only give a small part of their force, afraid that too much contribution would only weaken their entire force.

At that time, once the beast and monster tide ended, their enemies would immediately try to attack them.

That wouldn't be good.

The researcher leader also knew about this and didn't expect these bosses to give all their efforts to solve the beast and monster tide issue.

She just wanted these bosses to bring a little more force to help since the beasts and monsters in this year's tide were way stronger than last year.

"As per usual, all the monsters and beasts killed by all of you will belong to the one killing it."

The research team leader didn't forget to emphasize the slight benefit of protecting the capital from the beast and monster tide.

"For the tamers, all the monsters and beasts you can tame will belong to you."

"The government won't interfere at all, even if the monsters or the beasts are rare and powerful," she added.

Such a thing was good for the tamers, and other forces would also like to process the monsters and beasts' body parts to be used in various products.

If they're lucky enough to find a rare and powerful monster or beast, they could create a good item and make more money.

The bosses in the hall nodded at the leader's words.

Seeing that the bosses liked this agreement, the leader sighed in relief before continuing her explanation.

"Because we have to stand guard for a week, we have created a schedule for all of you here— your shift timetable."

It means that the bosses didn't need to fight all the time and only had to join the fight when it was their shift.

The leader had already gotten the guests' data and information beforehand.

Thus, she had already created the schedule too.

The leader created the shift schedule based on everyone's strengths and the number of people they would send.

The bosses had told the government in charge of this year's tide of all information related to the forces they would send.

There was even complete data of the ability users' ability and how they could be used in such a large-scale battle between humans and beasts or monsters.

The team leader showed everyone the shift schedule on the screen and even sent the complete document to everyone's email.

Upon joining this event, the government had recorded the bosses' email, and they could simultaneously send messages through emails.

Of course, there were many small group chats inside, mainly for those with the same shifts.

Thus, Ainsley had long known which group she belonged to, and it turned out to be the morning shift.

Maybe because she's only a baby...that's why the people in charge of this year's tide decided to give her the morning shift for convenience.

Ainsley didn't need to sleep late at night and could wake up naturally before joining the battle.

The baby opened the email she received from the team leader and saw her shift at one glance.

Indeed, she's assigned to a morning shift that ends around lunchtime!

Chapter 936: "Another Meeting With Four Bosses"

There were four shifts each day, mainly the morning shift, the afternoon shift, the evening shift and the guerilla shift.

The morning shift started at 7 o'clock up to 1 o'clock.

Then, the afternoon shift started from 1 o'clock to 7 o'clock at night.

After that, the evening shift started from 7 p.m to 1 a.m dawn.

The last shift was the guerilla shift that started from 1 a.m to 7 a.m.

The guerilla shift would be the most dangerous shift for those in the shift because usually, the monsters were more dangerous at night than in the morning.

On the other hand, the beasts were more ferocious in the morning and afternoon.

Ainsley actually wanted to tame more monsters than beasts but considering that the unique charm ability could tame beasts faster than monsters...

This is quite a good arrangement.

Anyway, the guild members usually tamed monsters because the customers wanted monsters instead of beasts.

If they wanted the beasts contract service, they would go to the beast tamer guild with more experience than the Irregular Tamer guild.

Now that the members could hunt beasts too..it would be a good training session.

As for the captured/tamed beasts and monsters, Ainsley had bought a bonding contract scroll from Jake, and the amount was huge.

With the scroll, even if the tamers didn't use their charm to tame the monsters or beasts anymore, the prey wouldn't run away.

Plus, this kind of contract scroll could be transferred to someone else because the contract was just a temporary one.

Thus, the guild members could sell the captured beasts and monsters and earn money.

Of course, each of the monsters and beasts sold needed the guild's stamp, and that meant the members had to pay taxes to the guild.

After all, the scrolls they got for free were from the guild and the guild paid for that.

And so, it wasn't too much for the guild to ask for a commission fee from the members.

Ainsley finished looking at her shift schedule and didn't have any opinion against it.

On the other hand, several bosses opposed the shift schedule and they negotiated with those who wanted to switch shifts.

Some people actually wanted to be on the guerrilla shift, but others didn't.

The exchange was smooth and for the next few hours, the researchers team leader shared a lot of knowledge needed to battle the beast and monster tide.

She talked about everyone's positioning, everyone's general job and such.

Each shift group was also assigned to a military general, and inside each shift group, there were smaller teams.

The smaller team was mainly created so that everyone could protect the entire capital city in all directions.

Coincidentally, knowing the Sloan Family's strength and the Irregular Tamer guild under it, Ainsley was assigned the main city gate position.

That position was the most dangerous because most beasts and monsters would gather there.

The evolved monsters with intelligence and the beasts with high intelligence knew that if the main gate went down, it would be easy to occupy the entire city.

Thus, Ainsley's responsibility was heavier than others, but the people in her small team that were assigned the same position were all powerful.

There were five bosses assigned to this position, mainly Ainsley, and then a neutral faction with business expertise, unique and advanced weapons.

Next, the third member was a noble family famous for their aerial troops, either using beasts and monsters or using technologies.

The fourth member was actually a guild, not too big but not that small either.

This guild was actually logistic-based. All the members were farmers! But they also had tons of battle-related skills as well as farming skills.

These people were in charge of the food and daily necessities for this 'Morning Main City Gate Team.'

Last but not least, the fifth member was an ability user organization— bounty hunters.

They're actually nemesis of mafias and other criminals, but they're all well-known to be righteous and not evil at all.

It was strange because most bounty hunters were actually criminals and were on the borderline of evil and righteousness.

They're in the gray area.

But this bounty hunter was actually quite unique because what they chased and killed wasn't humans but famous monsters and beasts.

There were quite a lot of famous yet evil monsters and beasts that always disturbed the common people.

This bounty hunter organization was in charge of killing the troublemakers and helped the government or other organizations to protect the citizens.

They're like mercenaries, but their main job was to hunt evil beasts and monsters.

Such an organization was large but mysterious, just like the famous black market.

After the six-hour meeting ended, the researcher team leader encouraged everyone to gather with their small team that they would be working together with for the next 7 days.

The day of the beast and monster annual tide was still a week away and the bosses could bring their forces to the capital in these 7 days.

But they also had to get along with the people in their small team.

When the meeting ended, it was already past dinner time.

Thankfully, everyone got their meals at the meeting hall and could eat while listening to the meeting content.

Then, it was almost midnight after the meeting ended, but the people in the meeting hall didn't plan to go back to their hotels or residence to sleep.

On the other hand, they immediately gathered with a small team, just like Ainsley and her new team members.

The five people, three men, one woman and one child, sat on the floor without caring for their image.

Let's start the small team meeting with these five influential and eccentric bosses!

Chapter 937: "Dskyla, Thomas, Scob and Lescorpio"

The first one to speak was the family head of the noble family famous for its aerial troops until they got the title of 'Valkyrie'.

It was because most of the members in this air force were actually females!

The Valkyrie leader, Dskyla, greeted everyone with her cold and heroic voice.

"Hello, my name is Dskyla, the family head of the Vancouver family. My family is famous for the Valkyrie troops."

Skyla paused before trying to look as friendly as possible, not as cold as she's used to be.

"You can call me Sky for convenience."

This is a woman who loved the sky more than anyone else. She's born to fly high, and one could see it in her attitude.

She's a free-spirited yet arrogant and cold person, just like an eagle, or a Phoenix, the queen of all birds.

The people in the team nodded at Dskyla and warmly responded to her one by one.

"Nice to meet you, Sky."

"Hello, Sky."

"Nice to meet you, big sis Sky! You're so beautiful!"

"Hey, Sky."

After Dskyla introduced herself, it was the other's turn to introduce themselves.

The second person who volunteered to introduce themselves was the head of the neutral family faction famous for their weapons and advanced technology.

This family actually had a close business relationship with the Billios Family and could be said as one of Jake's many friends.

"Hello, everyone, I'm the current family head of the Morlthild family. My name is Thomas Morlthild. You can just call me Thomas or Tom."

Thomas had a warm vibe and was slightly playful, just like Jake.

One couldn't see how he was the head of a family that played with weapons and advanced technology.

The middle-aged man even winked at everyone and joked around.

"You can call me Thomas, or Tom or Thom,, but don't call me Tommy. Well, calling me Thor is okay."

The four bosses around him, including the people that the bosses brought along, couldn't help but smile or laugh at Thomas's light joke.

"Hahaha, okay, Uncle Tom. I'll call uncle long leg!"

Ainsley was also playful, and since she knew this man is Jake's friend, she's not afraid of joking with him.

Thomas was actually flattered knowing Jake's adoptive daughter actually acted so close to him.

It means that Jake thought highly of him, and that's why his adopted daughter felt the same.

"Oh, you silly little cute. If I'm uncle long leg, your dad will be Jake long leg too."

The two chatted happily while not forgetting the other three members.

After chatting for a while, the next person who introduced themselves was surprisingly not Ainsley but the guild leader of the farmer guild.

The person looked quite old, and his skin was dark because he often worked under the scorching sun.

But he's so energetic and strong, albeit a bit like a rough and uncultured farmer.

"Hey, hey, it's mi' turn. Mi is da Farmer Guild Leader."

His strong accent when he spoke was a bit intimidating, and the way he called himself 'mi' instead of me was also unique.

But when he told everyone his name....everything changed.

"Mi name is Scob! Call mi Cob, Bob or Jacob, anything."

Ainsley and the others were a bit taken aback.

Uh...Scob? His name was unique, but it surprisingly matched his aura and vibe!

Everyone felt that Scob was a funny and sunny guy, so even when he looked like a country pumpkin, no one looked down on this Farmer Guild Leader.

Just like Ainsley, this special farmer also created his current guild from scratch and successfully joined the international Farmer Guild Federation.

Then, it was rumored that he would be the next guild master when the current guild master retired from old age.

This farmer was still young, around thirty years old, younger than Thomas, who was already in his forty.

Of course, Dskyla was even younger, not yet thirty years old and was still around 28 years old.

She must be formidable to be able to inherit the family head position when she's still quite young and a female to boot.

After all, even though mafia families never discriminated against women...

The noble families were usually still old-fashioned and favored men over women.

So, it was definitely a rare thing for Dskyla to be the head of a powerful noble family with such a unique air troop full of women too.

Dskyla must be like Ainsley, who reformed the family and came up with various new methods to make the family grow rapidly.

Back to the group introduction.

After Scob finished introducing himself, it was time for the fourth member to introduce himself.

This one was the head of the ability user organization– Monster and Beast Bounty Hunter.

The head was surprisingly young, around Jake's age.

But he was colder than Jake, and he had this mysterious charm just like Cain.

But if Cain was mysterious like an otherworldly person, this young man was as cold as a knife yet as deadly as a hunter.

The young man cast a light glance at Ainsley and the others and nodded.

"Lescorpio."

Just one word to introduce himself, and his voice was also biting cold.

Furthermore, no one knew whether this name was his code name as a bounty hunter or his real name.

Anyway, his name sounded cold and dangerous.

Ainsley and the others gulped and didn't joke around with this man either.

They just slightly nodded at him and called him by his full name.

Then, after Lescorpio, it was Ainsley's turn to introduce herself.

The baby looked at the four people around her and smiled sweetly, unconsciously using her baby charm.

"Hello, brothers and sisters. My name is Ainsley Sloan."

Chapter 938: "Coaxed To Sleep"

"I'm the head of the Sloan Family and the founder of the Irregular Tamer guild. You can just call me Ain!"

The baby's short introduction was full of baby charm and a baby's cuteness.

Even the cold Lescorpio and the stiff Dskyla also couldn't help but try their best to smile.

Especially Lescorpio. He was indeed a cold and ruthless man, but he didn't want to scare a baby with his cold attitude.

Although he knew that Ainsley wasn't a typical toddler, he still felt she should receive the same treatment as other toddlers.

Just because she's a genius and unusual toddler it didn't mean they could be rough to her.

But at the same time, they also couldn't treat her like an innocent and naive toddler.

After all, the baby was still a mafia boss and even the founder of a recently influential guild.

The guild was already growing rapidly and only needed concrete achievements to be called a large guild like other big guilds.

Thus, the other four people immediately called out the baby with a warm tone of voice.

"Hey, hey, nice to meet you, Ain!"

"Nice to meet you, Ain."

"Hahahah, good to see ya, Ain!"

"...Ain."

The four people chatted with Ainsley for a while before they went to discuss the thing with the annual tide.

The first one to mention this was, of course, the disciplined and rigid Dskyla.

"Alright, everyone. Let's talk about our small main gate team...should we determine the battle position first?"

Although the bosses might not fight on their own and would only direct their subordinates...it was also important to place their subordinates in the correct position.

Ainsley agreed with Dskyla and began to give suggestions.

"My guild members and I are all tamers, and we probably can't be too close to monsters or beasts when we are taming them."

So, the best position was in the middle of the formation.

Dskyla also noticed this and immediately agreed with Ainsley's thoughts.

"Then, Ain and her guild members can occupy the middle position. As for my people and me, we will take the air route and fight the flying-type monsters and beasts."

When talking about her people, Dskyla looked proud, and her eyes lit up, different from her usual rigid and stiff self.

She was really fond of her Valkyrie team and was proud to create these air troops that later on became her family's sharpest sword.

After Dskyla and Ainsley announced their position, it was Thomas, Scob and Lescorpio's turn.

Thomas hurriedly raised his hands and said, "My people are good at shooting monsters and beasts from afar. I want to stand at the rear with Scob."

Scob had to focus on logistics and supplies. He also had to provide medical care for those fighting at the frontline.

After all, a lot of his guild members could help the wounded using the plants they grew on the spot.

Many of them also had a light healing attribute thanks to their affinity with plants, albeit just special crops.

Because of this, Scob and his people really had to stand at the rear with Thomas and his people.

Their positions were decided quickly just like that, and now, only Lescorpio was left.

Lescorpio was silent but he quickly spoke a few cold words.

"I'll take the frontline."

As monster and beast bounty hunters, his people were used to fighting a melee battle or a long-range battle.

Since the team needed a melee fighter at the frontline, Lescorpio volunteered to occupy the front line position.

But even so, since they're going to fight from the capital's wall, it was quite hard to do a melee battle.

The team would need to rely on special vehicles to go down the capital city's wall and kill the monsters and beasts below the wall.

Some beasts and monsters could even break the capital barrier and climb the wall, so they had to be extra careful.

They also had to guard the front gate carefully, and this was why they needed special vehicles that could shuttle around the monster and beast tides behind the city wall.

For this, Thomas had already prepared the special vehicles in the shape of strong capsules that could fit four people in one vehicle.

The vehicle was light and could levitate around a meter from the ground, but it was also sturdy and easy to use.

It was also armed with several small weapons effective for any types of beasts and monsters without shells.

Of course, it would only work for beasts and monsters with relatively low defensive power or decent defensive power.

As for those with thick skins, thick fur or thick shells, the weapons in this vehicle couldn't help at all.

That's why it was Lescorpio and his people's job to kill the beasts and monsters with high defensive power using their special abilities.

At the same time, Ainsley's irregular tamer team could tame monsters and beasts and use them in the battle.

If the monsters and beasts were still alive after the battle, only then they could sell them to customers or use it as their own contract companion.

As long as the monsters and the beasts survived for 6 hours on that day, they didn't need to fight against other wild monsters and beasts anymore.

After the team members decided their positions in the war, Dskyla looked at Ainsley's tender face and then glanced at her sky blue watch.

Oh, it's already past midnight.

And yet there's a toddler who hasn't slept!

So, Dskyla cleared her throat and slowly spoke to Ainsley, as if coaxing a stubborn little baby.

"Ain, it's already past midnight. You are still too young. You should sleep."

Even the other four members instantly agreed with Dskyla.

Ain, sleep!

Chapter 939: "Father-daughter Bonding Time"

Being urged like that, Ainsley had no choice but to go back to Jake's mansion with Nalisha, the three sacred beasts and the shadow guards.

Early the next morning, Jake and Ainsley ate breakfast together, just like a normal father and daughter.

Ever since Jake formally became Ainsley's adopted father, he had been doing his duty as a good father.

He sent so many things that Ainsley liked. He even thought that he might need to live with Ainsley.

His family was already stable and there's no a lot of infighting.

It would not be a problem if he lived somewhere else instead of his family's main mansion in the capital.

Jake's mansion in the capital was not around the center of the capital city itself.

It was located quite far away, far from the bustling cities and the dangerous wild monsters or beasts.

At the same time, this place was much safer than the bustling city.

Everyday, there were people dying in the bustling city because of a wild monster or beast's sudden attack.

It was strange that only the poor could live in the city's center while the rich got to live in the countryside.

Of course, the office and company buildings were all at the center of the city but the security there was much better than everywhere else.

Thus, the one suffering was usually the common people at the center of the capital city.

Strangely, all sorts of entertainments, restaurants and such were located here.

High risk but high excitement and entertainment too.

No wonder almost all the people living in the capital city were at least solo users with offensive ability.

If they're ordinary people, they're usually rich and influential.

They would have bodyguards every time they came out, not to face malicious people but to face the wild monsters or beasts.

The monsters and beasts that suddenly popped out in the capital city were usually those who could live underground or live among buildings.

There were also those who came out of the occasional dimensional holes appearing inside the capital city's barrier.

The capital city was really too similar to Pandora Island in terms of security.

The island was full of monsters and beasts that came out of nowhere. The same goes for the capital city.

But in the city, there were a lot of experts with a fragment of space ability.

They could use their fragmented space ability to make sure only low-level and mid-level monsters or beasts could pop up in the city.

As for why they didn't block the dimensional hole completely, they didn't have that much strength to guard such a huge capital city.

But this didn't stop the government from placing the capital city in such a dangerous place.

Why?

Because the capital city had a lot of treasures hidden beneath the ground.

Just like Pandora Island, the capital city also had a lot of rare stone or rare material mines.

With a lot of monsters and beasts around, the production of items that required beasts or monsters' body parts was extremely smooth.

Beginner and junior tamers also liked to practice at the capital city instead of going to the wilderness.

After all, the city still had a lot of patrol guards, and if they could save people, they would.

That's why despite the danger, business was prosperous here, and the city even became a paradise for ability users.

It was strange that the country was made up of ordinary people and ability users were just a tiny fragment of the overall population.

But the capital city was really suitable for ability users, not for the ordinary people.

The good thing was, such an environment basically pressured ordinary people to awaken their abilities too, and in the end, most of them became ability users.

Those who already became ability users also had good skills in using their abilities because they had to be wary all the time if they didn't want to.

The Godfather was right when he said that the capital city was a good place for young ability users to temper themselves.

They could even build their subconscious resistance to the harmful miasma around the capital city.

This way, the people living in this city became way stronger than those living in a peaceful and safe environment.

Ainsley really couldn't help but feel nostalgic when she's in Jake's mansion.

Looking down at the peaceful environment outside but knowing that this area was still inside the large capital city...

Ainsley remembered the first time she came here and then looked at her now.

She had improved so much in just a year.

The baby suddenly felt a sense of achievement and couldn't help but smile.

Jake, who was standing beside Ainsley, also saw the baby's cute smile and couldn't help but hug her.

"Aiyooo, my cute daughter. Why did you suddenly laugh? Is there anything amusing outside?"

Jake brought Ainsley into his embrace and casually lifted her up so that she could better enjoy the view outside this floor-to-ceiling window.

Ainsley was also a lot more casual with Jake ever since he became her adoptive father and immediately hugged the young man's neck.

"Hehehe, nothing, dad. I just remembered the first time I came to the capital...I came to visit your casino and that's how I met you!"

It's really a fateful encounter. From a total stranger to a family.

Jake was still young, but he already had a fatherly feeling.

When he heard what Ainsley said, his heart softened, and it felt as if it was soaked in a pot of honey.

"Yes, yes, it's really a fateful encounter. I also got a baby raptor from you..."

Jake also seemed to be reminiscing about the great moments with Ainsley.

It's a bonding time between a father and a daughter!

Chapter 940: "Summoning More Guild Members To The Capital"

Well, speaking of Aina, the baby raptor had grown up to be a bit larger than before.

She became fatter but Jake trained her well, which means she didn't become a cute pet but also a hidden war monster.

When Ainsley saw Aina this morning, she was shocked to see Aina growing up to be such a cool yet cute baby raptor.

The raptor seemed to be cold and ruthless to others, but when it saw Jake, it would act like a spoiled child.

This one was born with higher intelligence than her other siblings!

And this raptor was also super cunning.

No wonder Jake really liked Aina and even trained her wholeheartedly.

Not to mention that Aina's ability seemed to be more than just her innate metal manipulation ability.

Ainsley really couldn't help but admire Jake and his little raptor, Aina. Jake was really a good father to Aina and now he became a good father to her too.

Thinking like this, Ainsley shamelessly acted like a spoiled child with Jake while Aina stood behind the two.

Her pretty ruby eyes flashed with a ruthless light but anyone could see that the baby raptor was just jealous.

She slapped her metallic tail to the floor, trying to attract Jake's attention, but Jake seemed to care more about her 'sibling'.

While the father and the two 'daughters' were talking happily, those people who would be involved in the upcoming cleaning up mission were all busy.

Especially the bosses' subordinates.

After Ainsley had breakfast this morning, she also sent a message to the guild members back at the Roane Region.

In this kind of situation, the guild app was really useful.

The baby directly used her highest authority to send an automatic broadcast message to all the guild members.

[Irregular Tamer Guild's 1st big event. Join the core members to exterminate wild beasts and monsters around the capital city.]

Ainsley asked the guild members to volunteer and join the thirty elite members to battle the wild monsters and beasts in the annual tide.

Of course, only those who had received their official taming license could join the event.

Because getting a license from the guild means they're already capable enough to tame monsters and beasts in reality.

In just a few minutes after the message was sent out, a lot of guild members who had received their official license came crowding to the official account that Ainsley prepared.

The account was the guild app's official account, but it was only for members who wanted to apply for a mission that the guild sent out on a daily basis.

It was like an online clerk in a mercenary guild or something.

Those who weren't at the guild didn't need to visit the clerk in person to apply for this mission but those who were already at the guild building could just apply directly.

This is something that Ainsley created not too long ago, and it was also implemented in the Sloan Family.

Because of this, Ainsley recruited another batch of IT personnel to make sure the online mission application thing would have no loopholes.

Thanks to this new app feature, the members' productivity increased by a lot.

Both the Sloan Family members and the guild members became extremely active.

Especially when they could apply to do a mission anytime and anywhere now.

Of course, when reporting to the Sloan family or the guild about the mission result, the members still had to come in person.

But this new feature still helped them a lot.

A few hours after the message was sent, while Ainsley was playing with Jake, Nalisha and the thirty core members were already busy contacting those members at the Roane Region.

They arranged for the members with official licenses to depart immediately.

But these seniors also warned their fellow guild members about the danger of this mission.

Of course, the reward was equally great.

All the core members and non-core members who took the mission would get a lot of guild contribution points.

They could also tame a lot of rare monsters and beasts that could be used privately or sold to customers for a high price.

For these charm ability users who usually earned a little money using their bodies, selling live monsters or beasts was such a great bait.

One living monster with a low-level rank alone could be sold at such a high price.

It was enough for the family to live lavishly for a month.

Although the price of the living beast was slightly lower than the living monster because they had the beast tamer guild as their competitor...

If the beast was a rare type, it could sell at another sky-high price!

Rich and influential people wouldn't mind owning a lot of beasts or monsters.

After all, even when technologies were advanced, and they could fight using technologies, wild monsters and beasts were still superior.

This world was a world ruled by ability users.

For beasts and monsters who also had abilities and even sometimes owned rarer abilities than the humans, one could see their true value.

Not to mention that monsters were everywhere. They simply couldn't get extinct.

At the same time, beasts were also abundant, but they were harder to catch or tame because of their high intelligence and powerful abilities.

Still, in the end, the guild members wanted to join the mission because they also wanted to capture some beasts and monsters!

Just hunting at the hunting ground was boring.

The type of monsters and beasts wouldn't vary a lot because of the environment itself.

Now that they had a chance to tame another type of monsters and beasts...

They would go! For sure!

Time to show their guild's might to other powerhouses!

