

Always Been Yours Chapter 104

Chapter 104

Nevertheless, Nicholas gave her a look before he commented. Although you don't need it. I still think that you should at least ask for a compensation of about five million! After all, it's nothing compared to them kidnapping and harassing your brother along with causing you to lose so much money throughout these years! Besides that, you should also get them to sign a contract to never harass you or your brother again and failure to comply would result in a fine of another five million."

When Amber heard that she had her facial expression darkened before a look of disbelief appeared on her face, 'Are you kidding me? That's extortion!"

Yet Nicholas's gaze narrowed before his facial expression turned to one that'd scare anyone. "You. cant do it? If you cant... then leave! From today onward, your son will be in jail for the rest of his life, and he won't be able to ever see the sunlight ever again!"

He had completely lost his patience as he instructed, "Get these people out of here!"

Then, Edward quickly came in with the bodyguards to escort them out. However, Amber started struggling. "Hang on President Sawyer. Let's just have a civil conversation. Let me go... Don't touch mel I'm a senior citizen-"

Yet Nicholas ignored her pleas and watched coldly as Amber and Sophia were dragged out.

The office quickly became quiet after that, and Nicholas turned around to look at Tessa. At the same time, Tessa was staring at him with a conflicted look as well. Nevertheless, she quickly came back to her senses before saying, "Thank you for helping me out this time.

Timothy gave Nicholas a grateful look as well. "Thank you for helping, President Sawyer."

Nicholas nodded a little. "It's just a small matter. It's impossible to talk sense into people like these, so it's better if we settle it the hard way, as she only acted like this because she thinks you guys are pushovers,

Then, he turned to Julius and said sternly, "I hope things like this won't happen again."

Julius replied respectfully. "Yes. It will never happen again, I'll clear up Timothy's name as soon as possible, and it won't affect his student life."

"Alright. Nicholas nodded in satisfaction before leaving with Tessa and Timothy. Following that, they returned to the cafe where they had agreed to meet earlier. After they all ordered their drinks respectively, Nicholas turned to Timothy.

"Now that your family matter is resolved let's get down to business."

Timothy hadn't forgotten why he came here today, and immediately, he nodded and looked at Henry. "Laptop."

Henry quickly logged into the laptop before opening the document that contained contents of artificial intelligence before he handed the laptop to Timothy.

Then, Timothy gave a brief introduction regarding the idea behind their software and its features.

Finally, he ended his pitch with a strong conclusion. "Since no one has developed a software like this, I think that our project has high potential, and we will be able to profit a lot from it!"

After that, Timothy gave Nicholas an anxious look. "What do you think, President Sawyer?"

Although Nicholas didn't say anything, he was really satisfied with the artificial intelligence program that Timothy had developed.

This project was way better than what he imagined, as everything was designed well instead of empty talks.

Just like what Timothy said, this software was an all-rounder.

Nicholas didn't expect a sophomore like Timothy to be able to come out with an excellent project without any first-hand experience.

Even though Timothy's project had exceeded Nicholas's expectations, Nicholas remained calm and unwavering. There wasn't an ounce of expression on his perfect features as he remained quiet.

"I can buy this software. However, you'll have to come out with a complete business and action plan for me if you want to sell it at a higher price. Besides that, you'll also need to come to the company to personally brief the executives. Can you do that?"

At the same time, Tessa was listening to their conversation attentively. Although she had no knowledge of programming, she knew how outstanding her little brother was.

Even though she didn't know how Timothy developed his software, she was blown away after hearing his explanations.