

The Baby's Mother Need Love by hika Chapter 15

1. I Always Keep My Word

This time, Jessie could hear her voice.

She suddenly turned around and saw the little girl. Her face also revealed a happy smile, "It's you, little friend?"

"It's me!" Fia giggled. She wanted to jump down from Ricki's embrace and enter to find Jessie.

"You two know each other?" Rick was surprised.

"We met once before." Jessie smiled and explained. She took the initiative to walk out of the bar counter and naturally hugged Fia, who had two small arms towards her. She then lowered her head and smiled as she looked at the little girl and gently asked, "Do you want to drink milk with cat patterns?"

"I want to! Can you make it for me?"

"I'll do it for you."

"Okay!" The little girl clapped her hands happily.

Jessie carried her into the bar counter and placed her on a high chair far away from the operating table," it here for a while, I will make it for you right away."

"Okay." The little girl smiled sweetly and nodded.

Rick almost dropped his jaw when he saw the obedient little girl.

The boss had also brought the children to the company a few times, but no one in president's office could subdue this mischievous little girl. Rick had never seen this little girl behave so obediently.

Jessie swiftly drew a glass of fresh milk. The pink Kitty on the milk foam was cute and beautiful.

When she brought it over, she found that there was a beautiful little boy beside Fia. She had also seen him yesterday. He was the little girl's elder brother.

"Hello, we meet again!" Jessie smiled and greeted him.

Felix's tender face was slightly red. He endured his little heart beating wildly and pretended to be calm as he raised a small hand. "Hello!"

A pair of cute adorable babies. The colleagues in the bar counter were all very fond of them. They were busy and had nothing to do, so they ran over to touch their little hands and rub their little heads.

However, the two little guys only liked to get close to Jessie. They escaped from the hands of Jessie's colleagues and ran to Jessie's side. Their large eyes that resembled grapes stared at her as they earnestly watched Jessie make flower milk.

After making the milk and knowing that the little girl did not eat breakfast, Jessie took another vanilla fruit cake for her.

Fia ate all of them. After she was full, her eyes were so satisfied that they were like little moons.

Rick was about to pay when Jessie smiled, "I made those for them. I did not send it to the bill. You do not need to pay."

"That would make me feel bad." Rick handed the card over.

Felix reached out his small hand and blocked Rick card again. Felix's face was red. "We are good friends with her. Uncle Rick, let her treat us. I will treat her next time."

Rick was speechless.

When the employees heard the little guy talk seriously, they all laughed.

Sally did not forget to tease the little guy, “Handsome boy, we all heard what you said. Next time you must invite Aunt Jessie. You must keep your word!”

“I always keep my word!” Felix’s little face became redder. He walked in front of Jessie and lifted his black eyes to look at her, “Auntie, when I call you after school, you must answer the phone.”

Jessie was also amused. She bent down and gently rubbed Felix’s black and smooth mushroom hair.” Okay. If you call me, I will definitely answer the phone.”

She did not know why, but she could not refuse any of the requests from these two little fellows.

She thought that perhaps for the past five years, she had been looking forward to having a child, but hadn’t been able to fulfill her wish. That was why when she saw these two beautiful and exquisite cute children, it was especially easy for her to soften her heart.

When she heard that her brother and aunt Jessie had made an agreement and knew that her brother would not do something like pulling a hook, Fia squeezed in with her short legs. She stretched out a white and tender little finger and pouted her little lips. “Auntie, then let’s pull a hook. We will pull a hook and stamp it for a hundred years without changing!”

They could only promise each other that they would not change. It was the same for all the friends in the kindergarten. But her brother always said that pulling a hook was childish and he was not willing to do it.

At the crucial moment, he still had to rely on his sister. When would her brother not let her worry so much ?

Jessie nodded and also extended a little finger with a smile. She and the little girl solemnly pulled the seal.

Rick brought them out and got into the car. Jessie sent them all the way to the entrance of the coffee shop and pulled the little girl's hand to send her into the car.

The little girl's hands were soft and smooth. Jessie was reluctant to let go of her.

Rick entered the passenger seat. Felix pushed the door open again.

Jessie quickly helped him open the door. "What happened to you?"

Felix jumped out of the car and looked up at her with a blushing face. "My name is Felix Laurent and my sister's name is Fia Laurent. You can call me Felix and you can call her Fia."

Jessie laughed out loud. "Felix, Fia, okay. I will remember the two of you."

The little guy shyly licked his lips. "Then, Auntie, what's your name?"

"My name is Jessie Welfian."

"Jessie Welfian." Felix lowered his head and repeated the name carefully. He looked up again and said, "I will remember it too. I will go to school now. Bye."

"Bye bye!" Jessie sent him to the car and waved at them.

The car drove far away. However, the little girl, Fia was still kneeling in the backseat and waving her little hands at Jessie from the window. Jessie could not help but feel very soft in her heart