

Billionaire CEO Won't Leave

Chapter 264

Under the leadership of an Qing, Bai nianxi came to a small room in the winery. But after a while, a man came over. The man looked German. He was wearing a black T-shirt with a denim jacket, a pair of perforated jeans and earrings.

It seems that he is just like a very ordinary young man in society. Even against the background of his deep and handsome face, his social spirit doesn't stand out at all.

Bai nianxi was a little puzzled. It seemed that he was only in his early twenties. Could he be the person in charge of the winery?

"Hello, Miss Shen."

"Hello."

The man laughed and continued to introduce: "I'm Shen Shao's person in charge here. Just call me Kuhn."

Bai nianxi lowered his doubts, nodded, and asked directly about the business. Then Kuhn introduced what happened here recently.

In fact, it's just a normal little friction that often happens in the winery. It's just that the two forces involved are somewhat complicated, and both sides are unwilling to give in now.

If one fails, there will be a real conflict here, which will cause great trouble.

Kuhn has been dealing with this matter for nearly a week, and he has not been able to mediate the matter well. He has a headache.

Just today, those two people came here again to settle things. Anqing wanted to persuade Bai nianxi not to get involved. After all, these people's social backgrounds are too complex, and they don't know what means they will use.

But Bai nianxi waves her hand and refuses Anqing's proposal. She is also a member of the Shen family. One day, she must have the ability to be independent.

When I went outside, there was a lot of noise in the winery.

Bai nianxi couldn't understand what they were saying, but from the atmosphere here, we could feel that all the onlookers were in the mood of watching. The atmosphere was so lively and noisy that there was no tension of conflict.

It was not until he broke through the crowd and came to the center of the crowd confrontation that Bai nianxi felt the tension inside.

It has to be said that Bai nianxi feels a lot of pressure from the muscular and tattooed heroes standing around him.

According to Kuhn, the two men here, one is the son of the boss of a local Mafia party, the other is the arms dealer in the black market, and the woman who caused their dispute is a hacker.

Originally, the hacker came to drink in the underground winery. Then he and the young master of the Mafia party looked at each other in the right way. They were about to leave, and the arms dealer suddenly found them.

The arms dealer said that the hacker had stolen his business secrets and had to deal with the hacker according to the rules. Of course, the young master in the Mafia party would not allow him. They had a fight that day.

As a result, when the two sides argued, the hackers ran away, disappeared, and could not find the hackers. This matter has been pending, and the arms dealers also threatened to find trouble with the Mafia.

Because this happened in the winery, the arms dealers have to take the credit for the hacker's escape into account.

Bai nianxi is still the old lady's dress before. She looks old and weak, but the light in her eyes can't be hidden.

When they saw such an old lady from the East, they were a little surprised. They didn't seem to believe that the old lady could handle such a thing well.

A German man with a gun pinned to his waist slapped the table with a ferocious expression. "What the hell, I want you to give me an explanation. Do you want to send such an old lady who can't even walk fast into the coffin?"

Kuhn's face changed when he heard this. Apart from the people Bai nianxi brought, only he knew that Bai nianxi was dressed in disguise. Now the German man was the first to pick this up.

Bai nianxi didn't understand German. He didn't know what the German man was saying at this time. But seeing his arrogant and angry expression, he didn't think it was a good thing.

Another man, with a smile on his lips and a slight look on his face, said, "the Oriental ladies are really amazing. They can still run around at such an old age."

People around followed the chorus.

Seeing that Kuhn's face was not good, Bai nianxi said directly, "I want you to translate their words into the most authentic language."

Kuhn just translated what the men said. He thought Bai nianxi would have some emotion when he heard it, but Bai nianxi's face was still indifferent, even because of her old face.

"Tell them that if they believe me, we'll deal with it here. If they don't believe me, if they want to fight or kill, please. Just don't dirty my place in my winery."

What Bai nianxi said was not polite. Even Kuhn was surprised to hear it, but he still translated it.

I didn't expect that an old lady could have such a tough side. The man who used to speak changed his face. Looking at his dress, Bai nianxi guessed that he should be an arms dealer. In fact, in this kind of occasion, in the face of these people, we do not have to be too polite, rude and popular, but the communication is more smooth.

Bai nianxi glances at the crowd. His momentum is calm and steady. His eyes are calm and firm. He doesn't allow people to question him. He calms down the court first.

That's how things got right.

The two sides had already had a fight before, but now they are standing together again. The atmosphere is very tense for a moment. Bai nianxi mediates in the middle through Kuhn's translation.

The attitude of the arms dealers is very firm. They must find the hacker, otherwise the matter can't end like this, and the Mafia will lose face, saying that the fight can no longer be investigated, but they won't do anything about the hacker.

After all, the conflict is back on the rise, and the fight is imminent. We should know that there are so many people here now. If we really fight, the losses will be unpredictable.

Bai nianxi can only open his mouth and first takes over the matter of looking for hackers to pacify the scene.

But the hacker, where to find it?

Bai nianxi didn't understand the situation in Germany. He asked Kuhn what to do.

Kuhn's face was a little embarrassed. He could still find the Shen family's influence all over the world, but he used a lot of strength and put in a lot of energy. Kuhn didn't have so much authority.

When the arms dealer saw Bai nianxi's promise, he put on a smile on his face, which was particularly grim on his face full of beard.

"The hacker stole our important information, and the loss caused has been unpredictable. The hacker must be found as soon as possible, otherwise, the guns in our hands will be enough to blow you here into gunpowder."

Bai nianxi frowned, "a week."

The arms dealer shook his head. "No, three days at most."

Three days? Three days is only enough to spread the net. In fact, one week is already very urgent.

"I hope you understand that the main responsibility for this matter is not in our winery. It's our utmost duty to help us find someone. If you think it's so easy to find someone, you'd better take the guns in your hands and find them yourself."

Bai nianxi said, with a hint of ridicule in the corner of his mouth, "with your powerful strength, maybe you can find it in half a day."

Kuhn was just about to translate what Bai nianxi had just said. Suddenly someone came next to him and whispered a few words.

Then his face changed slightly, and his look at the arms dealer was contemptuous. He said, "it won't take three days. Now."