

Always Been Yours Chapter 1176

"Fine, then!" Kieran mumbled his rebuttal. In fact, he wasn't sure if Nicholas would let him have the wine, so he just stared at Nicholas and hoped that he would agree.

Nicholas doted on his brother, so he asked Andrew to get some of his good wine for them, and the gentlemen popped the bottle open.

Oh, they need some drunk food for this. She made some drunk foods for them and served them up on the table. Kieran speared a piece of meat. It felt chewy and juicy. He couldn't have enough of it.

"This is good. There's nothing like Tessa's cooking. Nobody cooks as well as she does." Gregory raised his head proudly. "Of course. Mommy's the best cook in the world."

He really idolizes his mother. Kieran smiled, and he nodded. "Yeah, she's the best cook I've ever seen. I envy you, Tim. You grew up with her cooking." He looked at Timothy. Timothy arched his eyebrow. "You got a problem with that?"

not yours." "The hell she isn't. She's my sister-in-law." Kieran cocked his eyebrow and looked at home. "She is, but she has a husband, a child, an unborn baby, and her husband's parents on the list. I'm still higher than you on the speared more food. Disgruntled, he said, "I'm going to eat as much as I can. Tim, you grew up with her cooking, and you, Nick, you can have her cooking anytime you want. I don't have that kind of Kieran. Look at you, fighting over food. Have some dignity, will you? Nicholas shot him a look of scorn. "Tessa's not your personal

I don't even want her to exhaust herself. You think played along

Timothy, but he was terrified of his brother. If Nicholas took this the wrong way, it'd be over for him. "No, Nick. I didn't mean that," he apologized quickly. And then he said, this was amusing, and the conversation. He waddled about and cutely said, "If you want home cooking,