

Always Been Yours Chapter 1219

He backed away slowly as he demanded answers. He was looking for a chance to escape. Frankly, when these two people appeared, he already had a good guess as to why they were here.

If he wasn't mistaken, these two people were sent by Nicholas. Well, he was correct. Just as the reporter turned to flee, Edward showed up with another bodyguard.

He moved to block the reporter's way with a friendly smile, but his tone was dangerous, "Hey, buddy, you came here uninvited, and now you're leaving without even a goodbye? That's not very polite now, is it?"

When the reporter saw Edward, he immediately recognized him as Nicholas' right-hand man and panicked. His fear turned up a notch as he swallowed anxiously when he saw the tall and burly bodyguards surrounding him.

"Mr. Jackson, what's the meaning of this?" "Nothing, really. I just wanted to have a chat." Edward's tone was courteous, but his expression was anything but.

Although the reporter saw this, he still tentatively asked, "And if I say no?"

"Then, you leave me no choice."

Edward gave a cool glance toward the bodyguard next to him at the reporter's words.

The bodyguard nodded and forcefully dragged the reporter away.

"What are you doing? Let me go!"

to break free of the bodyguard's grasp but

away to one of Nicholas'

sat

to stew for a long while, he glared at him and questioned

jerked in his seat, and his eyes darted around the mean someone sent me? Wasn't Nicholas play dumb and also tried to threaten Edward with faux bravado, "What you're doing now is illegal! Release me now, or I will call the police when I

I leave.' Have you ever considered that you may not be able to leave? What would you be able reporter's threat. Instead,

reporter was terrified when he heard Edward's

You can't kill

help but me that there are ways for me to get what I want. Since you aren't willing to cooperate, I'll petrified when he heard those

was evident in his eyes as he

man could appear so gentlemanly yet behave

I will do anything to achieve

with a malicious glint as he stared pursed his lips and remained silent. It seemed that he still had

Edward noticed his actions, so he gestured to the bodyguard next to him.